Sears Point Concert Contract Snarled

By DAVID DIETZ

The Rolling Stones free rock extravaganza is still on—but not at Sears Point.

Organizers of the rock concert, which is expected to attract more than 100,000 young fans, said today that negotiations to hold the Saturday event at the Southern Sonoma raceway had broken off and that that the event would now be held at Altamont Speedway near Tracy.

"We're going to have a concert," said Robert Carter, manager of the speedway, adding that final details were worked out about noon today. He said there would be no charge for use of the speedway, which would benefit by the publicity.

Melvin Belli, attorney for the Rolling Stones, said in San Francisco that the owners of Sears Point were "trying to make a lot of money out of the concert by changing the original contract."

Sears Point officials, however, charged that organizers failed to live up to an agreement to hire 100 security personnel and donate any proceeds from the sale of television or movie rights and recordings to Vietnam War relief and local charities in Sonoma County.

Belli, who joined negotiations yesterday, said representatives of the rock group, he and officials of Sears Point "argued from 6 p.m. until midnight last night. Every time we started to talk, they wanted more money."

Rock Scully, manager of the Grateful Dead and an organizer of the concert, said Sears Point representatives wanted $400,000 deposited in a bank for security, insurance and as payment for use of the facility.

"They made it completely impossible for us," Scully said. "They didn't want to listen to any of our plans for sanitary facilities, medical help and the rest."

Carter said the Stones had agreed to provide 100 portable toilets and 200 security agents at Altamont for the 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. concert, which also will feature the Grateful Dead and Jefferson Airplane.

The switch of sights heightened confusion which has surrounded the on-again, off-again concert from the outset. About 25 rock fans, unaware of the news, waited outside the gates of Sears Point this morning and countless thousands of others probably were headed for Southern Sonoma in the belief the concert was still on there.

Belli said it would cost $50,000 to move the facilities already installed at Sears Point and reinstall them at Altamont. A helicopter was reportedly being arranged to move the heavy equipment, including the bandstand and scaffolding.

Richard Carter, general manager at Altamont, said earlier today he had been in touch with

VIETNAM: A STRANGE WAR

How Could Massacre Happen?

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Allegations that American GIs massacred South Vietnamese civilians during a raid on a village complex last year have stunned the United States. How could it happen? is the most frequently asked question. In the following analysis, John T. Wheeler, who reported the war in Vietnam for the Associated Press for several years, gives an insight into the conditions of a strange war in which anything can happen.)

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

To try to understand the alleged massacre by American GIs of civilians at My Lai it is necessary also to understand the atmosphere of a war which has led many U.S. fighting men to feel they are as much at war against Vietnam as for it.

While the communiques speak of battles involving companies and battalions—the clash of professional soldiers doing their grim job—each GI carries with him the certain knowledge that in any village there may be men, women, and even children who are also the enemy, waiting for the time and place to attack him.

Brutality, and indifference to human life, are commonplace in Vietnam. Even the disfigurement of dead GIs is common.

In Vietnam the killing of civilians was a practice established by the Viet Cong as a major part of the war long before the first U.S. ground troops were committed in March 1965.

By official count, more than 20,000 civilians had been murdered by that time in enemy executions aimed at so thoroughly terrorizing the countryside that none would resist. The total now is more than 40,000 including more than 3,000 killed by the enemy in Hue when they held part of that city for 2½ weeks. At Hue, the victims were predominantly civilians of all ages. Many were killed simply by tying their hands behind their backs, shoving them into a trench and burying them alive.

It was into this conflict that the American troops were plunged. They had been told to kill the Viet Cong who were bad and woo the peasant who only aided the enemy because he had no choice. Given a chance, the official line went, Vietnam wanted to be free and democratic just like America.

But the GIs found a war of sundered families, and divided allegiances to any regime, either Viet Cong or Saigon.

The infantry came to know that the farmer, who might be a friend by day, could become a guerrilla by night who killed just as surely and just as ruthlessly as the enemy's professional troops living in the jungle.

In short, the GIs felt — and still do — that there were few they could trust.

There is no front in Vietnam, no rear, no safety. To the GI of a rifle company everyone outside the perimeter can be suspected of plotting to kill him.

In Vietnam the word civilian does not describe noncombatants. It describes dress more certainly than occupation.

In Vietnam the GI has plenty of reason for his distrust and fear:

Item: An elderly woman noted for her ready smile and broken betel nut-stained teeth, was caught smuggling out a detailed map of the defenses of an American base where she worked as a laundrywoman.

Item: U.S. Marines found begging children to whom they had been giving food were stealing grenades that were tossed back at the Leathernecks during the night.

Item: One Green Beret commander found his desk booby-trapped by one of the Vietnamese working for him. The Green Berets began using lie detectors because their mercenary forces in some camps were running as high as 30 per cent Viet Cong.

Item: After one night attack by a large enemy force, Americans sweeping the perimeter found the body of the camp's barber, still clutching a rifle. He had been leading the assault to show the way through the barbed wire at its weakest point.

Item: A U.S. truck was blown up, killing all aboard, on highway 13, called "bloody Route 13" because of the frequency of minings. GIs from another truck quickly traced out the electrical wires to the detonator and found a young girl still holding the handle. They shot her.

Gate Span Directors Seek Traffic Idea For Year 2015

A plan to meet traffic needs into the 21st Century was ordered yesterday by Golden Gate Bridge District directors.

To do the job, Kaiser Engineers was asked to submit a proposal on how it would carry out the plan.

Selection of the huge firm was recommended by the district's general manager, Dale W. Luehring, who cited its "excellent background in rapid transit studies" and in design, construction and management of projects throughout the United States.

Submission of a proposal is to be done by the firm at no cost to the district.

Yesterday's step was a recommendation by the building and operating committee, and will go before the full board for its approval next Friday.

The 1969 Legislature, in a bill extending the district's powers to water transportation, required that such a long-range plan be submitted to the Legislature by 1971.

Luehring said that six firms had been considered for the job. Kaiser's experience included the Northern California Transit Demonstration Project, he noted, which was designed to coordinate operations of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District, San Francisco Municipal Railway and Alameda-Contra Costa Transit District.

In an outline of what he expected the long-range plan should include, Luehring said it "should develop conceptual design of alternative transport systems to serve the Golden Gate Corridor until at least the year 2015, and forecast the traffic expected during that period, together with system costs, revenues, and socio-economic and environmental effects."

Rapid transit systems to be included were rail and bus rapid transit, and any other system "deemed competitive or complementary," he said.

The plan also should include

Blacks Take Over Harvard Hall, Quietly

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Between 50 and 100 blacks seized control of Harvard University's administrative nerve center, university Hall, today to dramatize several demands.

The group moved in just before start of the business day and placed wooden bars over the windows and doors. Employes reporting for work were turned away.

There were reports that a handful of employees had been forcibly ejected by the protesters, but the university said these were erroneous.

"My understanding is that there was no violence," said Harvard College Dean Ernest R. May.

Using a bullhorn, May told the protesters about 45 minutes after the seizure that they might be liable to criminal trespass prosecution if they remained.

Civilians To Aid My Lai Army Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor today reached outside the Army and appointed a special council to help in a probe of a possible cover-up in the original field investigation of the alleged My Lai massacre.

A Pentagon spokesman said Resor wanted a civilian counsel available to Lt. Gen. William R. Peers, head of the investigating board, to help assure "objectivity and impartiality."

Resor chose Robert MacCrate, partner in the New York law firm of Sullivan and Cromwell. The 48-year-old MacCrate in turn selected Jerome K. Walsh Jr., partner in the New York law firm of Walsh and Frisch, as his associate special counsel

Resor's move was announced as the Peers board prepared to take testimony from First Lt. William L. Calley Jr., who is facing courtmartial on charges of killing at least 109 Vietnamese civilians in My Lai hamlet on March 16, 1968.

The eight-man board, made up mostly of military officers, is questioning witnesses in secret at the Army Operations Center, two levels below ground in the Pentagon.

Calley arrived at the Pentagon about 12:45 p.m. (EST and was escorted swiftly into the center.

Tight-lipped, looking straight ahead, the young lieutenant strode quickly through a crowd of newsmen and photographers and declined to say anything in response to several questions.

With him were his military lawyer, Maj. Kenneth A. Raby, a public information officer and the pilot who flew them to Washington from Fort Benning, Ga.

The mission of the Peers board is to determine why there was a falldown in the original investigation in April 1968 of reports of atrocities at My Lai.

According to the Army, that field investigation concluded the reports of unnecessary killings of civilians were groundless. The findings never went beyond division level, the Army has said, and the matter was reopened a year later only when a former soldier wrote letters to high government officials reporting eyewitness accounts of mass killings.

In the announcement of a new special counsel, Resor said he had approved a request by Peers for such a lawyer "not associated with the government."

MacCrate served as counsel to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York from 1959 to 1962. A former naval officer in World War II, MacCrate is a graduate of Haverford College and Harvard Law School.

Walsh, 37, graduated from Georgetown University and the University of Michigan law school, and served in the Army for two years. He formerly was

New Solution Posed In Sausalito Parking

By PAT ANGLE

The Sausalito City Council last night decided to look to the north for tourist parking and appeared to move away from current plans for large concentrations of off-street parking in the city's central waterfront area.

The council asked City Atty. Leland H. Jordan, to study the possibility of establishing a citywide parking authority, with an eye to developing a parking facility north of Sausalito's downtown area.

The request came after Jordan told the councilmen their idea of establishing temporary offstreet parking on the waterfront until a better plan could be worked out "would probably be very hard to defend in the courts."

Jordan said, "If we allow people to develop their stores with adjacent parking lots, then try to move the lots somewhere else, I think we would have a real legal problem. If you are

The amount was disclosed in an inventory of assets which Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the executor of the assassinated President's will, filed with state authorities on Feb. 19, 1965.

It was not made public until the state attorney general gave his permission yesterday.

Decade's Best Drop In U.S. Jobless Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate took its sharpest monthly drop in 10 years in November, declining .5 per cent to 3.4 per cent of the labor force, the Labor Department said today.

However, most of the sharp drop was accountd for by workers leaving the labor force and "this doesn't really represent a turnaround" in the economic slowdown, a government spokesman said.

The report showed a small rise of 45,000 to a total of 78.7 million employed Americans.

"There is a continued slowdown in employment growth," said Howard Stambler, chief of the Division of Employment Analysis.

The civilian labor force declined 83,000 as many so-called "secondary" workers—teen-agers, women and young men—left the labor force, Stambler said.

The drop in unemployment counterbalanced September's jobless rise of .5 per cent, which had been the sharpest jump in about 10 years.

Other key figures in the report pointed to a continued economic slowdown in President Richard M. Nixon's effort to combat inflation, including a drop in factory overtime for the second month in a row and another drop in average earnings.

"Average weekly earnings fell by 62 cents in November to $116.63," the report said. It was the second straight monthly decline in earnings for some 45 million rank-and-file workers covered by the report.

Average hourly earnings remained unchanged at $3.11. Weekly paychecks were down because of the reduction in hours of work as industries slowed production.

The total number of unemployed declined 129,000 to 2.7 million.

Grand Jury To Hear Jailed Girl Describe Tate Killings

LINDA KASABIAN
Charged with murder

PATRICIA KRENWINKEL
Held in Alabama

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A young woman, whose attorney pledges she will tell who killed Sharon Tate and six others, was to testify before a grand jury today. Prosecutors are seeking to indict the bearded leader of her hippie-style clan with conspiracy to commit murder.

Attorney Richard Caballero said last night that Susan Denise Atkins, 21, will waive rights against self-incrimination and "tell the grand jury exactly what happened" in a gamble that her voluntary testimony might save her from the gas chamber.

Miss Atkins, charged with murder in a separate case, accompanied members of the clan as they killed Miss Tate, actress-wife of Polish film director Roman Polanski, and the others last summer, Caballero said. But he said she was temporarily insane, under the clan leader's "hypnotic spell" at the time and "had nothing to do with the murders."

Miss Atkins' jail cell conversations led to arrests in the Tate case.

Also among the 18 scheduled witnesses was producer Terry Melcher, 27-year-old son of singer-actress Doris Day. Melcher has declined comment.

Miss Atkins' attorneys said Melcher was visited by Charles M. Manson, 35, known as the leader of a quasireligious clan of hippie types who knew Manson as "God" and "Satan."

Manson was unsuccessful in seeking Melcher's help to record some songs when Melcher lived in the Tate home in fashionable Bel Air before Miss Tate and her husband moved in, the attorneys said.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Aaron Stovitz said yesterday he would ask the grand jury to indict Manson on a charge of conspiracy to commit murder, and would seek murder and conspiracy indictments against at least five other persons.

It was the first word that Manson, held for trial in Independence, (Inyo County), on charges of possessing stolen property and driving a stolen vehicle, would be a target for prosecution in the slayings.

Shot or stabbed with Miss Tate, 26, at her rented $200,000 home last Aug. 9 were Hollywood hair stylist and onetime Sausalito houseboat resident, Jay Sebring, 35, San Francisco coffee heiress Abigail Folger, 36; Polish playboy Voityck Frokowsky, 37, and Steven Parent, 18, a friend of the caretaker.

A wealthy market executive, Leno LaBianca, 44, and his wife Rosemary, 38, were stabbed to death at their Hollywood home the next day.

Miss Atkins' lawyers said she told them that members of Manson's group, who dressed in black for the occasion, committed the Tate slayings, then killed the LaBiancas to prove their nerve. They reported she said Manson was not with them.

Police have said three of the indictment targets are Patricia Krenwinkel, 21, in custody in Mobile, Ala.; Charles D. Watson, 24, jailed in McKinney, Tex.; and Linda Louise Kasabian, 20, arraigned here yesterday. Police said they were arrested on murder warrants in the Tate case and were involved in the LaBianca slayings.

In addition to them and Miss Atkins, the Times said, others against whom prosecutors are expected to seek indictments are Steve Grogan, 18, also known as Clem Tufts, and Leslie Sankston, about 20, a young woman. The newspaper identified them as members of Manson's hippie-style "family."

Stovitz said Miss Atkins, charged with murdering Malibu musician Gary Hinman, with whom Manson is said to have lived for a time, told a cellmate about the Tate and LaBianca killings.

The cellmate—Shelley Joyce Nadell, 31, of nearby North Hollywood, charged with forging prescriptions to obtain narcotics --told Miss Atkins' story to police, Stovitz said.

According to her account, clan members killed other persons in addition to the Tate and LaBianca victims, Stovitz said, but Mrs. Nadell did not specify how many or who they were.

Wesley Russell, attorney for Mrs. Nadell ,said she told him she learned clan members "felt the stabbings and the brutal cuttings would help release the souls of the victims."

"They were all on acid and the more they stabbed the more they enjoyed it," Russell, a former deputy district attorney, said he was told.

Prince Phillip's Mother, 84, Dies

LONDON (AP) — Prince Philip's mother, Princess Andrew of Greece, died in her sleep at Buckingham Palace early today. She was 84 and had been in poor health for some time.

Alice

The cause of death was not announced.

Born Princess Alice of Battenberg, Princess Andrew was a Briton by birth, a great-granddaughter of Queen Victoria, a sister of Earl Mountbatten of Burma, the wife of a prince of Denmark and Greece, and a sister of the late Queen Louise of Sweden. After her marriage in 1903 to a younger son of King George I of Greece, she was known by her husband's name, according to the Greek custom.

When the Greeks dethroned George II in 1924, Prince Andrew and his family fled to Paris and the princess opened a jewelry and embroidery shop. In 1929, when Philip was 8, his parents sent him to be raised by Lord Montbatten in Britain.

The Nazi occupation of Paris drove Prince and Princess Andrew to Monte Carlo and he died there in 1944. After her son married Britain's future queen in 1947, Princess Andrew became a Greek Orthodox nun.

HELSINKI (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union held their seventh secret session in the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) today.

The meeting lasted an hour and a half as usual. Another meeting is set for Monday.

The prelminary talks, aimed at defining terms and agreeing on agenda items, are expected to end in 10 days to two weeks, with full-scale negotiations taking place after the new year.

Both sides have spoken favorably about continuing the gestures of cordiality which have marked the talks since their start Nov. 17.

Lennon Is Out

LONDON (AP) — The invitation to Beatle John Lennon to play Jesus at St. Paul's Cathedral has been withdrawn.

"Someone like Lennon would imprint his own personality to such an extent that people would read the star's character into the character of the part," a spokesman for the Music Corp. of America-U.K. Record Co., said in explaining the decision.

Lennon had been quoted as saying he would be interested if his wife, Yoko Ono, could take the role of Mary Magdalene.

The invitation was for a pop musical called "Jesus Christ" planned at the cathedral next spring. The recording company, which will issue an album from the musical, said an unknown will be picked for the title role.

$720,000 Tag

LONDON (AP) — A Rembrandt portrait, believed to be of the artist's father, sold for $720,000 today at Christie's art auction house. The buyer was Edward Speelam, a London art dealer.

The portrait is a 26 by 20-inch work entitled "Portrait of an Old Man."

Rembrandt's portrait of his son Titus brought $1.91 million at Christie's in 1965 — the highest price paid for a painting in Europe.

Preparing For War

HONG KONG (AP) — Communist China is making extensive preparations for war with Russia, travelers arriving from the mainland said today.

The reports also said the Peking regime has asked everyone to eat less and put the food they save in reserve.

Peking, the reports said, has announced that the food reserve campaign is an integral part of the all-out war preparations and is ordering regional cadres to push the program more vigorously.

An estimated 900,000 people have been killed in the last century by earthquakes.

Syria Frees Victims Of Hijacked Jet

ATHENS (AP) Two Israeli passengers of a TWA jetliner hijacked to Damascus by Arab commandos last August were released by Syria today and flew to Athens on the same hijacked plane. In exchange, Israel freed 13 Syrians.

Minutes after their arrival here, the two men, Schlomo Samueloff, a university professor of physiology, and Salah Muallem, a travel agent, boarded another TWA jetliner for Tel Aviv.

The two Israelis, accompanied by the Israeli diplomatic representative in Athens, Yaacov Caroz, walked briskly from one plane to the other.

OFFICIAL WATCH

TWA international vice president, Richard W. Wilson, who accompanied the two men on their flight to Athens, also flew with them to Tel Aviv.

Before boarding the plane, Wilson told airport newsmen the men were in "very good health." He said they had told him that they were "very happy to be on their way home."

He quoted the two Israelis as saying that they had received "reasonably good treatment during their imprisonment."

The two men were among 113 persons aboard the jet the Arab commandos seized Aug. 29 on a flight from Rome to Athens and Tel Aviv. A bomb set off by the commandos shortly after the plane landed in Damascus damaged it heavily but it had been repaired.

MYSTERY REMAINS

The Syrians released most of the passengers and the crew the day after the hijacking but kept the two Israeli men and four Israeli women passengers. The Syrians let the women go six days later but never explained why they kept the men.

The pilot of the plane, Capt. Dean Carter, remained in Syria in an attempt to get the men freed.

The United States, several legislators, and such groups as the Air Line Pilots Association, the Red Cross and the International Civil Aviation Organization joined the campaign.

The pilots' group threatened to call a one-day strike throughout the world unless the Syrian authorities took action. The threat never went any farther, however.

NATO Chiefs Ponder Soviet Troop Promise

BRUSSELS (AP) — Fourteen foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Alliance agreed today to challenge the Soviet bloc to discuss mutual troop reductions as a demonstration that the Communists are really serious in proposing a European security conference.

France was reported holding aloof because it is not part of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's unified military command. The French government believes, therefore, that it can have no part in a program of NATO-Warsaw Pact troop reductions.

The decision to renew the 18-month-old offer to talk troop reductions emerged at the windup session of the NATO Council of Foreign Ministers. The ministers were completing a joint declaration on East-West relations and on the Soviet bloc call for a Pan-European security conference in the next six months.

Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann of France also objected to a West German proposal that the alliance reject the Soviet bloc demand at its Moscow summit meeting Thursday for international recognition of the East German regime. Schumann said such a rejection would imply acceptance of the principle of negotiations between two blocs, and France opposes the division of Europe into blocs.

NATO first offered to negotiate mutual reductions in armed strength in June 1968, before the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia. Moscow ignored the offer.

Instead, the Soviets and their allies proposed a big European security conference. After some hesitation, they acknowledged that the United States and Canada could also take part. Criticized for not proposing anything specific for the conference to talk about, the Communists came up with two suggestions: renunciations of the use of force, and more cooperation in trade and science.

At the NATO meeting yesterday, U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers contended that the sole purpose of the Soviet proposal was to perpetuate Moscow's rule in Eastern Europe.

Walter Scheel, West Germany's new foreign minister, expressed doubt that Germany could take part soon in a security conference because the country is still divided.

PERCY'S PROBE

Massacre Claim Stirs Up Robb

MAJ. CHARLES ROBB
'No single instance'

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Maj. Charles Robb says he is anxious for the Pentagon to investigate and clear up an allegation that men in his Marine company had killed or injured Vietnamese civilians.

The 30-year-old son-in-law of former President Lyndon B. Johnson, replying to a report of "indiscriminate killing" by Marines in his command, said: "I know of no single instance n which any of the civilians were injured or killed."

PERCY ORDER

In Washington an aide to Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., announced earlier that the senator had asked the Pentagon to investigate charges of "indiscriminate killing" by U.S. troops.

The charge was made in a letter to Percy from Anthony Martin-Trigona of Champaign, Ill., the aide said.

Columnist Jack Anderson said yesterday in an article published in the New York Post the letter claims the killings were committed by members of Robb's Marine company. Martin-Trigona visited Vietnam as a newspaper correspondent.

Robb, who spent 13 months in Vietnam, is married to the former Lynda Bird Johnson.

At a Las Vegas news conference yesterday, Robb said Percy had informed him of the letter and referred the matter to the Defense Department for investigation.

"I'd like to clean it up and put it to bed," Robb said of the charges.

BEING STUDIED

In writing to Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, Percy said that Martin-Trigona "mentions incidents of indiscriminate killing in Vietnam which deserve attention during DOD investigation of the Song My (My Lai) incidents." The Pentagon said the letter from the former correspondent was being studied.

Referring to Martin-Trigona, Robb told newsmen: "If he found something why didn't he tell anybody about it there? I would like to have known if anything didn't go according to the procedures of conduct in Vietnam."

Robb said he had 200 men under his command and could not swear atrocities hadn't happened without his knowledge.

Robb was here for a Marine district meeting.

Alioto To Talk Of Fee Increase

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Mayor Joseph Alioto scheduled a press conference on his return from Europe today to clarify questions surrounding a $2.1 million legal fee he collected as a private attorney in 1966.

Alioto, then a practing attorney, was retained by former Attorney General John J. O'Connell of Washington state, and several public utilities in that state to file suits against electrical equipment manufacturers in 1962. A ceiling of $1 million was initially set on Alioto's fee, but this was raised in 1965 to a flat 15 per cent of all moneys that Alioto recovered.

Alioto eventually recovered $16 million which was distributed to the respective Washington utility districts after Alioto's $2.1 million fee was taken out.

False Alarm At 'Hair' Opening

The blaze broke out in a first-floor restaurant of Shibuya Station shortly before "Hair's" finale. Smoke poured up to the ninth-floor auditorium, where it was being staged, but the 1,200 guests and cast left quietly, without panic, by elevators.

The fire attracted thousands to the scene, halted trains and subways and created confusion for hours.

A correspondent armed with opera glasses reported that the "Hair" cast stripped to the skin at the end of the first act. If so, however, virtually no one else saw it, the stage was so dark. That circumstance may mean that neither its American producer nor members of the cast will end up in jail as they feared they might.

Pro-Nixon Mayor Wins Contest With Lindsay

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Republican Mayor Richard G. Luger of Indianapolis, a supporter of the Nixon administration's urban policies, has defeated New York Mayor John V. Lindsay for vice president of the National League of Cities. Lndsay has called President Richard M. Nixon's urban policies disappointing.

At the closing session yesterday of the league's convention, Lugar, 37 and a former Rhodes scholar, won 376 to 281, in a rare contest for the vice presidency.

League custom is for the vice president to advance to president at the next convention—in Lugar's case, next December in Atlanta. San Diego Mayor Frank Curran, the current vice president and a Democrat, was elected league president without opposition yesterday.

A victory for Lindsay, who had the endorsement of the Democrat- dominated nominating committee, would have given him a national platform, should he have wanted to use it in a bid for higher office. Lindsay lost the Republican primary in New York this year and was reelected mayor as a Liberal-Independent.

A Lindsay victory here also would have been a blow at Nixon administration urban policies, which have been under steady criticism from the platform since the convention opened.

Lugar had stated his support of the administration in announcing he would challenge Lindsay despite the convention's usually automatic acceptance of nominating committee recommendations.

Lugar had the advantage of being known personally by the delegates. While Lindsay was a rare visitor to league functions in recent years, Lugar was present , visibile and active. Lindsay arrived Tuesday, a day after this convention opened, and departed Wednesday.

PERCY'S PROBE

Massacre Claim Stirs Up Robb

MAJ. CHARLES ROBB
'No single instance'

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Maj. Charles Robb says he is anxious for the Pentagon to investigate and clear up an allegation that men in his Marine company had killed or injured Vietnamese civilians.

The 30-year-old son-in-law of former President Lyndon B. Johnson, replying to a report of "indiscriminate killing" by Marines in his command, said: "I know of no single instance n which any of the civilians were injured or killed."

PERCY ORDER

In Washington an aide to Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., announced earlier that the senator had asked the Pentagon to investigate charges of "indiscriminate killing" by U.S. troops.

The charge was made in a letter to Percy from Anthony Martin-Trigona of Champaign, Ill., the aide said.

Columnist Jack Anderson said yesterday in an article published in the New York Post the letter claims the killings were committed by members of Robb's Marine company. Martin-Trigona visited Vietnam as a newspaper correspondent.

Robb, who spent 13 months in Vietnam, is married to the former Lynda Bird Johnson.

At a Las Vegas news conference yesterday, Robb said Percy had informed him of the letter and referred the matter to the Defense Department for investigation.

"I'd like to clean it up and put it to bed," Robb said of the charges.

BEING STUDIED

In writing to Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, Percy said that Martin-Trigona "mentions incidents of indiscriminate killing in Vietnam which deserve attention during DOD investigation of the Song My (My Lai) incidents." The Pentagon said the letter from the former correspondent was being studied.

Referring to Martin-Trigona, Robb told newsmen: "If he found something why didn't he tell anybody about it there? I would like to have known if anything didn't go according to the procedures of conduct in Vietnam."

Robb said he had 200 men under his command and could not swear atrocities hadn't happened without his knowledge.

Robb was here for a Marine district meeting.

Alioto To Talk Of Fee Increase

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Mayor Joseph Alioto scheduled a press conference on his return from Europe today to clarify questions surrounding a $2.1 million legal fee he collected as a private attorney in 1966.

Alioto, then a practing attorney, was retained by former Attorney General John J. O'Connell of Washington state, and several public utilities in that state to file suits against electrical equipment manufacturers in 1962. A ceiling of $1 million was initially set on Alioto's fee, but this was raised in 1965 to a flat 15 per cent of all moneys that Alioto recovered.

Alioto eventually recovered $16 million which was distributed to the respective Washington utility districts after Alioto's $2.1 million fee was taken out.

How Could Massacre Happen In Vietnam?

cated in history. But more than being able to operate intricate electronic equipment and the like, the GIs in Vietnam also could see at first hand the corruption, the indifference of Vietnamese soldiers to winning the war, the contrast between the poverty in the countryside and the comparative wealth of the cities and the way Vietnamese merchants, bar girls and even children selling black market American soft drinks gouged them. Added to this were the deaths and maimings of friends. Cynicism mixed with anger rapidly replaced the early idealism among combat troops. Vietnamese were called "gooks" and "slopes" in a way that sometimes translated as subhuman.

No spark sets off a fire unless it falls into combustible material. The sparks that ignite American GIs are snipers, mines and booby traps. The major cause of casualties in Vietnam are mines and booby traps. Snipers also are a major factor. The three are all the more hated because each is hidden and after the damage is done, there usually is no chance for the American infantrymen to even the score because no enemy can be found.

Often intelligence will pinpoint a village as the source of the mine and booby trap makers and snipers. Repeated sweeps through the hamlet turn up little or nothing except more casualties. And hatred builds up for the villagers who know the snipers and know where the hidden traps are but don't tell. Then one day something snaps in one or more men. The frustration and fear drives them across that line of civilized conduct that in combat zones in a hazy mark at best.

There are indications that these things might have been at work on the men who are accused of massacre in My Lai last year.

They certainly were on a group of American Marines I accompanied into a village south of Da Nang in 1965. A half squad, out of a regimental size force, went on a brief rampage killing a group hiding in a civilian air raid shelter. One Marine called out, "Woosh, I'm a killer today. I got me two." Another said, "Kill them, I don't want anyone moving. We've got only a few more days of legal killing left."

The battalion was due to rotate home in four weeks. In the previous month, 15 per cent of the battalion had been killed or wounded by snipers and boobytraps. None of the Marines had seen a Viet Cong soldier during the time.

After the reports of the incident were published in the United States, Maj. Gen. Lewis Walt, then U.S. Marine commander in Vietnam, issued a public statement saying the killings "grieve me deeply. And I express my deep sympathy to the loved ones of such innocent victims as I do the loved ones of the Marines who have given their lives."

The U.S. Command's position has been from the beginning that civilians are not to be harmed. But the case for the sanctity of civilian life is weakened by the knowledge that there are South Vietnamese assassination teams—sometimes led by Americans— operating in the countryside killing enemy officials, as opposed to soldiers, often in their beds at home, Viet Cong style. And GIs who have searched out a village after American bombers have done their work cannot help but be a bit cynical about orders not to molest civilians.

A senior officer in the legal field was asked after a series of murder trials earlier this year what he thought had motivated the Americans involved, all found guilty.

He said nearly all the cases he had handled involved villagers in Viet Cong held areas. When the pressure of fear or hate or some combination of these factors hit the men hard enough, they broke down with a sort of combat fatigue that ended with slayings.

"If these men never had come to Vietnam, they probably would have lived out their lives as useful citizens and with a police record no more serious than a speeding ticket or two," the officer said.

"In war, everything is realer than real. The capacity for great violence rises to the surface, but so does a capacity for great compassion," an Army doctor said. "Remember, part of the brutalizing men undergo is necessary to their psychological survival. You can't look war in the face with the kind of emotional responses we use in the states. You would go mad."

routes, station locations, vehicles, equipment, facilities, schedules, operating schemes and effects on highways, Luehring said.

The consultants should submit a draft report by the end of June next year, he said. The district would maintain "the right to compile and edit" the report, he added.

Kaiser would have its proposal ready about 30 days after full board approval of the committee's recommendation, Luehring said.

The consultants also would be charged with coordinating their plan with whatever commuter ferry and bus operations the district starts in the next two years, he told directors.

The directors also approved Luehring's recommendation that the San Francisco firm of Walter Landor and Associates be invited to submit a proposal as design consultants to make the transit system attractive to the public.

The firm's work would include designing the district's symbol, theme colors, bus and ferry boat interiors, tickets, public information materials and uniforms, Luehring explained.

Golden Gate Bridge District directors, meeting in committee, also:

COUNTIES — Recommended that "for the time being" all costs of hiring consultants for transit planning should be borne by the district. Eventually, some counties in the district, especially Marin, will be asked to pay the costs of transit planning and operations that offer them intracounty benefits.

STAFF — Received report from Luehring that Tito Sasaki, former staff member of the Marin County Transit District, had been hired to help prepare the long-range transit plan, at an annual salary of $16,500. Still to be filled are the positions of transit manager and one in bus operations.

TRANSIT — Recommended that Luehring be authorized to work with the Alameda-Contra Costa Transit District to see if some coordination of bus operations and maintenance would be feasible.

GREYHOUND — Tabled Luehring's proposal that consultants be hired to negotiate with Greyhound Lines West to phase in bridge district bus operations and phase out Greyhound. Director L. E. Castner of Sonoma County termed the proposal "way too premature."

FOUNDATION — Recommended that the engineering firm of Dames and Moore do a $60.000 study of the foundation of the toll plaza to prepare for a plaza widening project.

TELEPHONE — Postponed action on a request from Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. to install 12 conduits across the bridge, pending study of the ability of the bridge to take the extra weight safely.

TOWERS — Recommended up to $3,500 be spent to do more design work on the proposed floodlighting of the bridge towers.

MASSACRE

associated with MacCrate's law firm.

Calley, who has not spoken publicly about the incident, was called to testify before a special army panel which is attempting to find out why a field investigation shortly after the alleged massacre in March 1968 came up with a finding that no further action was needed.

The lieutenant is charged with the premeditated murder of at least 109 civilians at the village.

Medina, whose Company C included Calley's platoon, was excused by the Peers board last night after hours of questioning under oath. He has not been charged in the case.

During a break in his testimony, Medina appeared at a news conference in the Pentagon and denied flatly allegations by some of his former soldiers that he himself had killed a child at the My Lai 4 hamlet and ordered inhabitants of the settlement killed.

With Boston criminal Lawyer F. Lee Bailey at his elbow, the 33-year-old captain answered reporters' questions for the first time since the case burst into a world-wide sensation.

Shots, Fire Disrupt Chico State Campus

PARKING

going to restrict parking in the downtown area, you would probably be wise to do it in the beginning."

According to the attorney, California law says that every city in California has a parking authority, "but it doesn't operate until the city activates it."

Jordan said the authority can become operative in Sausalito if the council passes a resolution or adopts an ordinance "saying the need for such an authority exists. The council may designate itself as the parking authority board or may appoint a separate board."

The authority can sell revenue bonds to finance acquisition of land for parking areas and then lease that land to the city, Jordan said, adding that the city can use "any normal city revenues" to finance the operation.

Councilman Robin Sweeny warned that, before acquiring property for a northern parking area, "the city had better be sure that the lot is going to come close to paying for itself. Or else we may have to use money from the general fund and this could mean an increase in taxes."

The council agreed the economic feasibility of such a lot would have to be studied carefully.

Elmore Hutchison, the president of Sausalito Properties, a major land holder in the waterfront area, told the council he objected strenuously to elimination of off-street parking.

"I think the central waterfront plan is being forgotten to solve traffic problems which should have been solved years ago," Hutchison said testily.

"If you could just find some way to gloss over the traffic problem . . . it seems to be the only stumbling block . . .," he pleaded. "We've waited for 10 years to develop our property; we've been extremely patient, but it's too late to start something new now."

Another representative of Sausalito Properties, Alex M. Young, said he felt that "all of a sudden the waterfront property owners have become villains and I don't like to see that."

"Not at all," Councilman Wyman Hicks retorted. "If you people were building a factory which generated smoke, we'd have to face the problem. You are generating traffic rather than smoke, but traffic is a serious problem in Sausalito and we have to face that fact."

"You are upsetting the whole apple cart and then you are going to have a fight on your hands," Hutchison told the council.

Jordan told the council a proposal to close certain major streets leading into Sausalito from the south to halt weekend and holiday traffic congestion was essentially a police matter.

"I think it would be up to our police to determine when traffic reaches the point where it is a hazard," the attorney said; "that is what other cities have done — Berkeley does it with streets near the stadium on football game days and there has been no trouble.

"If they feel a hazard exists, the police could establish checkpoints and only allow residents and other persons with good reasons to enter the closed streets," he continued.

Hicks thought leaving the situation to the discretion of the police was a good idea. "We don't need 24-hour barriers," he said.

Boy, 13, Reports Kidnapping Try

A 13-year-old Mill Valley boy who was hitchhiking to school Wednesday told sheriff's deputies that he was kidnapped by a man who drove him to San Francisco, where the man made sexual advances to him.

The youth told deputies that he took a ride with the man in front of Dan's Market in Tamalpais Valley, but the man did not drive him to school as he said he would. Instead, he headed for San Francisco.

When he stopped there and made advances, the boy pulled out a small knife and escaped, he said. He then hitchhiked to Tamalpais High School, where he appeared about 2 p.m.

CONCERT

the Stones and that "just about everything was settled except the finalizing of a contract" to move to his speedway, located on Byron-Grantline Road off Highway 50, nine miles west of Tracy.

Robert Carter, his son, said organizers were putting up a $200,000 bond for security. No conditions were placed on disbursement of any revenue, he added.

He said that the speedway has an entertainment permit, but that Belli and his father were checking on whether it would cover an extravaganza such as this.

Capt. Lawrence White, executive officer of the Alameda County sheriff's substation at Santa Rita, said he learned of the switch to Altamont indirectly and was "rather nonplussed."

"I'm checking on the need for a permit and I don't want to make any statement yet," he said.

Sears Point officials said agents of the Stones had misrepresented the concert in the first place, saying they intended to do it for charity only.

"They told us yesterday they didn't want to do it for charity," said Steve Castoldi, vice president of the track. "Also, their agents told us several days ago they had permission from Sonoma and Marin County authorities and from the California Highway Patrol.

"We found out yesterday they had not even asked for permission."

Raceway Manager George Davi said health and safety also were factors.

"We just couldn't take care of the 300,000 fans who might show up Saturday," he said.

Robert Carter said Altamont, which features foreign and stock car and motorcycle races on weekends, could accommodate 10,000 cars for the concert.

"The track needs publicity to make a go," he said. "This thing will really do it."

HARVARD

Harvard's administrative vice president, and Prof. Archibald Cox were allowed into the building to talk with the demonstrators.

At that point there was no evidence of police.

The demonstrators, members of a group calling itself the Organization for Black Unity, OBU, spotted colleagues in buildings near University Hall, apparently to act as lookouts for police. Some carried walkie talkies.

The OBU has been increasingly active on the Harvard campus in recent weeks. Its demands have ranged from increased Negro enrollment at the 333-year-old Ivy League institution to improvements for Negro laborers employed by the school, along with more black hiring on new construction at the school.

Harvard has a total enrollment of 15,000 with 4,800 of them undergraduates and 175 of those blacks.

May, who took over as dean of Harvard College in September, warned the demonstrators four times by bullhorn that they could be arrested if they failed to leave at once.

While there was no immediate public response to the demand, May, Wiggins and Cox were observed entering the building about a half hour later.

Cox, former U.S. solicitor general, prepared a lengthy report on the disturbances at one of Harvard's sister schools, Columbia, and has been trying to mediate the OBU Harvard dispute.

How Could Massacre Happen In Vietnam?

cated in history. But more than being able to operate intricate electronic equipment and the like, the GIs in Vietnam also could see at first hand the corruption, the indifference of Vietnamese soldiers to winning the war, the contrast between the poverty in the countryside and the comparative wealth of the cities and the way Vietnamese merchants, bar girls and even children selling black market American soft drinks gouged them. Added to this were the deaths and maimings of friends. Cynicism mixed with anger rapidly replaced the early idealism among combat troops. Vietnamese were called "gooks" and "slopes" in a way that sometimes translated as subhuman.

No spark sets off a fire unless it falls into combustible material. The sparks that ignite American GIs are snipers, mines and booby traps. The major cause of casualties in Vietnam are mines and booby traps. Snipers also are a major factor. The three are all the more hated because each is hidden and after the damage is done, there usually is no chance for the American infantrymen to even the score because no enemy can be found.

Often intelligence will pinpoint a village as the source of the mine and booby trap makers and snipers. Repeated sweeps through the hamlet turn up little or nothing except more casualties. And hatred builds up for the villagers who know the snipers and know where the hidden traps are but don't tell. Then one day something snaps in one or more men. The frustration and fear drives them across that line of civilized conduct that in combat zones in a hazy mark at best.

There are indications that these things might have been at work on the men who are accused of massacre in My Lai last year.

They certainly were on a group of American Marines I accompanied into a village south of Da Nang in 1965. A half squad, out of a regimental size force, went on a brief rampage killing a group hiding in a civilian air raid shelter. One Marine called out, "Woosh, I'm a killer today. I got me two." Another said, "Kill them, I don't want anyone moving. We've got only a few more days of legal killing left."

The battalion was due to rotate home in four weeks. In the previous month, 15 per cent of the battalion had been killed or wounded by snipers and booby-traps. None of the Marines had seen a Viet Cong soldier during the time.

After the reports of the incident were published in the United States, Maj. Gen. Lewis Walt, then U.S. Marine commander in Vietnam, issued a public statement saying the killings "grieve me deeply. And I express my deep sympathy to the loved ones of such innocent victims as I do the loved ones of the Marines who have given their lives."

The U.S. Command's position has been from the beginning that civilians are not to be harmed. But the case for the sanctity of civilian life is weakened by the knowledge that there are South Vietnamese assassination teams—sometimes led by Americans— operating in the countryside killing enemy officials, as opposed to soldiers, often in their beds at home, Viet Cong style. And GIs who have searched out a village after American bombers have done their work cannot help but be a bit cynical about orders not to molest civilians.

A senior officer in the legal field was asked after a series of murder trials earlier this year what he thought had motivated the Americans involved, all found guilty.

He said nearly all the cases he had handled involved villagers in Viet Cong held areas. When the pressure of fear or hate or some combination of these factors hit the men hard enough, they broke down with a sort of combat fatigue that ended with slayings.

"If these men never had come to Vietnam, they probably would have lived out their lives as useful citizens and with a police record no more serious than a speeding ticket or two," the officer said.

"In war, everything is realer than real. The capacity for great violence rises to the surface, but so does a capacity for great compassion," an Army doctor said. "Remember, part of the brutalizing men undergo is necessary to their psychological survival. You can't look war in the face with the kind of emotional responses we use in the states. You would go mad."

MASSACRE

associated with MacCrate's law firm.

Calley, who has not spoken publicly about the incident, was called to testify before a special army panel which is attempting to find out why a field investigation shortly after the alleged massacre in March 1968 came up with a finding that no further action was needed.

The lieutenant is charged with the premeditated murder of at least 109 civilians at the village.

Medina, whose Company C included Calley's platoon, was excused by the Peers board last night after hours of questioning under oath. He has not been charged in the case.

During a break in his testimony, Medina appeared at a news conference in the Pentagon and denied flatly allegations by some of his former soldiers that he himself had killed a child at the My Lai 4 hamlet and ordered inhabitants of the settlement killed.

With Boston criminal Lawyer F. Lee Bailey at his elbow, the 33-year-old captain answered reporters' questions for the first time since the case burst into a world-wide sensation.

PLAN

routes, station locations, vehicles, equipment, facilities, schedules, operating schemes and effects on highways, Luehring said.

The consultants should submit a draft report by the end of June next year, he said. The district would maintain "the right to compile and edit" the report, he added.

Kaiser would have its proposal ready about 30 days after full board approval of the committee's recommendation, Luehring said.

The consultants also would be charged with coordinating their plan with whatever commuter ferry and bus operations the district starts in the next two years, he told directors.

The directors also approved Luehring's recommendation that the San Francisco firm of Walter Landor and Associates be invited to submit a proposal as design consultants to make the transit system attractive to the public.

The firm's work would include designing the district's symbol, theme colors, bus and ferry boat interiors, tickets, public information materials and uniforms, Luehring explained.

Golden Gate Bridge District directors, meeting in committee, also:

COUNTIES — Recommended that "for the time being" all costs of hiring consultants for transit planning should be borne by the district. Eventually, some counties in the district, especially Marin, will be asked to pay the costs of transit planning and operations that offer them intracounty benefits.

STAFF — Received report from Luehring that Tito Sasaki, former staff member of the Marin County Transit District, had been hired to help prepare the long-range transit plan, at an annual salary of $16,500. Still to be filled are the positions of transit manager and one in bus operations.

TRANSIT — Recommended that Luehring be authorized to work with the Alameda-Contra Costa Transit District to see if some coordination of bus operations and maintenance would be feasible.

GREYHOUND — Tabled Luehring's proposal that consultants be hired to negotiate with Greyhound Lines West to phase in bridge district bus operations and phase out Greyhound. Director L. E. Castner of Sonoma County termed the proposal "way too premature."

FOUNDATION — Recommended that the engineering firm of Dames and Moore do a $60.000 study of the foundation of the toll plaza to prepare for a plaza widening project.

TELEPHONE — Postponed action on a request from Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. to install 12 conduits across the bridge, pending study of the ability of the bridge to take the extra weight safely.

TOWERS — Recommended up to $3,500 be spent to do more design work on the proposed floodlighting of the bridge towers.

PARKING

going to restrict parking in the downtown area, you would probably be wise to do it in the beginning."

According to the attorney, California law says that every city in California has a parking authority, "but it doesn't operate until the city activates it."

Jordan said the authority can become operative in Sausalito if the council passes a resolution or adopts an ordinance "saying the need for such an authority exists. The council may designate itself as the parking authority board or may appoint a separate board."

The authority can sell revenue bonds to finance acquisition of land for parking areas and then lease that land to the city, Jordan said, adding that the city can use "any normal city revenues" to finance the operation.

Councilman Robin Sweeny warned that, before acquiring property for a northern parking area, "the city had better be sure that the lot is going to come close to paying for itself. Or else we may have to use money from the general fund and this could mean an increase in taxes."

The council agreed the economic feasibility of such a lot would have to be studied carefully.

Elmore Hutchison, the president of Sausalito Properties, a major land holder in the waterfront area, told the council he objected strenuously to elimination of off-street parking.

"I think the central waterfront plan is being forgotten to solve traffic problems which should have been solved years ago," Hutchison said testily.

"If you could just find some way to gloss over the traffic problem . . . it seems to be the only stumbling block . . .," he pleaded. "We've waited for 10 years to develop our property; we've been extremely patient, but it's too late to start something new now."

Another representative of Sausalito Properties, Alex M. Young, said he felt that "all of a sudden the waterfront property owners have become villains and I don't like to see that."

"Not at all," Councilman Wyman Hicks retorted. "If you people were building a factory which generated smoke, we'd have to face the problem. You are generating traffic rather than smoke, but traffic is a serious problem in Sausalito and we have to face that fact."

"You are upsetting the whole apple cart and then you are going to have a fight on your hands," Hutchison told the council.

Jordan told the council a proposal to close certain major streets leading into Sausalito from the south to halt weekend and holiday traffic congestion was essentially a police matter.

"I think it would be up to our police to determine when traffic reaches the point where it is a hazard," the attorney said; "that is what other cities have done — Berkeley does it with streets near the stadium on football game days and there has been no trouble.

"If they feel a hazard exists, the police could establish checkpoints and only allow residents and other persons with good reasons to enter the closed streets," he continued.

Hicks thought leaving the situation to the discretion of the police was a good idea. "We don't need 24-hour barriers," he said.

Boy, 13, Reports Kidnapping Try

A 13-year-old Mill Valley boy who was hitchhiking to school Wednesday told sheriff's deputies that he was kidnapped by a man who drove him to San Francisco, where the man made sexual advances to him.

The youth told deputies that he took a ride with the man in front of Dan's Market in Tamalpais Valley, but the man did not drive him to school as he said he would. Instead, he headed for San Francisco.

When he stopped there and made advances, the boy pulled out a small knife and escaped, he said. He then hitchhiked to Tamalpais High School, where he appeared about 2 p.m.

CONCERT

the Stones and that "just about everything was settled except the finalizing of a contract" to move to his speedway, located on Byron-Grantline Road off Highway 50, nine miles west of Tracy.

Robert Carter, his son, said organizers were putting up a $200,000 bond for security. No conditions were placed on disbursement of any revenue, he added.

He said that the speedway has an entertainment permit, but that Belli and his father were checking on whether it would cover an extravaganza such as this.

Capt. Lawrence White, executive officer of the Alameda County sheriff's substation at Santa Rita, said he learned of the switch to Altamont indirectly and was "rather nonplussed."

"I'm checking on the need for a permit and I don't want to make any statement yet," he said.

Sears Point officials said agents of the Stones had misrepresented the concert in the first place, saying they intended to do it for charity only.

"They told us yesterday they didn't want to do it for charity," said Steve Castoldi, vice president of the track. "Also, their agents told us several days ago they had permission from Sonoma and Marin County authorities and from the California Highway Patrol.

"We found out yesterday they had not even asked for permission."

Raceway Manager George Davi said health and safety also were factors.

"We just couldn't take care of the 300,000 fans who might show up Saturday," he said.

Robert Carter said Altamont, which features foreign and stock car and motorcycle races on weekends, could accommodate 10,000 cars for the concert.

"The track needs publicity to make a go," he said. "This thing will really do it."

Harvard's administrative vice president, and Prof. Archibald Cox were allowed into the building to talk with the demonstrators.

At that point there was no evidence of police.

The demonstrators, members of a group calling itself the Organization for Black Unity, OBU, spotted colleagues in buildings near University Hall, apparently to act as lookouts for police. Some carried walkie talkies.

The OBU has been increasingly active on the Harvard campus in recent weeks. Its demands have ranged from increased Negro enrollment at the 333-year-old Ivy League institution to improvements for Negro laborers employed by the school, along with more black hiring on new construction at the school.

Harvard has a total enrollment of 15,000 with 4,800 of them undergraduates and 175 of those blacks.

May, who took over as dean of Harvard College in September, warned the demonstrators four times by bullhorn that they could be arrested if they failed to leave at once.

While there was no immediate public response to the demand, May, Wiggins and Cox were observed entering the building about a half hour later.

Cox, former U.S. solicitor general, prepared a lengthy report on the disturbances at one of Harvard's sister schools, Columbia, and has been trying to mediate the OBU Harvard dispute.

HIGH SIERRA ADVENTURE—Mill Valley author Kenneth Pratt and his pack horse trek through Yosemite Park on a journey recalling the early day travels of John Muir. Pratt made it from the East Bay to the ghost town of Bodie on the eastern side of the Sierra in two months, finishing the adventure on Thanksgiving Day. (UPI Telephoto)

Mill Valley Author Treks Across California With A Pack Horse

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) — Kenneth Pratt decided the only way to see Central California and the Sierra Nevada first hand was to walk across the state, and he did just that.

The trip was some 200 miles more than he anticipated and it took him two months to finish it. But aside from being caught in a bad mountain blizzard, the Mill Valley lecturer and author found the experience enjoyable.

Pratt's hike from Oakland to Bodie, a small community near the California-Nevada border, began last Sept. 27 and ended on Thanksgiving Day.

The whole thing came about because of a natural science exhibit at the Oakland Museum, for which Pratt, of 7 Fairway Drive, was doing some work.

"If you walk from one end of a hall to the other it's supposed to be like taking a trip through Central California," he said. "I thought somebody ought to do it for real."

He decided to make the journey himself and, backed by the Oakland Museum Association, he packed a horse with supplies and started walking.

"One of my aims was to stay away from roads," he said. But that added miles to the trip, expanding his original estimate of about 300 miles to something nearer 500 miles.

He trudged out over the Livermore Hills, down into the San Joaquin Valley, followed a levee up the Stanislaus River and then went on to Yosemite National Park before crossing the crest of the Sierra and walking on to Bodie.

The hike was broken up into several segments with Pratt occasionally catching a bus home to catch up on his work.

"This wasn't supposed to be a live-off-the land exploit or an endurance contest," Pratt said. He said he mainly wanted to see California as it had been viewed by early day travelers such as John Muir and Jack London.

"Before I left, a lot of people asked me if I wasn't afraid of being mugged, and also if I wasn't worried about snakes," he said.

"I walked 500 miles and never saw a snake and one of the surprises of the trip was the friendly reception you get from people when you're walking instead of driving."

Because of early storms, Pratt had to use snowshoes to get over parts of the Sierra and at one point holed up in a tent on Vogelsang Pass behind Yosemite to wait out a snowstorm.

"I had about a week's supply of food for myself and not quite a week's supply of food for the horse," he said.

He said if the storm would have continued "I might have had to chew on the horse for food," but the weather cleared and both Pratt and his pack horse made it out of the mountains without further incidents.

He said the most spectacular part of the trip was something anybody can do — climb from Happy Isle in Yosemite Valley to Nevada Falls and Little Yosemite Valley.

"It was absolutely the most spectacular scenery I encountered on the whole walk across California," he said.

ART REVIEW

Communication Is Key To Prints

By LAURA DEVENDORF

"THE MOMENT IN WHICH LIGHT COMES IS GOD. Only you and I can help the sun rise each morning. If we don't, it may drench itself out in sorrow."

This imploring quote from Camus — which is the sum and substance of one of (ex-Sister Mary) Corita's prints — seems more a shout as its black letters vibrate on blazing red and pink. It is also symptomatic of the former nun's determination to make us see, recognize, enjoy, feel, communicate and understand all people and all things in life.

In her new series shown through Jan. 17 at Anima Mundi, 352 Miller Avenue in Mill Valley, she has many ways of winning you over to her point of view. For while Corita is a message artist, she is one of the few who doesn't short-change visual merit in a push to get a point across.

These new prints, while still heavily lettered and quoteridden, now reproduce magazine covers including Time and Life and photographs of news figure such as Caesar Chavez, Bobby Kennedy or troops in Vietnam. They are not always without wit and there is one winning shot of a bishop, his hand raised in blessing, which declares in bold print, "Let the sunshine in."

Another departure is Corita's use of lettering and designs from the last century, much of which she incorporates into an alphabet which plays particularly well as message doubleedged with humor.

"J is for Jesus," shows a face grinning down at a nude nestled in the ornate letter's crook. "L is for ladybug," has "ladybug" in white on yellow all over two of its four sections. The other two are bare black except for one tiny white insect, while "K for kisses" combines the current fetish for funny old posters and their odd vernacular in a poster potion for lovers.

It takes time to absorb all the lengthy quotes and broken words filling so much of Corita's work. And after that there's the second wave — the one that totals the irony of visual plus written meaning.

What is most remarkable is that you don't need to agree to appreciate them. In content, Corita goes beyond the pat, expectable statements about the human condition and rephrases them visually in ways which everyone can feel. And in so doing she helps a lot of suns to rise.

Industrialist Pleads Guilty To Foreign Weapons Sale Charges

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — The former president of the firm which once supplied most of the rocket launchers used on jet planes in Vietnam pleaded guilty today to conspiring to violate the Mutual Security Act by exporting launchers to an arms firm in Belgium.

Andrew L. Stone of St. Louis, former president and principal stockholder of Alsco, Inc., an Akron, Ohio, firm, and its predecessor, Chromcraft Corp. of St. Louis entered the plea before U.S. Dist. Court Judge John K. Regan. Stone's executive secretary, Evelyn R. Price, pleaded guilty to the same charge.

The judge deferred sentencing until March 6 at the request of defense attorneys. Maximum penalty under the charge is a fine of $10,000 and five years in prison.

The two pleaded guilty to the conspiracy count of a 17-count indictment. The other 16 counts were held in abeyance until March 6.

Still facing charges under the 17-count indictment are the Amerbel Corp., a New York exporting firm, and its successor, the Joseph L. Wilmotte and Co. Trial has been set for Jan. 5.

The indictment accused all defendants of exporting 2.75-inch rocket launchers to Les Forges de Zeebrugge, an arms manufacturing and importing firm in Belgium, without obtaining export licenses or approval of the State Department, as required by the Mutual Security Act. The shipments allegedly were made through Amerbel. The Belgium firm was listed as a coconspirator but not as a defendant.

Stone sold his controlling interest in Alsco last February to Harvard Industries of Farmington, N.J., for about $11 million. Alsco later pleaded guilty to one transaction with the Belgium firm and was fined the maximum $25,000. This and all other alleged violations occurred before Alsco became a part of Harvard Industries.

The government contended the shipments of rocket launchers to the Belgium firm began in 1961 and continued until January 1969.

In a related case, Stone, Mrs. Price and two other individuals are awaiting sentencing by a federal judge in Washington. They have pleaded guilty there t one or more counts of an indictment charging they defrauded the Navy on more than $47 million in contracts for rocket launchers and funneled more than $4 million in overcharges and kickbacks into secret Swiss bank accounts.

Chromcraft, the original rocket launcher supplier, merged into Alsco in 1966 and became Alsco's Techfab Division.

In July 1968, The Associated Press disclosed that despite a grand jury probe, the Navy continued to give its launcher contracts to Techfab without competitive bidding.

VISTA Appointee Declines Post

DETROIT (AP) — William R. Ford, the 35-year-old Negro whom President Richard M. Nixon appointed last week to be director of the Volunteers In Service to America, announced today he is refusing the post.

In a statement issued by his office in Detroit, Ford cited committments to his present job as director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission as the primary reasons for turning down the federal post.

Ford served as Michigan director for the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity from 1966 until last March, when he assumed his present post.

ART REVIEW

Communication Is Key To Prints

By LAURA DEVENDORF

"THE MOMENT IN WHICH LIGHT COMES IS GOD. Only you and I can help the sun rise each morning. If we don't, it may drench itself out in sorrow."

This imploring quote from Camus — which is the sum and substance of one of (ex-Sister Mary) Corita's prints — seems more a shout as its black letters vibrate on blazing red and pink. It is also symptomatic of the former nun's determination to make us see, recognize, enjoy, feel, communicate and understand all people and all things in life.

In her new series shown through Jan. 17 at Anima Mundi, 352 Miller Avenue in Mill Valley, she has many ways of winning you over to her point of view. For while Corita is a message artist, she is one of the few who doesn't short-change visual merit in a push to get a point across.

These new prints, while still heavily lettered and quoteridden, now reproduce magazine covers including Time and Life and photographs of news figure such as Caesar Chavez, Bobby Kennedy or troops in Vietnam. They are not always without wit and there is one winning shot of a bishop, his hand raised in blessing, which declares in bold print, "Let the sunshine in."

Another departure is Corita's use of lettering and designs from the last century, much of which she incorporates into an alphabet which plays particularly well as message doubleedged with humor.

"J is for Jesus," shows a face grinning down at a nude nestled in the ornate letter's crook. "L is for ladybug," has "ladybug" in white on yellow all over two of its four sections. The other two are bare black except for one tiny white insect, while "K for kisses" combines the current fetish for funny old posters and their odd vernacular in a poster potion for lovers.

It takes time to absorb all the lengthy quotes and broken words filling so much of Corita's work. And after that there's the second wave — the one that totals the irony of visual plus written meaning.

What is most remarkable is that you don't need to agree to appreciate them. In content, Corita goes beyond the pat, expectable statements about the human condition and rephrases them visually in ways which everyone can feel. And in so doing she helps a lot of suns to rise.

Industrialist Pleads Guilty To Foreign Weapons Sale Charges

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — The former president of the firm which once supplied most of the rocket launchers used on jet planes in Vietnam pleaded guilty today to conspiring to violate the Mutual Security Act by exporting launchers to an arms firm in Belgium.

Andrew L. Stone of St. Louis, former president and principal stockholder of Alsco, Inc., an Akron, Ohio, firm, and its predecessor, Chromcraft Corp. of St. Louis entered the plea before U.S. Dist. Court Judge John K. Regan. Stone's executive secretary, Evelyn R. Price, pleaded guilty to the same charge.

The judge deferred sentencing until March 6 at the request of defense attorneys. Maximum penalty under the charge is a fine of $10,000 and five years in prison.

The two pleaded guilty to the conspiracy count of a 17-count indictment. The other 16 counts were held in abeyance until March 6.

Still facing charges under the 17-count indictment are the Amerbel Corp., a New York exporting firm, and its successor, the Joseph L. Wilmotte and Co. Trial has been set for Jan. 5.

The indictment accused all defendants of exporting 2.75-inch rocket launchers to Les Forges de Zeebrugge, an arms manufacturing and importing firm in Belgium, without obtaining export licenses or approval of the State Department, as required by the Mutual Security Act. The shipments allegedly were made through Amerbel. The Belgium firm was listed as a coconspirator but not as a defendant.

Stone sold his controlling interest in Alsco last February to Harvard Industries of Farmington, N.J., for about $11 million. Alsco later pleaded guilty to one transaction with the Belgium firm and was fined the maximum $25,000. This and all other alleged violations occurred before Alsco became a part of Harvard Industries.

The government contended the shipments of rocket launchers to the Belgium firm began in 1961 and continued until January 1969.

In a related case, Stone, Mrs. Price and two other individuals are awaiting sentencing by a federal judge in Washington. They have pleaded guilty there t one or more counts of an indictment charging they defrauded the Navy on more than $47 million in contracts for rocket launchers and funneled more than $4 million in overcharges and kickbacks into secret Swiss bank accounts.

Chromcraft, the original rocket launcher supplier, merged into Alsco in 1966 and became Alsco's Techfab Division.

In July 1968, The Associated Press disclosed that despite a grand jury probe, the Navy continued to give its launcher contracts to Techfab without competitive bidding.

First Draft Lottery Date A Bell Ringer

NOVATO (AP) — ROTC cadet Sgt. Charles Chung of Novato High School said "a bell kept ringing in my head" after he read that the first date picked in the national draft lottery had been Sept. 14.

He said he looked it up and found the Star Spangled Banner was written by Francis Scott Key in Baltimore, Md., Sept. 14, 1814.

VISTA Appointee Declines Post

DETROIT (AP) — William R. Ford, the 35-year-old Negro whom President Richard M. Nixon appointed last week to be director of the Volunteers In Service to America, announced today he is refusing the post.

In a statement issued by his office in Detroit, Ford cited committments to his present job as director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission as the primary reasons for turning down the federal post.

Ford served as Michigan director for the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity from 1966 until last March, when he assumed his present post.

Woman's Death Related To Apparent Overdose Of Pills

A Sausalito woman whose body was found in her apartment Wednesday apparently died of an overdose of unknown drugs, Sausalito Police Capt. R. D. Malkin said today.

Malkin said the overdose conclusion is based on a preliminary pathology report and toxicology results will take another five days.

Jarmilla C. Von Kleinow, 36, was found dead Wednesday night in her apartment at 35 Crescent Avenue after a roommate who had just moved out phoned the landlord, police said. The roommate, Wyoma Kerns, 44, a hostess at the Valhalla restaurant in Sausalito, had tried to phone Miss Von Kleinow earlier but got no answer, police said.

A native of Illinois, Miss Von Kleinow was employed as a photo developer and had lived in Sausalito for six weeks. She was a divorcee.

She is survived by her mother, Marie Fuchs Von Kleinow in Chicago, and a brother, David Von Kleinow of Redwood City.

Funeral arrangements were being made in Chicago.

Hitchhiker Reportedly Spots Kidnapped Girl

QUINCY (AP)—A hitchhiker has told authorities here he has seen 17-year-old Elaine Davis, reported kidnapped Monday from her Walnut Creek home.

Richard Constan, Jr., 31, a Forest Service surveyor told Plumas County sheriff's deputies he was picked up about 10:30 p.m. yesterday in East Quincy by a man about 19 or 20, driving a green sedan, who asked where he could find a gas station.

Constan said when he got in the car, he saw a young blonde-haired girl crying. He said he asked her what was wrong but got no answer.

They stopped at a filling station in Quincy, Constan said, and when he went in back to wake the owner the car sped off "like wildfire." Constan said the driver had told him he had only $2.00 and was headed for Reno, Nev. about 60 miles east.

In Walnut Creek, Police Chief Raymond C. Davis said Miss Davis probably was kidnapped.

"We are fairly certain she left involuntarily, probably under duress," the chief said yesterday in discussing the disappearance of Miss Davis from her home.

The girl, a straight-A student at Pleasant Hill High School, was last seen at 10:30 p.m. Monday when her mother left to drive to nearby Concord to pick up her husband at a gasoline station he manages.

When Mr. and Mrs. James Davis returned to their home 35 minutes later the girl had vanished, leaving behind her eyeglasses and a purse containing $4.

Another daughter, Heidi, 3, was sleeping soundly in a bedroom.

Mrs. Davis said the family telephone had been disconnected because she had received anonymous and obscene telephone calls before the girl disappeared.

The mother described the missing girl as 4-feet-11 and weighing 100 pounds. She also said her daughter was shy, studious and didn't drink or smoke and had nothing to do with drugs.

When last seen the girl was wearing brown corduroy jeans, a navy blue coat with gold buttons and brown loafers with gold buckles.

Cubans Execute Official In Bid To Flee Island

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Cuban firing squad has executed a man who raided a military post and killed a government official in an unsuccessful bid to flee the Communist island, Radio Havana said today.

Alberto Alfredo Mustelier was executed last night, the broadcast monitored in Miami said, under orders from the Havana Revolutionary Tribunal.

Mustelier was one of three men the Fidel Castro government said raided the Mosquito Military Post in Pinar del Rio Province last October in an attempt to steal a launch to flee Cuba's south coast.

When they failed, the three fled to Havana where Mustelier shot Gilberto de la Cruz Suarez, a government officer and a member of Cuba's Communist party, the broadcast said.

The radio report did not mention sentences given to Mustelier's accomplices.

London's famous Picadilly Street is only about a mile long.

Collision With Pole Injures Petaluman

A Petaluma girl was injured yesterday at 5:17 p.m. when her car struck a utility pole on D Street Extension, three miles west of Petaluma.

Katherine Eckenroad, 18, of 741 Elm Drive, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for a nose injury. The California Highway Patrol said her car hit a soft shoulder and struck the pole.

Woman's Death Related To Apparent Overdose Of Pills

A Sausalito woman whose body was found in her apartment Wednesday apparently died of an overdose of unknown drugs, Sausalito Police Capt. R. D. Malkin said today.

Malkin said the overdose conclusion is based on a preliminary pathology report and toxicology results will take another five days.

Jarmilla C. Von Kleinow, 36, was found dead Wednesday night in her apartment at 35 Crescent Avenue after a roommate who had just moved out phoned the landlord, police said. The roommate, Wyoma Kerns, 44, a hostess at the Valhalla restaurant in Sausalito, had tried to phone Miss Von Kleinow earlier but got no answer, police said.

A native of Illinois, Miss Von Kleinow was employed as a photo developer and had lived in Sausalito for six weeks. She was a divorcee.

She is survived by her mother, Marie Fuchs Von Kleinow in Chicago, and a brother, David Von Kleinow of Redwood City.

Funeral arrangements were being made in Chicago.

Closed Circuit TV Is Approved

Sonoma State College students yesterday approved spending $2,500 for a closed circuit television system by a slim 11 vote margin.

Gregory Jilka, student body vice president, said the vote tally was 215 votes for the television system and 204 votes against.

Proponents of the plan said the system could be used to broadcast cultural events, government meetings and would be available to all groups. Opponents said that better use could be made of $2,500.

Cotati Panel Rejects Single Avenue Name

A proposal to change the names of East Cotati and West Sierra avenues to Sonoma State Boulevard was rejected last night by the Cotati City Council.

Mayor Frank P. Dolinsek and Councilmen Alfred Falletti and Robert Rasmussen voted against the change and Councilmen Kenneth Garner and Morris J. Houser supported the change to honor the nearby college.

The councilmen opposed cited the many petitions and letters of protest issued by residents who did not want the inconvenience of changing addresses. College administrators also objected, saying that the future college main entrance would be off the Rohnert Park expressway and that the name of Sonoma State Boulevard would only cause confusion.

A public hearing on the proposal under one name will be held Jan. 15 at 7:30 p.m.

The Cotati City Council also:

STUDY ZONE — Approved a resolution setting the hub area as a study zone for one year to review possible zoning changes.

SERVICE STATIONS — Introduced an ordinance setting standards for service stations and requring that no more than two be placed at an intersection.

LITTER—Asked that an antilitter ordinance be prepared for council consideration.

CLEANING — Authorized the San Rafael Equipment Co. to clean the digestor at the sewage plant for $2,390.

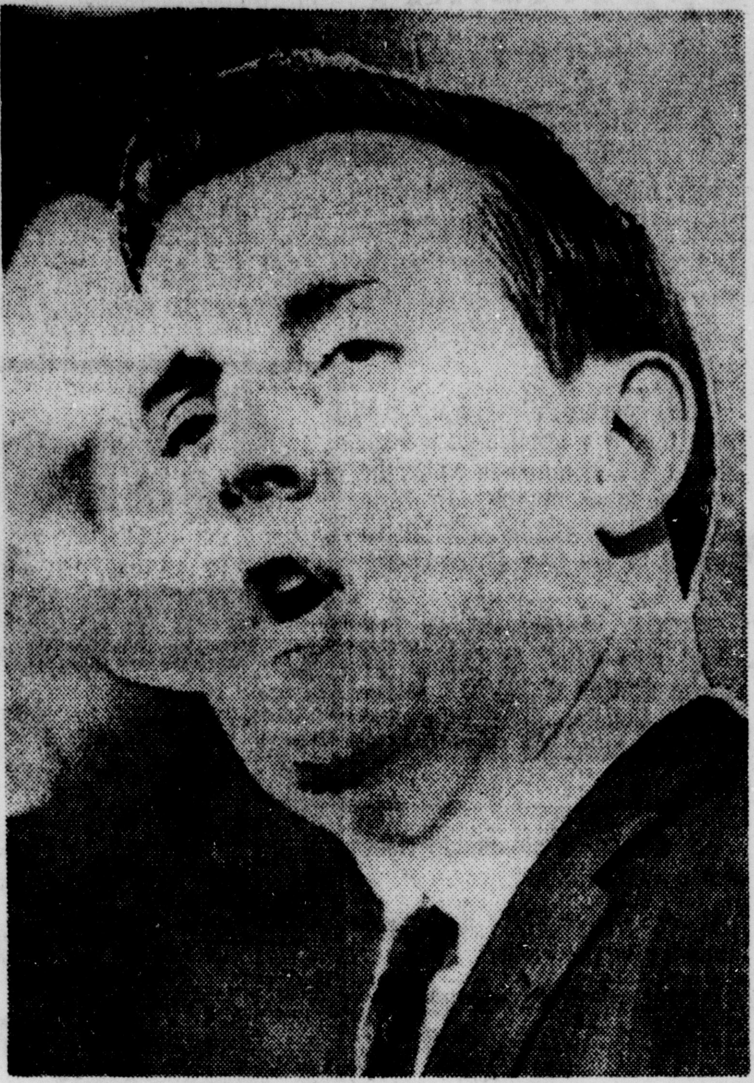
Parley Urges Nixon to Declare Nationwide Hunger Emergency

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon's White House hunger conference has told him in effect what has been done for the nation's hungry is not enough and what should be done should be done now.

The 3,000 delegates from all walks of life shouted acceptance of a statement calling on Nixon to declare a national hunger emergency, the government to guarantee an annual income floor of $5,500 and free lunch and breakfast programs for poor children.



SEN. WALTER MONDALE
"We have flattered the hungry . . ."

EMERGENCY CITED

"There is a hunger and malnutrition emergency in this country today," the conference statement said yesterday.

"Therefore, the President must immediately declare that a national hunger emergency exists, and under existing authority must now free funds and implement programs to feed all hungry Americans this winter," the statement said.

As an interim measure only all present food programs should be reformed and expanded, said the statement. This will be part of hundreds of recommendations to the President on virtually every conceivable aspect of food, nutrition and health.

SHIFTS SOUGHT

The statement also cited what many antihunger crusaders consider congressional obstruction. All food programs should be switched from the Agriculture Department to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare with corresponding shifts in congressional committee responsibilities, it said.

The President's conference chairman, Dr. Jean Mayer, said there was "an escalation of concern for the poor" at the conference, and "I am perfectly satisfied with the results."

Before the conference closed, Mayer said the President had decided to give priority to establishing food stamps in 307 U.S. counties without them and upping the allowable purchasing power of food stamps from the current $65 to $106 a month for a family of four.

In a windup speech, Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., told the delegates "We have flattered the hungry with everything except food."

"Surely if we can respond to victims of hurricanes, we can respond to the victims of hunger," the senator said.

Ecumenical Call: More Black Rights

DETROIT (AP) — "Our old ways of doing things are not adequate," says the first woman president of the National council of Churches. "There must be big changes and they must be made faster than we think possible."

One of the first changes recommended by Cynthia Wedel, elected to the church post yesterday, is the granting of a great deal more power to blacks in the organization.

She predicted they would get more power in high council posts and pledged that she would be open to guidance from them and from the young and poor.

Mrs. Wedel, an Episcopalian, was elected near the close of the interdenominational organization's triennial general assembly.

She succeeds Dr. Arthur Flemming, a Methodist, as head of the council which includes 33 Protestant and Orthodox denominations with 42 million members.

In a step toward change aimed at broadening council membership, the assembly authorized council leaders to explore with nonmember denominations their possible participation in a more flexible organization. In it, members could choose what programs they wanted to share or avoid.

Mrs. Wedel, of Alexandria, Va., a long-time ecumenical leader, voiced hope that the new steps would give rise to a fuller, freer form of Christian cooperation.

Judge Gives Alioto Probers A Reprieve

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A federal judge says authors Richard Carlson and Lance Brisson don't have to name the sources of their Look Magazine article linking San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto to the Mafia.

U.S. Dist. Judge Bruce R. Thompson said yesterday he was granting immunity to the two writers because there are "alternatives" available in the mayor's $12.5 million libel suit against the magazine.

Brisson and Carlson have refused in closed deposition sessions to tell the sources of their article. They argued to do so would endanger those sources.

Judge Thompson called each man to the stand and asked him if his decision to remain silent was unalterable. Each said it was.

The judge said that while giving them immunity for now, he said he might impose sanctions on their testimony later, including special jury instructions.

Attorney Maxwell Blecher, representing Alioto, had suggested two others—elimination of the authors' notebooks from the trial or instructions to Carlson and Brisson (and presumably to the Look editors) to tell the jury only that their information came from "an anonymous source" rather than that it came from "an anonymous police officer" or "an anonymous FBI agent."

AGNEW MEETS THE (DISTAFF) PRESS

After plinking out "Sophisticated Lady" on the piano, Vice President Spiro T. Six Plans Presented To Save Round Valley In Dam's Path

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's water chief revealed today six proposed alternative projects to the controversial high dam at Dos Rios on the Middle Fork of the Eel River which had been rejected by Reagan.

All are designed to avoid the flooding of Round Valley, Reagan's chief objection to the project as earlier proposed by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the State Department of Water Resources.

The estimated costs of all of them exceed the estimated $462 million of the original Dos Rios project, with the price tag ranging up as high as $1.24 billion.

The corps and the department want the project, or a variation, to provide flood control for the Eel River system on California's North Coast and to pump an additional 900,000 acre-feet of water into the State Water Project in the 1980s.

Avid conservationists oppose any dams or reservoirs at all in that region.

Reagan rejected the earlier Dos Rios high dam project in May, sending state water engineers back to the design stages for alternatives that would meet environmental protection standards.

The high dam would have flooded the scenic valley in Mendocino County and the town of Covelo and displaced a hundred or so Indians who live there.

The issue became one of the two most emotional environmental topics of the year.

The alternatives outlined by William R. Gianelli, state water department chief, fall into three major categories:

A small Dos Rios reservoir which does not flood the valley.

—A medium-size Dos Rios reservoir with auxiliary features that would protect the valley from flooding.

A Yellow Jacket reservoir on the lower Eel River.

The Yellow Jacket proposal is the most costly, topping the billion dollar mark, because of higher cost of facilities needed to route the water into the State Water Project, which is furnishing Central and Southern California customers with surplus water from the north.

Ten secondary alternatives were rejected for a number of reasons, Gianelli said.

The report was prepared for submission to a meeting of the State Water Commission in Los Angeles. It will undergo close examination by the legislature and the Republican governor before a new decision is reached.

The alternatives considered two possible routings of the stored water to the Sacramento-San Joaquin River Delta, the diversion point of the water into the state project aqueduct.

One goes to the east with a special holding reservoir in Glenn County. There is a southerly routing through Clear Lake with holding reservoir storage on Cache Creek.

Gianelli's 36-page report also included a table on the proposed impact of each alternative, including the size of the reservoirs and estimates on potential recreation use and what it would do to the salmon and steelhead fisheries.

Building Trades Hope To Expand Opportunity

A new effort to upgrade the building industry and to provide it with an adequate manpower was launched last night by the Marin section of the Bay Area Construction Opportunities Program, spokesman Samuel de Lisle reported today.

De Lisle said Rev. Samuel L. Banks Jr. of Marin City and Douglas Roberts of the Marin Builders Exchange will head the program to find temporary jobs for building apprentices so that when slots open up in the various segments of the industry, men will be available to fill them.

The program also will send speakers into senior classes of high schools to explain "what the building industry is all about . . . why blue collar instead of teacher or doctor or lawyer," de Lisle said.

A third phase of the program would be to establish a cooperative effort with the newly formed Marin Industry Educational Council in the area of temporary jobs.

A pilot program for pretraining minority applicants to the sheet metal industry's apprentice program was outlined at last night's BACOP meeting by Ray White, manager of the Redwood Empire Sheet Metal Association.

The program, designed to give minority applicants a head start, will commence with the 1970 building season, de Lisle said, and eventually will be extended to the rest of the industry.

BACOP representatives last night also voted to extend the Marin section of BACOP to Sonoma, Solano, Mendocino and Napa counties, de Lisle reported.

Second Divorce Action Is Filed

Edward Larry Beggs, 36, of Mill Valley, director of San Francisco's Huckleberry House for runaway youngsters, has been sued for divorce for the second time by his wife, Nina Florence.

In a suit filed Wednesday in Marin Superior Court, Mrs. Beggs charged mental cruelty and asked $250 monthly support for herself and $500 for the couple's two sons, ages 3 and 6.

Mrs. Beggs had filed suit for divorce in 1968 but dropped the action before it came to trial.

According to the new suit, the couple was married on June 15, 1959 and separated last Monday.

Mrs. Beggs' suit claims that her husband earns $1,000 a month as minister at the haven for teen-agers and another $500 a month from royalties on his book, "Huckleberry for Runaways," and from popular songs he has composed.

AGNEW MEETS THE (DISTAFF) PRESS

Six Plans Presented To Save Round Valley In Dam's Path

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gov. onald Reagan's water chief reealed today six proposed alterative projects to the controersial high dam at Dos Rios n the Middle Fork of the Eel iver which had been rejected y Reagan.

All are designed to avoid the ooding of Round Valley, Reaan's chief objection to the projct as earlier proposed by the .S. Army Corps of Engineers nd the State Department of Vater Resources.

The estimated costs of all of hem exceed the estimated $462 nillion of the original Dos Rios roject, with the price tag rangng up as high as $1.24 billion.

The corps and the department vant the project, or a variation, o provide flood control for the Eel River system on Californiа's North Coast and to pump n additional 900,000 acre-feet of vater into the State Water Project in the 1980s.

Avid conservationists oppose ny dams or reservoirs at all in hat region.

Reagan rejected the earlier Dos Rios high dam project in May, sending state water engineers back to the design stages for alternatives that would meet environmental protection standards.

The high dam would have flooded the scenic valley in Mendocino County and the town of Covelo and displaced a hundred or so Indians who live there.

The issue became one of the two most emotional environmental topics of the year.

The alternatives outlined by William R. Gianelli, state water department chief, fall into three major categories:

A small Dos Rios reservoir which does not flood the valley.

—A medium-size Dos Rios reservoir with auxiliary features that would protect the valley from flooding.

A Yellow Jacket reservoir on the lower Eel River.

The Yellow Jacket proposal is the most costly, topping the billion dollar mark, because of higher cost of facilities needed to route the water into the State Water Project, which is furnishing Central and Southern California customers with surplus water from the north.

Ten secondary alternatives were rejected for a number of reasons, Gianelli said.

The report was prepared for submission to a meeting of the State Water Commission in Los Angeles. It will undergo close examination by the legislature and the Republican governor before a new decision is reached.

The alternatives considered two possible routings of the stored water to the Sacramento-San Joaquin River Delta, the diversion point of the water into the state project aqueduct.

One goes to the east with a special holding reservoir in Glenn County. There is a southerly routing through Clear Lake with holding reservoir storage on Cache Creek.

Gianelli's 36-page report also included a table on the proposed impact of each alternative, including the size of the reservoirs and estimates on potential recreation use and what it would do to the salmon and steelhead fisheries.

Building Trades Hope To Expand Opportunity

A new effort to upgrade the building industry and to provide it with an adequate manpower was launched last night by the Marin section of the Bay Area Construction Opportunities Program, spokesman Samuel de Lisle reported today.

De Lisle said Rev. Samuel L. Banks Jr. of Marin City and Douglas Roberts of the Marin Builders Exchange will head the program to find temporary jobs for building apprentices so that when slots open up in the various segments of the industry, men will be available to fill them.

The program also will send speakers into senior classes of high schools to explain "what the building industry is all about . . . why blue collar instead of teacher or doctor or lawyer," de Lisle said.

A third phase of the program would be to establish a cooperative effort with the newly formed Marin Industry Educational Council in the area of temporary jobs.

A pilot program for pretraining minority applicants to the sheet metal industry's apprentice program was outlined at last night's BACOP meeting by Ray White, manager of the Redwood Empire Sheet Metal Association.

The program, designed to give minority applicants a head start, will commence with the 1970 building season, de Lisle said, and eventually will be extended to the rest of the industry.

BACOP representatives last night also voted to extend the Marin section of BACOP to Sonoma, Solano, Mendocino and Napa counties, de Lisle reported.

More than 17 steamship lines serve Honolulu.

Second Divorce Action Is Filed

Edward Larry Beggs, 36, of Mill Valley, director of San Francisco's Huckleberry House for runaway youngsters, has been sued for divorce for the second time by his wife, Nina Florence.

In a suit filed Wednesday in Marin Superior Court, Mrs. Beggs charged mental cruelty and asked $250 monthly support for herself and $500 for the couple's two sons, ages 3 and 6.

Mrs. Beggs had filed suit for divorce in 1968 but dropped the action before it came to trial.

According to the new suit, the couple was married on June 15, 1959 and separated last Monday.

Mrs. Beggs' suit claims that her husband earns $1,000 a month as minister at the haven for teen-agers and another $500 a month from royalties on his book, "Huckleberry for Runaways," and from popular songs he has composed.

Army-Air Force Ceremony Set For Retiring General

GEN JAMES R. WINN
To end military career

With a parade of troops from Nike missile sites from Seattle to Los Angeles and a fly-over of planes from Hamilton Air Force Base, Army Maj. Gen. James R. Winn will retire Dec. 29 at the Presidio of San Francisco.

He will end a military career of more than 35 years, the past two and a half spent in dual duty at Hamilton Air Force Base and Fort Baker.

General Winn, 59, has held the posts of commander of the Western Region of the North American Air Defense Command and of the Sixth Region Army Air Defense Command. His NORAD headquarters office was at Hamilton and his Army command office at Fort Baker.

Since the western region of NORAD was moved to Richards-Gebaur Air Force Base, Mo., on Sept. 15, General Winn was named special assistant to the chief of NORAD so that he could keep his Hamilton office.

The general and his wife, Eleanor, will give up their home at 293 Casa Grande at Hamilton when his retirement becomes official on Dec. 31. They have no definite plans for the future.

"I will look around and then move to where I find the job I want," he said. The general said he had not been looking for work after his retirement because he would be needed on the job to the last day.

His successor has not been named, he said.

General Winn was born in Kentucky and attended the University of Kentucky until entering the military academy at West Point in 1930.

"Not until the last semester of my senior year did I decide to make the Army my career," he said. At that time, it was not obligatory to serve after attending the academy, he said.

After serving in numerous command staff positions, he took his master's degree in psysics from the University of California at Los Angeles in 1941. During World War II, he served in the European theater and participated in planning the Omaha Beach campaign of the Normandy invasion. He served in campaigns of Normandy, northern France, the Rhineland, Ardennes and central Europe.

After World War II, he remained in Europe as a member of the theater general board. In 1946 he returned to the U.S. and served as executive officer of the artillery section and acting artillery officer for the First Army. He was assigned to Greece in 1948 as advisor to clear northern Greece of guerilla forces.

He returned to the U.S. in 1949 and attended the National War College. Then for three years he served in the Department of the Army. In 1953 he became chief of the joint plans section, European Command. In 1956 he was named to the Army War College faculty. He was assigned acting chief of staff of the Continental Army Command in 1960. In May 1692 he became the senior member of the United Nations Command Military Armistice Commission in Korea. He served as commanding general Second Region Army Air Defense Command until 1965 when he was assigned as chief of the joint military advisory group in the Philippines. He returned to the U.S. in 1967 when he was assigned to the two command positions in Marin County.

Attorney Blames Alioto To Black Panther Arrest

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Black Panther attorney Charles Garry has accused San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto of being "the patsy who got the show on the road" to indict David Hilliard on charges of threatening the life of President Richard M. Nixon.

Hilliard, 27, Panther chief of staff, was held in lieu of $30,000 bail today on a federal grand jury indictment charging him with threatening Nixon's life during a Nov. 15 antiwar rally in Golden Gate Park which police say 85,000 attended.

He was arrested by Secret Service agents Wednesday on an indictment saying he "referred to President Nixon as 'the man that's responsible for all the attacks on the Black Panther party nationally" and stated, 'We will kill Richard Nixon.' "

Garry said yesterday the mayor is using the Panthers as his "whipping boy" in Alioto's unofficial campaign for governor.

He said Hilliard's arrest is "part and parcel of a scheme and device to commit genocide on the Black Panther party."

Both Garry and attorney Terrence Hallinan, a leader of the New Mobilization Committee which organized the Nov. 15 rally, agree with Panther minister of information Masai Hewitt who says Hilliard was engaging in political rhetoric, not threats.

Viet Cong Set Three-Day Holiday Cease-Fires

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong announced today that its forces would observe Christmas and New Year's truces of three days each, two days longer than those proclaimed yesterday by the Saigon government.

The Viet Cong radio said the Christmas truce would start at 1 a.m. Dec. 24, (9 a.m. Dec. 23 PST), and end at 1 a.m. Dec. 27. It said the New Year's truce would run from 1 a.m. Dec. 30 to 1 a.m. Jan. 2.

President Nguyen Van Thieu proclaimed 24-hour cease-fires to start at 6 p.m. Christmas Eve and 6 p.m. New Year's Eve. The U.S. Command said American forces would join in the truce proclaimed by Thieu.

The U.S. Command said today it had received reports for the first time in the war that North Vietnamese army officers executed at least a dozen of their soldiers who tried to desert.

In a special memorandum to newsmen, the command said armed guards to prevent desertions were reported accompanying North Vietnamese units infiltrating into the South. Desertion has been a problem in the South Vietnamese army for years.

The U.S. Command said its reports came from three North Vietnamese defectors who escaped last August and September.

Two of them said they were privates, both born in Ha Tay Province and both with the North Vietnamese army's 3rd Division.

One, 17 years old, arrived in South Vietnam last March. He reported that "a number of men from his battalion deserted in North Vietnam while moving south and that 10 soldiers who attempted to desert were shot by the unit's officers," the U.S. statement said.

The other private, 32, said he arrived in the South last April and that his unit was under guard on the way down because 35 men had deserted.

The third defector, a 16-year-old guerrilla, told interrogators that he saw the bodies of two soldiers who had deserted from their unit near Hue in September and were captured by a North Vietnamese sapper battalion.

"The sapper battalion commander ordered them shot when they refused to return to their unit," the U.S. memorandum said.

The guerrilla "further stated that the North Vietnamese army cadre have increased their supervision to combat desertions while on operations in base areas and on food-gathering missions.

"This system was implemented during August in the North Vietnamese army regiment in central 1st Corps by detailing additional personnel to watch soldiers following 30 desertions from the unit in May, June and July of 1969."

Meanwhile, more fighting was reported along the Cambodian border west of Saigon.

American helicopters landed more than 100 South Vietnamese troops into a border region 103 miles west of the capital yesterday. The militiamen made contact with the North Vietnamese two miles from the border, but the only enemy casualties reported were 17 killed by U.S. helicopter gunships. The U.S. Command said one helicopter was shot down and four Americans were wounded, while in the ground fighting three of the South Vietnamese were killed and 34 wounded.

American bombers attacked North Vietnamese troops inside Cambodia Wednesday and yesterday in retaliation for enemy artillery and infantry assaults on South Vietnamese border posts, but there were no reports of air strikes inside Cambodia today.

The U.S. Command said it would have no comment on charges by Cambodia that U.S. and South Vietnamese forays into Cambodia since 1962 have killed more than 300 Cambodians and wounded 700 others. Cambodia made the charge yesterday in a white paper issued at U.N. headquarters in New York.

Weinberger Sees Catastrophe On Income Tax Shift Proposal

COMBINED AP & UPI

SACRAMENTO — The Reagan administration's top money expert says Californians could pay 85 per cent more income tax if a proposed $1 billion tax shift to the state treasury and away from the local property levy wins approval.

State Finance Director Caspar W. Weinberger made the comment in a statement yesterday presented to the Legislature's revenue and taxation committee.

Weinberger said the program co-sponsored by the California Teachers Association and the California County Supervisors Association would actually cost the state $1.13 billion.

He said the extra state money would be needed to finance education, health and welfare costs now paid for by property taxpayers.

"If the personal income tax were used—about an 85 per cent increase," said Weinberger's statement handed the committee, co-chaired by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, by Assistant Finance Director Richard W. Lazansky.

"Or, if the sales and use tax is used, about a 65 per cent increase," he added. A $1 billion tax increase recommended by the Reagan administration in 1967 hiked income taxes an average of 67 per cent, Lazansky said.

The lawmakers are seeking to write a tax reform bill acceptable to colleagues and Gov. Ronald Reagan, a task neither has been able to accomplish in the past.

The teacher-supervisor proposal would circumvent lawmakers by aiming to collect enough signatures to be submitted to voters at the June 2 primary election in the form of an initiative.

kThe highlights of the program call for increasing the existing homeowners property tax exemption from $750 to $1,000 and requiring the state to pay 50 per cent of all school costs and 90 per cent of welfare expenses.

Several other tax reform proposals were submitted during the all-day hearing, including a plan by Monterey County Supervisor Warren Church.

He would strip the counties and school districts of the property tax, except to pay off bonds. Cities and special districts would retain the real estate levy.

Church's program also calls for an increase in the state bank and corporations tax from 7 to 20 per cent, a local 2 per cent sales tax to finance education and a local income the state income tax paid.

Another proposal was made by the California Farm Bureau Federation. It urged a $2 billion boost in the personal income and business taxes to replace property taxes as a means of school support.

Viet Cong Set Three-Day Holiday Cease-Fires

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong announced today that its forces would observe Christmas and New Year's truces of three days each, two days longer than those proclaimed yesterday by the Saigon government.

The Viet Cong radio said the Christmas truce would start at 1 a.m. Dec. 24, (9 a.m. Dec. 23 PST), and end at 1 a.m. Dec. 27. It said the New Year's truce would run from 1 a.m. Dec. 30 to 1 a.m. Jan. 2.

Senators Retain Tax Help For Foundations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted overwhelmingly today to eliminate from the tax reform bill a provision that would have ended the tax exemption privilege for private foundations after 40 years. Opponents had called the provision "a death sentence" for the foundations.

The action came before the Senate was set to consider adding an amendment to the bill to increase Social Security benefits Jan. 1 by 15 per cent—an action a ranking Republican senator said would increase the chances of a presidential veto of the entire bill.

The Finance Committee had approved the foundation provision after hearing testimony that hundreds of foundations had been set up for tax evasion purposes.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., arguing to eliminate the provision, said, "If you keep this you're going to destroy something that is fine and noble in America."

"Don't burn down the barn just to get one mouse," he shouted.

Before the 69-18 vote on the foundations, acting Senate GOP Leader Robert P. Griffin told newsmen he "wouldn't bet against" a presidential veto if the Social Security increase were added to the bill.

The Democrats, moving rapidly to steal the march on Republicans, prepared the Social Security rider yesterday, hoping to get it into position for adoption today. GOP senators were believed to have been planning a similar move.

Tacking a 15 per cent increase onto the tax bill "could be a clever political move," Griffin said, "but is not the way to help senior citizens."

"This matter ought to be handled alone and not as part of tax reform," he added. "It can only jeopardize tax reform."

The administration has called for a 10 per cent increase in benefits effective next April.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of Finance, said there was no question the Senate would approve the Social Security rider.

Long and Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., chief sponsors of the amendment said they were convinced this procedure was the best way to assure passage of the Social Security boost before the 1969 session ends.

NEW HOME FOR NONAME

Noname, the orange and black cat rescued from starvation on a Mill Valley street in July, is comforted by her new owner, Elizabeth Weedon, during a cautious introduction to one of three cats — and a dog — already prowling the Weedon household in Mill Valley. Another Mill Valleyan, Virginia Howard, found the cat, nursed it back to health, then weighed more than a dozen offers — which came in response to a story in the Independent-Journal — for a permanent home for Noname. Finally, she accepted Miss Weedon's bid and turned the cat over "complete with instructions on home care, Noname's pan, dishes and blanket ... both cat and I crying. I love that peanut." Congress Tries To Avert Callback After Christmas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairmen of the House and Senate appropriations committees say Congress can complete work on money bills this year without a post-Christmas special session threatened by President Richard M. Nixon.

The President, meeting Thursday with Republican congressional leaders, warned he might call a special session for Dec. 26 unless all appropriations bills were acted on.

"The President is very firm that action must be taken," Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott told reporters.

Although only five of the year's 13 regular money bills have cleared Congress, Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the House committee, said "I see no serious problem. It's our responsibility to do it and we will."

But the usually optimistic Mike Mansfield, Senate Democratic leader, told a reporter "it's going to be nip and tuck."

The keys, he said, are the $70 billion defense appropriations bill, scheduled for House action early next week, and the bill covering the departments of labor, and health, education and welfare, scheduled to be marked up by the Senate committee next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Both contain controversial provisions, including funds for the Safeguard ABM system in the defense bill and desegregation riders in the Labor-HEW measure.

Besides the appropriations bills, House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said Nixon is considering calling Congress back if there is no movement on his anticrime proposals.

Although Mansfield has talked about ending the session Dec. 23, and House leaders have hoped for Dec. 19, Ford said "Under the current circumstances, we will have to be here Christmas eve."

$190 Tool Theft

A burglar who broke into a construction shack at Larch and Kale roads in Bolinas either Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning took tools valued at $190, sheriff's officers said today. The tools belonged to contractor Robert L. Jones.

Yule Deadline Predicted On Tax Reforms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief House tax architect says despite major alterations made by the Senate in the tax reform bill, Congress will agree on legislation and send it to the President before Christmas.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, said in an interview: "We simply have to finish it.

"There would be too much confusion if we did not—for example on withholding the surtax after Dec. 31," the Arkansas Democrat added.

One provision in the massive bill continues the income surtax at 5 per cent through June 30, 1970. The current 10 per cent surtax expires Dec. 31.

The Senate is scheduled to finish its work on the bill not later than next week.

This would leave only a week and a half for a conference between the two bodies to reconcile the differences and for final action in both chambers before Christmas.

"We'd have to work late, but we could do it," Mills said.

NEW HOME FOR NONAME

Noname, the orange and black cat rescued from starvation on a Mill Valley street in July, is comforted by her new owner, Elizabeth Weedon, during a cautious introduction to one of three cats — and a dog — already prowling the Weedon household in Mill Valley. Another Mill Valleyan, Virginia Howard, found the cat, nursed it back to health, then weighed more than a dozen offers — which came in response to a story in the Independent-Journal — for a permanent home for Noname. Finally, she accepted Miss Weedon's bid and turned the cat over "complete with instructions on home care, Noname's pan, dishes and blanket ... both cat and I crying. I love that peanut." Congress Tries To Avert Callback After Christmas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairmen of the House and Senate appropriations committees say Congress can complete work on money bills this year without a post-Christmas special session threatened by President Richard M. Nixon.

The President, meeting Thursday with Republican congressional leaders, warned he might call a special session for Dec. 26 unless all appropriations bills were acted on.

"The President is very firm that action must be taken," Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott told reporters.

Although only five of the year's 13 regular money bills have cleared Congress, Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the House committee, said "I see no serious problem. It's our responsibility to do it and we will."

But the usually optimistic Mike Mansfield, Senate Democratic leader, told a reporter "it's going to be nip and tuck."

The keys, he said, are the $70 billion defense appropriations bill scheduled for House action early next week, and the bill covering the departments of labor, and health, education and welfare, scheduled to be marked up by the Senate committee next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Both contain controversial provisions, including funds for the Safeguard ABM system in the defense bill and desegregation riders in the Labor-HEW measure.

Besides the appropriations bills, House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said Nixon is considering calling Congress back if there is no movement on his anticrime proposals.

Although Mansfield has talked about ending the session Dec. 23, and House leaders have hoped for Dec. 19, Ford said "Under the current circumstances, we will have to be here Christmas eve."

$190 Tool Theft

A burglar who broke into a construction shack at Larch and Kale roads in Bolinas either Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning took tools valued at $190, sheriff's officers said today. The tools belonged to contractor Robert L. Jones.

Yule Deadline Predicted On Tax Reforms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief House tax architect says despite major alterations made by the Senate in the tax reform bill, Congress will agree on legislation and send it to the President before Christmas.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, said in an interview: "We simply have to finish it.

"There would be too much confusion if we did not—for example on withholding the surtax after Dec. 31," the Arkansas Democrat added.

One provision in the massive bill continues the income surtax at 5 per cent through June 30, 1970. The current 10 per cent surtax expires Dec. 31.

The Senate is scheduled to finish its work on the bill not later than next week.

This would leave only a week and a half for a conference between the two bodies to reconcile the differences and for final action in both chambers before Christmas.

"We'd have to work late, but we could do it," Mills said.

Senators Retain Tax Help For Foundations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted overwhelmingly today to eliminate from the tax reform bill a provision that would have ended the tax exemption privilege for private foundations after 40 years. Opponents had called the provision "a death sentence" for the foundations.

The action came before the Senate was set to consider adding an amendment to the bill to increase Social Security benefits Jan. 1 by 15 per cent—an action a ranking Republican senator said would increase the chances of a presidential veto of the entire bill.

The Finance Committee had approved the foundation provision after hearing testimony that hundreds of foundations had been set up for tax evasion purposes.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., arguing to eliminate the provision, said, "If you keep this you're going to destroy something that is fine and noble in America."

"Don't burn down the barn just to get one mouse," he shouted.

Before the 69-18 vote on the foundations, acting Senate GOP Leader Robert P. Griffin told newsmen he "wouldn't bet against" a presidential veto if the Social Security increase were added to the bill.

The Democrats, moving rapidly to steal the march on Republicans, prepared the Social Security rider yesterday, hoping to get it into position for adoption today. GOP senators were believed to have been planning a similar move.

Tacking a 15 per cent increase onto the tax bill "could be a clever political move," Griffin said, "but is not the way to help senior citizens."

"This matter ought to be handled alone and not as part of tax reform," he added. "It can only jeopardize tax reform."

The administration has called for a 10 per cent increase in benefits effective next April.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of Finance, said there was no question the Senate would approve the Social Security rider.

Long and Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., chief sponsors of the amendment said they were convinced this procedure was the best way to assure passage of the Social Security boost before the 1969 session ends.

Short School's 'Magic Room'

By BETH GAEDDERT

Marin Women

"Then, suddenly again, Christopher Robin, who was still looking at the world, with his chin in his hands, called out 'Pooh'!"

"Yes?" said Pooh.

"When I'm — when — Pooh!"

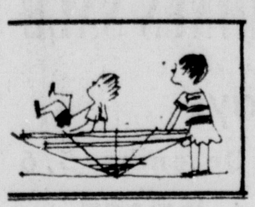
"Yes, Christopher Robin?"

"I'm not going to do Nothing any more."

"Never again?"

"Well, not so much. They don't let you."

One of those places where "they don't let you do nothing" is school. And sometimes after going a while you forget how to "do nothing." Then when you grow up and have plenty of leisure time it may be hard to remember what to do with it.



This concerned some San Rafael parents who are looking ahead to when their children, who now attend Short School, will have more leisure time than ever before.

So, with the cooperation of the teachers and administration of the school, the Parent-Teacher Association, under the guidance of Mrs. Ardys Kirsch and Mrs. Thomas Place, has transformed a spare classroom at the school into a "Magic Room" where members hope "the process of creativity will flow freely." They also hope the room will provide children with a little practice at real life.

"In their future there will be so many stimuli they will have to know how to sort it all out and decide what really will become part of their lives," Mrs. Kirsch said.

"It's frightening when a child comes in, sees all the activities and then waits to be told what to do," she said.

One little boy walked into the room, went from the chalk board, to the pile of wood blocks, to the typewriter, to the paints and said, "But there is nothing to do." No one gave him instruction and he ended up having an imaginary three-way interplanetary conversation with three scientists on the old telephones.

Another first grade boy found a box of sewing supplies and was seen sewing up a rip in another boy's jeans — while he had them on.

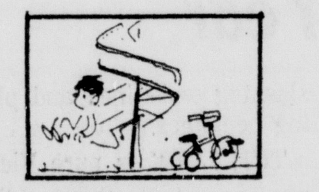
The volunteer staff, who are there only to prevent injury and answer questions, will not make directive suggestions or criticism.

Future plans are to invite local artists to spend a day at the Magic Room.

"It won't be like a lecture. The artist will be here and if the kids are interested, fine. If not, okay," Mrs. Kirsch explained.

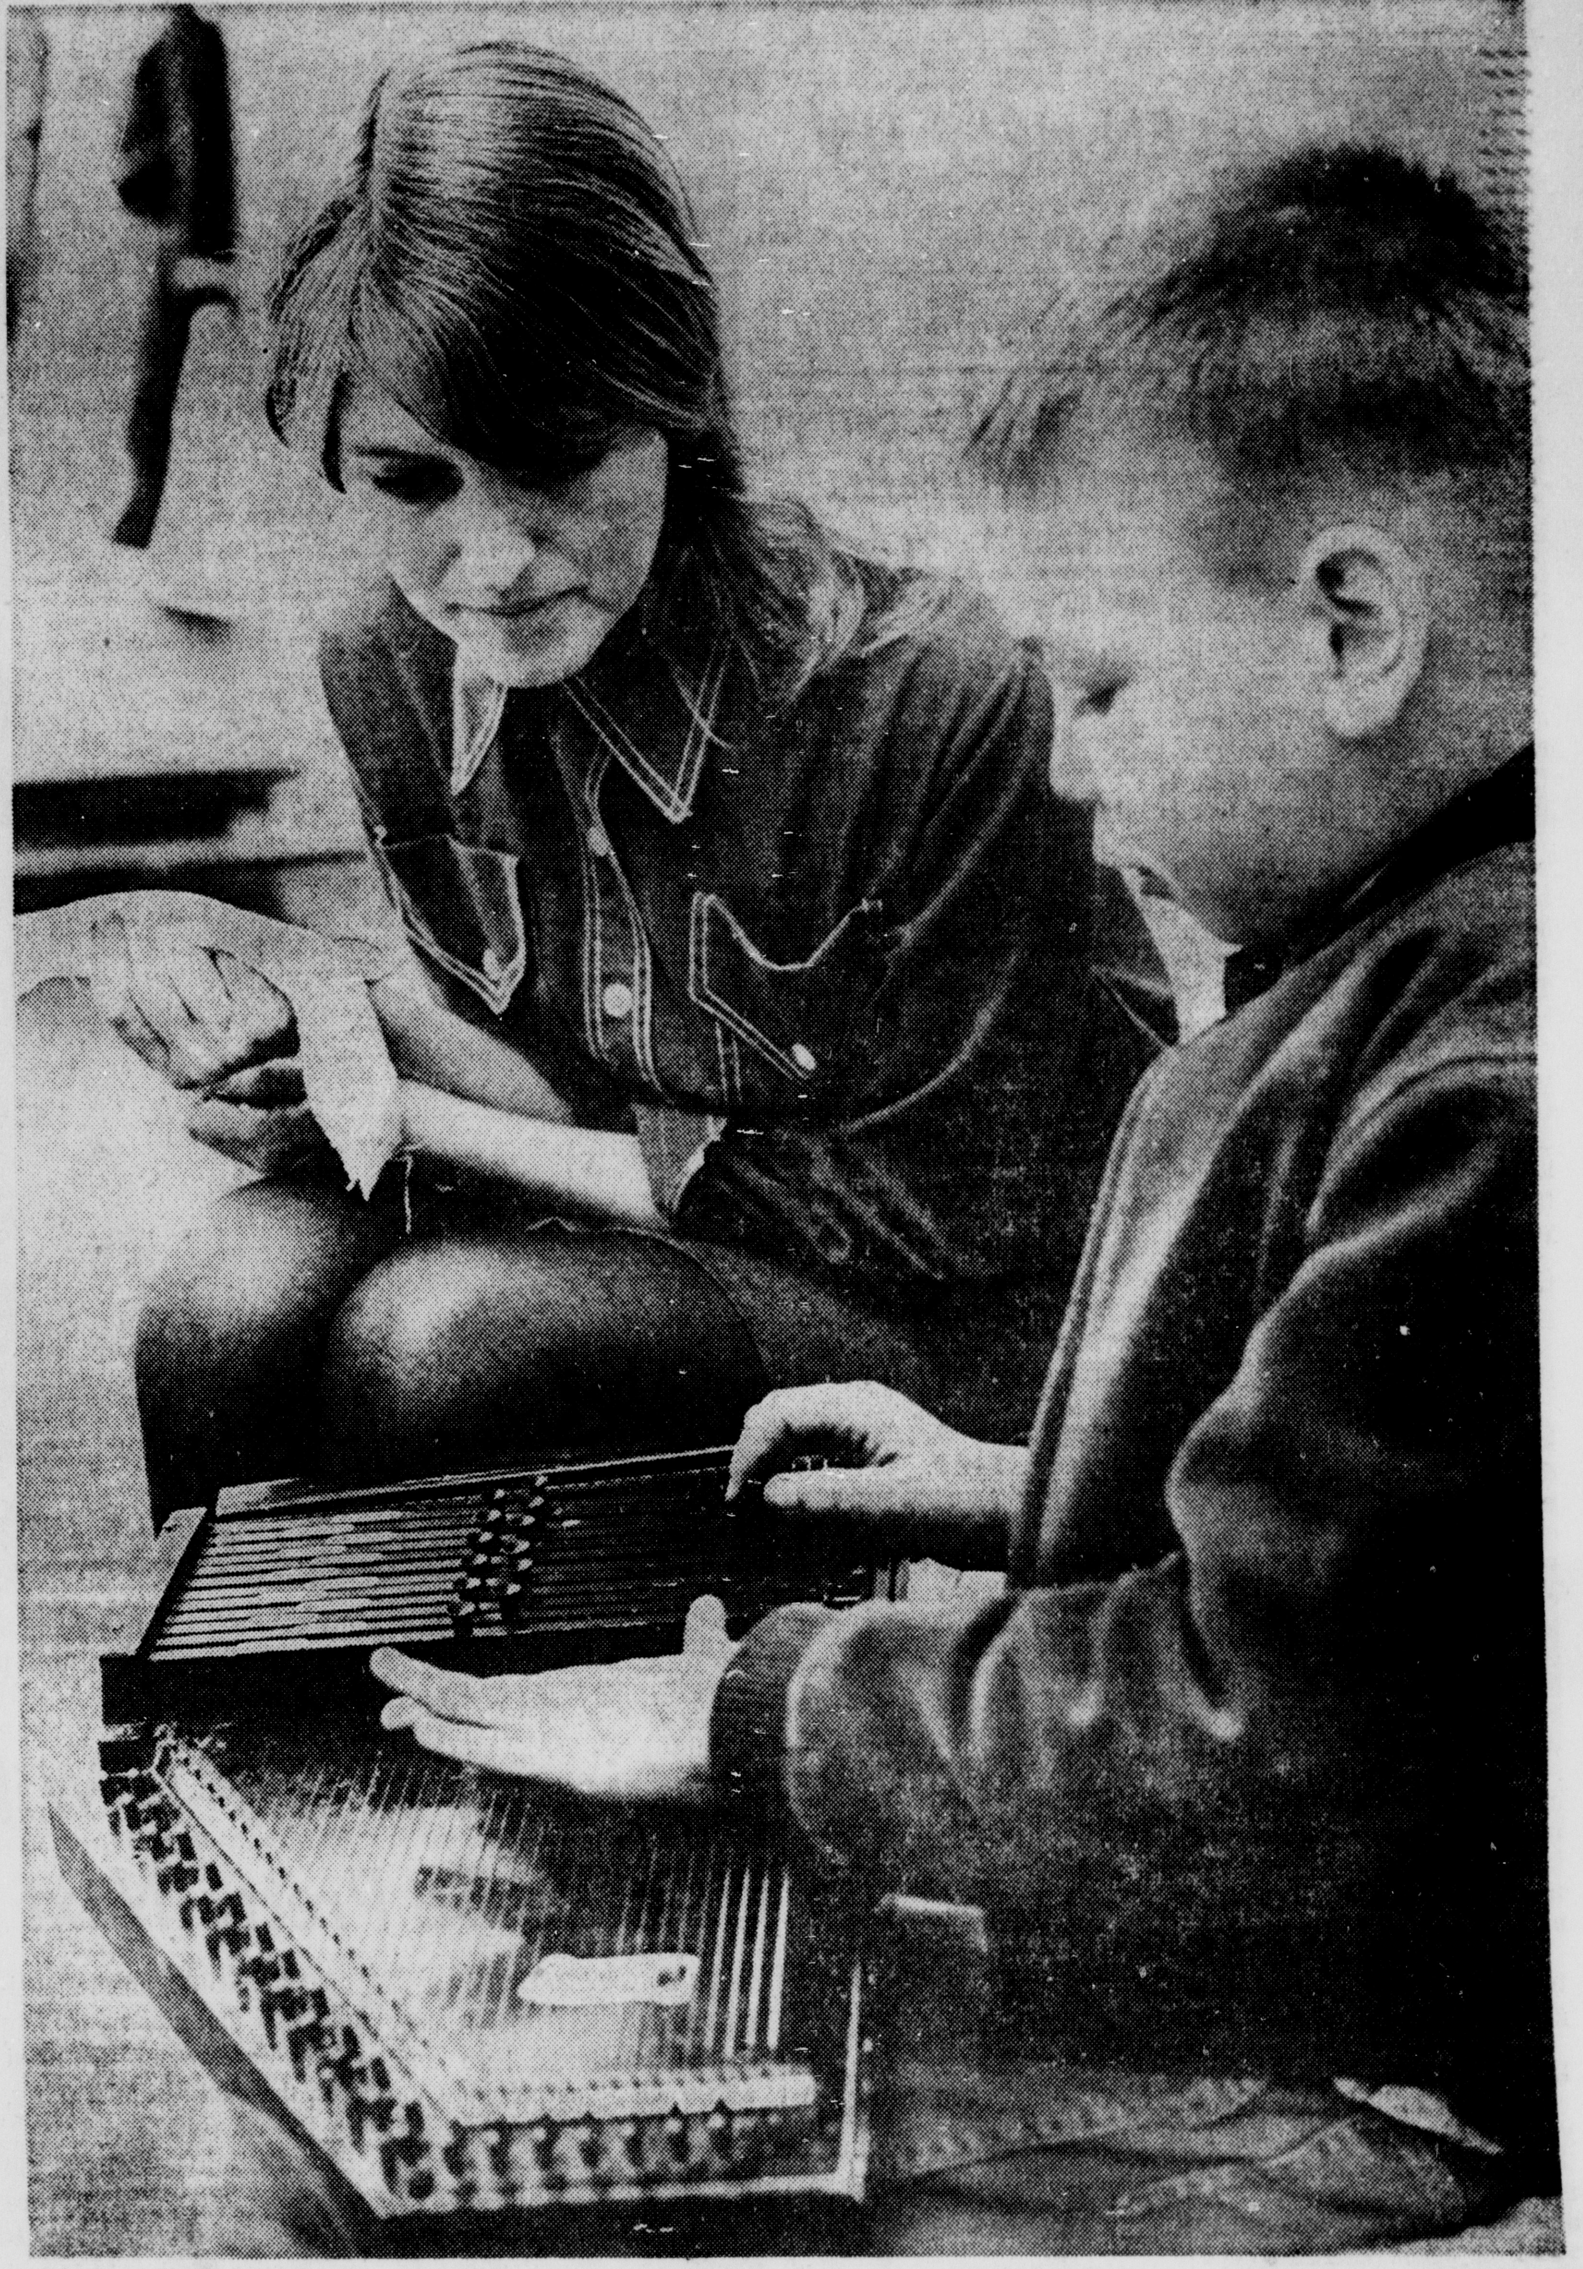
All the room's supplies have been donated or purchased by the PTA at an educational surplus store in the East Bay.

On a trial basis, small groups of children have been spending 40 minutes in the room for the past two weeks. The staff will meet with teachers to get feed-back on the room from the first, second and third graders who attend the school, and also to discuss the possibility of using the room as a place to send children who are disrupting the classroom.



An earlier project of the P-TA was to paint the walls of the restrooms with storybook characters in colorful psychedelic style.

SAWING AWAY in the most popular corner of Short School's Magic Room is John Pfeiffer, a third grader. With him is Mrs. Thomas Place, one of the San Rafael P-TA members who transformed an empty classroom into a place where the school's first, second and third graders could come and explore things like a pile of wood, musical instruments, old telephones and a typewriter.



THE SOUNDS of a zither fascinate Michael Selby, a third grader, who is making his first visit to the Magic Room. He first typed on an old typewriter and was assisted only when he couldn't find the "e." A volunteer staff member and a creator of the room, Mrs. Ardys Kirsch, talks with Michael but does not instruct or criticize.

Working Wives Pay Social Security But Don't Receive The Benefits

DEAR HELEN:

Last year your column carried quite a controversy about how working wives pay into Social Security, money they may never get back. Wives were urged to write their congressmen. Better late than never, I finally did — and learned that I will receive only a few dollars more upon retirement than if I had never worked and paid in, but only collected the amount due me as a non-working wife. The only way I can collect is to become disabled or die early.

It boils down to this: Working wives are penalized. If HEW doesn't feel we should receive Social Security payments, then it should at least return to us the money paid in over the years.

Anything new on the subject, Helen? — MRS. L. R.

DEAR MRS. R:

A note from Rep. Edward J. Patten says in part:

"Dear Mrs. Bottel: I would like to bring you up to date on the progress that has been made on the bill to provide increased benefits for working wives. The House Ways and Means Committee has started public hearings on a broad Social Security reform bill. I am advocating enactment as a provision within that broad bill the provision for working wives . . . so that, within the limits of available funds, it will permit a married couple to get some additional return for the additional taxes paid on the wife's earnings."

If you working wives are interested, a note to your congressman might help. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Can a man have too many godchildren? I'm beginning to think so. I am godfather to 10 of my brothers' and sisters' children and now my nephew has asked me again. There's no end in sight, what with my godchildren getting children of their own.

I've been told it's an honor, but considering the offering to the priest, the present to the baby and presents for everyone at Christmas and birthdays, this honor is becoming costly. — HONORED

DEAR HONORED:

Let your large family know that godfathers should be younger men. You've been honored quite enough. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm depressed by the attitude of so many American women. They are headstrong, power hungry, and don't seem to realize it is nature's normal plan that man should dominate. When a patriarchal household is reversed or interfered with, the "weak father, strong mother" syndrome results in damaged children.

In no other nation does woman hold as much power or authority as in America, and America has more than the international percentage of homosexuals. — SOCIOLOGIST

DEAR SOCIOLOGIST:

What's the matter with a democracy where each has his or her area of authority, but everyone shares in the big decisions? Or would this threaten your king complex? — H.

Fashions For '70—It Will Be Chic To Be Pretty Next Year

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—A new decade is almost here and with it comes an old, familiar word in fashion—the word pretty.

Pretty is a tame adjective to describe spring 1970 trends in feminine apparel, but that is what's happening after an era of tough harsh clothes with a lot of construction. Now, the fewer the seams, the better the collections.

"It's going to be chic to be pretty. It's going to be stylish to be feminine," says designer Ceil Chapman, a long time proponent of the girly look and fabled for her evening clothes.

TO BE SURE, all the fanciful things that marked the late 60's still are around—the maxi coat, the mini and midi skirts, the trouser suits.

But the soft wave is on the way, say most of the designers and manufacturers participating in this week's series of shows for the nation's fashion press, radio and television representatives.

The frills are back in the form of ruffled necklines and sleeves, starched lacy trims, the familiar white touches on navy. And with it all, for evening, designers again are cutting big flattering sleeves, slashing waistlines and plunging necklines.

THE LOOK is pure Victoriana, except for the necklines. Even the hair styles are effected by this "pretty" look—the hottest style in the big salons is the Gibson Girl, piled high onto the crown and up off the neck except for a few tenrils, copied right from Charles Dana Gibson's drawings.

Toupee Business Is Booming Now

With the accent so definitely on hairy headed men, business for the toupee specialists is booming.

But according to a survey on the instant thatch makers, their customers aren't just bald men.

Said one firm, "Our best selling wig this year has been a long-haired wig for men who have to have short-back-and-sides during the days."

But the instant hair craze doesn't stop at neatly groomed city gents who swing at weekends.

One wig manufacturing firm admitted that they had received discreet inquiries for hand-made chest wigs.

Toupee Business Is Booming Now

With the accent so definitely on hairy headed men, business for the toupee specialists is booming.

But according to a survey on the instant thatch makers, their customers aren't just bald men.

Said one firm, "Our best selling wig this year has been a long-haired wig for men who have to have short-back-and-sides during the days."

But the instant hair craze doesn't stop at neatly groomed city gents who swing at weekends.

One wig manufacturing firm admitted that they had received discreet inquiries for hand-made chest wigs.

OPERATION STORK UNDERWAY

BUTCH AND THE KID IN GUNFIGHT

"Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" is currently playing at the Rafael Theater in San Rafael. It features Paul Newman, Katherine Ross and Robert Redford. The theater management says the film is setting a new long-run record for San Rafael, surpassing those of "Bullitt" and "Goldfinger."

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies currently being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and the Film Report of the Film Estimate Board unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

"Darby O'Gill and the Little People" — Leprechaun antics, magic, comedy and pleasant romance all woven together in this lively Irish fantasy by Disney.

"King Kong vs. Godzilla" — A silly but harmless Japanese science-fiction mishmash, with inept dubbing, bad acting making this film ridiculously amateurish. Production can only be considered an absurd joke.

"Never a Dull Moment" — In this Disney farce, Dick Van Dyke, a struggling young actor is mistaken for a notorious thief and forced to steal a priceless oil painting. There is a hilarious finale.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Alice's Restaurant" — Thought provoking true happening in New England village in 1964-67. Story told with implied criticism of Establishment and its follies, shows the immature, uncommitted, unmotivated hippies in their own milieu, enjoying their pot with sexual abandon and harming only themselves. For the most mature teens only.

"Blood of Dracula's Castle" — A nephew inherits the castle complete with tenants that are vampires, beautiful girls chained to an underground wall, moon-lit blood sacrifices, etc, etc. (Box-office Magazine.)

"Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" — With script based on reputedly true of two bandits, this western is almost farcical in tone and documentary in presentation. The outlaws take their trade to Bolivia with mixed results. Good dialogue. Film does not deny the violence attendant on their lives and deaths. Memorable performances from cast.

"Nightmare in Wax" — A Hollywood makeup man disfigured in a studio accident opens a wax museum. Several of his wax figures are alive, paralyzed by injections. (Boxoffice Magazine)

"Planet of the Apes" — Provocative mixture of comedy, satire and melodamatic but cynical science fiction about our astronauts who crash land on a desolate planet in an era 2,000 years hence.

"True Grit" — Amusing satiric western about a determined 14-year-old girl's attempt to track down her father's murderer. Violence and rough language are an integral part of story.

BORDERLINE

(most sources say Adults Only)

"Chamber of Horrors" — Lurid and gruesome period thriller. Murderer escapes by chopping off his manacled hand and then seeks revenge.

"Medium Cool" — Compelling, disturbing film that blends the facts in quasidocumentary fashion, of the 1968 Democratic National convention, plus a fictional story. A long interval of nude love play is regrettable.

"WATER HOLE #3" — An irreverent, bawdy satire of the great American western is offbeat. A steady stream of broad, bold unabashed sexy humor.

ADULTS ONLY

"Barbarella" — As a character taken from a French comic strip, Jane Fonda steps daintily through the polluted world of sex, sadism and perversion in this pseudo science fiction setting of the distant future. Mediocre production.

"Easy Rider" — Two dope pushers take a motorcycle trip from Los Angeles to New Orleans. Film relates their experiences which provide much soul searching about man's inhumanity to man.

"I Am Curious, Yellow" — Complex movie-within-a-movie structure is somewhat confusing and laborious. A Swedish social expose which received undue publicity when seized by customs because of explicit treatment of sex, depicting intercourse and oral-genital contact full view, full length and minus strategic shadows or cutaways. Even for sophisticates who are not offended, there is just too much bare sex for one film. (Parents Magazine).

Freedom Plan In Senate Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commission on Civil Rights has urged senators to strip from an education spending bill a clause that would, in effect, legalize the freedom-of-choice method of desegregation.

Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, commission chairman, told a Senat appropriations subcommittee that freedom-of-choice plans "are designed to continue the very segregation which has been held unconstitutional."

He testified against an amendment tacked on in the House by Rep. Jamie L. Whitten, D-Miss. Among other things, it would prohibit the federal government from forcing school districts to abandon freedom-of-choice plans before federal school funds are released.

Charge Challenged Over Trial Delay

Joe Willie Andrew Cole, 47, of Rohnert Park, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of possessing a check with intent to defraud on March 17, 1967.

His attorney moved that the charge be dismissed for failure of the district attorney's office to prosecute in a reasonable length of time, and Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. set a hearing on the motion and a preliminary hearing for Dec. 9.

'Barefoot In The Park' Roles Filled

The Neil Simon play will be presented at 8:30 p.m., Feb. 13, 14, 20 and 21 at the Novato Community House.

Deadly Illness Aids Race Relations

LONDON (London Express News Service) — 1941: An Indian army unit is isolated in the Burmese jungle by the teeming monsoons.

Their 20-year-old British officer is close to death, wracked by malaria and dysentery. Somewhere near the Japanese are waiting.

The officer hovered between life and death for 10 days. He would have died, but for the care of his soldiers. They were all Indians.

The officer is now Prof. Hugh Tinker, who next year takes over the directorship of Britain's Institute of Race Relations.

As he recalled the incident in the institute's London board room, Tinker, now 48, seemed to realize for the first time that it had been the inspiration for his career, which has alway been linked with the theme of race relations.

"My unit was completely cut off. The monsoons had saved us from the Japanese, but they left us stranded without communication.

"The Indians could have left me to die. I had three types of malaria and two of dysentery. I would not have survived had it not been for them.

"I didn't see a British face for three months. Only brown faces. I was the only white officer among 100 Indians.

"That experience left me with rather more affection than some people for brown faces, though I didn't realize at the time the influence it would have on me."

Tinker — a humanist, academician, author, politician and historian — is an optimist about race relations.

He does not think, for example, that Britain has a race problem. He thinks it most unlikely that the Negro riots of the United States will be duplicated in Britain.

But he believes that internal racial conditions are spinning off into international relations.

The predicament of Negroes in the United States has affected America's relations with Africa. The situation of Indians and Pakistanis in Great Britain is affecting Britain's relations with India and Pakistan.

He sees a growing alignment between black and brown countries, and alienation from white countries; the black and brown representing poverty, the white, wealth and affluence.

The Russians' distrust of Chinese Communism, he believes, also has race overtones, as does the Chinese treatment of Westerners who have experienced their prisons. "The Chinese have always had a feeling of superiority to the 'red faced barbarians,' the Westerners."

Though optimistic about the future of Britain's colored migrants, Tinker recognizes that legislation alone cannot create harmony; that racial intolerance is stronger among members of the working class who have the most immediate contact with immigrants. He agrees that advocates of racial harmony can tend to be "ivory tower" in their attitudes, failing to get through to the ordinary people.

He agrees on one point with Tory M.P. Enoch Powell, principal opponent of colored immigration.

The public must decide Britain's immigration policies. The citizens capacity to do so, he claims, has been taken out of their hands in the past 20 years by policy-makers and opinion-formers who have got out of touch with the man-in-the-street. This has bred resentment against organizations working for integration.

The Institute of Race Relations would strive to associate its activities and research with the common people.

It was bound to get caught up in political and public controversy.

Tinker is not frightened of politics or controversy. He has twice, unsuccessfully, stood for Parliament.

He recognizes the mistakes which can be made and offers realistic measures to prevent them. He will approach his new role in the institute with two main goals: to get race relations taught in British universities and schools, and to undertake specialized research into race problems in Britain and overseas.

Britain's great hope, he says, is the young generation.

Young people, unlike their elders, have grown up with the color "problem" (his inflection puts quotation marks around the word), are prepared to live with a mixed society and want to improve it. They are not interested in phony solutions.

He really believes that tolerance can be taught.

Does he feel at ease with a black man?

He admits that often he does not. "One has to speak across a barrier of culture and colonialism. We have been the masters for 200 years, they the slaves. We have to surmount the barrier," he says.

Tinker has spent 30 years living and working with Asians in India and Burma. He honestly regards them as equals. He likes to believe they regard him as an equal.

His Indian army experience (from 1941 to 1945) has left him with a strong distaste for racial prejudice.

He had to earn the trust of the Indian officers who resented working under or with Britishers. They felt a continual sense of servitude. With progressive, planned education systems, he believes these barriers can be broken down.

Tinker regards Enoch Powell's picture of a future Britain with black ghettoes in the cities with incredulity. It horrifies him. He refuses to accept such a possibility.

He is sympathetic to the American black power movement, but says both black and white violence must be eliminated. He interprets the "enslavement of 40 million Africans by whites" as a form of violence.

South Africa's apartheid state represents the worst threat to international racial harmony, he says with vehemence.

He believes that people should be taught that different races are different and should be accepted for their diversities, as equals.

The traditional test of prejudice: Would he be happy if one of his sons married a colored girl?

The professor's hesitation was fractional. The prospect had not occurred to him.

But he answered with characteristic directness: "I married the woman I chose. My sons will marry the women they choose. If one of them chooses a colored woman, if he loves her and she loves him, I shall await the conclusion with interest."

Deadly Illness Aids Race Relations

LONDON (London Express News Service) — 1941: An Indian army unit is isolated in the Burmese jungle by the teeming monsoons.

Their 20-year-old British officer is close to death, wracked by malaria and dysentery. Somewhere near the Japanese are waiting.

The officer hovered between life and death for 10 days. He would have died, but for the care of his soldiers. They were all Indians.

The officer is now Prof. Hugh Tinker, who next year takes over the directorship of Britain's Institute of Race Relations.

As he recalled the incident in the institute's London board room, Tinker, now 48, seemed to realize for the first time that it had been the inspiration for his career, which has alway been linked with the theme of race relations.

"My unit was completely cut off. The monsoons had saved us from the Japanese, but they left us stranded without communication.

"The Indians could have left me to die. I had three types of malaria and two of dysentery. I would not have survived had it not been for them.

"I didn't see a British face for three months. Only brown faces. I was the only white officer among 100 Indians.

"That experience left me with rather more affection than some people for brown faces, though I didn't realize at the time the influence it would have on me."

Tinker — a humanist, academician, author, politician and historian — is an optimist about race relations.

He does not think, for example, that Britain has a race problem. He thinks it most unlikely that the Negro riots of the United States will be duplicated in Britain.

But he believes that internal racial conditions are spinning off into international relations.

The predicament of Negroes in the United States has affected America's relations with Africa. The situation of Indians and Pakistanis in Great Britain is affecting Britain's relations with India and Pakistan.

He sees a growing alignment between black and brown countries, and alienation from white countries; the black and brown representing poverty, the white, wealth and affluence.

The Russians' distrust of Chinese Communism, he believes, also has race overtones, as does the Chinese treatment of Westerners who have experienced their prisons. "The Chinese have always had a feeling of superiority to the 'red faced barbarians,' the Westerners."

Though optimistic about the future of Britain's colored migrants, Tinker recognizes that legislation alone cannot create harmony; that racial intolerance is stronger among members of the working class who have the most immediate contact with immigrants. He agrees that advocates of racial harmony can tend to be "ivory tower" in their attitudes, failing to get through to the ordinary people.

He agrees on one point with Tory M.P. Enoch Powell, principal opponent of colored immigration.

The public must decide Britain's immigration policies. The citizens capacity to do so, he claims, has been taken out of their hands in the past 20 years by policy-makers and opinion-formers who have got out of touch with the man-in-the-street. This has bred resentment against organizations working for integration.

The Institute of Race Relations would strive to associate its activities and research with the common people.

It was bound to get caught up in political and public controversy.

Tinker is not frightened of politics or controversy. He has twice, unsuccessfully, stood for Parliament.

He recognizes the mistakes which can be made and offers realistic measures to prevent them. He will approach his new role in the institute with two main goals: to get race relations taught in British universities and schools, and to undertake specialized research into race problems in Britain and overseas.

Britain's great hope, he says, is the young generation.

Young people, unlike their elders, have grown up with the color "problem" (his inflection puts quotation marks around the word), are prepared to live with a mixed society and want to improve it. They are not interested in phony solutions.

He really believes that tolerance can be taught.

Does he feel at ease with a black man?

He admits that often he does not. "One has to speak across a barrier of culture and colonialism. We have been the masters for 200 years, they the slaves. We have to surmount the barrier," he says.

Tinker has spent 30 years living and working with Asians in India and Burma. He honestly regards them as equals. He likes to believe they regard him as an equal.

His Indian army experience (from 1941 to 1945) has left him with a strong distaste for racial prejudice.

He had to earn the trust of the Indian officers who resented working under or with Britishers. They felt a continual sense of servitude. With progressive, planned education systems, he believes these barriers can be broken down.

Tinker regards Enoch Powell's picture of a future Britain with black ghettoes in the cities with incredulity. It horrifies him. He refuses to accept such a possibility.

He is sympathetic to the American black power movement, but says both black and white violence must be eliminated. He interprets the "enslavement of 40 million Africans by whites" as a form of violence.

South Africa's apartheid state represents the worst threat to international racial harmony, he says with vehemence.

He believes that people should be taught that different races are different and should be accepted for their diversities, as equals.

The traditional test of prejudice: Would he be happy if one of his sons married a colored girl?

The professor's hesitation was fractional. The prospect had not occurred to him.

But he answered with characteristic directness: "I married the woman I chose. My sons will marry the women they choose. If one of them chooses a colored woman, if he loves her and she loves him, I shall await the conclusion with interest."

Leader Of Religious Cult Succumbs At 96

SAN JOSE (UPI) — William Edward Riker, a self-styled religious cultist who founded Holy City in the Santa Cruz Mountains, died Wednesday at Agnew State Hospital. He was 96.

Riker, who ran unsuccessfully for governor of California five times in an effort to carry out his plan for perfect government, was born in Oakdale and moved to San Francisco as a young man.

There, long-haired and bearded, he plied the streets as a seller of wares until 1915, when he and a group of disciples opened headquarters of Perfect Christian Divine Way, Inc.

After a series of legal problems with police and neighbors, Riker and his followers developed Holy City in 1918 on a 186-acre tract in the hills above Los Gatos. It became one of the most colorful tourist attractions in the West.

Riker's distinction as a man of religion was dubious. At various times, Holy City was charged with operating a free love colony, a child brutality camp and a white supremist political center.

In 1942 Riker was charged with six counts of sedition by the federal government for allegedly trying to persuade several soldiers not to fight against Hitler. He was tried and acquitted.

Holy City suffered a straggering blow in the 1940s, when the State Division of Highways routed a new expressway past the kingdom.

Riker later was involved in a series of squabbles with his disciples and in 1966 underwent a conditional baptism into Catholicism. He was forsaken by followers who had previously hailed him as "the wisest man on earth . . . chief conforter . . . king."

A nephew, Gifford Riker, 58, San Jose, said burial rites are a problem because of Riker's conversion.

Gifford, now engaged in writing a new bible called The Gospel of Saint Riker, said his uncle's wife and several of the early disciples are buried in the Odd Fellows cemetery in Santa Cruz — but there is no plot for Riker.

The popular herb, rosemary, is tied to the story of Christmas. Legend holds that the herb's white blooms turned to the blue of the Virgin Mary's cloak when he hung it on a bush to dry during the flight into Egypt. The plant then became known as "Mary's Rose."

Novatan Pleads Guilty To Felony Drug Charge

Valient Gale Nims III, 18, of Novato, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to three charges against him and several other counts in six pending cases were dismissed or continued.

The youth admitted that he had possessed marijuana when arrested with two young girls in a car in a parking lot Sept. 14 in Novato. Two misdemeanor charges of being in a place where narcotics were used and contributing to the delinquency of minors stemming from that arrest were dismissed.

Nims also pleaded guilty to being in a place where narcotics were used on Nov. 10 and to a battery charge stemming from a June 29 attack on a Novato girl. Charges of possessing a device for smoking narcotics and swimming in a reservoir were dismissed.

A case accusing him of possessing marijuana on Nov. 22 was continued for six months for possible dismissal.

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. ordered Nims, who is being held in Juvenile Hall, to appear in superior court Monday for setting of a sentencing on the felony marijuana charge. He said that sentencing on the two misdemeanor convictions will follow that of the superior court sentence.

According to the suit, the Dohemanns were married in San Francisco on Dec. 19, 1953 and separated July 15 of this year.

The family home is at 228 Margarita Drive.

In addition to his position as president of his firm, Dohemann has been active in civic affairs. Mrs. Dohemann is a member of the Junior League of San Francisco and has served in charitable organizations and parents groups.

Rockefellers Heavy Lindsay Contributor

ALBANY (UPI)—The largest contributor to Mayor John V. Lindsay's $3 million reelection campaign was the Rockefeller family.

Reports filed with the New York Secretary of State's office Wednesday showed the Rockefellers contributed a total of $70,000 to Lindsay's bid for a second term as mayor of New York. The reports were a nearly complete accounting of the campaign receipts and expenses in the mayor's race.

BANDSTAND FOR A BIG CONCERT

Workmen were busy yesterday constructing a bandstand at Sears Point Raceway for the Rolling Stones' concert. But negotiations between concert organizers and Sears Point officials later broke down, and the extravaganza was to be shifted to Altamont Speedway near Tracy. The bandstand and other equipment set up at Sears Point will go to Altamont. (See story, other photo, page one) (Independent-Journal photo)

NAUTICAL SLUM CLEANUP

Richardson Bay Fill Wins Approval

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — The last barrier to a fill project to clean up the nautical slum in Richardson Bay was cleared yesterday with unanimous approval by the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

At issue was an application by Donlon J. Arques to fill three-tenths of an acre just north of Sausalito for a parking lot to serve a 600-foot pier for 50 houseboats.

The commission's executive director, Joseph E. Bodovitz of Mill Valley, recommended approval, saying the project would improve the appearance of the shoreline and "at last begin to alleviate the severe water pollution problems in the area." He noted that the area to be filled was "of no ecological value."

About 300 houseboats now anchor in Richardson Bay, most of them discharging raw sewage into the water Arques's new pier will be equipped with connections to existing shore treatment plants.

Marin supervisor Michael Wornum, a member of the commission, promised the "the full majesty of the county, for whatever that's worth, will come in" after the new pier is built and see that all houseboats "either conform or get out."

No one opposed Arques's application, which said work would take 90 days to complete and cost $60,000.

Another project in Richarson Bay, however, narrowly escaped denial — at least for two weeks. It was an application by Leonard B. Fleischman of Belvedere for apartments extending 30 feet out over Strawberry Cove on pilings.

Both Wornum and Mrs. P. K. Gilman of Larkspur, vice president of the Marin Conservation League, objected that the plan Fleischman had before the commission differed from the one approved by the county planning commission and board of supervisors.

Fleischman acknowledged that his agreement with the owner of an underwater parcel in front of his project had fallen through, thus he had to eliminate plans for docks and a turning basin for boats. But the insisted the deletion did not change his plan "to any great extent."

Wornum rebutted that Fleischman had told the supervisors he had "total control" of the area in his plan. "The basic premise on which approval was granted has changed, Wornum told him, adding, "You wouldn't have gotten approval otherwise."

Alameda County Supervisor Emanuel P. Razeto, citing Wornum's objections, said "we're wasting our time" and moved to deny Fleischman's application. Razeto and several other speakers also said that the plan should be considered at the same time as one for an adjacent property, due before the commission early next year.

Fleischman, complaining the delay was costing him $26 a day in interest on his financing for the property, won commission agreement to wait for two weeks to vote. Razeto, however, said he would move again, at the Dec. 18 meeting, to deny the application — unless Fleischman was willing to wait until the adjacent plan came before the commission.

Bodovitz recommended that commissioners inspect the property before the next meeting.

Opposing the project yesterday were the state Fish and Game Department and the commission's ecology consultant.

The department said it "will substantially reduce the numbers of wildlife using Strawberry Cove," and would "eliminate one of the few marshes left in southern Marin County." It also would have an "adverse effect" on fish in the cove, the department's letter said of the project.

The consultant, San Jose State College biologist H. T. Harvey, advised commissioners that "the marsh and tidal flats would be destroyed" by the apartments. He recommended they be moved back from the shoreline.

The San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board, in a request that could show what it may require in all future marinas in the bay, recommended that if docks were built, that they have dockside sewer connnections at each berth where vessels with toilets would be moored.

The only speaker favoring the project from the audience was Louis Della Valle of San Rafael, representing the Marin Builders Exchange. He said it would provide work for builders.

In other business, commissioners heard attorney Roger Kent of Kent Woodlands support a client's application to fill 20 acres of South San Francisco Bay. Dredging 80 acres outboard of the $18 million marina near the Dumbarton Bridge would "increase the flow of the bay," Kent said.

A half dozen conservation organizations opposed it on the ground that fill at the narrow neck of the bay would restrict tidal flows. A vote was set for Dec. 18.

Tiburon Mayor Branwell Fanning, appointed to the commission two weeks ago by the Association of Bay Area Governments, was absent.

Trustees Seek Joint Meeting

A joint meeting with the Petaluma Board of Education to discuss the problems high density housing could bring was set last night for Jan. 7 by the Old Adobe School District board.

Time and place for the meeting have not been set, according to Supt. Dean D. Magowan. The board said it would like to review proposed plans to include a high density residential zone on the east side of Petaluma and what problems this could bring to the already crowded schools.

The board said it would also like to discuss the plans of the Petaluma board to build a junior-senior high school campus on the eastside.

Apartment Use Permits Delayed

Action on conditional use permits for two major apartment developments in Sausalito was delayed Wednesday night to give the planning commission more time to study them, planning director H. Eric Borgwardt reported today.

The commission will consider the applications again at its 8 p.m. meeting Dec. 17, he said. The applications are from the Duffell and Smoot builders of Lafayette for a 431-unit apartment development on the old American Distillery property on the north edge of the city and from Malcolm Dewees for 12 condominium units at 319 Sausalito Boulevard.

The Dewees application was put over to the next meeting so the planning commission could make a field inspection of a site he plans to dedicate to the city for open space, Borgwardt said.

Corte Madera Ire Spurs Action By City-County Planning Council

Corte Madera town officials declared last night that the City-County Planning Council is not creating dialogue among the cities and the county.

Corte Madera Councilman Harold B. Wagstaff and Planning Commissioner C. W. Thomas delivered a letter from Mayor Edward W. Colthurst, charging that the city-county council "Dwells on high-sounding ideals which have no relationship to the real planning needs of the member agencies."

Mayor Colthurst was especially critical of the county planning department's report, which supports the concept of state or regional zoning of open space. "We feel that the right of each local government to plan and zone its own area must be upheld," wrote Colthurst.

Planning Council members decided to set up a committee, headed by San Rafael Planning Director Herbert Hochner, to study methods to improve dialogue among the various cities and the county. Serving with Hochner will be Adelaide Wilson of Fairfax, Anne L. Ellinwood of Tiburon, Wagstaff of Corte Madera and Hugh Dougherty of the Marin County Planning Commission.

The planning council last night recommended a $12,500 study by the Economic Research Associates of Los Angeles to determine tourism potential in Marin County.

The recommendation for the study will go to the Marin County Board of Supervisors for approval.

Purpose of the study is to draw up a general visitor policy that will bring maximum benefit to the county without detracting from the existing environment.

The council also: approved an application for $73,000 in federal grant to continue a countywide planning program started in 1968. The county will contribute $48,900 in staff services.

The council's next meeting will be 8 p.m. Jan. 8 in the Civic Center.

Traffic At Alto Bowl Discussed

Traffic and drainage are the two main problems in the development of the Alto Bowl, Mill Valley Planning commissioners agreed last night during a workshop meeting to discuss a proposed 150-unit apartment development in the bowl.

Harvey E. Bragdon, planning director said commissioners agreed a new street running north-south should be constructed from Lonita Drive, east of Edna Maguire School, to East Blithedale Avenue to provide additional access to the area.

Commissioners also will ask the county public works staff to meet in a workshop session to discuss the new street and drainage problems, Bragdon said, since much of the area is unincorporated.

Tiburon Fire Board Gavel To Hannahs

Fred C. Hannahs last night was elected chairman of the Tiburon Fire District board replacing Kelly J. Wheeler whose term has expired, secretary Wellman H. Topham reported.

Charles T. Estudillo was named vice chairman and Topham was re-elected secretary. New board member William F. Carroll was seated on the board, Topham said.

Old Bay Crossing Plan Aired Again

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A highly controversial proposal for a new bay crossing from Tiburon to San Francisco via Angel Island and Alcatraz has cropped up again in an 11-point state transportation program.

The program was unveiled by Gordon C. Luce, secretary of the state Business and Transportation Agency, in what he termed a "shopping list" of projects for which the state will seek federal funding.

The crossing in Luce's program called for a combination tube and bridge, with a tube from the Ferry Building in San Francisco to Angel Island, and a bridge across Racoon Straits to Tiburon.

He figured the cost of the crossing at $930 million.

Luce's transportation planning coordinator, Charles G. Beer, told the Independent-Journal today that "we should not infer that the state is putting its support behind this particular crossing plan. It's just a checklist to check out with the federal government to see which kinds of projects we might expect federal support on," he said.

Beer added that the program also advised the federal Department of Transportation that such a crossing has been opposed by San Francisco and the Golden Gate Bridge District.

Beer said the tube-bridge proposal was included in the program to illustrate how high costs might range for new transportation links between Marin and San Francisco. He noted that the program also mentioned a $25 million commuter ferry system as an alternative.

The program did not mention busses, Beer said.

(The state Division of Bay Toll Crossings' $800,000 study of the crossing in 1967 concluded it would face at least a $500 million financing deficit, and thus was "apparently not financially feasible.")

Another of the proposals in the program was for a car ferry between the Bay Area Rapid Transit District terminal in Concord and Sacramento. Drivers would put their cars on trains, or ride as normal passengers.

Luce ranked the 11 proposals in order of priority, and put the Marin crossing last. But he said he was convinced that the federal government will prefer some of the lower priority items.

Arraignment Held On Dangerous Drugs

Marc Torvend Ford, 22, of 328 Ridgewood Drive, Mill Valley, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on charges of possessing a dangerous drug, destroying evidence and resisting arrest when stopped by California Highway Patrol officers Wednesday on East Francisco Boulevard.

His brother, George Shiff Ford III, 23, of the same address, was charged with resisting arrest. Their case was continued until today for entry of plea.

Petaluma Boy Dies As Two Autos Collide

A 3-year-old Petaluma boy was killed and two other persons were injured in a two-car accident yesterday at 3:53 p.m. on the Petaluma-Valley Ford Road near King Road, west of Petaluma.

Injured were passengers, Sandra Lovan, 20, of the same address, who was reported in satisfactory condition at Community Hospital of Sonoma County with a broken back, and her daughter, Donna Lovan, 15 months, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for a cut on the forehead.

The California Highway Patrol said the car was driven by Sue Ellen Parker, 28, the child's mother, who made an unsafe left turn in front a car driven by Michael Wright, 24, of 721 Madison Street, Petaluma.

Man's Condition Is Reported Good

H. Douglas Crump, 54, of 935 Tamalpais Avenue, San Rafael, was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital where he was admitted Wednesday after he was found lying unconscious on a sidewalk near his home.

Crump, who was found by a passerby at 2:30 p.m. had suffered a bad bruise on the head, a hospital spokesman said.

Quality Chefs Find It Easy To Move; Good Duo In Marin

A good chef never has much trouble finding a job.

Chefs are professional people who acquire their skill either over a long apprenticeship period — moving up from one kitchen job to another until they reach the top — or at special culinary schools in this country or Europe.

Most of the present day crop of top men have had both experiences. You will find many young ones among them, for they learn fast.

Chefs move around a lot. This is not to be taken necessarily as a commentary on their reliability. On the contrary, the very nature of their profession calls for them to be skilled in preparing many types of foods under a variety of circumstances.

The more diversified they are, the greater their skill and their worth. Only then are they truly qualified to take complete charge, including responsibility for good food purchasing practices.

A chef may choose to remain in one restaurant a long time, feeling that he is getting fulfillment there, but to insist that he do so is like asking an airplane pilot to remain grounded at a desk. When the right time comes, early or late, he must strike out for a new experience.

THE SEVEN SEAS in Sausalito is one place I know that never seems to have any difficulty in getting a good chef. Paul De Moss pays well, insists on quality performance and quality ingredients in the menu.

On hand right now is an excellent team, consisting of one European-trained chef and one with a strong local background. In first place is Roger Braun from Switzerland, a young man but experienced in the dineries of both the continent and this country. He is quick, adaptable and imaginative.

Assisting him is Don Giovanoni of Novato. He has worked in some of the best local spots and has had his own food operations. Between the two, the Seven Seas kitchen is in good hands.

Although this is a spot where it is common to see a number of customers come in each night with their own pots to be filled with the Seven Seas special brand of bouillabaise (and you can do that too, if you like), it's much cheerier to sit in the rear all-weather dining room and do your eating on the premises. The bouillabaise is tops, but don't let that keep you from sampling the rest of the seafood menu.

It used to be that this time of the year the only place you could sit at a table was in front opposite the bar. Some visitors who haven't been around for a long time are still inclined to withdraw after a peek through the front door seems to show a full house.

But Paul has made the most of his limited space on Bridgeway, which anyone must do on that thoroughfare. He installed a Rollamatic roof over the rear patio, added heaters and tables and made it a full dining room — even better, for the greenery gives it a natural appearance.

Don't give up your chance to dine here until you've investigated if there isn't a table with your name on it in the back room.

ALSO IN SAUSALITO the Latitude 38 at 621 Bridgeway has been sold to a Honolulu corporation called Red Pants, Inc.

The new Red Pants Restaurant is headed by Randy Wellington, who flies back and forth from Marin to the islands. There is one Red Pants in Kona, a Red Vest in Honolulu also owned by the company, and another restaurant to open soon on Maui.

Mike De Mello, manager in Sausalito, is also from Honolulu, as is Kino, the bartender.

The restaurant has kept some of its marine decor, but has been remodeled to conform with the new operation, somewhat different from that of Latitude 38. The menu consists chiefly of open-faced sandwiches, burgers, beef and fish, with daily specials both for lunch and dinner.

Red Pants is open from 10 (sometimes 11) a.m. and gives food service straight through to 2 a.m.

TRUE TO HIS WORD to add more of the popular American entrees to his predominantly Italian fare, Sal Iachino of the downtown San Rafael Romulus restaurant is offering these new selections on his menu:

Beef brochettes with rice, lobster and steak brochettes with rice, abalone steak, lobster steak with mushrooms, frog legs meuniere, prime rib (Friday, Saturday and Sunday only), broiled pork chops, double cut lamb chops, top sirloin steak, filet Mignon, medallions of beef, New York steak sandwiches and prime rib sandwiches.

And just to make sure you realize this is still an Italian restaurant, he has added one more — scampialla Venezia with meuniere sauce. A glass of wine is included with all full dinners.

THE PATH FINDERS, who operate the tea room at Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross, will close their Tuesday and Thursday luncheon service in the Magnolia House from Dec. 15 to Jan. 12.

But the tea room will be open next Friday, Saturday and Sunday for the annual Christmas greens sale, when the Path Finders serve customers hot soup and French bread. Proceeds from all these operations go toward the upkeep of the nonprofit association.

STILL WITHOUT a restaurant of their own in which to serve their "French Quiche" products, Donovan J. Fandre and York K. Fisher are continuing to market them through delicatessens, both in and out of the county.

Meanwhile they are headquartered at Alfie's Footlight Restaurant on the Boardwalk, Tiburon, where they do their baking and take orders.

They are offering quiche in several flavors — plain, curry, pepperoni, mushroom and shrimp with dill or curry. Quiche is a French provincial dish made of eggs, onions, cheese, cream and spices combined in a pie shell. Its most popular use is as a snack or hors d'oeuvre — but there's nothing to stop you from serving it as an entree.

SPEAKING OF THINGS that are French, the new Normandie French Restaurant at 2214 Fourth Street on the San Rafael Miracle Mile is now closing Tuesdays. Open the rest of the week for dinners (regularly from 5 p.m.; Sundays from 4 p.m.) and Mondays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays for lunch.

THE LION'S SHARE on the San Ansemlo Miracle Mile has announced this entertainment schedule for tonight and tomorrow night: Commander Cody, Jeffrey Cain and folk duo Lambert and Nuttycombe.

Beginning Dec. 7 the Thompson Brothers will perform every Sunday.

IN SAN FRANCISCO, Tarantino's on Fisherman's Wharf will close Sunday, Dec. 14, through Friday, Dec. 19, for its annual cleanup and will also be closed on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day.

Its affiliate restaurant in Sausalito, the Spinnaker, will be open during the time Tarantino's is closed.

ALSO IN SAN FRANCISCO, Duke Ellington is back with his orchestra at Bimbo's 365 Theater Restaurant, with three shows a night from 8 to midnight through Dec. 11, Sunday included.

Novato Police Plan Auction

Two sinks, a bathtub and toilet are among found or recovered stolen items to be sold by the Novato Police Department at its annual auction at 10 a.m. Dec. 13.

The auction will be conducted behind the police station on Sherman Avenue.

Other items on the block are bicycles, blankets, a sleeping bag, clothing, tires and rims, lamps, clocks, playing cards, electric adding machine, chairs and a wagon.

The goods have been collected by the department during the past year.

Coast Yule Party

Funds For Super Jet Are Slashed

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a surprise move, a Senate appropriations subcommittee has voted to trim about $15 million from the supersonic transport (SST) project.

The action by the transportation subcommittee—taken at a closed session—is subject to possible reversal, however, when the full appropriations committee takes up the transportation measure.

Also, Senate-House conferees could restore the cutback when they meet later to resolve differences between the House and Senate version of the legislation.

The vote reduced the $96 million voted by the House for the SST to about $80 million. However, Senate sources said they doubted the action would slow development of the huge passenger airplane.

College Board Sees New Library Plans

Marin Junior College District trustees last night got a look at preliminary plans for a proposed $3 million library center to replace the present library, which has been termed grossly inadequate.

Under the college's long-term building program, the library center is scheduled for groundbreaking in the fall of 1971 to open in the fall of 1972, reported Dale A. Fleming, district planning director.

The proposed two-story center, lying between Olney Hall and Corte Madera Creek, west of College Avenue, would house a variety of activities, reported Joseph Feil of Corwin and Booth and Associated Architects of San Francisco.

Feil presented the plans calling for a reinforced concrete structure with two levels built into a hillside.

The lower level would include the college bookstore, data processing center including three classrooms, duplicating and mailing room, audio visual center, two studio areas and a darkroom, he explained.

The upper level would include the library, three study halls, foreign language lab, two small group study areas, faculty reading room and periodicals area.

The main entrance at the lower level would be from the central mall area at the college.

A student suggested there be more small group study areas.

Feil said such areas could be achieved by partitions, or screening or arrangement of furniture in the proposed large study halls.

When Trustee Harry J. Moore questioned putting the main entrance on the lower level and the library on the upper level.

Feil said having the main entrance at the upper level had been considered, but wasn't as suitable for book control and traffic pattern.

He pointed out there would be entrances to both upper and lower levels from a mall between Olney Hall and the proposed center.

One of the features of the plan is a two-story glass stairwell, near the entrance, which Feil said could serve as a lobby and an area for displays.

Trustee Robert E. Oliver said there should be "maximum flexibility" provided in the interior plan, and Feil felt the interior arrangement did lend itself to flexibility.

After viewing the building sketches, Trustee Elizabeth M. Deedy said: "Frankly it looks like a ranch style house to me . . ."

Feil replied the building would be larger than it appeared in the sketch, and would appear differently when final details were sketched in.

The building would be roughly 180 feet and would have 50,800 square feet of usable space inside, Fleming reported.

It could house up to 75,000 volumes as compared to 35,000 in the present library.

The proposed new center would occupy the site now occupied by the Austin Science Building, scheduled to be demolished, and the Communications Center, a barracks-type structure.

Since it was a workshop session, there wasn't any board action. Trustees Charles W. Gray, Donald K. Felt and Theodore C. Wellman were absent.

Tiburon Firemen Elect Officers

George W. Haggett has been elected president of the Tiburon volunteer firemen, replacing John Grbac, whose term will expire Jan. 1.

Other officers elected in balloting Wednesday night were Thomas Murphy, vice president; Adolph Edwards, treasurer; Robert Hamilton, secretary, and Fritz Manes, sergeant-at-arms.

New officers will be installed at a dinner next month.

New Powers To Capital Police

WASHINGTON The Senate passed today a bill arming police and the courts in the District of Columbia with new powers to combat the soaring crime rate in the nation's capital.

Under the bill, part of the anticrime program urged by President Richard M. Nixon, persons convicted of felonies three times could be given intermediate sentences up to life imprisonment.

The measure also would provide local police with authority for wiretapping and electronic surveillance under court orders—a section modeled on national legislation passed last year. It is aimed particularly at D.C. narcotics traffic.

10 Persons Killed

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — An overweighted grandstand at an improvised bull ring collapsed yesterday in the southwestern town of Santa Barbara de Barinas, killing 10 persons and injuring 60. The bull fight was being held in connection with a fair commemorating the patron saint of the area.

Hawaii Spared Return Of Monster Breakers

HONOLULU (AP) — The storm-battered north shore of Oahu Island escaped further damage early today when an expected monster surf crested a critical 10 feet lower than predicted.

More than 1,700 residents had been evacuated as the north shore, on the opposite side of the island from Honolulu, braced for towering walls of water.

The surf peaked at 30 feet at high tide, not high enough to cause property damage. This was 20 feet below the waves that smashed 58 homes and caused $1 million in property damage Monday.

Today's waves had been predicted to hit 40 feet, the height they reached yesterday. A mid-Pacific storm some 1,000 miles northwest of Hawaii spawned the massive waves, officials said.

Despite the danger, the massive waves represented a spectacular sight to some people. Police said they cleared hundreds of spectators from the beaches by threatening to have their cars towed away.

Officials said Monday and Tuesday's damage constituted Hawaii's worst natural disaster since a 1960 tidal wave killed 61 persons and caused $25 million in damage on the island of Hawaii.

More than 400 police, firemen and public works employes had been ordered into north shore areas of Honolulu in readiness for the monster waves that never came today.

Also spared from further devastation was the tiny fishing village of Milolii to the south of Hawaii Island. The 80-resident village sustained $100,000 in damage Tuesday, including the loss of most of its outrigger fishing canoe fleet.

A New Policy On Reporting Injuries Urged

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An injured employee should be required to notify his employer before filing a state claim for Workmen's Compensation Insurance, (the Little Hoover Commission) recommended yesterday.

In a report to the Legislature and Gov. Ronald Reagan on how to improve operations of the Industrial Relations Department, the commission said a "practice" has grown in which workers file actions with the state Workmen's Compensation Appeal Board immediately after being injured and before notifying the employer.

"The practice is apparently encouraged by some who specialize in representing employees in compensation cases," the commission said. "Many of these litigated cases would not have to involve litigation at all if the employer were first gicen an opportunity to act."

College Board Sees New Library Plans

Marin Junior College District trustees last night got a look at preliminary plans for a proposed $3 million library center to replace the present library, which has been termed grossly inadequate.

Under the college's long-term building program, the library center is scheduled for groundbreaking in the fall of 1971 to open in the fall of 1972, reported Dale A. Fleming, district planning director.

The proposed two-story center, lying between Olney Hall and Corte Madera Creek, west of College Avenue, would house a variety of activities, reported Joseph Feil of Corwin and Booth and Associated Architects of San Francisco.

Feil presented the plans calling for a reinforced concrete structure with two levels built into a hillside.

The lower level would include the college bookstore, data processing center including three classrooms, duplicating and mailing room, audio visual center, two studio areas and a darkroom, he explained.

The upper level would include the library, three study halls, foreign language lab, two small group study areas, faculty reading room and periodicals area.

The main entrance at the lower level would be from the central mall area at the college.

A student suggested there be more small group study areas.

Feil said such areas could be achieved by partitions, or screening or arrangement of furniture in the proposed large study halls.

When Trustee Harry J. Moore questioned putting the main entrance on the lower level and the library on the upper level.

Feil said having the main entrance at the upper level had been considered, but wasn't as suitable for book control and traffic pattern.

He pointed out there would be entrances to both upper and lower levels from a mall between Olney Hall and the proposed center.

One of the features of the plan is a two-story glass stairwell, near the entrance, which Feil said could serve as a lobby and an area for displays.

Trustee Robert E. Oliver said there should be "maximum flexibility" provided in the interior plan, and Feil felt the interior arrangement did lend itself to flexibility.

After viewing the building sketches, Trustee Elizabeth M. Deedy said: "Frankly it looks like a ranch style house to me . . ."

Feil replied the building would be larger than it appeared in the sketch, and would appear differently when final details were sketched in.

The building would be roughly 180 feet and would have 50,800 square feet of usable space inside, Fleming reported.

It could house up to 75,000 volumes as compared to 35,000 in the present library.

The proposed new center would occupy the site now occupied by the Austin Science Building, scheduled to be demolished, and the Communications Center, a barracks-type structure.

Since it was a workshop session, there wasn't any board action. Trustees Charles W. Gray, Donald K. Felt and Theodore C. Wellman were absent.

Tiburon Firemen Elect Officers

George W. Haggett has been elected president of the Tiburon volunteer firemen, replacing John Grbac, whose term will expire Jan. 1.

Other officers elected in balloting Wednesday night were Thomas Murphy, vice president; Adolph Edwards, treasurer; Robert Hamilton, secretary, and Fritz Manes, sergeant-at-arms.

New officers will be installed at a dinner next month.

New Powers To Capital Police

WASHINGTON The Senate passed today a bill arming police and the courts in the District of Columbia with new powers to combat the soaring crime rate in the nation's capital.

Under the bill, part of the anticrime program urged by President Richard M. Nixon, persons convicted of felonies three times could be given intermediate sentences up to life imprisonment.

The measure also would provide local police with authority for wiretapping and electronic surveillance under court orders —a section modeled on national legislation passed last year. It is aimed particularly at D.C. narcotics traffic.

10 Persons Killed

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — An overweighted grandstand at an improvised bull ring collapsed yesterday in the southwestern town of Santa Barbara de Barinas, killing 10 persons and injuring 60. The bull fight was being held in connection with a fair commemorating the patron saint of the area.

Hawaii Spared Return Of Monster Breakers

HONOLULU (AP) — The storm-battered north shore of Oahu Island escaped further damage early today when an expected monster surf crested a critical 10 feet lower than predicted.

More than 1,700 residents had been evacuated as the north shore, on the opposite side of the island from Honolulu, braced for towering walls of water.

The surf peaked at 30 feet at high tide, not high enough to cause property damage. This was 20 feet below the waves that smashed 58 homes and caused $1 million in property damage Monday.

Today's waves had been predicted to hit 40 feet, the height they reached yesterday. A mid-Pacific storm some 1,000 miles northwest of Hawaii spawned the massive waves, officials said.

Despite the danger, the massive waves represented a spectacular sight to some people. Police said they cleared hundreds of spectators from the beaches by threatening to have their cars towed away.

Officials said Monday and Tuesday's damage constituted Hawaii's worst natural disaster since a 1960 tidal wave killed 61 persons and caused $25 million in damage on the island of Hawaii.

More than 400 police, firemen and public works employes had been ordered into north shore areas of Honolulu in readiness for the monster waves that never came today.

Also spared from further devastation was the tiny fishing village of Milolii to the south of Hawaii Island. The 80-resident village sustained $100,000 in damage Tuesday, including the loss of most of its outrigger fishing canoe fleet.

A New Policy On Reporting Injuries Urged

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An injured employee should be required to notify his employer before filing a state claim for Workmen's Compensation Insurance, (the Little Hoover Commission) recommended yesterday.

In a report to the Legislature and Gov. Ronald Reagan on how to improve operations of the Industrial Relations Department, the commission said a "practice" has grown in which workers file actions with the state Workmen's Compensation Appeal Board immediately after being injured and before notifying the employer.

"The practice is apparently encouraged by some who specialize in representing employees in compensation cases," the commission said. "Many of these litigated cases would not have to involve litigation at all if the employer were first gicen an opportunity to act."

We were pleasantly fascinated by the phenomenal response to our first real sale: brought in more dough in 3 days than we usually see in a month, just because we slashed prices beyond all reason. Therefore, and herewith, let it be known to all those buying presents: the ridiculous low prices on everything in the store—leather, leather accessories, natural skin area rugs, fabrics, garments, jewelry, all of it, not just clearance items.

We were pleasantly fascinated by the phenomenal response to our first real sale: brought in more dough in 3 days than we usually see in a month, just because we slashed prices beyond all reason. Therefore, and herewith, let it be known to all those buying presents: the ridiculous low prices on everything in the store—leather, leather accessories, natural skin area rugs, fabrics, garments, jewelry, all of it, not just clearance items.

WHO KNOWS WHAT EVIL LURKS IN THE HEARTS OF USED CARS?

We invite you to compare our cars with others. Because we at Felton's know a used car can be a thing of beauty on the outside and a mass of corruption on the inside. Our 16-point inspection takes us to parts of the car rarely traveled by used car dealers. When we find it pure at heart . . . then it's ready for you.

WHO KNOWS WHAT EVIL LURKS IN THE HEARTS OF USED CARS?

We invite you to compare our cars with others. Because we at Felton's know a used car can be a thing of beauty on the outside and a mass of corruption on the inside. Our 16-point inspection takes us to parts of the car rarely traveled by used car dealers. When we find it pure at heart . . . then it's ready for you.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

New Arthritis Treatment Is Being Put To Use In U.S.

VAN DELLEN

Ibuprofen a new arthritis remedy being used in Great Britain with considerable success, is now being tested in the United States. The synthetic compound relieves pain and reduces inflammation and morning stiffness. In this respect, it is said to be superior to aspirin.

There are many remedies for arthritis, and researchers usually compare their effectiveness with aspirin. This is not surprising, because the salicylates have been used for many decades and are still recommended by physicians for the relief of pain. If aspirin were a recent discovery, most of us would hail it as a wonder drug. However, since it may cause side reactions, it is doubtful whether the FDA would approve the product.

SEVENTEEN MILLION persons in the United States are afflicted with some form of arthritis. The best known are rheumatoid arthritis which is prevalent in young adults, osteoarthritis in the older group, and ankylosing spondylitis of the spine , and gout.

Furthermore these diseases vary in severity. Some arthritics are bothered constantly. Other have pain and stiffness only in the morning on getting out of bed. Those with ankylosing spondylitis of the spine must remain active to keep ahead of the disorder. There are many excellent remedies and preventives for gout. Among these are allopurinol, benemid, and colchicine.

DRUGS SUCH AS Butazolidin, Indocin, and the steroids help in all forms of arthritis. We have analgesics by the dozens. Operations also are becoming more popular for arthritic conditions. In some instances the diseased joint is cleaned out, and in others the entire joint is removed and replaced with a prosthesis.

There are no magic cures for any type of arthritis. Nature is kind, however, because more than half the victims improve spontaneously. Wise physicians do nothing to harm the joints, and prescribe remedies that are the safest to use over long periods.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

SPINAL ANESTHESIA

J.L.S. writes: Is it true that having a spinal when a woman is ready to have her baby causes trouble in the spinal area in later years?

REPLY

This is unusual inasmuch as the adverse effects are usually minimal. Some individuals develop headache that lasts several weeks but as a rule these stop. The risks are now minimized, thanks to improved drugs and experienced anesthesiologists.

RED, CRACKED TONGUE

S.R. writes: Is it true that all older people have red, cracked tongues? My tongue has been red for about three years, but it is not sore.

REPLY

Red, cracked tongue is not part of the aging process. It may, however, be associated with anemia, vitamin deficiencies, and inflammation.

DIET WRINKLING

Mrs. S.G.writes: Can wrinkled skin be avoided on losing weight?

REPLY

No. But in time the skin regains its tone and the wrinkles become less noticeable.

TRACE ELEMENT

P.C. writes: Will a person suffering from low metabolism benefit from using iodized salt?

REPLY

Salt will not raise the metabolism but it may help prevent goiter if you have an iodine deficiency. A low metabolic rate does not necessarily indicate thyroid enlargement.

PRESSURE AND LIQUOR

R. M. writes: Is it bad for a man with high blood pressure to drink liquor?

REPLY

Yes, if he drinks too much. However, reasonal amounts may lower the blood pressure if the alcohol leads to relaxation. There are many good remedies for hypertension and these should take precedence over the liquor.

600 CALORIES A DAY

W. I. writes: How much weight can a person lose eating 600 calories a day?

REPLY

No two persons react alike to a diet. Some might lose 10 pounds a week on a 600 calorie regimen; others, only 1 pound. Much depends upon the original weight, activity, and the person's metabolism.

MIDDLE-AGED CYCLIST

W. F. writes: Is it safe for a woman of 45 to take up bicycle riding?

REPLY

Yes, provided she obeys the rules of the road. Cycling is an excellent exercise for those who live on level terrain. At your age, however, watch out for the hills.

NCA

A. Z. writes: Can anything be done for neurocirculatory asthenia?

REPLY

The victim of this nervous condition must appreciate its nature and know why he develops palpitation and shortness of breath when under stress. Many sufferers improve by increasing their tolerance to exertion. Others have to drop a few social or business obligations and limit their activities to those that no longer provoke palpitation, breathlessness, and chest pain.

FEAR OF FLYING

F.A.B. writes: Can fear of flying be overcome? I would like to take a plane trip but get weak in the knees just thinking about it.

REPLY

Yes. A modern tranquilizer should allay your anxiety. Most motion sickness remedies have a sedative effect and will do the same. Best results are obtained by taking the tranquilizer one-half to one hour before departure.

NIACINAMIDE

E.F. writes: Will taking 100 mg. of niacinamide every day for a long period of time cause any serious side effects?

REPLY

Not to my knowledge. The vitamin may produce a transitory flushing of the skin or itching of the rectum, but these symptoms are not harmful. Larger doses have been used to lower blood cholesterol.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

New Arthritis Treatment Is Being Put To Use In U.S.

VAN DELLEN

Ibuprofen a new arthritis remedy being used in Great Britain with considerable success, is now being tested in the United States. The synthetic compound relieves pain and reduces inflammation and morning stiffness. In this respect, it is said to be superior to aspirin.

There are many remedies for arthritis, and researchers usually compare their effectiveness with aspirin. This is not surprising, because the salicylates have been used for many decades and are still recommended by physicians for the relief of pain. If aspirin were a recent discovery, most of us would hail it as a wonder drug. However, since it may cause side reactions, it is doubtful whether the FDA would approve the product.

SEVENTEEN MILLION persons in the United States are afflicted with some form of arthritis. The best known are rheumatoid arthritis which is prevalent in young adults, osteoarthritis in the older group, and ankylosing spondylitis of the spine , and gout.

Furthermore these diseases vary in severity. Some arthritics are bothered constantly. Other have pain and stiffness only in the morning on getting out of bed. Those with ankylosing spondylitis of the spine must remain active to keep ahead of the disorder. There are many excellent remedies and preventives for gout. Among these are allopurinol, benemid, and colchicine.

DRUGS SUCH AS Butazolidin, Indocin, and the steroids help in all forms of arthritis. We have analgesics by the dozens. Operations also are becoming more popular for arthritic conditions. In some instances the diseased joint is cleaned out, and in others the entire joint is removed and replaced with a prosthesis.

There are no magic cures for any type of arthritis. Nature is kind, however, because more than half the victims improve spontaneously. Wise physicians do nothing to harm the joints, and prescribe remedies that are the safest to use over long periods.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed emvelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

SPINAL ANESTHESIA

J.L.S. writes: Is it true that having a spinal when a woman is ready to have her baby causes trouble in the spinal area in later years?

REPLY

This is unusual inasmuch as the adverse effects are usually minimal. Some individuals develop headache that lasts several weeks but as a rule these stop. The risks are now minimized, thanks to improved drugs and experienced anesthesiologists.

RED, CRACKED TONGUE

S.R. writes: Is it true that all older people have red, cracked tongues? My tongue has been red for about three years, but it is not sore.

REPLY

Red, cracked tongue is not part of the aging process. It may, however, be associated with anemia, vitamin deficiencies, and inflammation.

DIET WRINKLING

Mrs. S.G.writes: Can wrinkled skin be avoided on losing weight?

REPLY

No. But in time the skin regains its tone and the wrinkles become less noticeable.

TRACE ELEMENT

P.C. writes: Will a person suffering from low metabolism benefit from using iodized salt?

REPLY

Salt will not raise the metabolism but it may help prevent goiter if you have an iodine deficiency. A low metabolic rate does not necessarily indicate thyroid enlargement.

PRESSURE AND LIQUOR

R. M. writes: Is it bad for a man with high blood pressure to drink liquor?

REPLY

Yes, if he drinks too much. However, reasonal amounts may lower the blood pressure if the alcohol leads to relaxation. There are many good remedies for hypertension and these should take precedence over the liquor.

600 CALORIES A DAY

W. I. writes: How much weight can a person lose eating 600 calories a day?

REPLY

No two persons react alike to a diet. Some might lose 10 pounds a week on a 600 calorie regimen; others, only 1 pound. Much depends upon the original weight, activity, and the person's metabolism.

MIDDLE-AGED CYCLIST

W. F. writes: Is it safe for a woman of 45 to take up bicycle riding?

REPLY

Yes, provided she obeys the rules of the road. Cycling is an excellent exercise for those who live on level terrain. At your age, however, watch out for the hills.

NCA

A. Z. writes: Can anything be done for neurocirculatory asthenia?

REPLY

The victim of this nervous condition must appreciate its nature and know why he develops palpitation and shortness of breath when under stress. Many sufferers improve by increasing their tolerance to exertion. Others have to drop a few social or business obligations and limit their activities to those that no longer provoke palpitation, breathlessness, and chest pain.

FEAR OF FLYING

F.A.B. writes: Can fear of flying be overcome? I would like to take a plane trip but get weak in the knees just thinking about it.

REPLY

Yes. A modern tranquilizer should allay your anxiety. Most motion sickness remedies have a sedative effect and will do the same. Best results are obtained by taking the tranquilizer one-half to one hour before departure.

NIACINAMIDE

E.F. writes: Will taking 100 mg. of niacinamide every day for a long period of time cause any serious side effects?

REPLY

Not to my knowledge. The vitamin may produce a transitory flushing of the skin or itching of the rectum, but these symptoms are not harmful. Larger doses have been used to lower blood cholesterol.

Railway Bomb Plan Thwarted

KYOTO, Japan (AP) — Four Molotov cocktails were hurled on railway tracks near this western Japanese city today 20 minutes before an ammunition train passed along the line, police said.

They said fires started by the homemade fire bombs were extinguished immediately by track men patroling nearby, and that train schedules were not affected.

Police said the bombs were believed thrown by radical students protesting the transportation of ammunition from the U.S. Yamada ammunition depot in Kitakyushu to other military bases in central and northern Japan.

Youths Join Oldsters For Skid Row Dinners

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Every year at Thanksgiving the Salvation Army and the resuce missions provide free turkey dinners for the men on skid row, the old and middle-aged men living outside society.

This year there was something new — youth.

Young men in their 20s could be seen among the worn faces lined up for meals at Our Lady of Guadalupe Church and the United Gospel Mission.

FEATURED THIS SATURDAY

They've made a record, they've appeared on network television and they have performed in some of San Francisco's best-known nightclubs. And the experts say that the pop music duo of Bobby and I is on the brink of a major breakthrough in show business. Marin can claim "half-ownership" of this fast-rising act, for Bobby Burch is a Marinite. And for tomorrow's I-J Marin Magazine, Gary Tischler has written a special piece about Bobby, her partner and their young careers as entertainers.

The gathering of the greens is a yuletide tradition that goes back deep into antiquity. And in Marin County, it is also a part of the holiday tradition. Annually, the women of the Decorations Guild of the Marin Art and Garden Center go forth to collect materials for their greens sale. Just what they collect, where they find it and what they do with it is the subject of a picture story in tomorrow's I-J weekend supplement that will help get you in the spirit for the holidays ahead.

Campus Scuffles Over Recruiting

STANFORD (AP) — Scuffling broke out on the campuses of Stanford University and San Jose State College during student picketing of industrial recruiters.

Campus police at each school said yesterday there were no arrests and the small crowds were dispersed.

Stanford campus Police Chief Tom Bell said about 80 Students for a Democratic Society and their supporters were picketing General Electric Co. recruiters when members of the conservative Free Campus Movement took pictures. The SDS pickets demanded the film and camera and the skirmishes erupted when refused.

Railway Bomb Plan Thwarted

KYOTO, Japan (AP) — Four Molotov cocktails were hurled on railway tracks near this western Japanese city today 20 minutes before an ammunition train passed along the line, police said.

They said fires started by the homemade fire bombs were extinguished immediately by track men patroling nearby, and that train schedules were not affected.

Police said the bombs were believed thrown by radical students protesting the transportation of ammunition from the U.S. Yamada ammunition depot in Kitakyushu to other military bases in central and northern Japan.

Youths Join Oldsters For Skid Row Dinners

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Every year at Thanksgiving the Salvation Army and the resuce missions provide free turkey dinners for the men on skid row, the old and middle-aged men living outside society.

This year there was something new — youth.

Young men in their 20s could be seen among the worn faces lined up for meals at Our Lady of Guadalupe Church and the United Gospel Mission.

FEATURED THIS SATURDAY

They've made a record, they've appeared on network television and they have performed in some of San Francisco's best-known nightclubs. And the experts say that the pop music duo of Bobby and I is on the brink of a major breakthrough in show business. Marin can claim "half-ownership" of this fast-rising act, for Bobby Burch is a Marinite. And for tomorrow's I-J Marin Magazine, Gary Tischler has written a special piece about Bobby, her partner and their young careers as entertainers.

The gathering of the greens is a yuletide tradition that goes back deep into antiquity. And in Marin County, it is also a part of the holiday tradition. Annually, the women of the Decorations Guild of the Marin Art and Garden Center go forth to collect materials for their greens sale. Just what they collect, where they find it and what they do with it is the subject of a picture story in tomorrow's I-J weekend supplement that will help get you in the spirit for the holidays ahead.

Black Caucus Plan Drive For Voters

OAKLAND (UPI)—The Oakland Black Caucus has announced plans for a voter registration drive to establish a black political power bloc for 1970 elections in the East Bay area.

Paul Cobb, chairman of the coalition of Negro organizations, said Wednesday the drive will seek to unify black voters, who have been "woefully splintered" in previous East Bay elections.

TO CHOKE OR NOT TO CHOKE

Referee Travis Baker watches intently as Tom Grace of DeAnza pins a gasping Tom Owen of San Rafael in the 175-pound class of a dual high school wrestling meet at San Rafael yesterday. San Rafael protested that Grace was choking Owen but to no avail. The Bulldogs still managed to pick up a 25-23 win over the Richmond school with sophomore Dirk Correnti coming through with a 25-second pin in the 191-pond class to clinch it. The win was San Rafael's fourth without a loss. Other San Rafael winners were Dave McIrvin, Dave Hughes, Gil Freitas and Bob Smith. (Fred Harris photo)

TEXAS VS. ARKANSAS

50 Million Televiewers Await Game Of The Year

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — All is ready for college football's Game of the Year.

The synthetic grass at Fayetteville has been vacuumed.

President Nixon has his tickets.

A national television audience estimated at 50 million is waiting, when the game is broadcast at 10 a.m., Pacific Standard Time, on Channel 7.

Texas vs. Arkansas, No. 1 vs. No. 2.

The game pits Texas, averaging more than 44 points a game, against Arkansas, with the best defense in the land against scoring.

The winner earns the Southwest Conference championship, a spot in the Cotton Bowl opposite Notre Dame and the inside track to the national championship.

The loser goes to the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans and a far less glamorous date with a 7-3 Mississippi team.

Arkansas coach Frank Broyles says Texas' execution of its relatively simple offense will be the Razorback's biggest problem.

"They are exact in what they do," he said. "Faking is the big problem. They have their bread and butter plays and they come at you with them.

"What you have to do in defending against the triple option kills your pursuit," Broyles said. "You must commit a man to each hole, even though you'd rather not. If one man misses, there'll be no help until the ball carrier gets to the safety. And they've got blockers cracking at safety."

And, as Oklahoma found out, the Longhorns can pass.

The Sooners massed nine men on the line of scrimmage, jumped off to a 14-0 lead and then succumbed when quarterback James Street began finding split end Cotton Speyrer.

Arkansas, however, has not conceded.

As one coach put it: "We've

GIANTS TRADE TRIO, GET RELIEF HURLER

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The San Francisco Giants traded pitcher Ron Herbel, infielder Bob Etheridge and catcher Bob Barton to San Diego today for relief pitcher Frank Reberger.

Herbel, 31, was 4-1 last year in 39 games, all but four of them in relief. Etheridge, 27, hit .260 in 56 games and Barton, 28, batted .170 in 49 games.

The 25-year-old 6-foot-5 Reberger, formerly with the Chicago Cubs, was selected by San Diego last year in the expansion draft. He appeared in 67 games with the Padres and had a 1-4 won-lost record and a 3.58 earned run average.

No Major Shakeup Planned By N.L. President Feeney

By JOHN G. GRIFFIN

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—The National League had a new president today, popular Charles "Chub" Feeney, and a new headquarters city—San Francisco—and put together they indicated the top echelon of baseball may not be reorganized drastically after all.

At least, not right away.

The 48-year-old Feeney, long time vice president of the San Francisco Giants, dropped a mighty broad hint in that direction when he announced after election yesterday:

"One of the conditions under which I accepted was that the job of league president remain the same as it has for the last 100 years."

For another thing, Feeney announced he is going to move the league headquarters from Cincinnati, where it reposed during the 18-year presidency of Warren C. Giles, to his hometown, San Francisco, for "at least a couple of years."

Feeney predicted there would be some form of restructuring, although he didn't say what, and Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said he was sure Feeney "will be a team man.

"I'm sure there will be great cooperation between his office and mine."

Kuhn declined to speculate on what form the restructuring might take now. He said the planning committee's report will not "take its final form" until a meeting of the committee tonight.

The report will be submitted to the final session of the joint meeting tomorrow.

Ron Cerrudo Is Winning '60 War'

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (UPI) — Deep in the middle of the pack at the $125,000 Danny Thomas golf classic, a desperate penny ante war is going on, and so far Ron Cerrudo is winning it.

Cerrudo, formerly of San Rafael and now living in Napa, is trying to nail down the No. 60 spot in the list of money winnings and this tournament is the last chance to do it. The magic 60 would exempt golfers from qualifying at regular tournaments on next year's tour.

Cerrudo, who has won $27,023 this year, shot a 72 yesterday, seven strokes behind the lead, but an important three strokes ahead of Jack McGowan, who is sitting in the No. 60 spot with $27,640 in earnings.

BREWER LEADS

Slow-talking Gay Brewer carried a two-stroke lead and a bit of optimism into today's second round.

"I can't say I was surprised," said the 1967 Masters champ after he slammed home an eagle putt and picked up seven birdies on his way to a record-tying 64 yesterday. "I went into this tournament expecting to play well."

AARON TIED

Tommy Aaron, who's won more than $377,000 swatting golf balls while collecting only one first-place trophy, finished yesterday's round with a five-under-par 67, along with R, H. Sikes of Springdale, Ark., and Jim Jamieson, a Moline, Ill., golfer who has earned less than $4,000 in his career as a pro.

The Thomas Classic, a 72-hole event which ends Sunday, is the season's final PGA tournament.

A's Get Downing From N.Y.

Chavarria was sent to the Yanks' Syracuse farm in the International League.

Yesterday, the Yanks swung into action on the trading mart by shipping controversial first-baseman-outfielder Joe Peppitone to the Houston Astros for Curt Blefary, a first baseman-outfielder and catcher, and one-time Yankee bonus baby.

Downing, a 28-year-old veteran who held out all last spring, finished well for a 7-5 won-lost record and a 3.37 earned run average. Fernandez, 26, who also plays third, first and the outfield, hit .223 with 12 homers and 29 runs batted in for 89 games.

Cater, 29, is a right-handed hitter who also can play in the outfield. He hit .262 with 10 homers and a career-high 76 runs batted in last season. He has a career mark of .296.

Secret At Sears Point; Who's That Mystery Man?

It never fails. Try to hide something and you wind up in a fish bowl. It's like getting caught on Candid Camera with your fingers in the cookie jar. Or a bank robber who suddenly becomes a movie star.

This week a major auto manufacturer rented Sears Point International Raceway for some secret testing by its most glamorous racing team and driver.

Not a word was breathed to the news media while guards made sure no one got near the track. You couldn't get near enough to see the action, but you could hear the roar of the car as it sped around the asphalt ribbon.

All my efforts to find out what was going on were met by vague answers. "Nothing going on here," said one Sears Pointer, pointlessly. "Oh, that noise? Well, that's my grandmother breaking in her new Go-Kart. Nothing to it. See you later."

Managed To Sneak Past Guard

Well, I managed to sneak past the guard and saw this famous driver testing a Trans-American Racing Series sedan. On hand were about two dozen crew members and manufacturers officials.

Still, everything was hush-hush like they were planning World War III.

Actually, they veiled themselves in secrecy because they don't want their rivals to know they're getting an early and quite serious start toward the 1970 Trans-Am championship. They picked Sear Point because it offers the greatest challenge to driver and car in the Trans-Am series.

But, wouldn't you know it! Yesterday, when it was announced the Rolling Stones would stage a concert at Sears Point Saturday, the place suddenly was crawling with newsmen and photographers while TV crews flew overhead in small planes and helicopters.

And our secretive racing team suddenly was performing in a fish bowl. Smile, you're on camera! The cat's out of the bag.

I crossed my heart not to tell any secrets, but if you must know the identity of the auto manufacturer and its big name driver, call the Holiday Inn at Terra Linda where they're staying and start asking for famous drivers. "Hello, is Barney Oldfield there? Well, how 'bout Mauri Rose? Rex Mays?"

Just keep going down the list of Indianapolis 500 winners and sooner or later you'll find your man.

Or, better yet, just go out to the Holiday Inn and look around. Our Mystery Guest will be the only one lounging around the pool in a fire suit with helmet and goggles on with the initials P.J. on his suit.

And besides, his car will be the only one in the

Owens Heads West Shrine All-Stars

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A powerhouse backfield led by Heisman trophy winner Steve Owens of Oklahoma will be on the West team in the 45th annual East-West Shrine game.

The entire West roster was announced today and along with Owens, it included such running backs as Bob Anderson of Colorado, an All-American; Art Malone of Arizona State and Greg Jones of UCLA.

The annual battle is in Stanford Stadium Dec. 27.

Two other top running backs, Gary Fowler of California and Bubba Brown of Stanford had to be switched to defense, so loaded is the team with runners.

Dennis Shaw of San Diego State, the nation's leader in total offense, will share the quarterback duties with Steve Ramsey of North Texas State.

IDAHO SENSATION

Jerry Hendren of Idaho, the top pass receiver in the nation, will be at split end along with George Farmer of UCLA. All-American John Ward of Oklahoma State is at guard.

They are joined by UCLA linebacker Mike Ballou, Cal's Irby Augustine—listed at linebacker instead of end—and Bill Brundige of Colorado, who made the second All-American team.

John Ralston of Stanford coaches the West team.

GIANTS' SCHEDULE

More Night Games And Doubleheaders

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Giants will have a new playing surface in 1970 at Candlestick Park along with a schedule emphasizing more night games and doubleheaders than in the past.

The Giants played only 19 night games in 1969, lowest in the majors outside of the Chicago Cubs, but in 1970 the number goes up to 26. The club also will play in nine home doubleheaders, up three from 1969.

NEW TURF

Artificial turf will replace the natural turf during the winter so that Candlestick Park can be used by both the Giants and the football 49ers. Work on laying down the artificial turf will begin in January and the park should be ready for the Giants' home opener against Houston on April 7.

Five days after the home opener the Giants will stage the first promotional day of 1970, and they have dubbed it "600 Day," a day in which fans will have a chance to celebrate with Willie Mays the hitting of his 600th homer. Actually, Willie hit his 600th late in 1969 but the club never had a chance to properly share the day with Giants fans.

The Giants have scheduled 72 home dates in 1970 with the World Champion Mets coming in for the first time on April 28 and the arch rival Los Angeles Dodgers on May. 26.

TEXAS VS. ARKANSAS

50 Million Televiewers Await Game Of The Year

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — All is ready for college football's Game of the Year.

The synthetic grass at Fayetteville has been vacuumed.

President Nixon has his tickets.

A national television audience estimated at 50 million is waiting, when the game is broadcast at 10 a.m., Pacific Standard Time, on Channel 7.

Texas vs. Arkansas, No. 1 vs. No. 2.

The game pits Texas, averaging more than 44 points a game, against Arkansas, with the best defense in the land against scoring.

The winner earns the Southwest Conference championship, a spot in the Cotton Bowl opposite Notre Dame and the inside track to the national championship.

The loser goes to the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans and a far less glamorous date with a 7-3 Mississippi team.

Arkansas coach Frank Broyles says Texas' execution of its relatively simple offense will be the Razorback's biggest problem.

"They are exact in what they do," he said. "Faking is the big problem. They have their bread and butter plays and they come at you with them.

"What you have to do in defending against the triple option kills your pursuit," Broyles said. "You must commit a man to each hole, even though you'd rather not. If one man misses, there'll be no help until the ball carrier gets to the safety. And they've got blockers cracking at safety."

And, as Oklahoma found out, the Longhorns can pass.

The Sooners massed nine men on the line of scrimmage, jumped off to a 14-0 lead and then succumbed when quarterback James Street began finding split end Cotton Speyrer.

Arkansas, however, has not conceded.

As one coach put it: "We've

TO CHOKE OR NOT TO CHOKE

Referee Travis Baker watches intently as Tom Grace of DeAnza pins a gasping Tom Owen of San Rafael in the 175-pound class of a dual high school wrestling meet at San Rafael yesterday. San Rafael protested that Grace was choking Owen but to no avail. The Bulldogs still managed to pick up a 25-23 win over the Richmond school with sophomore Dirk Correnti coming through with a 25-second pin in the 191-pond class to clinch it. The win was San Rafael's fourth without a loss. Other San Rafael winners were Dave McIrvin, Dave Hughes, Gil Freitas and Bob Smith. (Fred Harris photo)

Secret At Sears Point; Who's That Mystery Man?

It never fails. Try to hide something and you wind up in a fish bowl. It's like getting caught on Candid Camera with your fingers in the cookie jar. Or a bank robber who suddenly becomes a movie star.

This week a major auto manufacturer rented Sears Point International Raceway for some secret testing by its most glamorous racing team and driver.

Not a word was breathed to the news media while guards made sure no one got near the track. You couldn't get near enough to see the action, but you could hear the roar of the car as it sped around the asphalt ribbon.

All my efforts to find out what was going on were met by vague answers. "Nothing going on here," said one Sears Pointer, pointlessly. "Oh, that noise? Well, that's my grandmother breaking in her new Go-Kart. Nothing to it. See you later."

Managed To Sneak Past Guard

Well, I managed to sneak past the guard and saw this famous driver testing a Trans-American Racing Series sedan. On hand were about two dozen crew members and manufacturers officials.

Still, everything was hush-hush like they were planning World War III.

Actually, they veiled themselves in secrecy because they don't want their rivals to know they're getting an early and quite serious start toward the 1970 Trans-Am championship. They picked Sear Point because it offers the greatest challenge to driver and car in the Trans-Am series.

But, wouldn't you know it! Yesterday, when it was announced the Rolling Stones would stage a concert at Sears Point Saturday, the place suddenly was crawling with newsmen and photographers while TV crews flew overhead in small planes and helicopters.

And our secretive racing team suddenly was performing in a fish bowl. Smile, you're on camera! The cat's out of the bag.

I crossed my heart not to tell any secrets, but if you must know the identity of the auto manufacturer and its big name driver, call the Holiday Inn at Terra Linda where they're staying and start asking for famous drivers. "Hello, is Barney Oldfield there? Well, how 'bout Mauri Rose? Rex Mays?"

Just keep going down the list of Indianapolis 500 winners and sooner or later you'll find your man.

Or, better yet, just go out to the Holiday Inn and look around. Our Mystery Guest will be the only one lounging around the pool in a fire suit with helmet and goggles on with the initials P.J. on his suit.

And besides, his car will be the only one in the

GIANTS' SCHEDULE

More Night Games And Doubleheaders

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Giants will have a new playing surface in 1970 at Candlestick Park along with a schedule emphasizing more night games and doubleheaders than in the past.

The Giants played only 19 night games in 1969, lowest in the majors outside of the Chicago Cubs, but in 1970 the number goes up to 26. The club also will play in nine home doubleheaders, up three from 1969.

NEW TURF

Artificial turf will replace the natural turf during the winter so that Candlestick Park can be used by both the Giants and the football 49ers. Work on laying down the artificial turf will begin in January and the park should be ready for the Giants' home opener against Houston on April 7.

Five days after the home opener the Giants will stage the first promotional day of 1970, and they have dubbed it "600 Day," a day in which fans will have a chance to celebrate with Willie Mays the hitting of his 600th homer. Actually, Willie hit his 600th late in 1969 but the club never had a chance to properly share the day with Giants fans.

The Giants have scheduled 72 home dates in 1970 with the World Champion Mets coming in for the first time on April 28 and the arch rival Los Angeles Dodgers on May. 26.

GIANTS TRADE TRIO, GET RELIEF HURLER

Herbel, 31, was 4-1 last year in 39 games, all but four of them in relief. Etheridge, 27, hit .260 in 56 games and Barton, 28, batted .170 in 49 games.

The 25-year-old 6-foot-5 Reberger, formerly with the Chicago Cubs, was selected by San Diego last year in the expansion draft. He appeared in 67 games with the Padres and had a 1-4 won-lost record and a 3.58 earned run average.

Ron Cerrudo Is Winning '60 War'

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (UPI) — Deep in the middle of the pack at the $125,000 Danny Thomas golf classic, a desperate penny ante war is going on, and so far Ron Cerrudo is winning it.

Cerrudo, formerly of San Rafael and now living in Napa, is trying to nail down the No. 60 spot in the list of money winnings and this tournament is the last chance to do it. The magic 60 would exempt golfers from qualifying at regular tournaments on next year's tour.

Cerrudo, who has won $27,023 this year, shot a 72 yesterday, seven strokes behind the lead, but an important three strokes ahead of Jack McGowan, who is sitting in the No. 60 spot with $27,640 in earnings.

BREWER LEADS

Slow-talking Gay Brewer carried a two-stroke lead and a bit of optimism into today's second round.

"I can't say I was surprised," said the 1967 Masters champ after he slammed home an eagle putt and picked up seven birdies on his way to a record-tying 64 yesterday. "I went into this tournament expecting to play well."

AARON TIED

Tommy Aaron, who's won more than $377,000 swatting golf balls while collecting only one first-place trophy, finished yesterday's round with a five-under-par 67, along with R, H. Sikes of Springdale, Ark., and Jim Jamieson, a Moline, Ill., golfer who has earned less than $4,000 in his career as a pro.

In the pack at 68 with Palmer after one round were Homero Blancas, Tommy Bolt, Jerry Pittman, Hugh Boyer, Mason Rudolph, Peter Townsend and Hal Underwood.

The Thomas Classic, a 72-hole event which ends Sunday, is the season's final PGA tournament.

By JOHN G. GRIFFIN

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—The National League had a new president today, popular Charles "Chub" Feeney, and a new headquarters city—San Francisco—and put together they indicated the top echelon of baseball may not be reorganized drastically after all.

At least, not right away.

The 48-year-old Feeney, long time vice president of the San Francisco Giants, dropped a mighty broad hint in that direction when he announced after election yesterday:

"One of the conditions under which I accepted was that the job of league president remain the same as it has for the last 100 years."

For another thing, Feeney announced he is going to move the league headquarters from Cincinnati, where it reposed during the 18-year presidency of Warren C. Giles, to his hometown, San Francisco, for "at least a couple of years."

Feeney predicted there would be some form of restructuring, although he didn't say what, and Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said he was sure Feeney "will be a team man.

"I'm sure there will be great cooperation between his office and mine."

Kuhn declined to speculate on what form the restructuring might take now. He said the planning committee's report will not "take its final form" until a meeting of the committee tonight.

The report will be submitted to the final session of the joint meeting tomorrow.

Giles, 73, steps down from the N.L. presidency after holding the office longer than any man in history. His presidency proved one of the most eventful

A's Get Downing From N.Y.

Chavarria was sent to the Yanks' Syracuse farm in the International League.

Yesterday, the Yanks swung into action on the trading mart by shipping controversial first-baseman-outfielder Joe Peppitone to the Houston Astros for Curt Blefary, a first baseman-outfielder and catcher, and one-time Yankee bonus baby.

Downing, a 28-year-old veteran who held out all last spring, finished well for a 7-5 won-lost record and a 3.37 earned run average. Fernandez, 26, who also plays third, first and the outfield, hit .223 with 12 homers and 29 runs batted in for 89 games.

Cater, 29, is a right-handed hitter who also can play in the outfield. He hit .262 with 10 homers and a career-high 76 run batted in last season. He has a career mark of .296.

Sydney III Adds Charm To Sports-Boat Show

Tom Rooney rusticates most of the year in the Valley of the Moon. On his Sonoma ranch in the Jack London country, Rooney raises pet kangaroos. The grandpappy of the kangaroos was brought to California from Australia some years ago by Rooney to serve as mascot of the San Francisco National Sports and Boat Show.

Ever since Sydney became mascot of the show it has been a whopping success. So naturally Rooney is very fond of Sydney and sees that he gets his daily share of kangaroo goodies. It's the same with Sydney's grandchildren. Nothing's too good for them.

JUST BEFORE Christmas each year Rooney emerges from Sonoma to announce details of the show he has directed for more than a quarter of a century. This will be the 28th renewal of the show and like its predecessors it will be staged at the Cow Palace for 10 days, Jan. 9-18.

"Sydney," said Rooney on his annual pre-Christmas visit to San Francisco, "did more to popularize the show than I can say. He still is a natural for publicity, not just because of his boxing ability but his lovable personality.

"BUT HE'S a bit big now for me to carry him around as I once did. So I brought Sydney III down from the ranch to say hello."

Sydney III, popping out of a warm fur-lined bag Rooney was carrying, immediately captivated a group of sports writers who had been invited to a luncheon by Rooney.

"Isn't he a cute little sonofagun?" asked Rooney. "He thinks the bag I tote him around in is his mother's pouch."

ROONEY DECLARED that Sydney III will act as junior mascot of the 28th annual San Francisco Sports and Boat Show.

"We'll have 550 exhibits for fishing, boating, camping, hunting, vacations, travel and other outdoor recreational activities at this year's show," said Rooney.

"We've run out of room at the Cow Palace but we've been promised two new pavilions for next year."

Rooney isn't just a salesman of floor space to exhibitors. His technique of putting exhibitors' products in an attractive showcase now has them beating a path to his door.

THE PUBLIC obviously likes the way Rooney puts his shows together. More than 300,000 pass through the Cow Palace each January to see it. He provides the customers with first class entertainment. Each year he comes up with some new idea.

A feature of his original show was a Huck Finn casting pool for youngsters. "That's a permanent feature now," said Rooney, "because among today's fishermen are youngsters who wet their first line in our pool."

THE FEATURE of the 1970 show will be the "Lakester," a combination boat-auto, similar in appearance to a dunebuggy. The "Lakester" is being designed by Brooks Stevens, noted designer of boats and racing cars.

Hawks Blast Sonics; L.A. Lakers Lose Again

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

How fast can a bird fly? Well, some Hawks broke through the SuperSonic barrier Thursday night.

Atlanta's soaring Hawks blasted the Seattle SuperSonics with a 23-8 spurt in the final seven minutes for a 119-111 National Basketball Association victory last night.

In the night's only other contest, Phoenix smacked Los Angeles 119-109.

It was in those final seven minutes that Atlanta's favorite running game, which had been stalled to just five fast break baskets until then, began to speed up.

Hazzard, who clicked on 13-of-20 from the field, chalked up his highest point total of the season with 32 as he snapped a mild slump that had been him score only 54 points in the previous six games.

Center Bob Rule, who had 24 points to lead Seattle, also pulled down 16 rebounds.

Phoenix put away Los Angeles with a third quarter outburst to record its third straight victory and the sixth straight loss for the slipping Lakers.

The Suns outscored the Lakers 33-19 in that third period on some pinpoint passing by Gail Goodrich and the all-around play of Connie Hawkins.

The Suns' dominance of the boards and a hustling defense helped them build a 30-point lead early in the fourth period. Phoenix outrebounded Los Angeles overall 57-36.

Hawkins finished with 28 points to lead all scorers. Hap Hairston led Los Angeles with 25.

USF Soccer Team Gains NCAA Final

SAN JOSE (UPI) — The University of San Francisco and St. Louis University will meet tomorrow in the finals of the 1969 NCAA soccer championship.

The USF Dons downed the 1968 co-champion University of Maryland team, 1-0, in the second game of the semi-finals at Spartan Stadium. In the first game, St. Louis defeated Harvard, 2-1.

DOMINATING DONS

It was strictly a typically offensive minded USF team that controlled the tempo and momentum throughout the contest, as the Dons took 28 shots at the goal to Maryland's 14.

Maryland suffered its first NCAA loss in six contests and was shut out for the first time in four years. Goalie John Camacho of USF was credited with six saves, while Maryland goalie Frank Kolodzidy was credited with eight.

All Raider Home Game Ducats Gone

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders may have problems Sunday in stopping Cincinnati Bengal running back Paul Robinson, but at least their efforts will be made before a capacity crowd at the Oakland Coliseum.

The Oakland club confirmed that no tickets are left for the two remaining home games, Sunday against Cincinnati and the following Saturday when the Kansas City Chiefs come to town.

NEW RECORDS

Last Sunday, the Raiders and the New York Jets attracted 63,865 persons for an American Football League record. Stadium records were set in previous weeks in Kansas City and San Diego.

On Sunday, when an expected 53,000 spectators fill the Coliseum, it may be flashy Robinson who will set some records.

Robinson should be remembered by the Raiders as the 1968 rookie who started his run to win the AFL rushing title and rookie of the year title when Cincinnati met Oakland last season.

'Loser Bowl' At Kezar Tomorrow

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Chicago Bears and the San Francisco 49ers, who don't have enough victories between them to challenge anybody for a division title, meet here tomorrow in a National Football League game.

The 49ers, to whom defeat has become almost commonplace over the year, have mustered only two victores and two ties in 11 games. The Bears have never really known what losing game after game felt like, but they are finding out.

Chicago is 1-10 and lost its first seven games before beating Pittsburgh. Both those marks are records for the once-proud Bears.

Gale Sayers, who took over the NFL lead in rushing last week with a brilliant performance against Cleveland, has a foot bruise, but is expected to play.

That cannot come as welcome news to the 49ers, some of whom still remember his six-touchdown performance against them four years ago. Last year against San Francisco, Sayers suffered the knee injury that put him out of action for the year.

Dick Butkus, the Bears' fine middle linebacker, has been suffering from bruised ribs, but is also expected to see some action.

The 49ers' excellent safety Mel Phillips will not start because of a sprained right knee, but may see some action. Al Randolph is the backup man.

Veteran John Brodie will be at quarterback for the 49ers while young Virgil Carter will be at the controls for the first time this season.

Bobby Douglass, the Kansas rookie, took over in midseason when Jack Concannon was hurt and though he has looked good at times, he couldn't do anything about the Bears' losses.

The 49ers are favored by 6 ½ points.

got a contract to fulfill. We'll be there."

Utilizing the pro-type attack, Arkansas has averaged more than 35 points a game and has not scored less than three touchdowns in any game.

The Arkansas offense blends the running of Bill Burnett and Bruce Maxwell with the passing of quarterback Bill Montgomery.

"Texas is so sound defensively," says Montgomery. "They line up and say, 'Here we are, come after us with anything you've got, we're gonna stop it.' They're such good players, so well-coached, that they don't have to do anything special.

"For instance, they put a great deal of pressure on the passer with just their four down linemen," he said.

Coach Don Brenaux, who Broyles recruited from Florida State two years ago to install the pro-style offense, says the Texas defense is sound.

"You almost know what they will be in," he said. "They have certain adjustments they make regardless of who they play. They have basically an eight-man front, but they're versatile.

"We've got to do a good job on our pass protection," Breax said. "And our short-yardage and goalline plays are very critical."

Burnett is one of the best near the goalline. The 185-pound junior has scored 35 touchdowns in less than two seasons, 19 of them this year. He'll scratch for every inch and specializes in diving over a stacked defense at the goal.

The key to Arkansas' chances may be field position. The Razorbacks can not afford to give the Longhorns a close-in opportunity at a touchdown.

"We don't know how good they are," Broyles said. "We don't know how good we are."

They'll find out Saturday in what should be a fitting climax to college football's 100th year.

Sydney III Adds Charm To Sports-Boat Show

Tom Rooney rusticates most of the year in the Valley of the Moon. On his Sonoma ranch in the Jack London country, Rooney raises pet kangaroos. The grandpappy of the kangaroos was brought to California from Australia some years ago by Rooney to serve as mascot of the San Francisco National Sports and Boat Show.

Ever since Sydney became mascot of the show it has been a whopping success. So naturally Rooney is very fond of Sydney and sees that he gets his daily share of kangaroo goodies. It's the same with Sydney's grandchildren. Nothing's too good for them.

JUST BEFORE Christmas each year Rooney emerges from Sonoma to announce details of the show he has directed for more than a quarter of a century. This will be the 28th renewal of the show and like its predecessors it will be staged at the Cow Palace for 10 days, Jan. 9-18.

"Sydney," said Rooney on his annual pre-Christmas visit to San Francisco, "did more to popularize the show than I can say. He still is a natural for publicity, not just because of his boxing ability but his lovable personality.

"BUT HE'S a bit big now for me to carry him around as I once did. So I brought Sydney III down from the ranch to say hello."

Sydney III, popping out of a warm fur-lined bag Rooney was carrying, immediately captivated a group of sports writers who had been invited to a luncheon by Rooney.

"Isn't he a cute little sonofagun?" asked Rooney. "He thinks the bag I tote him around in is his mother's pouch."

ROONEY DECLARED that Sydney III will act as junior mascot of the 28th annual San Francisco Sports and Boat Show.

"We'll have 550 exhibits for fishing, boating, camping, hunting, vacations, travel and other outdoor recreational activities at this year's show," said Rooney.

"We've run out of room at the Cow Palace but we've been promised two new pavilions for next year."

Rooney isn't just a salesman of floor space to exhibitors. His technique of putting exhibitors' products in an attractive showcase now has them beating a path to his door.

THE PUBLIC obviously likes the way Rooney puts his shows together. More than 300,000 pass through the Cow Palace each January to see it. He provides the customers with first class entertainment. Each year he comes up with some new idea.

A feature of his original show was a Huck Finn casting pool for youngsters. "That's a permanent feature now," said Rooney, "because among today's fishermen are youngsters who wet their first line in our pool."

THE FEATURE of the 1970 show will be the "Lakester," a combination boat-auto, similar in appearance to a dunebuggy. The "Lakester" is being designed by Brooks Stevens, noted designer of boats and racing cars.

Hawks Blast Sonics; L.A. Lakers Lose Again

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

How fast can a bird fly? Well, some Hawks broke through the SuperSonic barrier Thursday night.

Atlanta's soaring Hawks blasted the Seattle SuperSonics with a 23-8 spurt in the final seven minutes for a 119-111 National Basketball Association victory last night.

In the night's only other contest, Phoenix smacked Los Angeles 119-109.

It was in those final seven minutes that Atlanta's favorite running game, which had been stalled to just five fast break baskets until then, began to speed up.

Hazzard, who clicked on 13-of-20 from the field, chalked up his highest point total of the season with 32 as he snapped a mild slump that had been him score only 54 points in the previous six games.

Center Bob Rule, who had 24 points to lead Seattle, also pulled down 16 rebounds.

Phoenix put away Los Angeles with a third quarter outburst to record its third straight victory and the sixth straight loss for the slipping Lakers.

The Suns outscored the Lakers 33-19 in that third period on some pinpoint passing by Gail Goodrich and the all-around play of Connie Hawkins.

The Suns' dominance of the boards and a hustling defense helped them build a 30-point lead early in the fourth period. Phoenix outrebounded Los Angeles overall 57-36.

Hawkins finished with 28 points to lead all scorers. Hap Hairston led Los Angeles with 25.

USF Soccer Team Gains NCAA Final

SAN JOSE (UPI) — The University of San Francisco and St. Louis University will meet tomorrow in the finals of the 1969 NCAA soccer championship.

The USF Dons downed the 1968 co-champion University of Maryland team, 1-0, in the second game of the semi-finals at Spartan Stadium. In the first game, St. Louis defeated Harvard, 2-1.

DOMINATING DONS

It was strictly a typically offensive minded USF team that controlled the tempo and momentum throughout the contest, as the Dons took 28 shots at the goal to Maryland's 14.

Maryland suffered its first NCAA loss in six contests and was shut out for the first time in four years. Goalie John Camacho of USF was credited with six saves, while Maryland goalie Frank Kolodzidy was credited with eight.

All Raider Home Game Ducats Gone

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders may have problems Sunday in stopping Cincinnati Bengal running back Paul Robinson, but at least their efforts will be made before a capacity crowd at the Oakland Coliseum.

The Oakland club confirmed that no tickets are left for the two remaining home games, Sunday against Cincinnati and the following Saturday when the Kansas City Chiefs come to town.

NEW RECORDS

Last Sunday, the Raiders and the New York Jets attracted 63,865 persons for an American Football League record. Stadium records were set in previous weeks in Kansas City and San Diego.

On Sunday, when an expected 53,000 spectators fill the Coliseum, it may be flashy Robinson who will set some records.

Robinson should be remembered by the Raiders as the 1968 rookie who started his run to win the AFL rushing title and rookie of the year title when Cincinnati met Oakland last season.

periods the game has seen, including the shift of a number of existing franchises to new cities, the expansion of the league to the Pacific Coast, and the rise in league cities from eight teams to ten and then to twelve teams, with the first league championship playoffs in history in 1969.

'Loser Bowl' At Kezar Tomorrow

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Chicago Bears and the San Francisco 49ers, who don't have enough victories between them to challenge anybody for a division title, meet here tomorrow in a National Football League game.

The 49ers, to whom defeat has become almost commonplace over the year, have mustered only two victores and two ties in 11 games. The Bears have never really known what losing game after game felt like, but they are finding out.

Chicago is 1-10 and lost its first seven games before beating Pittsburgh. Both those marks are records for the once-proud Bears.

Gale Sayers, who took over the NFL lead in rushing last week with a brilliant performance against Cleveland, has a foot bruise, but is expected to play.

That cannot come as welcome news to the 49ers, some of whom still remember his six-touchdown performance against them four years ago. Last year against San Francisco, Sayers suffered the knee injury that put him out of action for the year.

Dick Butkus, the Bears' fine middle linebacker, has been suffering from bruised ribs, but is also expected to see some action.

The 49ers' excellent safety Mel Phillips will not start because of a sprained right knee, but may see some action. Al Randolph is the backup man.

Veteran John Brodie will be at quarterback for the 49ers while young Virgil Carter will be at the controls for the first time this season.

Bobby Douglass, the Kansas rookie, took over in midseason when Jack Concannon was hurt and though he has looked good at times, he couldn't do anything about the Bears' losses.

The 49ers are favored by 6 ½ points.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

My Son Still Looking For That Silver Lining

I keep reading in a San Francisco newspaper about the hunting and fishing exploits of the writer and his young son. They never miss! I can't understand it at all.

I was taking an inventory of my son Andy's outdoor success, and I've come to the conclusion that he is a failure. Would you believe that in four or five years of fishing for silver salmon he hasn't caught even one?

LAST SUNDAY he spent the day fishing and talking with two fishermen at Tomales Bay, each exchanging information on the best methods of lure fishing. They kept telling him what "Warden Al Giddings" had said, and Andy, not telling them his name, argued every point, and not in my favor! He really put them on, and of course proceeded to fish his way.

(Another time in the Sierras when the fish were only hitting baits, I limited out, but not my son. He used lures and never got a hit.)

And each year when quail season rolls around, out goes Andy, and there am I, home smacking my lips waiting for a nice mess of quail for dinner. Never has he brought a quail home. Two years ago he arrive home with a story that he got one, but he met a hippie gal on the way home. She really wanted that little bird for dinner, so says Andy, so he gave it to her.

THIS YEAR he took his buddy, Bob Horton (who is another "never gets anything" guy) along up to a ranch. It was opening day — everyone could get a bird or two on this day — but here they came with nary a feather.

And ducks? Nope, never a bird. Deer hunting? Well, he does hold his own here, but deer meat morning, noon and night makes up a sad bill of fare. Maybe he's just a natural born conservationist.

ABOUT SAN PABLO Bay striper fishing — here's the hot dope. Sam Knoles and I went a couple of days ago, fishing the high tide out. I nailed a 10-pounder in the first 15 minutes, and do you know that six hours later, after fishing the duck blinds, the shellbank and the pumphouse areas, that we never had another hit?

One consolation, however. Mat Palacio Jr. of San Rafael, a dedicated Duck's Unlimited worker, had given me a call to try some duck hunting in one of the bay blinds with him. As I already had a fishing date with Sam, I couldn't go, but I anchored where I could see Mat. I know from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. that he didn't fire a shot. I guess things are just tough all over.

There were about 2,000 bluebills with some canvasbacks out there, but they were generally rafted up and not working. Maybe some of you skull boaters should try this area.

BOB WILSON of Woodacre came by this week with a pep talk on the sturgeon fishing between the Richmond Bridge and the old net depot. That's the area where the bass trollers have been doing well. That might be just the place to go this weekend; at least from all reports, one would have a shot at either sturgeon or bass.

Up in the flats off Hamilton Field, I've made six trips this past month with Knoles. We've taken six bass for the boat with weights of 28½, 22, 12, 12, 10 and 8 pounds. No bad — not good. That's one fish per trip — no sturgeon.

HAZEL EDDINGS of Bucks' Landing in Santa Venetia called to say that Mike Madden of 2 Joan Court, Novato, took a 6-foot, 7-inch sturgeon in San Pablo Bay this past week. The fish weighed 105 pounds, which is the largest sturgeon I've heard of this season.

Most of the reports I've had on pheasants are that things really got tough after the opening day. Unless you can find one of the state's duck co-ops where they sometimes open new areas the last part of the season, things will be tough, and without a dog, I'd say "stay home."

Ducks have been pretty tough to get, too, except for the very foggy days when they get a little lost from their refuge home, and wander out to an open pond. This year, with no rains or big winds to date, the birds will stay put in their safe refuge areas.

EXCELLENT abalone and clam tides are on tap Sunday, Monday and Tuesday afternoons and time is running out. The season closes Jan. 15 and won't open until March 16.

Today's the day the Fish and Game Commission was to meet to set next year's fishing regulations. It could be they will pass the open night fishing in San Francisco and San Pablo bays. I haven't heard of much opposition.

JOCK VS. THE EGGHEAD

There's An Emotional War Brewing

By GARY TISCHLER

A strange and rather sad thing is happening to high school athletics, and perhaps American athletics in general.

Battle lines are being drawn.

There is a kind of verbal, highly emotional war brewing and the chosen site seems to be athletics strung up tight as the last refuge of the "American way of life."

It starts with hair, goes on to discipline, jurisdiction, courts, school boards and wholesale firings and winds up in needless polarization.

The jock against the egghead.

Clean-cut vs. long-haired.

And maybe even fascist pigs against commie hippies.

And everyone grits his teeth, stemming the other side, which suddenly turns into total anathema.

The defenders of athletics somehow seem to feel that if you give in here, you open the gates and resign athletics to its doom.

And the defenders of individuality, and I think that's the banner the whole thing works under, think that compromise is somehow tainted.

Being a sportswriter is a little like sitting in the middle. You can hear all the guts and emotions tightening up in both camps.

Somehow, the whole thing seems to me to be a case of a lot of people forgetting some basic things.

One of them is that you can lambast ideas and other people's principles all to hell, but it is still people who mouth them, not pieces of paper.

The other is that athletics is surely not something that you can put in a neat bag, tag it and call it a dirty name, nor that football, for instance, is quite the same thing as another sport.

To say that coaches and their defenders, if they need them, are unread martinets, albatrosses who live in another time, or remnants of the Nazi Army is a curious way of looking through the looking glass.

So, for that matter, is thinking that if a youngster asks a question, you don't have to answer it because he isn't old enough to drink yet.

I'm sure if you look at it long enough, you can find plenty of things wrong with athletics, but quite a few of them are treasured myths. The old story of the tackle taking basketweaving and speaking in grunts, the muscle boy who beats up the book-reader, the coach who does anything to win, doesn't hold so true anymore. They're exceptions, not the rule.

Part of the problem is that whatever charms athletics has to offer come wrapped in sentiment. The old school ties, bright-eyed girls crying after the game, crepe paper at the school dance, half-time pep talks, heroics and adrenalin. Some of them are not around any more, but they are fondly remembered and die hard.

It is like the 40-year-old ex-athlete who still has the brown clipping from the local paper. I think too many of this very hip, very bright generation would have no use for him.

It is a little hard to look past the sentiments and see some genuine value, but it's there. The cliche is true, it keeps them off the streets.

Lew Alcindor does go back to the ghetto to get the baby brothers turned on to basketball. It is a way of becoming something for a lot of somebodies who may not get the chance otherwise. And, if you are a part of it, it is likely to be something that you won't quite forget.

Certainly, athletics could use some change, fresh winds, new ways of doing things. Certainly, it is not heresy to question some of its rules and methods of operation. The walls will not fall down if the question is asked and discussed without rancor. But it does not have to come in a rush of change for the hell of it.

I keep remembering a man who was my coach. I've forgotten his name now, but he wore glasses, was paunchy and when his wife had a baby boy we all joked and said he'd become a ballet dancer. It wasn't a cruel joke because we did respect the man. He was surprisingly gentle and amazingly successful. He was not our collective father, nor did anybody think he was, but he pretended to be, which was good enough. I think he would be a little perplexed about this, but I don't think he would panic.

And I think that's what could happen. A kind of emotional panic that sets the jaw, heats the head and winds up with everyone screaming. It might be a jim-dandy war, but I don't think anybody would win. At all.

BOWLING TIPS

After you've delivered the ball and completed your follow-through, get out of the way. How many times have you been irritated by a bowler who stands at the foul line and mumbles about his misfortune, meanwhile causing you to delay? Be considerate of other bowlers.

Basketball At Tomales Looking Up

(Ninth in a series on Marin County high school basketball prospects.)

You could say things are looking up at Tomales High School.

Everybody's looking up at six-foot-six Bob Dixon, who is once again expected to make Tomales High School basketball fortunes go.

The growing, 200-pound center is only a junior, but as a sophomore last season he averaged 28.1 points per game over 16 games on 450 points, as well as being one of the top rebounders in the North Central II League.

Dixon would be enough for some teams, but the Braves have some fairly good material around to balance things out.

There's senior guard Joe Lopes, who averaged 12 points per game last season, and veterans like 6-foot senior Bob Weiss, senior guard Mark Diekmann, and seniors Bruce Adams and Axel Anderson.

Ron Petroni, the football sensation, is expected to help out considerably if and when he recovers from a grid injury, which is expected to be in about two weeks.

Tomales had a 12-5 season mark last year, finishing second in the North Central II League.

Lew's Gone But UCLA Still Team To Beat

By JOE SARGIS

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Lew Alcindor's gone but UCLA still is the team to beat in Pacific 8 Conference basketball this year, and it wouldn't surprise too many people in the West if the Bruins go on to win an unprecedented fourth straight national title.

Wooden is candid about his team's chances.

"We are very proud of our five NCAA team titles but realize that many little things have to fall in place to gain even one."

One of those "little things this year is Bibby, an exceptional guard moving up from the freshman team which he paced with a 26.8 average. In addition to being a fine shooter, he handles the ball better than might be expected under the circumstances.

The Bruins have had such a stranglehold on the Pacific 8 Conference the last five years that the other seven teams in the league have had to settle for second every time. That necessarily isn't so this year because Southern California, Oregon State and Washington all think they have a chance to topple UCLA.

And in the equally tough West Coast Athletic Conference, both Santa Clara and the University of Pacific feel they have a chance to represent the West this season in the NCAA playoffs.

Oregon State is optimistic because of Gary Freeman's reinstatement by the NCAA (he's a 6-foot-9 forward) and the return of Vince Fritz, the Beavers' leading scorer two years ago who sat things out the last time around because of a back injury.

Tex Winter, by any standards, did a remarkable job with the Washington Huskies last year, bringing home a very inexperienced team with a 13-13 record. He had only three seniors on the squad last year. The juniors, nine strong, got the experience to make the Huskies tough this year. Top men are 6-foot-9 center Jay Bond and 6-foot-6 forward George Irvine.

Southern California's chances to improve on its 15-12 record of a year ago hinge on how fast three junior college transfers come along and on the graduates of an unbeaten freshman team of a year ago. No question the Trojans will need playing time before anyone can evaluate their chances,

That leaves California, Washington State, Oregon and Stanford to fill out the league. None is a real threat although Cal might surprise because it has two top-notchers in All-Coast forward Jackie Ridgle (19.1 scoring average) and All-Conference guard Charley Johnson, plus soph center Ansley Truitt.

San Jose State, which has a pretty fine club, has switched from the WCAC to the new Pacific Coast Athletic Association, leaving Santa Clara, the defending champion, and UOP, third last year, to fight it out for the WCAC title.

Santa Clara's strength is its balance, anchored by big men Dennis Awtry and Ralph Ogden. The only player of note missing from last year's 26-1 club is Bud Ogden, who is in the Philadelphia 76ers organization.

UOP has a lot of ground to make up to beat out the Broncos.

Long Beach State, 22-3 last year, and San Jose State look like the best teams in the PCAA.

JOCK VS. THE EGGHEAD

There's An Emotional War Brewing

By GARY TISCHLER

A strange and rather sad thing is happening to high school athletics, and perhaps American athletics in general.

Battle lines are being drawn.

There is a kind of verbal, highly emotional war brewing and the chosen site seems to be athletics strung up tight as the last refuge of the "American way of life."

It starts with hair, goes on to discipline, jurisdiction, courts, school boards and wholesale firings and winds up in needless polarization.

The jock against the egghead.

Clean-cut vs. long-haired.

And maybe even fascist pigs against commie hippies.

And everyone grits his teeth, stemming the other side, which suddenly turns into total anathema.

The defenders of athletics somehow seem to feel that if you give in here, you open the gates and resign athletics to its doom.

And the defenders of individuality, and I think that's the banner the whole thing works under, think that compromise is somehow tainted.

Being a sportswriter is a little like sitting in the middle. You can hear all the guts and emotions tightening up in both camps.

Somehow, the whole thing seems to me to be a case of a lot of people forgetting some basic things.

One of them is that you can lambast ideas and other people's principles all to hell, but it is still people who mouth them, not pieces of paper.

The other is that athletics is surely not something that you can put in a neat bag, tag it and call it a dirty name, nor that football, for instance, is quite the same thing as another sport.

To say that coaches and their defenders, if they need them, are unread martinets, albatrosses who live in another time, or remnants of the Nazi Army is a curious way of looking through the looking glass.

So, for that matter, is thinking that if a youngster asks a question, you don't have to answer it because he isn't old enough to drink yet.

I'm sure if you look at it long enough, you can find plenty of things wrong with athletics, but quite a few of them are treasured myths. The old story of the tackle taking basketweaving and speaking in grunts, the muscle boy who beats up the book-reader, the coach who does anything to win, doesn't hold so true anymore. They're exceptions, not the rule.

Part of the problem is that whatever charms athletics has to offer come wrapped in sentiment. The old school ties, bright-eyed girls crying after the game, crepe paper at the school dance, half-time pep talks, heroics and adrenalin. Some of them are not around any more, but they are fondly remembered and die hard.

It is like the 40-year-old ex-athlete who still has the brown clipping from the local paper. I think too many of this very hip, very bright generation would have no use for him.

It is a little hard to look past the sentiments and see some genuine value, but it's there. The cliche is true, it keeps them off the streets.

Lew Alcindor does go back to the ghetto to get the baby brothers turned on to basketball. It is a way of becoming something for a lot of somebodies who may not get the chance otherwise. And, if you are a part of it, it is likely to be something that you won't quite forget.

Certainly, athletics could use some change, fresh winds, new ways of doing things. Certainly, it is not heresy to question some of its rules and methods of operation. The walls will not fall down if the question is asked and discussed without rancor. But it does not have to come in a rush of change for the hell of it.

I keep remembering a man who was my coach. I've forgotten his name now, but he wore glasses, was paunchy and when his wife had a baby boy we all joked and said he'd become a ballet dancer. It wasn't a cruel joke because we did respect the man. He was surprisingly gentle and amazingly successful. He was not our collective father, nor did anybody think he was, but he pretended to be, which was good enough. I think he would be a little perplexed about this, but I don't think he would panic.

And I think that's what could happen. A kind of emotional panic that sets the jaw, heats the head and winds up with everyone screaming. It might be a jim-dandy war, but I don't think anybody would win. At all.

BOWLING TIPS

After you've delivered the ball and completed your follow-through, get out of the way. How many times have you been irritated by a bowler who stands at the foul line and mumbles about his misfortune, meanwhile causing you to delay? Be considerate of other bowlers.

Basketball At Tomales Looking Up

(Ninth in a series on Marin County high school basketball prospects.)

You could say things are looking up at Tomales High School.

Everybody's looking up at six-foot-six Bob Dixon, who is once again expected to make Tomales High School basketball fortunes go.

The growing, 200-pound center is only a junior, but as a sophomore last season he averaged 28.1 points per game over 16 games on 450 points, as well as being one of the top rebounders in the North Central II League.

Dixon would be enough for some teams, but the Braves have some fairly good material around to balance things out.

There's senior guard Joe Lopes, who averaged 12 points per game last season, and veterans like 6-foot senior Bob Weiss, senior guard Mark Diekmann, and seniors Bruce Adams and Axel Anderson.

Ron Petroni, the football sensation, is expected to help out considerably if and when he recovers from a grid injury, which is expected to be in about two weeks.

Tomales had a 12-5 season mark last year, finishing second in the North Central II League.

Lew's Gone But UCLA Still Team To Beat

By JOE SARGIS

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Lew Alcindor's gone but UCLA still is the team to beat in Pacific 8 Conference basketball this year, and it wouldn't surprise too many people in the West if the Bruins go on to win an unprecedented fourth straight national title.

Wooden is candid about his team's chances.

"We are very proud of our five NCAA team titles but realize that many little things have to fall in place to gain even one."

One of those "little things this year is Bibby, an exceptional guard moving up from the freshman team which he paced with a 26.8 average. In addition to being a fine shooter, he handles the ball better than might be expected under the circumstances.

The Bruins have had such a stranglehold on the Pacific 8 Conference the last five years that the other seven teams in the league have had to settle for second every time. That necessarily isn't so this year because Southern California, Oregon State and Washington all think they have a chance to topple UCLA.

And in the equally tough West Coast Athletic Conference, both Santa Clara and the University of Pacific feel they have a chance to represent the West this season in the NCAA playoffs.

Oregon State is optimistic because of Gary Freeman's reinstatement by the NCAA (he's a 6-foot-9 forward) and the return of Vince Fritz, the Beavers' leading scorer two years ago who sat things out the last time around because of a back injury.

Tex Winter, by any standards, did a remarkable job with the Washington Huskies last year, bringing home a very inexperienced team with a 13-13 record. He had only three seniors on the squad last year. The juniors, nine strong, got the experience to make the Huskies tough this year. Top men are 6-foot-9 center Jay Bond and 6-foot-6 forward George Irvine.

Southern California's chances to improve on its 15-12 record of a year ago hinge on how fast three junior college transfers come along and on the graduates of an unbeaten freshman team of a year ago. No question the Trojans will need playing time before anyone can evaluate their chances,

That leaves California, Washington State, Oregon and Stanford to fill out the league. None is a real threat although Cal might surprise because it has two top-notchers in All-Coast forward Jackie Ridgle (19.1 scoring average) and All-Conference guard Charley Johnson, plus soph center Ansley Truitt.

San Jose State, which has a pretty fine club, has switched from the WCAC to the new Pacific Coast Athletic Association, leaving Santa Clara, the defending champion, and UOP, third last year, to fight it out for the WCAC title.

Santa Clara's strength is its balance, anchored by big men Dennis Awtry and Ralph Ogden. The only player of note missing from last year's 26-club is Bud Ogden, who is in the Philadelphia 76ers organization.

UOP has a lot of ground to make up to beat out the Broncos.

Long Beach State, 22-3 last year, and San Jose State look like the best teams in the PCAA.

HOW TO PLAY BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Battle Of The Sexes Sometimes Is Fought On The Bridge Table

Few readers know how much patient research goes into the preparation of this bridge column.

Many years ago somebody reported that when a lady bridge player says "No," she means "Maybe."

I investigated thousands of cases in North America, Western Europe and the Far East and am now able to report my findings in the form of the hand shown today.

No. 4043 .... Dec. 5, 1969

OPENING LEAD

West opened the king of hearts, and East played the deuce in a proper, ladylike manner.

That is, she played the deuce without hesitation or undue emphasis.

West, a gentleman, assumed that when a lady plays the deuce she means "No."

He therefore switched to the ace of clubs on the assumption that East would not discourage a heart continuation unless she was ready for a switch to the logical side suit.

West may have been a gentleman, but he was no bridge player.

South lost only two hearts and one club, and East lost her composure.

"You should have led a low heart at the second trick," she pointed out.

HIDDEN MEANING

East was, of course, quite right. If East is allowed to win the second heart she can return a club to give West two club tricks.

"There was a hidden meaning in East's deuce of hearts at the first trick, and West should have known that the apparent "No" really was an emphatic "Yes."

After the first trick, West could see all of the hearts except the queen and the ten.

If East had both of them, she would have played the ten (from Q-10-2) at the first trick.

If East had only the ten of hearts left, she would have played it (from 10-2) at the first trick to signal her doubleton.

East would play the deuce at the first trick only if she had the singleton deuce or the doubleton queen-deuce.

In either case, West should be a bridge player rather than a gentleman.

He should lead a low heart, knowing what a lady really means when she says "No."

DAILY QUESTION

Dealer, at your left, opens with one club, and your partner doubles.

The next player passes. You hold:

♥ Q 2
♦ 8 7 4 2
♣ 9 8 5 3 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one diamond.

Despite your length in clubs you cannot afford to pass.

The opponent will probably make one club with an overtrick or two, and your partner, will feel that he cannot afford to use an ordinary takeout double with you.

Respond in your unbid suit, weak though it is, and hope for the best.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, Dec. 5, the 339th day of 1969 with 26 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1776, the first scholastic fraternity in America, Phi Beta Kappa, was organized at William and Mary College in Virginia.

In 1848, President James Polk confirmed the discovery of gold in California, which led to the famed "gold rush" of 1848 and 1849.

In 1933, prohibition was abolished when Utah became the 30th state to ratify the 21st amendment.

In 1963, Herbert Lehman, former governor and senator of New York, died.

A thought for the day: Jonathan Swift said, "Satire is a sort of glass, wherein beholders generally discover everybody's face but their own."

Gov. Farnsworth Serves Six Days

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — West Virginia had a governor who served only six days.

He was Daniel Duane Tompkins Farnsworth, the second governor, who served from Feb. 27 to March 3, 1869.

He succeeded Arthur I. Borman who resigned to become a U.S. senator. Farnsworth served until the third governor, William Erskine Stevenson, took office.

Dwight D. Eisenhower spent his boyhood days at Abilene, Kans.

"The new kid's name is Bobby. Is that a boy or a girl?"

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, Dec. 5, the 339th day of 1969 with 26 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1776, the first scholastic fraternity in America, Phi Beta Kappa, was organized at William and Mary College in Virginia.

In 1848, President James Polk confirmed the discovery of gold in California, which led to the famed "gold rush" of 1848 and 1849.

In 1933, prohibition was abolished when Utah became the 30th state to ratify the 21st amendment.

In 1963, Herbert Lehman, former governor and senator of New York, died.

A thought for the day: Jonathan Swift said, "Satire is a sort of glass, wherein beholders generally discover everybody's face but their own."

Gov. Farnsworth Serves Six Days

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — West Virginia had a governor who served only six days.

He was Daniel Duane Tompkins Farnsworth, the second governor, who served from Feb. 27 to March 3, 1869.

He succeeded Arthur I. Borman who resigned to become a U.S. senator. Farnsworth served until the third governor, William Erskine Stevenson, took office.

Dwight D. Eisenhower spent his boyhood days at Abilene, Kans.

HOW TO PLAY BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Battle Of The Sexes Sometimes Is Fought On The Bridge Table

Few readers know how much patient research goes into the preparation of this bridge column.

Many years ago somebody reported that when a lady bridge player says "No," she means "Maybe."

I investigated thousands of cases in North America, Western Europe and the Far East and am now able to report my findings in the form of the hand shown today.

OPENING LEAD

West opened the king of hearts, and East played the deuce in a proper, ladylike manner.

That is, she played the deuce without hesitation or undue emphasis.

West, a gentleman, assumed that when a lady plays the deuce she means "No."

He therefore switched to the ace of clubs on the assumption that East would not discourage a heart continuation unless she was ready for a switch to the logical side suit.

West may have been a gentleman, but he was no bridge player.

South lost only two hearts and one club, and East lost her composure.

"You should have led a low heart at the second trick," she pointed out.

HIDDEN MEANING

East was, of course, quite right. If East is allowed to win the second heart she can return a club to give West two club tricks.

"There was a hidden meaning in East's deuce of hearts at the first trick, and West should have known that the apparent "No" really was an emphatic "Yes."

After the first trick, West could see all of the hearts except the queen and the ten.

If East had both of them, she would have played the ten (from Q-10-2) at the first trick.

If East had only the ten of hearts left, she would have played it (from 10-2) at the first trick to signal her doubleton.

East would play the deuce at the first trick only if she had the singleton deuce or the doubleton queen-deuce.

In either case, West should be a bridge player rather than a gentleman.

He should lead a low heart, knowing what a lady really means when she says "No."

DAILY QUESTION

Dealer, at your left, opens with one club, and your partner doubles.

The next player passes.

You hold:

♥ Q 2
♦ 8 7 4 2
♣ 9 8 5 3 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one diamond.

Despite your length in clubs you cannot afford to pass.

The opponent will probably make one club with an overtrick or two, and your partner, will feel that he cannot afford to use an ordinary takeout double with you.

Respond in your unbid suit, weak though it is, and hope for the best.

THIS WEEK IN BUSINESS

Forecaster Sees No Rise In '70 Building

The national total of 1970 construction value will just about equal 1969's $66 billion, according to the last F. W. Dodge construction report.

The opening quarter of the year is expected to be the weakest, with each successive quarter showing improvement. Housing is expected to be the first to advance, and with an adequate flow of mortgage money, homebuilding will continue throughout the year.

During the past 12 months, construction costs rose higher than any time since 1946, with an average jump in labor and materials of 7.5 per cent during the year ended Sept. 30.

STANDARD OIL CO. OF CALIFORNIA and Boise Cascade Corp. have announced a $100 million commercial land development on 128 acres owned by Standard at El Segundo, Southern California. Site work will begin shortly on a complex of highrise office buildings, research facilities, stores, restaurants, and hotels. The two companies have formed Sepulveda Properties, Inc., owned 50 per cent by each, to carry out the development.

LEISURE DYNAMICS, INC., Minneapolis, and the major shareholders of McCormack International Motors, Inc., Santa Ana, have reached an agreement whereby Leisure will be granted an option to purchase all outstanding stock of McCormack International. Under terms of the five-year option, Leisure could acquire McCormack International stock for Leisure stock.

HY-LOND ENTERPRISES, Sonoma, has entered into an agreement with Firestone Group, Ltd., Beverly Hills-based investment company for the sale and leaseback of three convalescent hospitals and the outright sale of still another. Total patient capacity is 398 beds. Hy-Lond has announced a policy of selling properties and then operating them under long-term leases or management contracts when it is financially advantageous, and is now constructing four more facilities with that concept in mind.

SEARS, ROEBUCK AND CO. has reported sales for the five weeks ended Nov. 29 as 5.9 per cent higher than last year. Gross sales for the period were $1,075 million, an increase of $59.4 million. Sears volume for the 44 weeks ended Nov. 29 was $7,918 million also a record and increase of 8.7 per cent from 1968.

MONTGOMERY WARD reported estimated sales for the five-week period of Oct. 25 through Nov. 29 at $242.7 million, a 3.5 per cent increase from the $242.7 million reported last year. Estimated cumulated sales for the 10 months beginning Jan. 26 were $1,768 million, an 8.9 per cent improvement from last year.

WORLD AIRWAYS, INC., Oakland, has reported revenues of $71.7 million and consolidated earnings of $8.6 million for the first nine months of 1969. Comparative figures for last year were $66.9 million in revenues and $10.3 million in consolidated earnings.

EMPORIUM CAPWELL CO. has reported 1969 third quarter sales at $49 million an increase of 3.57 per cent over 1968. Net earnings were $2 million, an increase of 5.16 per cent over last year's third quarter. Earnings per share were 37 cents and 35 cents respectively.

WHITNEY-FIDALGO SEAFOODS, INC. of Seattle has terminated merger negotiations with General Host Corp. of New York City begun in October. Discussions involving an exchange of stock resulted in a substantial decline in the price of General Host common stock and have ended by mutual agreement.

SIMPSON TIMBER CO. of Korbel, Humboldt County, has started up its redwood sawmill on completion of a $5 million modernization program. Closed for seven months, the rebuilt mill features new equipment and strengthens Simpson's position as a major redwood producer.

$800,000 Down

CHICAGO (UPI) — Mangood Corp. has bought Peacock Engineering Co. for $800,000 down and a total of $2 million, contingent on future earnings.

HALO OF DIAMONDS

Jewelry expert Jerry Light peers at more than a quarter-million dollars worth of faceted diamonds on a glass table in the Bulova Watch Co.'s Jackson Heights, N.Y., plant. The firm, sole U.S. producer of women's diamond watches, predicts that half a million diamond watches will be gifts for women this Christmas season. (UPI Telephoto)

Stock Market Declines In Week's End

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market declined today in moderate trading.

Analysts attributed the bearish tone to year-end tax selling, normal pre-weekend portfolio lightening by investors, and mounting concern over tight credit and inflation.

Among the day's most active issues were Jim Walter Corp., Gulf Oil, and Sperry Rand. Jim Walter traded an early block of 125,000 shares at 33 1-4 in a cross-transaction, off 3-4, and Gulf a block of 78,200 at 28 1-8, cross.

Other heavily traded stocks included Texaco, AMK Corp., Midland-Ross, Occidental, International Telephone, Apco Oil, and American Telephone.

Electronic issues ranged to more than 2 lower. Oils traded in both directions, although most point-sized movers were pointing lower.

In the oil group, Natoms lost 3 1-8 near the close, and Reading & Bates and Standard of Ohio lost more than a point each.

Fractionally lower near the close were General Electric, Collins Radio, Gulf & Western Ling-Temco, International Telephone, Bethlehem Steel, Armco Steel, Ford, Chrysler, Penn Central, UAL Inc., General Dynamics, and Grumman.

Slightly higher, however, were General Motors, Du Pont, Great Northern, KLm, American Airlines, Walter Kidde, and American Telephone.

Steels, motors and chemicals traded in narrowly irregular ranges. Airlines were mostly lower, as were conglomerates.

Rails, aircrafts and gold mining shares moved in small ranges and generally without direction.

Prices were weak on the American Stock Exchange in moderate turnover.

Firm To Join Stock Markets

COSTA MESA, (BW) — Standard-Pacific Corp., a diversified California home building company, will be admitted for trading on the American and Pacific Coast stock exchanges effective Dec. 10, it has been announced.

The Costa Mesa-Headquartered firm has 2,153,194 common shares outstanding and is currently being traded over-the-counter.

Standard-Pacific, whose home building activities cover both Southern and Northern California, is also engaged in a major expansion and diversification program through internal growth.

Company Tells Plans For Tahoe

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Trimont Land Co. has announced it will develop 25,000 acres on Lake Tahoe's north shore for residential and recreational use, including a major ski complex.

The announcement was made by George W. Burgess, president of Fibreboard Corp., of which Trimont is a wholly-owned subsidiary.

Trimont also will soon start development of residential and commercial property on 1,200 acres in the Tahoe area and in the Mother Lode area, he said.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Chrysler Future Appears Humdrum

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Would you please give me your opinion of Chrysler Corp.? I hold shares bought at 37½.—A. S.

A. Since July, automobile sales have been generally lower, except in late September when new model buying was heavy. The firming in sales in early November led by Chrysler's 12 per cent year-to-year increase is encouraging but not definitive. Chrysler's advertising has been quite successful in promoting sales of its flashy option-loaded vehciles. Profits have not followed through.

September quarter results of 7 cents a share did little to lift this year's earnings out of the doldrums. Net of $1.97 a share for the nine months was 48 per cent below the comparable year earlier result of $3.83. This, it is doubtful that full-year net will reach $3.75 a share.

With public acceptance of its sporty-luxury autos running high, Chrysler has been reluctant to invest the sums necessary to join its competition in the race to market a subcompact. For that reason its minimodel, due out in the spring of 1971, will be three months to a year behind the competition.

If you are looking for short-term gains, this probably is not the stock for you. On the other hand, if you are interested in an adequate yield and long-term growth, your shares should be held.

Q. I bought Benguet Consolidated at 19. Would you advise holding in view of the recent publicity? — M. C.

A. Fear that the Bahama government would make corporate life difficult through immigration regulations was reflected in considerable selling of Benguet shares. Sparked by reassurances from a stateside visit by Bahamas Prime Minister Lynden O. Pindling and a favorable third-quarter earnings report, renewed investor confidence has begun to appear.

In the first nine months of 1969, Benguet reported earnings of $1.21 a share up from 51 cents in 1968. Investor confidence is a tenuous commodity needing constant reassurance which the Bahama government appears willing to supply. I would continue to hold, but watch this high-risk issue closely.

THIS WEEK IN BUSINESS

Forecaster Sees No Rise In '70 Building

The national total of 1970 construction value will just about equal 1969's $66 billion, according to the last F. W. Dodge construction report.

The opening quarter of the year is expected to be the weakest, with each successive quarter showing improvement. Housing is expected to be the first to advance, and with an adequate flow of mortgage money, homebuilding will continue throughout the year.

During the past 12 months, construction costs rose higher than any time since 1946, with an average jump in labor and materials of 7.5 per cent during the year ended Sept. 30.

STANDARD OIL CO. OF CALIFORNIA and Boise Cascade Corp. have announced a $100 million commercial land development on 128 acres owned by Standard at El Segundo, Southern California. Site work will begin shortly on a complex of highrise office buildings, research facilities, stores, restaurants, and hotels. The two companies have formed Sepulveda Properties, Inc., owned 50 per cent by each, to carry out the development.

LEISURE DYNAMICS, INC., Minneapolis, and the major shareholders of McCormack International Motors, Inc., Santa Ana, have reached an agreement whereby Leisure will be granted an option to purchase all outstanding stock of McCormack International. Under terms of the five-year option, Leisure could acquire McCormack International stock for Leisure stock.

HY-LOND ENTERPRISES, Sonoma, has entered into an agreement with Firestone Group, Ltd., Beverly Hills-based investment company for the sale and leaseback of three convalescent hospitals and the outright sale of still another. Total patient capacity is 398 beds. Hy-Lond has announced a policy of selling properties and then operating them under long-term leases or management contracts when it is financially advantageous, and is now constructing four more facilities with that concept in mind.

SEARS, ROEBUCK AND CO. has reported sales for the five weeks ended Nov. 29 as 5.9 per cent higher than last year. Gross sales for the period were $1,075 million, an increase of $59.4 million. Sears volume for the 44 weeks ended Nov. 29 was $7,918 million also a record and increase of 8.7 per cent from 1968.

MONTGOMERY WARD reported estimated sales for the five-week period of Oct. 25 through Nov. 29 at $242.7 million, a 3.5 per cent increase from the $242.7 million reported last year. Estimated cumulated sales for the 10 months beginning Jan. 26 were $1,768 million, an 8.9 per cent improvement from last year.

WORLD AIRWAYS, INC., Oakland, has reported revenues of $71.7 million and consolidated earnings of $8.6 million for the first nine months of 1969. Comparative figures for last year were $66.9 million in revenues and $10.3 million in consolidated earnings.

EMPORIUM CAPWELL CO. has reported 1969 third quarter sales at $49 million an increase of 3.57 per cent over 1968. Net earnings were $2 million, an increase of 5.16 per cent over last year's third quarter. Earnings per share were 37 cents and 35 cents respectively.

WHITNEY-FIDALGO SEAFOODS, INC. of Seattle has terminated merger negotiations with General Host Corp. of New York City begun in October. Discussions involving an exchange of stock resulted in a substantial decline in the price of General Host common stock and have ended by mutual agreement.

SIMPSON TIMBER CO. of Korbel, Humboldt County, has started up its redwood sawmill on completion of a $5 million modernization program. Closed for seven months, the rebuilt mill features new equipment and strengthens Simpson's position as a major redwood producer.

HALO OF DIAMONDS

Jewelry expert Jerry Light peers at more than a quarter-million dollars worth of faceted diamonds on a glass table in the Bulova Watch Co.'s Jackson Heights, N.Y., plant. The firm, sole U.S. producer of women's diamond watches, predicts that half a million diamond watches will be gifts for women this Christmas season. (UPI Telephoto)

$800,000 Down

CHICAGO (UPI) — Mangood Corp. has bought Peacock Engineering Co. for $800,000 down and a total of $2 million, contingent on future earnings.

Stock Market Declines In Week's End

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market declined today in moderate trading.

Analysts attributed the bearish tone to year-end tax selling, normal pre-weekend portfolio lightening by investors, and mounting concern over tight credit and inflation.

Among the day's most active issues were Jim Walter Corp., Gulf Oil, and Sperry Rand. Jim Walter traded an early block of 125,000 shares at 33 1-4 in a cross-transaction, off 3-4, and Gulf a block of 78,200 at 28 1-8, cross.

Other heavily traded stocks included Texaco, AMK Corp., Midland-Ross, Occidental, International Telephone, Apco Oil, and American Telephone.

Electronic issues ranged to more than 2 lower. Oils traded in both directions, although most point-sized movers were pointing lower.

In the oil group, Natoms lost 3 1-8 near the close, and Reading & Bates and Standard of Ohio lost more than a point each.

Fractionally lower near the close were General Electric, Collins Radio, Gulf & Western Ling-Temco, International Telephone, Bethlehem Steel, Armco Steel, Ford, Chrysler, Penn Central, UAL Inc., General Dynamics, and Grumman.

Slightly higher, however, were General Motors, Du Pont, Great Northern, KLm, American Airlines, Walter Kidde, and American Telephone.

Steels, motors and chemicals traded in narrowly irregular ranges. Airlines were mostly lower, as were conglomerates.

Rails, aircrafts and gold mining shares moved in small ranges and generally without direction.

Prices were weak on the American Stock Exchange in moderate turnover.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Chrysler Future Appears Humdrum

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Would you please give me your opinion of Chrysler Corp.? I hold shares bought at 37½.—A. S.

A. Since July, automobile sales have been generally lower, except in late September when new model buying was heavy. The firming in sales in early November led by Chrysler's 12 per cent year-to-year increase is encouraging but not definitive. Chrysler's advertising has been quite successful in promoting sales of its flashy option-loaded vehciles. Profits have not followed through.

September quarter results of 7 cents a share did little to lift this year's earnings out of the doldrums. Net of $1.97 a share for the nine months was 48 per cent below the comparable year earlier result of $3.83. This, it is doubtful that full-year net will reach $3.75 a share.

With public acceptance of its sporty-luxury autos running high, Chrysler has been reluctant to invest the sums necessary to join its competition in the race to market a subcompact. For that reason its minimodel, due out in the spring of 1971, will be three months to a year behind the competition.

If you are looking for short-term gains, this probably is not the stock for you. On the other hand, if you are interested in an adequate yield and long-term growth, your shares should be held.

Q. I bought Benguet Consolidated at 19. Would you advise holding in view of the recent publicity? — M. C.

A. Fear that the Bahama government would make corporate life difficult through immigration regulations was reflected in considerable selling of Benguet shares. Sparked by reassurances from a stateside visit by Bahamas Prime Minister Lynden O. Pindling and a favorable third-quarter earnings report, renewed investor confidence has begun to appear.

In the first nine months of 1969, Benguet reported earnings of $1.21 a share up from 51 cents in 1968. Investor confidence is a tenuous commodity needing constant reassurance which the Bahama government appears willing to supply. I would continue to hold, but watch this high-risk issue closely.

Games That Courts Play Delay, Thwart Justice

"Is a society which frequently takes five to 10 years to dispose of a single criminal case entitled to call itself an 'organized' society?" asked Warren E. Burger, now chief justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, in a public address in 1967.

Justice Burger's theme that the law's delays often defeat the justice that the law seeks is illustrated by the case of Everett LeForrest Hill, which was described in a story in this newspaper yesterday.

HILL WAS ACCUSED of supplying methamphetamine ("speed") which was used at a party in San Rafael on Sept. 27, 1968. Richard Kenneth Yager, a 20-year-old Corte Madera soldier home on furlough, died from an injection of the drug.

The law enforcement agencies moved rapidly. Hill was arrested at his San Francisco apartment the day after young Yager died. But since then, despite nearly two score court dates, no trial has been set. And in the midst of the delays, he was arrested last June 26 in San Francisco on another charge of selling methamphetamine.

HILL'S CASE is extreme but typical. The police act quickly, gather their evidence, and turn a suspected criminal over to the courts. Then the game begins. Appearances are delayed for all sorts of trivial excuses — the defendant is quarreling with his attorney, the defense attorney "has another case" or "has not had time to prepare," or maybe just fails to show up. Motions are introduced which are so routine they could be written from memory by any experienced clerk, but the court takes days or weeks to "study" them, thereby further delaying trial. On and on it goes.

The delay, of course, works to the benefit of the accused. Witnesses move away, die, or disappear. Memories become foggy with time. It is much easier for a cross-examining attorney to cast doubt on the story of a witness when that witness is trying to recall events of two or three or five years ago, while the attorney has in his hand a memorandum describing the same events but written within days after they occurred.

BUT THE DELAYS of the law do not stop there.

When Everett LeForrest Hill finally goes to trial — for San Francisco Superior Court must get around to setting a trial some day — he may be found guilty. But if he is, he can appeal. It is almost always possible for an attorney to find some grounds for appeal.

Then the process may start all over again. The appellate court may find some technical flaw in the conduct of the trial — a flaw which has no possible bearing on the guilt or innocence of the accused, but which fails to meet the precise rules laid down for the game that is called "justice." If so, it may order a new trial. If not, the defense may carry the appeal higher, hoping that another court will see a flaw where the first appeal court did not. (Sometimes it appears that judges vie with one another in attempting to find such flaws, as evidence, perhaps, of their legal acumen.)

IN THAT SAME 1967 speech, Justice Burger asked the further question:

"Is a judicial system which consistently finds it necessary to try a criminal case three, four or five times deserving of the confidence and respect of decent people?"

There is only one answer to that question.

Survival Mechanism

Plants possess something akin to a reproductive instinct in animals. By this we mean that if adversity strikes a plant, some chemical mechanism is tripped which results in unusually profuse flowering or fruiting.

This effect has led many an experienced gardener to comment that this or that plant doesn't do too well if you give it too much care and kindness.

This same effect should make one a bit leary about buying a plant for his garden if it seems to be outperforming itself blossoming. It may be making a last reproductive effort before it dies.

It is an interesting phenomenon. Well observed, but little understood. Another mystery of nature that challenges man's knowledge.

'Go Buy-Buy' Season Brings Host Of Yule-Related Events

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — California's "go buy-buy" season, generally known as the Christmas holidays, apparently is going to outdo itself this year with events designed to attract the public to merchandise marts.

From Siskiyou to San Diego counties, festivals, fetes, carnivals, and other entertainments with backgrounds of Christmas are scheduled from now until the magic day, Dec. 25.

The state chamber of commerce keeps tab throughout the year on the various attractions in California, which are multiple in a normal season but blossom at Christmas time when the public is in a better purchasing mood. The chamber has more than 50 events scheduled for the first half of December.

BUT THE CHAMBER does not list what is expected to be the outstanding Christmas event of the month.

This is the "Fantasy on Parade" to be held Dec. 20 through Jan. 4 at Disneyland.

Disneyland is a somewhat fabulous place anyhow, but the "fantasy" is scheduled to be something more than that this year.

Traditional launching of the show will be made by the candlelight caroling ceremony, featuring a choir of more than 1,000 voices singing the familiar Christmas carols which probably do more than any other one thing to recall the Yule spirit across the land.

Probably in no other place are gathered together as many figures in the make-believe world as there are at Disneyland, to the delight and appreciation not only of the younger, but also of the older visitors.

OF COURSE, the Disney event will not be alone in depicting the story of Christmas during this Yule season. All kinds of pageants are scheduled in communities too numerous to mention here. They include parades, festivals of many different kinds to delight young and old alike.

One cannot help but wonder at the expanding offerings of community activity at Christmastime, as contrasted to the procedures of say a half century ago, when celebrations primarily were confined to the family and the home.

But in any event, the spirit of Christmas is scheduled to live no matter what obstacles are thrown in its path.

Tiburon Resident Apologizes, Sort Of

Hope you will allow me to make an apology via the I-J.

TPAC was criticized by Tiburon's mayor for an ad that ran in a local weekly. It alarmed readers to the fact that a new downtown plan favored by the planning commission had one super failing: the creation of a new major thoroughfare in the downtown area that could be four to six lanes wide.

The road under question is drawn to scale (100 feet equal one inch) and if measured is slightly over one half inch wide. This means it is over 50 feet wide, but possibly not 60 feet wide as I had led others to believe. It is for this negligence I am sorry.

From now on I will say it can accommodate four to five lanes, and if constructed will kill forever our one main chance for recreational open space.

Does Agnew Favor Controlled Press?

Don Quixote, tilting at windmills made more sense than Spiro Agnew, who would gag the press and TV, the first step in reducing or restricting our freedoms. His criticism of self-appointed analysts suggests he prefers an analyst under government control who would feed us only that which a dictatorial government would want us to know — no more criticism or whole truth would reach us.

Perhaps Spiro Agnew is in favor of a controlled press as they have in Greece, where Deputy Premier Stylianos Patakos has just announced a new press code with many severe penalities for violating government restrictions.

Do not imagine it can not happen here. By what subtle means have the majority already been silenced (as we have been led to believe)?

Reasons To Give Thanks For America

Last Thursday I drove along Third Street and Fourth Street, in San Rafael, on my way to a Thanksgiving church service. I was surprised, and indeed pleased, to see both of these streets lined with our country's flag. It was a colorful spectacle, and made me both proud and humble to be an American, and to realize that the great silent majority in our nation still believes in the American heritage and the American flag.

I pondered the fact that Thanksgiving Day is distinctly an American holiday, first set aside by President Lincoln to give thanks to the Living God who has lavished His bounties and blessings upon our nation. . .

Where upon the face of this earth is there a nation with such plenty, such freedom and such opportunity, as these United States of America? This is the question I would like to pose to the malcontents, the dissidents and the conspiratores who are endeavoring to tear our country apart and to bring in anarchy, to be followed by Communist slavery.

Welfare Waste In Administration

I refer to the letter of E. Zellers (Nov. 24) When "Operation Tight-Belt" was started, it was deemed "unrealistic" to use any but the food allowance. I daresay — the allowance on the whole is indeed unrealistic. A single person, for instance, is allowed something like $63 for rent and utilities — which is quite unrealistic in this area. What many people don't realize is that money allowed for food must usually be spent on other things, often utilities. Did E. Zellers also take from the food money the cost of washing for a family of seven? Was the clothing allowance calculate? Wouldn't food money sometimes have to be spent on shoes for the kiddies? Is it realized that no allowance is made for things like aspirin, for female monthly necessities, for a lipstick or razor blades? . . .

Persons on a low budget are often accused of buying unwisely. Sometimes they could really save money by getting a larger size. The pity is that most often the budget will not allow this larger size, only the more expensive smaller size — and the cycle is established. . .

E. Zellers could get a better idea by using the whole budget and not just the food budget. I disagree as to where the "wastefulness" of government spending lies. Far more is wasted on administration of these plans than on acutally feeding people . . .

Astronaut May Find New Job Is Tougher

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's new information specialist, Astronaut Michael Collins, has his work cut out for him. In some aspects, the Apollo 11 spaceman may find his new assignment tougher than flying to the moon.

There were no people on the moon.

Collins, recently selected as assistant secretary of state for public affairs, will speak before meetings of various types in an effort to put across what believes to be facts about U.S. policy in Vietnam.

BECAUSE APOLLO 11 was the first successful manned mission to the moon, Collins and his two colleagues became instant lunar heroes all over the world. Well, almost.

Collins will find on a number of college campuses, as well as among many youthful antiwar dissenters, that his association with one of history's greatest moments —the first moon landing — is one enormous blah.

Among the more youthful, active dissenters in this country, Collins has several strikes against him before ever going to bat. For one thing, he is an Air Force colonel, a commission which he is resigning to take the new State Department job.

Second strike against Collins: many persons who work and protest against American involvement in Vietnam so vociferously, sometimes violently, scorn spending of federal billions on the space program. They want this space money spent at home for many projects, ranging from free universities to low or no-cost housing.

UNQUESTIONABLY Collins was right in saying, as he accepted his new assignment, that too often war dissenters were "poorly equipped with the facts."

Collins, 39 (and that is another strike against him with many younger Americans), believes dissenters and demonstrators against the government's position have "oversimplified the war to a point where Hanoi is good and Saigon is bad." He says, "Delving back into history, that is not true. There are direct contradictions to that point of view."

DURING THE Thanksgiving holiday period, this reporter had an opportunity to talk with a number of college students about how Collins and his explanation of Vietnam might be received by young people. These students had a common denominator —all "straight," from Establishment-type families and all working hard toward professional degrees. Uniformly, they were proud of and excited by America's space achievements. Here are capsule opinions:

An Ivy League pre-law senior: "The antiwar people on my campus couldn't care less about Collins or the moon program. They don't even watch the flights on TV. Collins won't change their minds on anything."

Minority Reports Lash Anti-Poverty Program

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON, — The multi-billion dollar anti-poverty program is branded as "corrupt and scandal-ridden" in a minority report by members of the House Education and Labor Committee that is in charge of this legislation.

The report, made public as the House began consideration of a long-pending bill to continue the program another two years, declares it "has done little to alleviate the woes of the poor and the disadvantaged," and urges sweeping changes in both its concept and administration.

Signed by Reps. William Scherle, R-Iowa, and Earl Landgrebe, R-Ind., the minority report is one of several from the committee. The others, while also highly critical, are less caustic.

ALL STRESS the need for sweeping changes in the Office of Economic Opportunity and the manner in which it administers the anti-poverty program — on which some $7.5 billion has been spent to date. Under the pending bill, another $2.3 billion would be authorized for the first year, and an unspecified amount, in effect a blank check, for the second year.

Foremost among the reforms demanded by the minority reports are:

Strengthening the participation and control of state and local authorities, "particularly in community programs where such participation is most needed and most essential to success."

Greater enforcement of the provisions "prohibiting political activity." One of the critical reports, by Representatives William Ayres, R — Ohio, and Albert Quie, R-Minn., charges that a "pervasive aura of political activity and social turmoil has surrounded too many activities of the 'war on poverty.' "

Independent auditing of report, "The temptation to cover up corruption, defects and scandals in this multi-billion dollar program is enormous."

A BIPARTISAN fight will be waged to extensively rewrite the bill pending before the House.

The measure was reported out by the Education and Labor Committee on a straight party vote — 20 Democrats, 12 Republicans. However, some Democratic committeemen made no bones they favor drastic changes.

Rep. Edith Green, Ore., second-ranking Democrat, told her colleagues: "Major changes are needed. They are long over due. We must enact legislation that will put an end to the endless stream of complaints and protests about wrongdoing and abuses."

The minority reports charge the legislation was deliberately stalled in committee for four months by Rep. Carl Perkins, D-Ky., chairman, in an effort to "extract assurances that no amendments would be offered on the floor."

ALL THE MINORITY reports place much emphasis on the need for better management of the program.

"To continue this program at a multi-billion dollar level without major constructive changes would be a stupendous hoax — one of the greatest ever perpetrated against both the taxpayers and the poor in our country," said Rep. Scherle. "It is criminal to allow this program to continue to hold out false hopes."

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

Since changes are going on anyway, the great thing is to learn enough about them so that we be able to lay hold of them and turn them in the direction of our desires. — John Dewey.

The report, made public as the House began consideration of a long-pending bill to continue the program another two years, declares it "has done little to alleviate the woes of the poor and the disadvantaged," and urges sweeping changes in both its concept and administration.

Signed by Reps. William Scherle, R-Iowa, and Earl Landgrebe, R-Ind., the minority report is one of several from the committee. The others, while also highly critical, are less caustic.

ALL STRESS the need for sweeping changes in the Office of Economic Opportunity and the manner in which it administers the anti-poverty program — on which some $7.5 billion has been spent to date. Under the pending bill, another $2.3 billion would be authorized for the first year, and an unspecified amount, in effect a blank check, for the second year.

Foremost among the reforms demanded by the minority reports are:

Strengthening the participation and control of state and local authorities, "particularly in community programs where such participation is most needed and most essential to success."

Greater enforcement of the provisions "prohibiting political activity." One of the critical reports, by Representatives William Ayres, R — Ohio, and Albert Quie, R-Minn., charges that a "pervasive aura of political activity and social turmoil has surrounded too many activities of the 'war on poverty.' "

Independent auditing of report, "The temptation to cover up corruption, defects and scandals in this multi-billion dollar program is enormous."

A BIPARTISAN fight will be waged to extensively rewrite the bill pending before the House.

The measure was reported out by the Education and Labor Committee on a straight party vote — 20 Democrats, 12 Republicans. However, some Democratic committeemen made no bones they favor drastic changes.

Rep. Edith Green, Ore., second-ranking Democrat, told her colleagues: "Major changes are needed. They are long over due. We must enact legislation that will put an end to the endless stream of complaints and protests about wrongdoing and abuses."

The minority reports charge the legislation was deliberately stalled in committee for four months by Rep. Carl Perkins, D-Ky., chairman, in an effort to "extract assurances that no amendments would be offered on the floor."

ALL THE MINORITY reports place much emphasis on the need for better management of the program.

"To continue this program at a multi-billion dollar level without major constructive changes would be a stupendous hoax — one of the greatest ever perpetrated against both the taxpayers and the poor in our country," said Rep. Scherle. "It is criminal to allow this program to continue to hold out false hopes."

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

Since changes are going on anyway, the great thing is to learn enough about them so that we be able to lay hold of them and turn them in the direction of our desires. — John Dewey.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Fusselman

No "County Comment" column appears today because of the breavement of William D. Fusselman, whose wife of over half a century died unexpectedly Tuesday.

Fusselman has indicated he will attempt to resume the column soon.

Investigation after Mrs. Ada M. Fusselman's death disclosed, her husband reported, that she was talking on the telephone with a woman who had called to comment on his column and express appreciation for it when she suffered a heart attack and dropped the phone. She never recovered consciousness.

The Independent-Journal looks forward to the return of "County Comment." It will be found in this space each Friday as soon as the author feels able to continue it.

Cross May Burn, But KKK Is Impotent

By JOHN AITKEN
Toronto Telegram News Service

JACKSON, Miss. — The Ku Klux Klan is dead in this state. There may be fire bombs tossed occasionally into the homes of "uppity niggers" who move into white neighborhoods, and there may even be fiery crosses. But the organization has weakened to the point of impotence as a rallying force.

The history of racial violence in Mississippi has been atrocious during the past decade. But there is a flickering now of a sense of potential power on the part of the blacks, and a sense of resignation on the part of the whites, a feeling that the intent of the law, as well as the letter of the law, is against them.

JUSTICE IS STILL stacked heavily against blacks. They must have more proof of innocence to win their case, and they will endure more rough treatment in custody than whites, but it's getting to the point where justice of a sort is available if the innocence can be proven.

One of the aims of a Yazoo City black boycott of shops was the hiring of black policemen and the authorities finally did hire two black policemen. That's progress.

It's as though the people of Mississippi heard and understood Judge Griffin Bell of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals when he said: "The burden is now reversed. You can complain and feel bad but there's nothing you can do about it."

VOTER REGISTRATION, which led to bloodshed only a few years ago, is still a risky project, and Joe Thomas, a 23-year-old agitator for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, told me of his own case, still pending.

He was arrested and convicted in mayor's court and sentenced to 30 days and a $100 fine while he was trying to take a black woman into the city clerk's office last May.

His case is under appeal. He and other members of the Yazoo City NAACP told me they have tied up close to half a million dollars in property bail — they don't use cash — for cases like this in Mississippi.

RUDY SHIELDS is one of the chief sources of irritation to white officials in Yazoo City. He is basically an organizer, sent into Yazoo City by the NAACP to persuade blacks that they have real political count, if they'd only have the courage to use it.

He attempts to persuade — and possibly coerce — black people to participate in boycotts. In Yazoo City he says local merchants depend on black people for up to 85 per cent of their business.

Alex Waites, project officer for the NAACP, said black hopes have changed. "Today the concern is for the quality of education as opposed to integration."

He sees the election of black mayors as major breakthroughs and, like Rudy Shields, longs for the day when black people will have a voice on local school boards.

There is a certain condescension that infuriates black people when a man like John Satterfield, a prominent segregationist lawyer who has for years fought the supreme court to slow down integration of the schools, says he admires the black man who overcomes the obvious obstacles to make it in the professions or in business.

MANY BLACK people are astonished at the change in Mississippi atmosphere. There is bitterness, there is resentment, and there will inevitably be attempts to disrupt and thwart the supreme court ruling for total integration by the end of the year. There may be some violence.

But many people in the South believe that the end has come, and that they must go about the business of learning to live with the descendants of their forebears' slaves, and that they must someday learn to accept it.

Teen-age Voting Petitions Slated

Petitions seeking a municipal vote in April on whether the voting age should be lowered to 18 will be circulated by the Mill Valley Youth Commission, Secretary Kim Ritter reported.

Commissioners, meeting Wednesday night, said the petitions, when signed, will be presented to the city council for action.

If the proposition passes, results would be sent to the city's representatives in Sacramento.

'Hungry' Pickets Interrupt Talk By Rafferty

CHICO (AP) — More than 65 persons, calling themselves "hungry Americans" demonstrated during a speech by state schools chief Max Rafferty Wednesday against Sutter and Butte county food programs.

The demonstrators picketed the club building where the dinner was held and later pushed their way inside.

"You've got the wrong guy," Rafferty told them. "I'm in education, not welfare."

Jack Zeilener, a spokesman for the group, read a statement alleging that the two Sacramento Valley counties were violating state and federal laws requiring certain food-for-the-poor programs.

Zeilener said Rafferty, as state superintendent of public instruction, has "the duty and the power to make these counties obey the law."

Collision Hurts Hub Youngster

Michael D. Anderson, 10 of 70 Oak Knoll Drive, San Anselmo, has been treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael for a cut lower lip and broken tooth received in a rear-end collision in front of 1177 Butterfield Road, Sleepy Hollow.

California Highway Patrol officers said a car operated by Joyce Anderson, 35, of 70 Oak Knoll Drive, San Anselmo, hit the auto of Eileen Rowe Sukhan, 44, of 283 Butterfield Road, San Anselmo, when Mrs. Sukhan slowed to make a right turn. Anderson was a passenger in his mother's car, officers said.

The crash happened at 11:20 p.m. Wednesday.

Detention Camp Law Due Repeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a move to allay fears of antiwar demonstrators, the Nixon administration is calling for repeal of a 1950 law that authorizes the use of detention camps during times of "internal security emergency."

Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst said Wednesday the law had stirred up "fears and suspicions—unfounded as they may be—" that it might be invoked against Vietnam war protesters and other demonstrators.

He noted the statute has long been repugnant to Japanese-Americans, some of whom were detained during World War II.

Marin City Robbery Incident Reported

Joseph B. Kemp, 55, of Hilarita Housing, Tiburon, told Marin County sheriff's deputies he was knocked down and robbed by unidentified persons at 8:21 p.m. Wednesday as he was getting out of his car parked in the 100 block of Drake Avenue in Marin City.

Taken were Kemp's wallet containing $200 and identification papers, deputies said.

Senators Urge Explanation In Sergeant Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators have prodded the Pentagon to explain or substantiate reports that officials have found no grounds for prosecuting alleged illegal activities by Army sergeants.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., who conducted a series of public hearings into alleged service club rackets, requested the explanation yesterday from Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird.

Army investigators at the hearings said they believed the sergeants had been protected by a coverup at high levels of the Army.

The hearings produced charges of an alleged scheme by a clique of sergeants to loot the clubs which they helped run for Army personnel. William C. Wooldbridge, former sergeant major of the army, and four other sergeants invoked the Fifth Amendment.

Battery Case Goes To Juvenile Court

The case of Robert J. Kirby, 19, of San Rafael, yesterday was certified to Marin Juvenile Court where he will be tried on a charge of a felony battery upon a police officer as well as possessing an open container of liquor in his car on Nov. 13.

A sheriff's deputy said that Kirby resisted arrest on the alcohol violation by shoving and then kicking the deputy in the groin. A second deputy finally subdued the youth, he said.

Suits worn by some knights in shining armor weighed 120 pounds, took three years to make, and cost a fortune to buy.

Water Aide Raps 'Chicken Little' Stand On Plans

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The state's water project chief said today California should not "fall into the quagmire trap of Chicken Little emotionalists" who say development must stop because it is ruining the state.

William R. Gianelli, state water resources director, said opponents of the $3 billion State Water Project "are trying to fabricate and promote the idea that the project is bad for the environment."

Gianelli replied that "water projects in this state have brought more immediate and long range benefits to our people than any other single type of resource development."

His comments came in remarks prepared for the winter convention of the Irrigation Districts Association.

Drug Increase Alarms Czechs

PRAGUE (AP) — Juvenile drug addiction in Czechoslovakia is reaching alarming proportions, a Communist Party magazine reported today. This is believed to be the first public admission that the narcotic wave has spread to a Soviet-bloc country.

A six-page article in Kvety, the party-published family weekly, spoke of an "epidemic increase of toxicomania" in the capital and of "powder parties" that last up to a week in private apartments.

It quoted a 19-year-old worker as saying he had received some LSD by letter from pen pals in the United States, but it stated that most drugs are obtained locally on faked prescriptions.

Argyll is a county in west Scotland

Shutford Won't Try In Beauty Competition

SHUTFORD, England (AP) — This Oxfordshire community has entered the annual competition to choose Britain's prettiest village, but the 250 inhabitants don't want to win.

They hope their crumbling community will get a special award for being an eyesore. Residents complain county municipal authorities have let empty cottages decay, weeds sprout on side walks and fences fall down.

Maps of the Great Lakes region list more than a dozen rivers, lakes, bays, and falls named Sturgeon. Lake of the Woods, one of the greatest sturgeon ponds in the world, yielded 1.6 million pounds of the land locked variety in 1839.

Sears Point Concert Contract Snarled

By DAVID DIETZ

The Rolling Stones free rock extravaganza is still on—but not at Sears Point.

Organizers of the rock concert, which is expected to attract more than 100,000 young fans, said today that negotiations to hold the Saturday event at the Southern Sonoma raceway had broken off and that that the event would now be held at Altamont Speedway near Tracy.

"We're going to have a concert," said Robert Carter, manager of the speedway, adding that final details were worked out about noon today. He said there would be no charge for use of the speedway, which would benefit by the publicity.

Melvin Belli, attorney for the Rolling Stones, said in San Francisco that the owners of Sears Point were "trying to make a lot of money out of the concert by changing the original contract."

Sears Point officials, however, charged that organizers failed to live up to an agreement to hire 100 security personnel and donate any proceeds from the sale of television or movie rights and recordings to Vietnam War relief and local charities in Sonoma County.

Belli, who joined negotiations yesterday, said representatives of the rock group, he and officials of Sears Point "argued from 6 p.m. until midnight last night. Every time we started to talk, they wanted more money."

Rock Scully, manager of the Grateful Dead and an organizer of the concert, said Sears Point representatives wanted $400,000 deposited in a bank for security, insurance and as payment for use of the facility.

"They made it completely impossible for us," Scully said. "They didn't want to listen to any of our plans for sanitary facilities, medical help and the rest."

Carter said the Stones had agreed to provide 100 portable toilets and 200 security agents at Altamont for the 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. concert, which also will feature the Grateful Dead and Jefferson Airplane.

The switch of sights heightened confusion which has surrounded the on-again, off-again concert from the outset. About 25 rock fans, unaware of the news, waited outside the gates of Sears Point this morning and countless thousands of others probably were headed for Southern Sonoma in the belief the concert was still on there.

Belli said it would cost $50,000 to move the facilities already installed at Sears Point and reinstall them at Altamont. A helicopter was reportedly being arranged to move the heavy equipment, including the bandstand and scaffolding.

Richard Carter, general manager at Altamont, said earlier today he had been in touch with

VIETNAM: A STRANGE WAR

How Could Massacre Happen?

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Allegations that American GIs massacred South Vietnamese civilians during a raid on a village complex last year have stunned the United States. How could it happen? is the most frequently asked question. In the following analysis, John T. Wheeler, who reported the war in Vietnam for the Associated Press for several years, gives an insight into the conditions of a strange war in which anything can happen.)

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

To try to understand the alleged massacre by American GIs of civilians at My Lai it is necessary also to understand the atmosphere of a war which has led many U.S. fighting men to feel they are as much at war against Vietnam as for it.

While the communiques speak of battles involving companies and battalions—the clash of professional soldiers doing their grim job—each GI carries with him the certain knowledge that in any village there may be men, women, and even children who are also the enemy, waiting for the time and place to attack him.

Brutality, and indifference to human life, are commonplace in Vietnam. Even the disfigurement of dead GIs is common.

In Vietnam the killing of civilians was a practice established by the Viet Cong as a major part of the war long before the first U.S. ground troops were committed in March 1965.

By official count, more than 20,000 civilians had been murdered by that time in enemy executions aimed at so thoroughly terrorizing the countryside that none would resist. The total now is more than 40,000 including more than 3,000 killed by the enemy in Hue when they held part of that city for 2½ weeks. At Hue, the victims were predominantly civilians of all ages. Many were killed simply by tying their hands behind their backs, shoving them into a trench and burying them alive.

It was into this conflict that the American troops were plunged. They had been told to kill the Viet Cong who were bad and woo the peasant who only aided the enemy because he had no choice. Given a chance, the official line went, Vietnam wanted to be free and democratic just like America.

But the GIs found a war of sundered families, and divided allegiances to any regime, either Viet Cong or Saigon.

The infantry came to know that the farmer, who might be a friend by day, could become a guerrilla by night who killed just as surely and just as ruthlessly as the enemy's professional troops living in the jungle.

In short, the GIs felt — and still do — that there were few they could trust.

There is no front in Vietnam, no rear, no safety. To the GI of a rifle company everyone outside the perimeter can be suspected of plotting to kill him.

In Vietnam the word civilian does not describe noncombatants. It describes dress more certainly than occupation.

In Vietnam the GI has plenty of reason for his distrust and fear:

Item: An elderly woman noted for her ready smile and broken betel nut-stained teeth, was caught smuggling out a detailed map of the defenses of an American base where she worked as a laundrywoman.

Item: U.S. Marines found begging children to whom they had been giving food were stealing grenades that were tossed back at the Leathernecks during the night.

Item: One Green Beret commander found his desk booby-trapped by one of the Vietnamese working for him. The Green Berets began using lie detectors because their mercenary forces in some camps were running as high as 30 per cent Viet Cong.

Item: After one night attack by a large enemy force, Americans sweeping the perimeter found the body of the camp's barber, still clutching a rifle. He had been leading the assault to show the way through the barbed wire at its weakest point.

Item: A U.S. truck was blown up, killing all aboard, on highway 13, called "bloody Route 13" because of the frequency of minings. GIs from another truck quickly traced out the electrical wires to the detonator and found a young girl still holding the handle. They shot her.

The Pentagon says that today's soldiers are the most sophisti-

Gate Span Directors Seek Traffic Idea For Year 2015

A plan to meet traffic needs into the 21st Century was ordered yesterday by Golden Gate Bridge District directors.

To do the job, Kaiser Engineers was asked to submit a proposal on how it would carry out the plan.

Selection of the huge firm was recommended by the district's general manager, Dale W. Luehring, who cited its "excellent background in rapid transit studies" and in design, construction and management of projects throughout the United States.

Submission of a proposal is to be done by the firm at no cost to the district.

Yesterday's step was a recommendation by the building and operating committee, and will go before the full board for its approval next Friday.

The 1969 Legislature, in a bill extending the district's powers to water transportation, required that such a long-range plan be submitted to the Legislature by 1971.

Luehring said that six firms had been considered for the job. Kaiser's experience included the Northern California Transit Demonstration Project, he noted, which was designed to coordinate operations of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District, San Francisco Municipal Railway and Alameda-Contra Costa Transit District.

In an outline of what he expected the long-range plan should include, Luehring said it "should develop conceptual design of alternative transport systems to serve the Golden Gate Corridor until at least the year 2015, and forecast the traffic expected during that period, together with system costs, revenues, and socio-economic and environmental effects."

Rapid transit systems to be included were rail and bus rapid transit, and any other system "deemed competitive or complementary," he said.

The plan also should include

Decade's Best Drop In U.S. Jobless Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate took its sharpest monthly drop in 10 years in November, declining .5 per cent to 3.4 per cent of the labor force, the Labor Department said today.

However, most of the sharp drop was accountd for by workers leaving the labor force and "this doesn't really represent a turnaround" in the economic slowdown, a government spokesman said.

The report showed a small rise of 45,000 to a total of 78.7 million employed Americans.

"There is a continued slowdown in employment growth," said Howard Stambler, chief of the Division of Employment Analysis.

The civilian labor force declined 83,000 as many so-called "secondary" workers—teen-agers, women and young men—left the labor force, Stambler said.

The drop in unemployment counterbalanced September's jobless rise of .5 per cent, which had been the sharpest jump in about 10 years.

Other key figures in the report pointed to a continued economic slowdown in President Richard M. Nixon's effort to combat inflation, including a drop in factory overtime for the second month in a row and another drop in average earnings.

"Average weekly earnings fell by 62 cents in November to $116.63," the report said. It was the second straight monthly decline in earnings for some 45 million rank-and-file workers covered by the report.

Average hourly earnings remained unchanged at $3.11. Weekly paychecks were down because of the reduction in hours of work as industries slowed production.

The total number of unemployed declined 129,000 to 2.7 million.

Blacks Take Over Harvard Hall, Quietly

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Between 50 and 100 blacks seized control of Harvard University's administrative nerve center, university Hall, today to dramatize several demands.

The group moved in just before start of the business day and placed wooden bars over the windows and doors. Employes reporting for work were turned away.

There were reports that a handful of employees had been forcibly ejected by the protesters, but the university said these were erroneous.

"My understanding is that there was no violence," said Harvard College Dean Ernest R. May.

Using a bullhorn, May told the protesters about 45 minutes after the seizure that they might be liable to criminal trespass prosecution if they remained.

Later, May, L. Gard Wiggins,

Civilians To Aid My Lai Army Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor today reached outside the Army and appointed a special councel to help in a probe of a possible cover-up in the original field investigation of the alleged My Lai massacre.

A Pentagon spokesman said Resor wanted a civilian counsel available to Lt. Gen. William R. Peers, head of the investigating board, to help assure "objectivity and impartiality."

Resor chose Robert MacCrate, partner in the New York law firm of Sullivan and Cromwell. The 48-year-old MacCrate in turn selected Jerome K. Walsh Jr., partner in the New York law firm of Walsh and Frisch, as his associate special counsel

Resor's move was announced as the Peers board prepared to take testimony from First Lt. William L. Calley Jr., who is facing courtmartial on charges of killing at least 109 Vietnamese civilians in My Lai hamlet on March 16, 1968.

The eight-man board, made up mostly of military officers, is questioning witnesses in secret at the Army Operations Center, two levels below ground in the Pentagon.

Calley arrived at the Pentagon about 12:45 p.m. (EST and was escorted swiftly into the center.

Tight-lipped, looking straight ahead, the young lieutenant strode quickly through a crowd of newsmen and photographers and declined to say anything in response to several questions.

With him were his military lawyer, Maj. Kenneth A. Raby, a public information officer and the pilot who flew them to Washington from Fort Benning, Ga.

The mission of the Peers board is to determine why there was a falldown in the original investigation in April 1968 of reports of atrocities at My Lai.

According to the Army, that field investigation concluded the reports of unnecessary killings of civilians were groundless. The findings never went beyond division level, the Army has said, and the matter was reopened a year later only when a former soldier wrote letters to high government officials reporting eyewitness accounts of mass killings.

In the announcement of a new special counsel, Resor said he had approved a request by Peers for such a lawyer "not associated with the government."

MacCrate served as counsel to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York from 1959 to 1962. A former naval officer in World War II, MacCrate is a graduate of Haverford College and Harvard Law School.

Walsh, 37, graduated from Georgetown University and the University of Michigan law school, and served in the Army for two years. He formerly was

New Solution Posed In Sausalito Parking

By PAT ANGLE

The Sausalito City Council last night decided to look to the north for tourist parking and appeared to move away from current plans for large concentrations of off-street parking in the city's central waterfront area.

The council asked City Atty. Leland H. Jordan, to study the possibility of establishing a citywide parking authority, with an eye to developing a parking facility north of Sausalito's downtown area.

The request came after Jordan told the councilmen their idea of establishing temporary offstreet parking on the waterfront until a better plan could be worked out "would probably be very hard to defend in the courts."

Jordan said, "If we allow people to develop their stores with adjacent parking lots, then try to move the lots somewhere else, I think we would have a real legal problem. If you are

JFK's Fortune: $1.9 Million

BOSTON (UPI) — President John F. Kennedy left a personal fortune of almost $1.9 million when he died, not counting many millions believed left in trust for members of his family.

The amount was disclosed in an inventory of assets which Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the executor of the assassinated President's will, filed with state authorities on Feb. 19, 1965.

It was not made public until the state attorney general gave his permission yesterday.

Grand Jury To Hear Jailed Girl Describe Tate Killings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A young woman, whose attorney pledges she will tell who killed Sharon Tate and six others, was to testify before a grand jury today. Prosecutors are seeking to indict the bearded leader of her hippie-style clan with conspiracy to commit murder.

LINDA KASABIAN
Charged with murder

PATRICIA KRENWINKEL
Held in Alabama

Attorney Richard Caballero said last night that Susan Denise Atkins, 21, will waive rights against self-incrimination and "tell the grand jury exactly what happened" in a gamble that her voluntary testimony might save her from the gas chamber.

Miss Atkins, charged with murder in a separate case, accompanied members of the clan as they killed Miss Tate, actress-wife of Polish film director Roman Polanski, and the others last summer, Caballero said. But he said she was temporarily insane, under the clan leader's "hypnotic spell" at the time and "had nothing to do with the murders."

Miss Atkins' jail cell conversations led to arrests in the Tate case.

Also among the 18 scheduled witnesses was producer Terry Melcher, 27-year-old son of singer-actress Doris Day. Melcher has declined comment.

Miss Atkins' attorneys said Melcher was visited by Charles M. Manson, 35, known as the leader of a quasireligious clan of hippie types who knew Manson as "God" and "Satan."

Manson was unsuccessful in seeking Melcher's help to record some songs when Melcher lived in the Tate home in fashionable Bel Air before Miss Tate and her husband moved in, the attorneys said.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Aaron Stovitz said yesterday he would ask the grand jury to indict Manson on a charge of conspiracy to commit murder, and would seek murder and conspiracy indictments against at least five other persons.

It was the first word that Manson, held for trial in Independence, (Inyo County), on charges of possessing stolen property and driving a stolen vehicle, would be a target for prosecution in the slayings.

Shot or stabbed with Miss Tate, 26, at her rented $200,000 home last Aug. 9 were Hollywood hair stylist and onetime Sausalito houseboat resident, Jay Sebring, 35, San Francisco coffee heiress Abigail Folger, 36; Polish playboy Voityck Frokowsky, 37, and Steven Parent, 18, a friend of the caretaker.

A wealthy market executive, Leno LaBianca, 44, and his wife Rosemary, 38, were stabbed to death at their Hollywood home the next day.

Miss Atkins' lawyers said she told them that members of Manson's group, who dressed in black for the occasion, committed the Tate slayings, then killed the LaBiancas to prove their nerve. They reported she said Manson was not with them.

Police have said three of the indictment targets are Patricia Krenwinkel, 21, in custody in Mobile, Ala.; Charles D. Watson, 24, jailed in McKinney, Tex.; and Linda Louise Kasabian, 20, arraigned here yesterday. Police said they were arrested on murder warrants in the Tate case and were involved in the LaBianca slayings.

In addition to them and Miss Atkins, the Times said, others against whom prosecutors are expected to seek indictments are Steve Grogan, 18, also known as Clem Tufts, and Leslie Sankston, about 20, a young woman. The newspaper identified them as members of Manson's hippie-style "family."

Stovitz said Miss Atkins, charged with murdering Malibu musician Gary Hinman, with whom Manson is said to have lived for a time, told a cellmate about the Tate and LaBianca killings.

The cellmate—Shelley Joyce Nadell, 31, of nearby North Hollywood, charged with forging prescriptions to obtain narcotics—told Miss Atkins' story to police, Stovitz said.

According to her account, clan members killed other persons in addition to the Tate and LaBianca victims, Stovitz said, but Mrs. Nadell did not specify how many or who they were.

Wesley Russell, attorney for Mrs. Nadell ,said she told him she learned clan members "felt the stabbings and the brutal cuttings would help release the souls of the victims."

"They were all on acid and the more they stabbed the more they enjoyed it," Russell, a former deputy district attorney, said he was told.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Prince Phillip's Mother, 84, Dies

LONDON (AP) — Prince Philip's mother, Princess Andrew of Greece, died in her sleep at Buckingham Palace early today. She was 84 and had been in poor health for some time.

Alice

The cause of death was not announced.

Born Princess Alice of Battenberg, Princess Andrew was a Briton by birth, a great-granddaughter of Queen Victoria, a sister of Earl Mountbatten of Burma, the wife of a prince of Denmark and Greece, and a sister of the late Queen Louise of Sweden. After her marriage in 1903 to a younger son of King George I of Greece, she was known by her husband's name, according to the Greek custom.

When the Greeks dethroned George II in 1924, Prince Andrew and his family fled to Paris and the princess opened a jewelry and embroidery shop. In 1929, when Philip was 8, his parents sent him to be raised by Lord Montbatten in Britain.

The Nazi occupation of Paris drove Prince and Princess Andrew to Monte Carlo and he died there in 1944. After her son married Britain's future queen in 1947, Princess Andrew became a Greek Orthodox nun.

Another Round

HELSINKI (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union held their seventh secret session in the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) today.

The meeting lasted an hour and a half as usual. Another meeting is set for Monday.

The prelminary talks, aimed at defining terms and agreeing on agenda items, are expected to end in 10 days to two weeks, with full-scale negotiations taking place after the new year.

Both sides have spoken favorably about continuing the gestures of cordiality which have marked the talks since their start Nov. 17.

Lennon Is Out

LONDON (AP) — The invitation to Beatle John Lennon to play Jesus at St. Paul's Cathedral has been withdrawn.

"Someone like Lennon would imprint his own personality to such an extent that people would read the star's character into the character of the part," a spokesman for the Music Corp. of America-U.K. Record Co., said in explaining the decision.

Lennon had been quoted as saying he would be interested if his wife, Yoko Ono, could take the role of Mary Magdalene.

The invitation was for a pop musical called "Jesus Christ" planned at the cathedral next spring. The recording company, which will issue an album from the musical, said an unknown will be picked for the title role.

$720,000 Tag

LONDON (AP) — A Rembrandt portrait, believed to be of the artist's father, sold for $720,000 today at Christie's art auction house. The buyer was Edward Speelam, a London art dealer.

The portrait is a 26 by 20-inch work entitled "Portrait of an Old Man."

Rembrandt's portrait of his son Titus brought $1.91 million at Christie's in 1965 — the highest price paid for a painting in Europe.

Preparing For War

HONG KONG (AP) — Communist China is making extensive preparations for war with Russia, travelers arriving from the mainland said today.

The reports also said the Peking regime has asked everyone to eat less and put the food they save in reserve.

Peking, the reports said, has announced that the food reserve campaign is an integral part of the all-out war preparations and is ordering regional cadres to push the program more vigorously.

An estimated 900,000 people have been killed in the last century by earthquakes.

Syria Frees Victims Of Hijacked Jet

ATHENS (AP) Two Israeli passengers of a TWA jetliner hijacked to Damascus by Arab commandos last August were released by Syria today and flew to Athens on the same hijacked plane. In exchange, Israel freed 13 Syrians.

Minutes after their arrival here, the two men, Schlomo Samueloff, a university professor of physiology, and Salah Muallem, a travel agent, boarded another TWA jetliner for Tel Aviv.

The two Israelis, accompanied by the Israeli diplomatic representative in Athens, Yaacov Caroz, walked briskly from one plane to the other.

OFFICIAL WATCH

TWA international vice president, Richard W. Wilson, who accompanied the two men on their flight to Athens, also flew with them to Tel Aviv.

Before boarding the plane, Wilson told airport newsmen the men were in "very good health." He said they had told him that they were "very happy to be on their way home."

He quoted the two Israelis as saying that they had received "reasonably good treatment during their imprisonment."

The two men were among 113 persons aboard the jet the Arab commandos seized Aug. 29 on a flight from Rome to Athens and Tel Aviv. A bomb set off by the commandos shortly after the plane landed in Damascus damaged it heavily but it had been repaired.

MYSTERY REMAINS

The Syrians released most of the passengers and the crew the day after the hijacking but kept the two Israeli men and four Israeli women passengers. The Syrians let the women go six days later but never explained why they kept the men.

The pilot of the plane, Capt. Dean Carter, remained in Syria in an attempt to get the men freed.

The United States, several legislators, and such groups as the Air Line Pilots Association, the Red Cross and the International Civil Aviation Organization joined the campaign.

The pilots' group threatened to call a one-day strike throughout the world unless the Syrian authorities took action. The threat never went any farther, however.

NATO Chiefs Ponder Soviet Troop Promise

BRUSSELS (AP) — Fourteen foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Alliance agreed today to challenge the Soviet bloc to discuss mutual troop reductions as a demonstration that the Communists are really serious in proposing a European security conference.

France was reported holding aloof because it is not part of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's unified military command. The French government believes, therefore, that it can have no part in a program of NATO-Warsaw Pact troop reductions.

The decision to renew the 18-month-old offer to talk troop reductions emerged at the windup session of the NATO Council of Foreign Ministers. The ministers were completing a joint declaration on East-West relations and on the Soviet bloc call for a Pan-European security conference in the next six months.

Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann of France also objected to a West German proposal that the alliance reject the Soviet bloc demand at its Moscow summit meeting Thursday for international recognition of the East German regime. Schumann said such a rejection would imply acceptance of the principle of negotiations between two blocs, and France opposes the division of Europe into blocs.

NATO first offered to negotiate mutual reductions in armed strength in June 1968, before the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia. Moscow ignored the offer.

Instead, the Soviets and their allies proposed a big European security conference. After some hesitation, they acknowledged that the United States and Canada could also take part. Criticized for not proposing anything specific for the conference to talk about, the Communists came up with two suggestions: renunciations of the use of force, and more cooperation in trade and science.

At the NATO meeting yesterday, U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers contended that the sole purpose of the Soviet proposal was to perpetuate Moscow's rule in Eastern Europe.

Walter Scheel, West Germany's new foreign minister, expressed doubt that Germany could take part soon in a security conference because the country is still divided.

PERCY'S PROBE

Massacre Claim Stirs Up Robb

MAJ. CHARLES ROBB
'No single instance'

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Maj. Charles Robb says he is anxious for the Pentagon to investigate and clear up an allegation that men in his Marine company had killed or injured Vietnamese civilians.

The 30-year-old son-in-law of former President Lyndon B. Johnson, replying to a report of "indiscriminate killing" by Marines in his command, said: "I know of no single instance n which any of the civilians were injured or killed."

PERCY ORDER

In Washington an aide to Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., announced earlier that the senator had asked the Pentagon to investigate charges of "indiscriminate killing" by U.S. troops.

The charge was made in a letter to Percy from Anthony Martin-Trigona of Champaign, Ill., the aide said.

Columnist Jack Anderson said yesterday in an article published in the New York Post the letter claims the killings were committed by members of Robb's Marine company. Martin-Trigona visited Vietnam as a newspaper correspondent.

Robb, who spent 13 months in Vietnam, is married to the former Lynda Bird Johnson.

At a Las Vegas news conference yesterday, Robb said Percy had informed him of the letter and referred the matter to the Defense Department for investigation.

"I'd like to clean it up and put it to bed," Robb said of the charges.

BEING STUDIED

In writing to Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, Percy said that Martin-Trigona "mentions incidents of indiscriminate killing in Vietnam which deserve attention during DOD investigation of the Song My (My Lai) incidents." The Pentagon said the letter from the former correspondent was being studied.

Referring to Martin-Trigona, Robb told newsmen: "If he found something why didn't he tell anybody about it there? I would like to have known if anything didn't go according to the procedures of conduct in Vietnam."

Robb said he had 200 men under his command and could not swear atrocities hadn't happened without his knowledge.

Robb was here for a Marine district meeting.

Alioto To Talk Of Fee Increase

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Mayor Joseph Alioto scheduled a press conference on his return from Europe today to clarify questions surrounding a $2.1 million legal fee he collected as a private attorney in 1966.

Alioto, then a practing attorney, was retained by former Attorney General John J. O'Connell of Washington state, and several public utilities in that state to file suits against electrical equipment manufacturers in 1962. A ceiling of $1 million was initially set on Alioto's fee, but this was raised in 1965 to a flat 15 per cent of all moneys that Alioto recovered.

Alioto eventually recovered $16 million which was distributed to the respective Washington utility districts after Alioto's $2.1 million fee was taken out.

False Alarm At 'Hair' Opening

The blaze broke out in a first-floor restaurant of Shibuya Station shortly before "Hair's" finale. Smoke poured up to the ninth-floor auditorium, where it was being staged, but the 1,200 guests and cast left quietly, without panic, by elevators.

The fire attracted thousands to the scene, halted trains and subways and created confusion for hours.

A correspondent armed with opera glasses reported that the "Hair" cast stripped to the skin at the end of the first act. If so, however, virtually no one else saw it, the stage was so dark. That circumstance may mean that neither its American producer nor members of the cast will end up in jail as they feared they might.

The average car owners spends $138 a year for its maintenance.

Pro-Nixon Mayor Wins Contest With Lindsay

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Republican Mayor Richard G. Luger of Indianapolis, a supporter of the Nixon administration's urban policies, has defeated New York Mayor John V. Lindsay for vice president of the National League of Cities. Lndsay has called President Richard M. Nixon's urban policies disappointing.

At the closing session yesterday of the league's convention, Lugar, 37 and a former Rhodes scholar, won 376 to 281, in a rare contest for the vice presidency.

League custom is for the vice president to advance to president at the next convention—in Lugar's case, next December in Atlanta. San Diego Mayor Frank Curran, the current vice president and a Democrat, was elected league president without opposition yesterday.

A victory for Lindsay, who had the endorsement of the Democrat- dominated nominating committee, would have given him a national platform, should he have wanted to use it in a bid for higher office. Lindsay lost the Republican primary in New York this year and was reelected mayor as a Liberal-Independent.

A Lindsay victory here also would have been a blow at Nixon administration urban policies, which have been under steady criticism from the platform since the convention opened.

Lugar had stated his support of the administration in announcing he would challenge Lindsay despite the convention's usually automatic acceptance of nominating committee recommendations.

Lugar had the advantage of being known personally by the delegates. While Lindsay was a rare visitor to league functions in recent years, Lugar was present , visibile and active. Lindsay arrived Tuesday, a day after this convention opened, and departed Wednesday.

How Could Massacre Happen In Vietnam?

eated in history. But more than being able to operate intricate electronic equipment and the like, the GIs in Vietnam also could see at first hand the corruption, the indifference of Vietnamese soldiers to winning the war, the contrast between the poverty in the countryside and the comparative wealth of the cities and the way Vietnamese merchants, bar girls and even children selling black market American soft drinks gouged them. Added to this were the deaths and maimings of friends. Cynicism mixed with anger rapidly replaced the early idealism among combat troops. Vietnamese were called "gooks" and "slopes" in a way that sometimes translated as subhuman.

No spark sets off a fire unless it falls into combustible material. The sparks that ignite American GIs are snipers, mines and booby traps. The major cause of casualties in Vietnam are mines and booby traps. Snipers also are a major factor. The three are all the more hated because each is hidden and after the damage is done, there usually is no chance for the American infantrymen to even the score because no enemy can be found.

Often intelligence will pinpoint a village as the source of the mine and booby trap makers and snipers. Repeated sweeps through the hamlet turn up little or nothing except more casualties. And hatred builds up for the villagers who know the snipers and know where the hidden traps are but don't tell. Then one day something snaps in one or more men. The frustration and fear drives them across that line of civilized conduct that in combat zones in a hazy mark at best.

There are indications that these things might have been at work on the men who are accused of massacre in My Lai last year.

They certainly were on a group of American Marines I accompanied into a village south of Da Nang in 1965. A half squad, out of a regimental size force, went on a brief rampage killing a group hiding in a civilian air raid shelter. One Marine called out, "Woosh, I'm a killer today. I got me two." Another said, "Kill them, I don't want anyone moving. We've got only a few more days of legal killing left."

The battalion was due to rotate home in four weeks. In the previous month, 15 per cent of the battalion had been killed or wounded by snipers and boobytraps. None of the Marines had seen a Viet Cong soldier during the time.

After the reports of the incident were published in the United States, Maj. Gen. Lewis Walt, then U.S. Marine commander in Vietnam, issued a public statement saying the killings "grieve me deeply. And I express my deep sympathy to the loved ones of such innocent victims as I do the loved ones of the Marines who have given their lives."

The U.S. Command's position has been from the beginning that civilians are not to be harmed. But the case for the sanctity of civilian life is weakened by the knowledge that there are South Vietnamese assassination teams—sometimes led by Americans— operating in the countryside killing enemy officials, as opposed to soldiers, often in their beds at home, Viet Cong style. And GIs who have searched out a village after American bombers have done their work cannot help but be a bit cynical about orders not to molest civilians.

A senior officer in the legal field was asked after a series of murder trials earlier this year what he thought had motivated the Americans involved, all found guilty.

He said nearly all the cases he had handled involved villagers in Viet Cong held areas. When the pressure of fear or hate or some combination of these factors hit the men hard enough, they broke down with a sort of combat fatigue that ended with slayings.

"If these men never had come to Vietnam, they probably would have lived out their lives as useful citizens and with a police record no more serious than a speeding ticket or two," the officer said.

"In war, everything is realer than real. The capacity for great violence rises to the surface, but so does a capacity for great compassion," an Army doctor said. "Remember, part of the brutalizing men undergo is necessary to their psychological survival. You can't look war in the face with the kind of emotional responses we use in the states. You would go mad."

routes, station locations, vehicles, equipment, facilities, schedules, operating schemes and effects on highways, Luehring said.

The consultants should submit a draft report by the end of June next year, he said. The district would maintain "the right to compile and edit" the report, he added.

Kaiser would have its proposal ready about 30 days after full board approval of the committee's recommendation, Luehring said.

The consultants also would be charged with coordinating their plan with whatever commuter ferry and bus operations the district starts in the next two years, he told directors.

The directors also approved Luehring's recommendation that the San Francisco firm of Walter Landor and Associates be invited to submit a proposal as design consultants to make the transit system attractive to the public.

The firm's work would include designing the district's symbol, theme colors, bus and ferry boat interiors, tickets, public information materials and uniforms, Luehring explained.

Golden Gate Bridge District directors, meeting in committee, also:

COUNTIES — Recommended that "for the time being" all costs of hiring consultants for transit planning should be borne by the district. Eventually, some counties in the district, especially Marin, will be asked to pay the costs of transit planning and operations that offer them intracounty benefits.

STAFF — Received report from Luehring that Tito Sasaki, former staff member of the Marin County Transit District, had been hired to help prepare the long-range transit plan, at an annual salary of $16,500. Still to be filled are the positions of transit manager and one in bus operations.

TRANSIT — Recommended that Luehring be authorized to work with the Alameda-Contra Costa Transit District to see if some coordination of bus operations and maintenance would be feasible.

GREYHOUND — Tabled Luehring's proposal that consultants be hired to negotiate with Greyhound Lines West to phase in bridge district bus operations and phase out Greyhound. Director L. E. Castner of Sonoma County termed the proposal "way too premature."

FOUNDATION — Recommended that the engineering firm of Dames and Moore do a $60,000 study of the foundation of the toll plaza to prepare for a plaza widening project.

TELEPHONE — Postponed action on a request from Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. to install 12 conduits across the bridge, pending study of the ability of the bridge to take the extra weight safely.

TOWERS — Recommended up to $3,500 be spent to do more design work on the proposed floodlighting of the bridge towers.

MASSACRE

associated with MacCrate's law firm.

Calley, who has not spoken publicly about the incident, was called to testify before a special army panel which is attempting to find out why a field investigation shortly after the alleged massacre in March 1968 came up with a finding that no further action was needed.

The lieutenant is charged with the premeditated murder of at least 109 civilians at the village.

Medina, whose Company C included Calley's platoon, was excused by the Peers board last night after hours of questioning under oath. He has not been charged in the case.

During a break in his testimony, Medina appeared at a news conference in the Pentagon and denied flatly allegations by some of his former soldiers that he himself had killed a child at the My Lai 4 hamlet and ordered inhabitants of the settlement killed.

With Boston criminal Lawyer F. Lee Bailey at his elbow, the 33-year-old captain answered reporters' questions for the first time since the case burst into a world-wide sensation.

PARKING

going to restrict parking in the downtown area, you would probably be wise to do it in the beginning."

According to the attorney, California law says that every city in California has a parking authority, "but it doesn't operate until the city activates it."

Jordan said the authority can become operative in Sausalito if the council passes a resolution or adopts an ordinance "saying the need for such an authority exists. The council may designate itself as the parking authority board or may appoint a separate board."

The authority can sell revenue bonds to finance acquisition of land for parking areas and then lease that land to the city, Jordan said, adding that the city can use "any normal city revenues" to finance the operation.

Councilman Robin Sweeny warned that, before acquiring property for a northern parking area, "the city had better be sure that the lot is going to come close to paying for itself. Or else we may have to use money from the general fund and this could mean an increase in taxes."

The council agreed the economic feasibility of such a lot would have to be studied carefully.

Elmore Hutchison, the president of Sausalito Properties, a major land holder in the waterfront area, told the council he objected strenuously to elimination of off-street parking.

"I think the central waterfront plan is being forgotten to solve traffic problems which should have been solved years ago," Hutchison said testily.

"If you could just find some way to gloss over the traffic problem . . . it seems to be the only stumbling block . . .," he pleaded. "We've waited for 10 years to develop our property; we've been extremely patient, but it's too late to start something new now."

Another representative of Sausalito Properties, Alex M. Young, said he felt that "all of a sudden the waterfront property owners have become villains and I don't like to see that."

"Not at all," Councilman Wyman Hicks retorted. "If you people were building a factory which generated smoke, we'd have to face the problem. You are generating traffic rather than smoke, but traffic is a serious problem in Sausalito and we have to face that fact."

"You are upsetting the whole apple cart and then you are going to have a fight on your hands," Hutchison told the council.

Jordan told the council a proposal to close certain major streets leading into Sausalito from the south to halt weekend and holiday traffic congestion was essentially a police matter.

"I think it would be up to our police to determine when traffic reaches the point where it is a hazard," the attorney said; "that is what other cities have done — Berkeley does it with streets near the stadium on football game days and there has been no trouble.

"If they feel a hazard exists, the police could establish checkpoints and only allow residents and other persons with good reasons to enter the closed streets," he continued.

Hicks thought leaving the situation to the discretion of the police was a good idea. "We don't need 24-hour barriers," he said.

Boy, 13, Reports Kidnapping Try

A 13-year-old Mill Valley boy who was hitchhiking to school Wednesday told sheriff's deputies that he was kidnapped by a man who drove him to San Francisco, where the man made sexual advances to him.

The youth told deputies that he took a ride with the man in front of Dan's Market in Tamalpais Valley, but the man did not drive him to school as he said he would. Instead, he headed for San Francisco.

When he stopped there and made advances, the boy pulled out a small knife and escaped, he said. He then hitchhiked to Tamalpais High School, where he appeared about 2 p.m.

the Stones and that "just about everything was settled except the finalizing of a contract" to move to his speedway, located on Byron-Grantline Road off Highway 50, nine miles west of Tracy.

Robert Carter, his son, said organizers were putting up a $200,000 bond for security. No conditions were placed on disbursement of any revenue, he added.

He said that the speedway has an entertainment permit, but that Belli and his father were checking on whether it would cover an extravaganza such as this.

Capt. Lawrence White, executive officer of the Alameda County sheriff's substation at Santa Rita, said he learned of the switch to Altamont indirectly and was "rather nonplussed."

"I'm checking on the need for a permit and I don't want to make any statement yet," he said.

Sears Point officials said agents of the Stones had misrepresented the concert in the first place, saying they intended to do it for charity only.

"They told us yesterday they didn't want to do it for charity," said Steve Castoldi, vice president of the track. "Also, their agents told us several days ago they had permission from Sonoma and Marin County authorities and from the California Highway Patrol.

"We found out yesterday they had not even asked for permission."

Raceway Manager George Davi said health and safety also were factors.

"We just couldn't take care of the 300,000 fans who might show up Saturday," he said.

Robert Carter said Altamont, which features foreign and stock car and motorcycle races on weekends, could accommodate 10,000 cars for the concert.

"The track needs publicity to make a go," he said. "This thing will really do it."

Harvard's administrative vice president, and Prof. Archibald Cox were allowed into the building to talk with the demonstrators.

At that point there was no evidence of police.

The demonstrators, members of a group calling itself the Organization for Black Unity, OBU, spotted colleagues in buildings near University Hall, apparently to act as lookouts for police. Some carried walkie talkies.

The OBU has been increasingly active on the Harvard campus in recent weeks. Its demands have ranged from increased Negro enrollment at the 333-year-old Ivy League institution to improvements for Negro laborers employed by the school, along with more black hiring on new construction at the school.

Harvard has a total enrollment of 15,000 with 4,800 of them undergraduates and 175 of those blacks.

May, who took over as dean of Harvard College in September, warned the demonstrators four times by bullhorn that they could be arrested if they failed to leave at once.

While there was no immediate public response to the demand, May, Wiggins and Cox were observed entering the building about a half hour later.

Cox, former U.S. solicitor general, prepared a lengthy report on the disturbances at one of Harvard's sister schools, Columbia, and has been trying to mediate the OBU Harvard dispute.

HIGH SIERRA ADVENTURE—Mill Valley author Kenneth Pratt and his pack horse trek through Yosemite Park on a journey recalling the early day travels of John Muir. Pratt made it from the East Bay to the ghost town of Bodie on the eastern side of the Sierra in two months, finishing the adventure on Thanksgiving Day. (UPI Telephoto)

Mill Valley Author Treks Across California With A Pack Horse

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) — Kenneth Pratt decided the only way to see Central California and the Sierra Nevada first hand was to walk across the state, and he did just that.

The trip was some 200 miles more than he anticipated and it took him two months to finish it. But aside from being caught in a bad mountain blizzard, the Mill Valley lecturer and author found the experience enjoyable.

Pratt's hike from Oakland to Bodie, a small community near the California-Nevada border, began last Sept. 27 and ended on Thanksgiving Day.

The whole thing came about because of a natural science exhibit at the Oakland Museum, for which Pratt, of 7 Fairway Drive, was doing some work.

"If you walk from one end of a hall to the other it's supposed to be like taking a trip through Central California," he said. "I thought somebody ought to do it for real."

He decided to make the journey himself and, backed by the Oakland Museum Association, he packed a horse with supplies and started walking.

"One of my aims was to stay away from roads," he said. But that added miles to the trip, expanding his original estimate of about 300 miles to something nearer 500 miles.

He trudged out over the Livermore Hills, down into the San Joaquin Valley, followed a levee up the Stanislaus River and then went on to Yosemite National Park before crossing the crest of the Sierra and walking on to Bodie.

The hike was broken up into several segments with Pratt occasionally catching a bus home to catch up on his work.

"This wasn't supposed to be a live-off-the land exploit or an endurance contest," Pratt said. He said he mainly wanted to see California as it had been viewed by early day travelers such as John Muir and Jack London.

"Before I left, a lot of people asked me if I wasn't afraid of being mugged, and also if I wasn't worried about snakes," he said.

"I walked 500 miles and never saw a snake and one of the surprises of the trip was the friendly reception you get from people when you're walking instead of driving."

Because of early storms, Pratt had to use snowshoes to get over parts of the Sierra and at one point holed up in a tent on Vogelsang Pass behind Yosemite to wait out a snowstorm.

"I had about a week's supply of food for myself and not quite a week's supply of food for the horse," he said.

He said if the storm would have continued "I might have had to chew on the horse for food," but the weather cleared and both Pratt and his pack horse made it out of the mountains without further incidents.

He said the most spectacular part of the trip was something anybody can do — climb from Happy Isle in Yosemite Valley to Nevada Falls and Little Yosemite Valley.

"It was absolutely the most spectacular scenery I encountered on the whole walk across California," he said.

ART REVIEW

Communication Is Key To Prints

By LAURA DEVENDORF

"THE MOMENT IN WHICH LIGHT COMES IS GOD. Only you and I can help the sun rise each morning. If we don't, it may drench itself out in sorrow."

This imploring quote from Camus — which is the sum and substance of one of (ex-Sister Mary) Corita's prints — seems more a shout as its black letters vibrate on blazing red and pink. It is also symptomatic of the former nun's determination to make us see, recognize, enjoy, feel, communicate and understand all people and all things in life.

In her new series shown through Jan. 17 at Anima Mundi, 352 Miller Avenue in Mill Valley, she has many ways of winning you over to her point of view. For while Corita is a message artist, she is one of the few who doesn't short-change visual merit in a push to get a point across.

These new prints, while still heavily lettered and quoteridden, now reproduce magazine covers including Time and Life and photographs of news figure such as Caesar Chavez, Bobby Kennedy or troops in Vietnam. They are not always without wit and there is one winning shot of a bishop, his hand raised in blessing, which declares in bold print, "Let the sunshine in."

Another departure is Corita's use of lettering and designs from the last century, much of which she incorporates into an alphabet which plays particularly well as message doubleedged with humor.

"J is for Jesus," shows a face grinning down at a nude nestled in the ornate letter's crook. "L is for ladybug," has "ladybug" in white on yellow all over two of its four sections. The other two are bare black except for one tiny white insect, while "K for kisses" combines the current fetish for funny old posters and their odd vernacular in a poster potion for lovers.

It takes time to absorb all the lengthy quotes and broken words filling so much of Corita's work. And after that there's the second wave — the one that totals the irony of visual plus written meaning.

What is most remarkable is that you don't need to agree to appreciate them. In content, Corita goes beyond the pat, expectable statements about the human condition and rephrases them visually in ways which everyone can feel. And in so doing she helps a lot of suns to rise.

Industrialist Pleads Guilty To Foreign Weapons Sale Charges

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — The former president of the firm which once supplied most of the rocket launchers used on jet planes in Vietnam pleaded guilty today to conspiring to violate the Mutual Security Act by exporting launchers to an arms firm in Belgium.

Andrew L. Stone of St. Louis, former president and principal stockholder of Alsco, Inc., an Akron, Ohio, firm, and its predecessor, Chromcraft Corp. of St. Louis entered the plea before U.S. Dist. Court Judge John K. Regan. Stone's executive secretary, Evelyn R. Price, pleaded guilty to the same charge.

The judge deferred sentencing until March 6 at the request of defense attorneys. Maximum penalty under the charge is a fine of $10,000 and five years in prison.

The two pleaded guilty to the conspiracy count of a 17-count indictment. The other 16 counts were held in abeyance until March 6.

Still facing charges under the 17-count indictment are the Amerbel Corp., a New York exporting firm, and its successor, the Joseph L. Wilmotte and Co. Trial has been set for Jan. 5.

The indictment accused all defendants of exporting 2.75-inch rocket launchers to Les Forges de Zeebrugge, an arms manufacturing and importing firm in Belgium, without obtaining export licenses or approval of the State Department, as required by the Mutual Security Act. The shipments allegedly were made through Amerbel. The Belgium firm was listed as a coconspirator but not as a defendant.

Stone sold his controlling interest in Alsco last February to Harvard Industries of Farmington, N.J., for about $11 million. Alsco later pleaded guilty to one transaction with the Belgium firm and was fined the maximum $25,000. This and all other alleged violations occurred before Alsco became a part of Harvard Industries.

The government contended the shipments of rocket launchers to the Belgium firm began in 1961 and continued until January 1969.

In a related case, Stone, Mrs. Price and two other individuals are awaiting sentencing by a federal judge in Washington. They have pleaded guilty there t one or more counts of an indictment charging they defrauded the Navy on more than $47 million in contracts for rocket launchers and funneled more than $4 million in overcharges and kickbacks into secret Swiss bank accounts.

Chromcraft, the original rocket launcher supplier, merged into Alsco in 1966 and became Alsco's Techfab Division.

In July 1968, The Associated Press disclosed that despite a grand jury probe, the Navy continued to give its launcher contracts to Techfab without competitive bidding.

First Draft Lottery Date A Bell Ringer

NOVATO (AP) — ROTC cadet Sgt. Charles Chung of Novato High School said "a bell kept ringing in my head" after he read that the first date picked in the national draft lottery had been Sept. 14.

He said he looked it up and found the Star Spangled Banner was written by Francis Scott Key in Baltimore, Md., Sept. 14, 1814.

VISTA Appointee Declines Post

DETROIT (AP) — William R. Ford, the 35-year-old Negro whom President Richard M. Nixon appointed last week to be director of the Volunteers In Service to America, announced today he is refusing the post.

In a statement issued by his office in Detroit, Ford cited committments to his present job as director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission as the primary reasons for turning down the federal post.

Ford served as Michigan director for the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity from 1966 until last March, when he assumed his present post.

WARM HOMECOMING

Woman's Death Related To Apparent Overdose Of Pills

A Sausalito woman whose body was found in her apartment Wednesday apparently died of an overdose of unknown drugs, Sausalito Police Capt. R. D. Malkin said today.

Malkin said the overdose conclusion is based on a preliminary pathology report and toxicology results will take another five days.

Jarmilla C. Von Kleinow, 36, was found dead Wednesday night in her apartment at 35 Crescent Avenue after a roommate who had just moved out phoned the landlord, police said. The roommate, Wyoma Kerns, 44, a hostess at the Valhalla restaurant in Sausalito, had tried to phone Miss Von Kleinow earlier but got no answer, police said.

A native of Illinois, Miss Von Kleinow was employed as a photo developer and had lived in Sausalito for six weeks. She was a divorcee.

She is survived by her mother, Marie Fuchs Von Kleinow in Chicago, and a brother, David Von Kleinow of Redwood City.

Funeral arrangements were being made in Chicago.

Hitchhiker Reportedly Spots Kidnapped Girl

QUINCY (AP)—A hitchhiker has told authorities here he has seen 17-year-old Elaine Davis, reported kidnapped Monday from her Walnut Creek home.

Richard Constan, Jr., 31, a Forest Service surveyor told Plumas County sheriff's deputies he was picked up about 10:30 p.m. yesterday in East Quincy by a man about 19 or 20, driving a green sedan, who asked where he could find a gas station.

Constan said when he got in the car, he saw a young blonde-haired girl crying. He said he asked her what was wrong but got no answer.

They stopped at a filling station in Quincy, Constan said, and when he went in back to wake the owner the car sped off "like wildfire." Constan said the driver had told him he had only $2.00 and was headed for Reno, Nev. about 60 miles east.

In Walnut Creek, Police Chief Raymond C. Davis said Miss Davis probably was kidnapped.

"We are fairly certain she left involuntarily, probably under duress," the chief said yesterday in discussing the disappearance of Miss Davis from her home.

When Mr. and Mrs. James Davis returned to their home 35 minutes later the girl had vanished, leaving behind her eyeglasses and a purse containing $4.

Another daughter, Heidi, 3, was sleeping soundly in a bedroom.

Mrs. Davis said the family telephone had been disconnected because she had received anonymous and obscene telephone calls before the girl disappeared.

The mother described the missing girl as 4-feet-11 and weighing 100 pounds. She also said her daughter was shy, studious and didn't drink or smoke and had nothing to do with drugs.

When last seen the girl was wearing brown corduroy jeans, a navy blue coat with gold buttons and brown loafers with gold buckles.

Cubans Execute Official In Bid To Flee Island

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Cuban firing squad has executed a man who raided a military post and killed a government official in an unsuccessful bid to flee the Communist island, Radio Havana said today.

Alberto Alfredo Mustelier was executed last night, the broadcast monitored in Miami said, under orders from the Havana Revolutionary Tribunal.

Mustelier was one of three men the Fidel Castro government said raided the Mosquito Military Post in Pinar del Rio Province last October in an attempt to steal a launch to flee Cuba's south coast.

When they failed, the three fled to Havana where Mustelier shot Gilberto de la Cruz Suarez, a government officer and a member of Cuba's Communist party, the broadcast said.

The radio report did not mention sentences given to Mustelier's accomplices.

London's famous Picadilly Street is only about a mile long.

Collision With Pole Injures Petaluman

A Petaluma girl was injured yesterday at 5:17 p.m. when her car struck a utility pole on D Street Extension, three miles west of Petaluma.

Katherine Eckenroad, 18, of 741 Elm Drive, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for a nose injury. The California Highway Patrol said her car hit a soft shoulder and struck the pole.

Strawberry Rejects Bids For Rec Center

Five bids for construction of the Strawberry Recreation District community center have been rejected by the district board, according to Secretary Jeanne Heick.

Directors, meeting Wednesday night, authorized architect J. Martin Rosse to negotiate for a lower bid on a modified plan, Mrs. Heick said.

A special meeting was set for 8 p.m. Dec. 16 at Strawberry Point School to hear a report by Rosse on negotiations.

Low bid for the project was $292,000 by L. C. Smith of San Mateo. The building had been estimated to cost $250,000 by Rosse.

The board also agreed to an increase in its assessment for the dredging of the Saucelito Canal from $2,523 to $4,203, Mrs. Heick said.

Driver Fined $100

Frank Lafayette Copening, 30, of Los Angeles, has been placed on one year probation and fined $100 in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving. He was arrested June 1 in Sausalito.

Possible Senate Candidate Urges Bill On Ecology

A potential candidate for the state senate from Marin Wednesday urged adoption of "an Environmental Bill of Rights, before waste and pollution — quite literally — kill us all."

Michael R. Peevey of San Rafael, mentioned as a challenger to Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, outlined a five-point program he said is necessary to curb pollution, in a speech to the Marin County Women's Division of the Democratic State Central Committee.

His proposals included penalizing industrial polluters; banning internal combustion engines; using gas tax funds for transit other than freeways; establishing a statewide, perpetual land use plan to preserve open space, and forming a state Council of Environmental Advisers.

Using freshly cut spinach, scientists at the University of California have almost exactly duplicated in the laboratory the long-mysterious life process known as photosynthesis.

Oxford Boxing Club Kayoed By Apathy

OXFORD, England (AP) — Oxford University has disbanded its boxing club, which had been going for 72 years.

The reason: fewer and fewer students appear interested in boxing. A spokesman said: "What is the point of having a boxing club if undergraduates just don't wamt to box?"

February Trial Slated In Petaluma Shooting

A jury trial has been set for the week of Feb. 16 in Sonoma County Superior Court for Walter Lee Hale, 51, accused of shooting Petaluma Police Officer Vilho Ahola.

Hale altered his innocent plea to innocent by reason of insanity yesterday before Judge Lincoln F. Mahan, who said he would appoint two psychiatrists to examine Hale and report to the court by Dec. 30.

Hale is charged with assault with intent to commit murder and assault with a deadly weapon on a police officer. Ahola was shot Nov. 5 as he attempted to assist Hale's estranged wife, Helen, in removing personal items from the family home at 718 I Street.

Ahola, shot in the neck, is hospitalized in Santa Rosa and remains paralyzed from the waist down.

Wild turkeys are legal game in all or parts of eight counties in New York State. About one turkey hunter in two dozen gets his gobbler or hen during the fall hunt — about the same ratio of success as for archers pursuing whitetail deer.

Marin's Union Members Polled On Housing Need

A study is under way to determine housing problems of union members and their families in Marin County.

Albert Solnit, chief of advance planning in the county planning department, said questionnaires are being sent to about 8,000 union members who live or work in Marin.

The survey is sponsored by the planning department, Marin County Labor Council, and the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council.

About 40 per cent of union members who work in Marin do not live here, said Solnit. He added that Charles Weers, president of the labor council, feels the 40 per cent live elsewhere because they cannot afford high living costs in the county.

Results of this survey will be incorporated into the planning department's current study of general housing problems in Marin.

Antismoking Plea

A resolution urging removal of cigarette vending machines from Marin General Hospital will be submitted to hospital directors by the facility's medicine staff, according to Dr. Gerald Hill, chairman of the Physicians Advisory Council on Smoking at the hospital.

Cotati Panel Rejects Single Avenue Name

A proposal to change the names of East Cotati and West Sierra avenues to Sonoma State Boulevard was rejected last night by the Cotati City Council.

Mayor Frank P. Dolinsek and Councilmen Alfred Falletti and Robert Rasmussen voted against the change and Councilmen Kenneth Garner and Morris J. Houser supported the change to honor the nearby college.

The councilmen opposed cited the many petitions and letters of protest issued by residents who did not want the inconvenience of changing addresses. College administrators also objected, saying that the future college main entrance would be off the Rohnert Park expressway and that the name of Sonoma State Boulevard would only cause confusion.

A public hearing on the proposal under one name will be held Jan. 15 at 7:30 p.m.

The Cotati City Council also:

STUDY ZONE — Approved a resolution setting the hub area as a study zone for one year to review possible zoning changes.

SERVICE STATIONS — Introduced an ordinance setting standards for service stations and requring that no more than two be placed at an intersection.

LITTER—Asked that an anti-litter ordinance be prepared for council consideration.

CLEANING — Authorized the San Rafael Equipment Co. to clean the digestor at the sewage plant for $2,390.

Bagley To Speak

Car Wash, Cake Sale Plannd

Members of the freshman class at Redwood High School will hold a car wash at 9 a.m. tomorrow at the Chevron station at 706 Tamalpais Drive, Corte Madera, the student news bureau announced.

Sophomores will sponsor a bake sale, also tomorrow, from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Safeway store at the Strawberry Shopping Center.

Proceeds will benefit Christmas charities.

Banquet Room Gets Fairfax Nod

An application to add a banquet room to Rubini's Restaurant, 10 Olema Drive, Fairfax, was approved unanimously last night by the Fairfax Design Review Board. The request was made by C. Jay Thomas.

The board also approved a sign for Aqua World, a tropical fish store at 117 Mono Avenue, secretary Eileen Foster reported.

The board agreed to use the Tiburon sign ordinance as a basis for one for Fairfax and decided to study the document further before beginning to build on it.

In other business, the board agreed to study parking problems in the residential areas as a major project for next year.

The next meeting will be at 8 p.m. Jan 5, instead of the regularly scheduled day which falls on New Year's.

Body Proves To Be Just Balloons

Full-blown rumors about a body floating in Corte Madera Creek last Sunday night were deflated today when it was disclosed that the "body" was a bunch of balloons.

The Larkspur Fire Department said its rescue unit rushed to the Bon Air Bridge about 9 p.m. but the reported body turned out to be a balloon-stuffed pair of coveralls.

A Corte Madera fire department unit alse responded and a sheriff's patrol unit dropped by the scene, Larkspur fire officials reported.

The matter was not reported during routine reports to the press on fire department calls, officials said, because, well, frankly, it was a lot of hot air.

Closed Circuit TV Is Approved

Sonoma State College students yesterday approved spending $2,500 for a closed circuit television system by a slim 11 vote margin.

Gregory Jilka, student body vice president, said the vote tally was 215 votes for the television system and 204 votes against.

Proponents of the plan said the system could be used to broadcast cultural events, government meetings and would be available to all groups. Opponents said that better use could be made of $2,500.

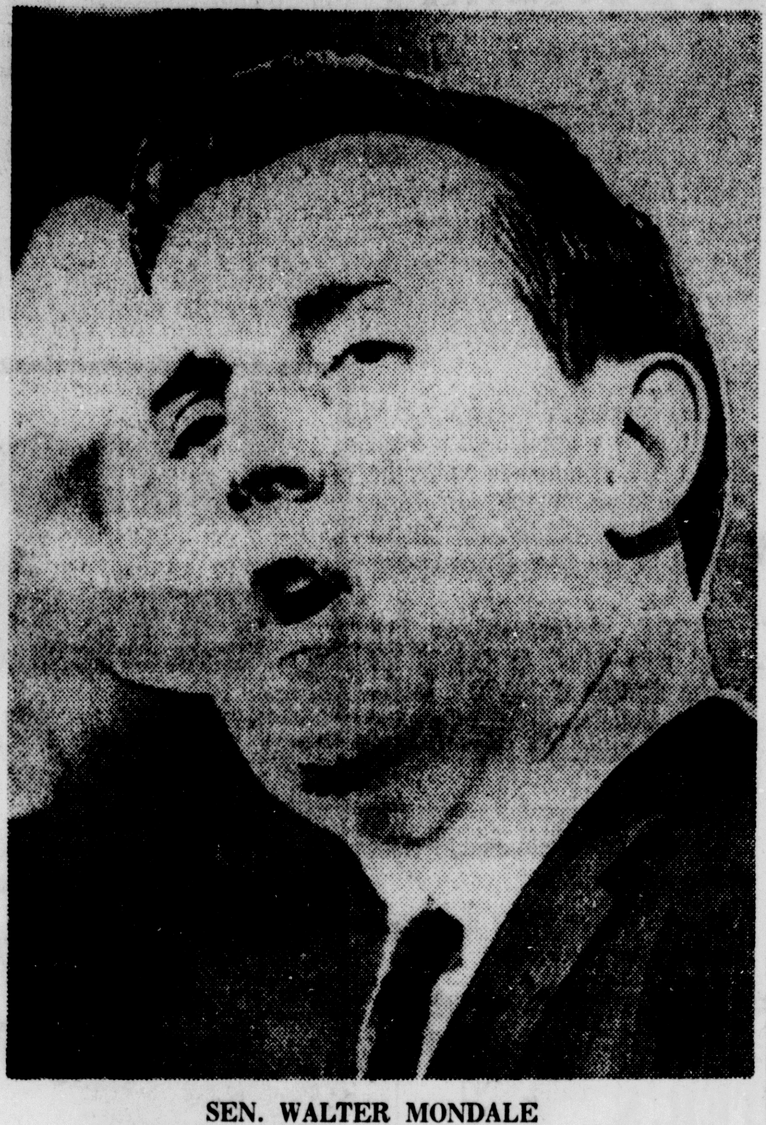
Parley Urges Nixon to Declare Nationwide Hunger Emergency

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon's White House hunger conference has told him in effect what has been done for the nation's hungry is not enough and what should be done should be done now.

The 3,000 delegates from all walks of life shouted acceptance of a statement calling on Nixon to declare a national hunger emergency, the government to guarantee an annual income floor of $5,500 and free lunch and breakfast programs for poor children.



SEN. WALTER MONDALE
"We have flattered the hungry . . ."

EMERGENCY CITED

"There is a hunger and malnutrition emergency in this country today," the conference statement said yesterday.

"Therefore, the President must immediately declare that a national hunger emergency exists, and under existing authority must now free funds and implement programs to feed all hungry Americans this winter," the statement said.

As an interim measure only all present food programs should be reformed and expanded, said the statement. This will be part of hundreds of recommendations to the President on virtually every conceivable aspect of food, nutrition and health.

SHIFTS SOUGHT

The statement also cited what many antihunger crusaders consider congressional obstruction. All food programs should be switched from the Agriculture Department to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare with corresponding shifts in congressional committee responsibilities, it said.

The President's conference chairman, Dr. Jean Mayer, said there was "an escalation of concern for the poor" at the conference, and "I am perfectly satisfied with the results."

Before the conference closed, Mayer said the President had decided to give priority to establishing food stamps in 307 U.S. counties without them and upping the allowable purchasing power of food stamps from the current $65 to $106 a month for a family of four.

In a windup speech, Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., told the delegates "We have flattered the hungry with everything except food."

"Surely if we can respond to victims of hurricanes, we can respond to the victims of hunger," the senator said.

Ecumenical Call: More Black Rights

DETROIT (AP) — "Our old ways of doing things are not adequate," says the first woman president of the National council of Churches. "There must be big changes and they must be made faster than we think possible."

One of the first changes recommended by Cynthia Wedel, elected to the church post yesterday, is the granting of a great deal more power to blacks in the organization.

She predicted they would get more power in high council posts and pledged that she would be open to guidance from them and from the young and poor.

Mrs. Wedel, an Episcopalian, was elected near the close of the interdenominational organization's triennial general assembly.

She succeeds Dr. Arthur Flemming, a Methodist, as head of the council which includes 33 Protestant and Orthodox denominations with 42 million members.

In a step toward change aimed at broadening council membership, the assembly authorized council leaders to explore with nonmember denominations their possible participation in a more flexible organization. In it, members could choose what programs they wanted to share or avoid.

Mrs. Wedel, of Alexandria, Va., a long-time ecumenical leader, voiced hope that the new steps would give rise to a fuller, freer form of Christian cooperation.

Judge Gives Alioto Probers A Reprieve

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A federal judge says authors Richard Carlson and Lance Brisson don't have to name the sources of their Look Magazine article linking San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto to the Mafia.

U.S. Dist. Judge Bruce R. Thompson said yesterday he was granting immunity to the two writers because there are "alternatives" available in the mayor's $12.5 million libel suit against the magazine.

Brisson and Carlson have refused in closed deposition sessions to tell the sources of their article. They argued to do so would endanger those sources.

Judge Thompson called each man to the stand and asked him if his decision to remain silent was unalterable. Each said it was.

The judge said that while giving them immunity for now, he said he might impose sanctions on their testimony later, including special jury instructions.

Attorney Maxwell Blecher, representing Alioto, had suggested two others—elimination of the authors' notebooks from the trial or instructions to Carlson and Brisson (and presumably to the Look editors) to tell the jury only that their information came from "an anonymous source" rather than that it came from "an anonymous police officer" or "an anonymous FBI agent."

Focus on Today

The promises of Christ Jesus, the Prophets, and Apostles are timeless; but to make them practical now, we need to know their deeper spiritual meanings. And we need to know the timeless nature of our own being. Showing man's true nature and his relation to God is the purpose of every Christian Science Church Service. You are always welcome.

Six Plans Presented To Save Round Valley In Dam's Path

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's water chief revealed today six proposed alternative projects to the controversial high dam at Dos Rios on the Middle Fork of the Eel River which had been rejected by Reagan.

All are designed to avoid the flooding of Round Valley, Reagan's chief objection to the project as earlier proposed by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the State Department of Water Resources.

The estimated costs of all of them exceed the estimated $462 million of the original Dos Rios project, with the price tag ranging up as high as $1.24 billion.

The corps and the department want the project, or a variation, to provide flood control for the Eel River system on California's North Coast and to pump an additional 900,000 acre-feet of water into the State Water Project in the 1980s.

Avid conservationists oppose any dams or reservoirs at all in that region.

Reagan rejected the earlier Dos Rios high dam project in May, sending state water engineers back to the design stages for alternatives that would meet environmental protection standards.

The high dam would have flooded the scenic valley in Mendocino County and the town of Covelo and displaced a hundred or so Indians who live there.

The issue became one of the two most emotional environmental topics of the year.

The alternatives outlined by William R. Gianelli, state water department chief, fall into three major categories:

A small Dos Rios reservoir which does not flood the valley.

—A medium-size Dos Rios reservoir with auxiliary features that would protect the valley from flooding.

A Yellow Jacket reservoir on the lower Eel River.

The Yellow Jacket proposal is the most costly, topping the billion dollar mark, because of higher cost of facilities needed to route the water into the State Water Project, which is furnishing Central and Southern California customers with surplus water from the north.

Ten secondary alternatives were rejected for a number of reasons, Gianelli said.

The report was prepared for submission to a meeting of the State Water Commission in Los Angeles. It will undergo close examination by the legislature and the Republican governor before a new decision is reached.

The alternatives considered two possible routings of the stored water to the Sacramento-San Joaquin River Delta, the diversion point of the water into the state project aqueduct.

One goes to the east with a special holding reservoir in Glenn County. There is a southerly routing through Clear Lake with holding reservoir storage on Cache Creek.

Gianelli's 36-page report also included a table on the proposed impact of each alternative, including the size of the reservoirs and estimates on potential recreation use and what it would do to the salmon and steelhead fisheries.

Building Trades Hope To Expand Opportunity

A new effort to upgrade the building industry and to provide it with an adequate manpower was launched last night by the Marin section of the Bay Area Construction Opportunities Program, spokesman Samuel de Lisle reported today.

De Lisle said Rev. Samuel L. Banks Jr. of Marin City and Douglas Roberts of the Marin Builders Exchange will head the program to find temporary jobs for building apprentices so that when slots open up in the various segments of the industry, men will be available to fill them.

The program also will send speakers into senior classes of high schools to explain "what the building industry is all about . . . why blue collar instead of teacher or doctor or lawyer," de Lisle said.

A third phase of the program would be to establish a cooperative effort with the newly formed Marin Industry Educational Council in the area of temporary jobs.

A pilot program for pretraining minority applicants to the sheet metal industry's apprentice program was outlined at last night's BACOP meeting by Ray White, manager of the Redwood Empire Sheet Metal Association.

The program, designed to give minority applicants a head start, will commence with the 1970 building season, de Lisle said, and eventually will be extended to the rest of the industry.

BACOP representatives last night also voted to extend the Marin section of BACOP to Sonoma, Solano, Mendocino and Napa counties, de Lisle reported.

More than 17 steamship lines serve Honolulu.

Second Divorce Action Is Filed

Edward Larry Beggs, 36, of Mill Valley, director of San Francisco's Huckleberry House for runaway youngsters, has been sued for divorce for the second time by his wife, Nina Florence.

In a suit filed Wednesday in Marin Superior Court, Mrs. Beggs charged mental cruelty and asked $250 monthly support for herself and $500 for the couple's two sons, ages 3 and 6.

Mrs. Beggs had filed suit for divorce in 1968 but dropped the action before it came to trial.

According to the new suit, the couple was married on June 15, 1959 and separated last Monday.

Mrs. Beggs' suit claims that her husband earns $1,000 a month as minister at the haven for teen-agers and another $500 a month from royalties on his book, "Huckleberry for Runaways," and from popular songs he has composed.

Army-Air Force Ceremony Set For Retiring General

GEN JAMES R. WINN
To end military career

With a parade of troops from Nike missile sites from Seattle to Los Angeles and a fly-over of planes from Hamilton Air Force Base, Army Maj. Gen. James R. Winn will retire Dec. 29 at the Presidio of San Francisco.

He will end a military career of more than 35 years, the past two and a half spent in dual duty at Hamilton Air Force Base and Fort Baker.

General Winn, 59, has held the posts of commander of the Western Region of the North American Air Defense Command and of the Sixth Region Army Air Defense Command. His NORAD headquarters office was at Hamilton and his Army command office at Fort Baker.

Since the western region of NORAD was moved to Richards-Gebaur Air Force Base, Mo., on Sept. 15, General Winn was named special assistant to the chief of NORAD so that he could keep his Hamilton office.

The general and his wife, Eleanor, will give up their home at 293 Casa Grande at Hamilton when his retirement becomes official on Dec. 31. They have no definite plans for the future.

"I will look around and then move to where I find the job I want," he said. The general said he had not been looking for work after his retirement because he would be needed on the job to the last day.

His successor has not been named, he said.

General Winn was born in Kentucky and attended the University of Kentucky until entering the military academy at West Point in 1930.

"Not until the last semester of my senior year did I decide to make the Army my career," he said. At that time, it was not obligatory to serve after attending the academy, he said.

After serving in numerous command staff positions, he took his master's degree in psysics from the University of California at Los Angeles in 1941. During World War II, he served in the European theater and participated in planning the Omaha Beach campaign of the Normandy invasion. He served in campaigns of Normandy, northern France, the Rhineland, Ardennes and central Europe.

After World War II, he remained in Europe as a member of the theater general board. In 1946 he returned to the U.S. and served as executive officer of the artillery section and acting artillery officer for the First Army. He was assigned to Greece in 1948 as advisor to clear northern Greece of guerilla forces.

He returned to the U.S. in 1949 and attended the National War College. Then for three years he served in the Department of the Army. In 1953 he became chief of the joint plans section, European Command. In 1956 he was named to the Army War College faculty. He was assigned acting chief of staff of the Continental Army Command in 1960. In May 1692 he became the senior member of the United Nations Command Military Armistice Commission in Korea. He served as commanding general Second Region Army Air Defense Command until 1965 when he was assigned as chief of the joint military advisory group in the Philippines. He returned to the U.S. in 1967 when he was assigned to the two command positions in Marin County.

Attorney Blames Alioto To Black Panther Arrest

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Black Panther attorney Charles Garry has accused San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto of being "the patsy who got the show on the road" to indict David Hilliard on charges of threatening the life of President Richard M. Nixon.

Hilliard, 27, Panther chief of staff, was held in lieu of $30,000 bail today on a federal grand jury indictment charging him with threatening Nixon's life during a Nov. 15 antiwar rally in Golden Gate Park which police say 85,000 attended.

He was arrested by Secret Service agents Wednesday on an indictment saying he "referred to President Nixon as 'the man that's responsible for all the attacks on the Black Panther party nationally" and stated, 'We will kill Richard Nixon.' "

Garry said yesterday the mayor is using the Panthers as his "whipping boy" in Alioto's unofficial campaign for governor.

He said Hilliard's arrest is "part and parcel of a scheme and device to commit genocide on the Black Panther party."

Both Garry and attorney Terrence Hallinan, a leader of the New Mobilization Committee which organized the Nov. 15 rally, agree with Panther minister of information Masai Hewitt who says Hilliard was engaging in political rhetoric, not threats.

Viet Cong Set Three-Day Holiday Cease-Fires

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong announced today that its forces would observe Christmas and New Year's truces of three days each, two days longer than those proclaimed yesterday by the Saigon government.

The Viet Cong radio said the Christmas truce would start at 1 a.m. Dec. 24, (9 a.m. Dec. 23 PST), and end at 1 a.m. Dec. 27. It said the New Year's truce would run from 1 a.m. Dec. 30 to 1 a.m. Jan. 2.

President Nguyen Van Thieu proclaimed 24-hour cease-fires to start at 6 p.m. Christmas Eve and 6 p.m. New Year's Eve. The U.S. Command said American forces would join in the truce proclaimed by Thieu.

The U.S. Command said today it had received reports for the first time in the war that North Vietnamese army officers executed at least a dozen of their soldiers who tried to desert.

In a special memorandum to newsmen, the command said armed guards to prevent desertions were reported accompanying North Vietnamese units infiltrating into the South. Desertion has been a problem in the South Vietnamese army for years.

The U.S. Command said its reports came from three North Vietnamese defectors who escaped last August and September.

Two of them said they were privates, both born in Ha Tay Province and both with the North Vietnamese army's 3rd Division.

One, 17 years old, arrived in South Vietnam last March. He reported that "a number of men from his battalion deserted in North Vietnam while moving south and that 10 soldiers who attempted to desert were shot by the unit's officers," the U.S. statement said.

The other private, 32, said he arrived in the South last April and that his unit was under guard on the way down because 35 men had deserted.

The third defector, a 16-year-old guerrilla, told interrogators that he saw the bodies of two soldiers who had deserted from their unit near Hue in September and were captured by a North Vietnamese sapper battalion.

"The sapper battalion commander ordered them shot when they refused to return to their unit," the U.S. memorandum said.

The guerrilla "further stated that the North Vietnamese army cadre have increased their supervision to combat desertions while on operations in base areas and on food-gathering missions.

"This system was implemented during August in the North Vietnamese army regiment in central 1st Corps by detailing additional personnel to watch soldiers following 30 desertions from the unit in May, June and July of 1969."

Meanwhile, more fighting was reported along the Cambodian border west of Saigon.

American helicopters landed more than 100 South Vietnamese troops into a border region 103 miles west of the capital yesterday. The militiamen made contact with the North Vietnamese two miles from the border, but the only enemy casualties reported were 17 killed by U.S. helicopter gunships. The U.S. Command said one helicopter was shot down and four Americans were wounded, while in the ground fighting three of the South Vietnamese were killed and 34 wounded.

American bombers attacked North Vietnamese troops inside Cambodia Wednesday and yesterday in retaliation for enemy artillery and infantry assaults on South Vietnamese border posts, but there were no reports of air strikes inside Cambodia today.

The U.S. Command said it would have no comment on charges by Cambodia that U.S. and South Vietnamese forays into Cambodia since 1962 have killed more than 300 Cambodians and wounded 700 others. Cambodia made the charge yesterday in a white paper issued at U.N. headquarters in New York.

Weinberger Sees Catastrophe On Income Tax Shift Proposal

COMBINED AP & UPI

SACRAMENTO — The Reagan administration's top money expert says Californians could pay 85 per cent more income tax if a proposed $1 billion tax shift to the state treasury and away from the local property levy wins approval.

State Finance Director Caspar W. Weinberger made the comment in a statement yesterday presented to the Legislature's revenue and taxation committee.

Weinberger said the program co-sponsored by the California Teachers Association and the California County Supervisors Association would actually cost the state $1.13 billion.

He said the extra state money would be needed to finance education, health and welfare costs now paid for by property taxpayers.

"If the personal income tax were used—about an 85 per cent increase," said Weinberger's statement handed the committee, co-chaired by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, by Assistant Finance Director Richard W. Lazansky.

"Or, if the sales and use tax is used, about a 65 per cent increase," he added. A $1 billion tax increase recommended by the Reagan administration in 1967 hiked income taxes an average of 67 per cent, Lazansky said.

The lawmakers are seeking to write a tax reform bill acceptable to colleagues and Gov. Ronald Reagan, a task neither has been able to accomplish in the past.

The teacher-supervisor proposal would circumvent lawmakers by aiming to collect enough signatures to be submitted to voters at the June 2 primary election in the form of an initiative.

kThe highlights of the program call for increasing the existing homeowners property tax exemption from $750 to $1,000 and requiring the state to pay 50 per cent of all school costs and 90 per cent of welfare expenses.

Several other tax reform proposals were submitted during the all-day hearing, including a plan by Monterey County Supervisor Warren Church.

He would strip the counties and school districts of the property tax, except to pay off bonds. Cities and special districts would retain the real estate levy.

Church's program also calls for an increase in the state bank and corporations tax from 7 to 20 per cent, a local 2 per cent sales tax to finance education and a local income the state income tax paid.

Another proposal was made by the California Farm Bureau Federation. It urged a $2 billion boost in the personal income and business taxes to replace property taxes as a means of school support.

NEW HOME FOR NONAME

Noname, the orange and black cat rescued from starvation on a Mill Valley street in July, is comforted by her new owner, Elizabeth Weedon, during a cautious introduction to one of three cats — and a dog — already prowling the Weedon household in Mill Valley. Another Mill Valleyan, Virginia Howard, found the cat, nursed it back to health, then weighed more than a dozen offers — which came in response to a story in the Independent-Journal — for a permanent home for Noname. Finally, she accepted Miss Weedon's bid and turned the cat over "complete with instructions on home care, Noname's pan, dishes and blanket ... both cat and I crying. I love that peanut." Congress Tries To Avert Callback After Christmas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairmen of the House and Senate appropriations committees say Congress can complete work on money bills this year without a post-Christmas special session threatened by President Richard M. Nixon.

The President, meeting Thursday with Republican congressional leaders, warned he might call a special session for Dec. 26 unless all appropriations bills were acted on.

"The President is very firm that action must be taken," Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott told reporters.

Although only five of the year's 13 regular money bills have cleared Congress, Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the House committee, said "I see no serious problem. It's our responsibility to do it and we will."

But the usually optimistic Mike Mansfield, Senate Democratic leader, told a reporter "it's going to be nip and tuck."

The keys, he said, are the $70 billion defense appropriations bill, scheduled for House action early next week, and the bill covering the departments of labor, and health, education and welfare, scheduled to be marked up by the Senate committee next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Both contain controversial provisions, including funds for the Safeguard ABM system in the defense bill and desegregation riders in the Labor-HEW measure.

Besides the appropriations bills, House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said Nixon is considering calling Congress back if there is no movement on his anticrime proposals.

Although Mansfield has talked about ending the session Dec. 23, and House leaders have hoped for Dec. 19, Ford said "Under the current circumstances, we will have to be here Christmas eve."

$190 Tool Theft

A burglar who broke into a construction shack at Larch and Kale roads in Bolinas either Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning took tools valued at $190, sheriff's officers said today. The tools belonged to contractor Robert L. Jones.

Yule Deadline Predicted On Tax Reforms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief House tax architect says despite major alterations made by the Senate in the tax reform bill, Congress will agree on legislation and send it to the President before Christmas.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, said in an interview: "We simply have to finish it.

"There would be too much confusion if we did not—for example on withholding the surtax after Dec. 31," the Arkansas Democrat added.

One provision in the massive bill continues the income surtax at 5 per cent through June 30, 1970. The current 10 per cent surtax expires Dec. 31.

The Senate is scheduled to fish its work on the bill not later than next week.

This would leave only a week and a half for a conference between the two bodies to reconcile the differences and for final action in both chambers before Christmas.

"We'd have to work late, but we could do it," Mills said.

Senators Retain Tax Help For Foundations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted overwhelmingly today to eliminate from the tax reform bill a provision that would have ended the tax exemption privilege for private foundations after 40 years. Opponents had called the provision "a death sentence" for the foundations.

The action came before the Senate was set to consider adding an amendment to the bill to increase Social Security benefits Jan. 1 by 15 per cent—an action a ranking Republican senator said would increase the chances of a presidential veto of the entire bill.

The Finance Committee had approved the foundation provision after hearing testimony that hundreds of foundations had been set up for tax evasion purposes.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., arguing to eliminate the provision, said, "If you keep this you're going to destroy something that is fine and noble in America."

"Don't burn down the barn just to get one mouse," he shouted.

Before the 69-18 vote on the foundations, acting Senate GOP Leader Robert P. Griffin told newsmen he "wouldn't bet against" a presidential veto if the Social Security increase were added to the bill.

The Democrats, moving rapidly to steal the march on Republicans, prepared the Social Security rider yesterday, hoping to get it into position for adoption today. GOP senators were believed to have been planning a similar move.

Tacking a 15 per cent increase onto the tax bill "could be a clever political move," Griffin said, "but is not the way to help senior citizens."

"This matter ought to be handled alone and not as part of tax reform," he added. "It can only jeopardize tax reform."

The administration has called for a 10 per cent increase in benefits effective next April.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of Finance, said there was no question the Senate would approve the Social Security rider.

Long and Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., chief sponsors of the amendment said they were convinced this procedure was the best way to assure passage of the Social Security boost before the 1969 session ends.

Short School's 'Magic Room'

Marin Women

SECOND SECTION Friday, December 5, 1969 17

By BETH GAEDDERT

"Then, suddenly again, Christopher Robin, who was still looking at the world, with his chin in his hands, called out 'Pooh'!"

"Yes?" said Pooh.

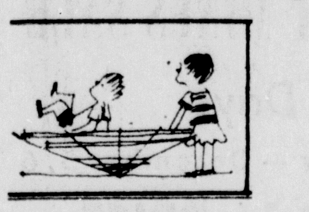
"When I'm — when — Pooh!"

"Yes, Christopher Robin?"

"I'm not going to do Nothing any more."

"Never again?"

"Well, not so much. They don't let you."



One of those places where "they don't let you do nothing" is school. And sometimes after going a while you forget how to "do nothing." Then when you grow up and have plenty of leisure time it may be hard to remember what to do with it.

This concerned some San Rafael parents who are looking ahead to when their children, who now attend Short School, will have more leisure time than ever before.

So, with the cooperation of the teachers and administration of the school, the Parent-Teacher Association, under the guidance of Mrs. Ardys Kirsch and Mrs. Thomas Place, has transformed a spare classroom at the school into a "Magic Room" where members hope "the process of creativity will flow freely." They also hope the room will provide children with a little practice at real life.

"In their future there will be so many stimuli they will have to know how to sort it all out and decide what really will become part of their lives," Mrs. Kirsch said.

"It's frightening when a child comes in, sees all the activities and then waits to be told what to do," she said.

One little boy walked into the room, went from the chalk board, to the pile of wood blocks, to the typewriter, to the paints and said, "But there is nothing to do." No one gave him instruction and he ended up having an imaginary three-way interplanetary conversation with three scientists on the old telephones.

Another first grade boy found a box of sewing supplies and was seen sewing up a rip in another boy's jeans — while he had them on.

The volunteer staff, who are there only to prevent injury and answer questions, will not make directive suggestions or criticism.

Future plans are to invite local artists to spend a day at the Magic Room.

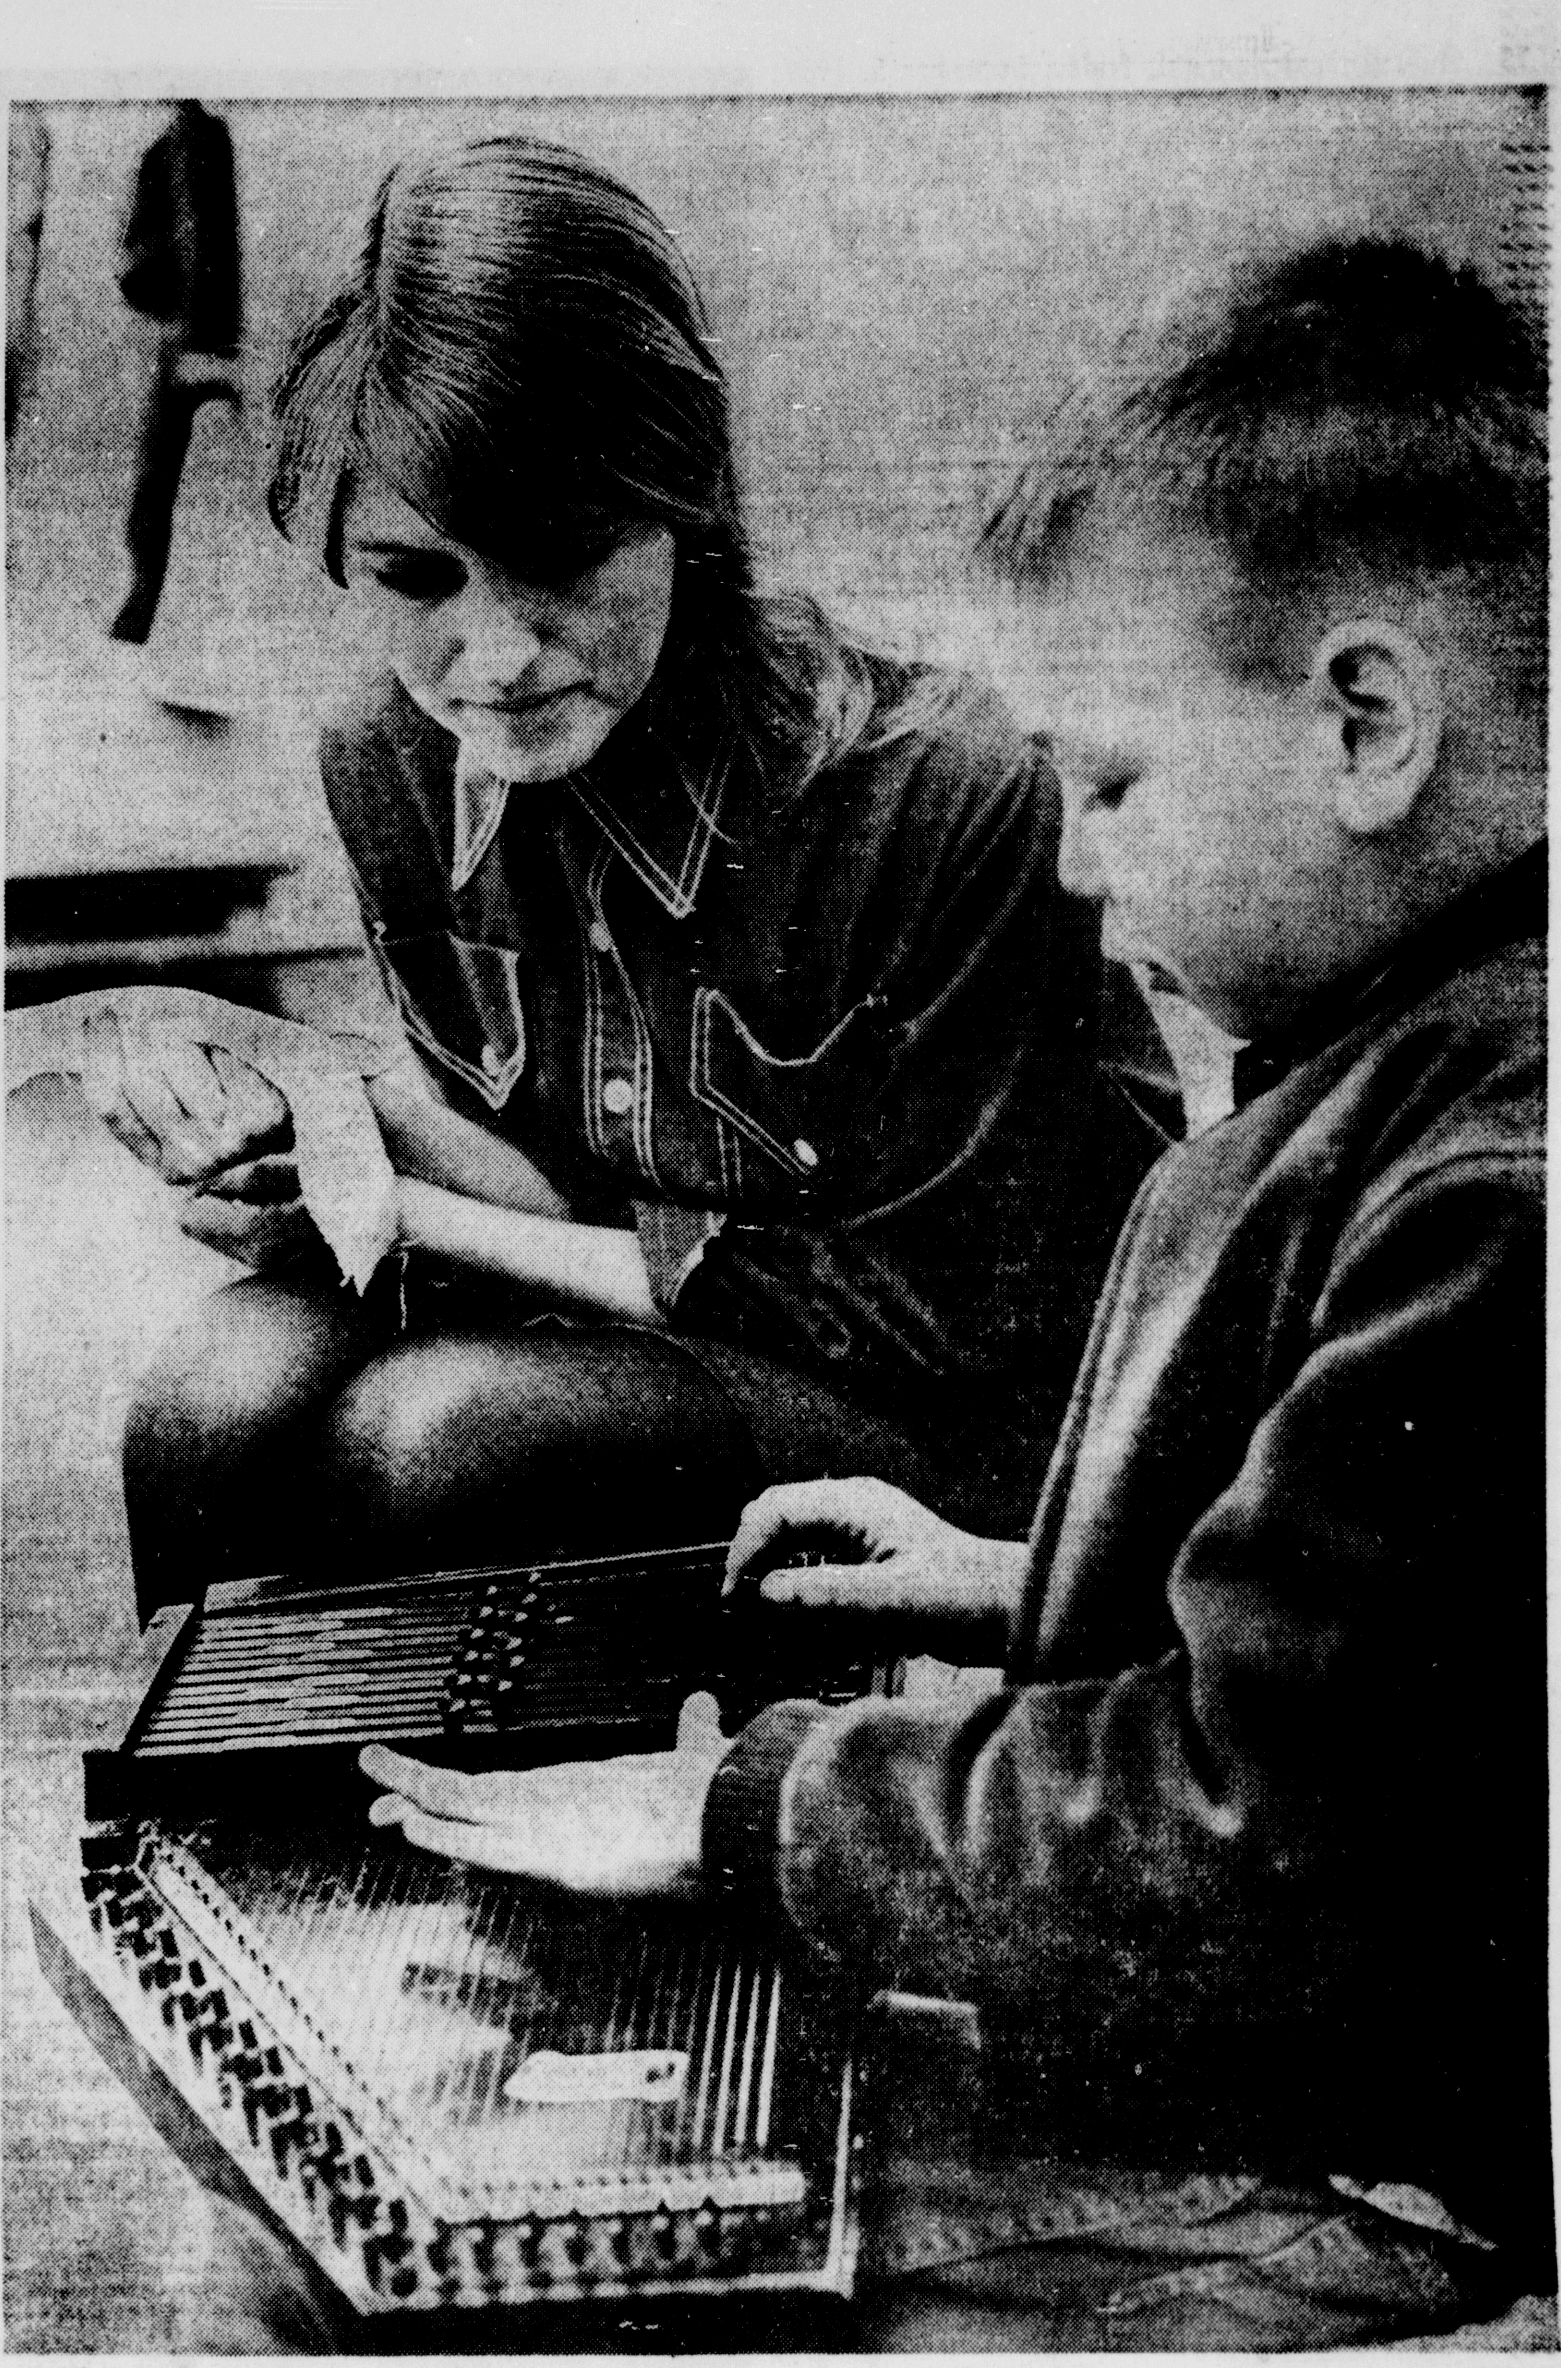
"It won't be like a lecture. The artist will be here and if the kids are interested, fine. If not, okay," Mrs. Kirsch explained.

All the room's supplies have been donated or purchased by the PTA at an educational surplus store in the East Bay.

On a trial basis, small groups of children have been spending 40 minutes in the room for the past two weeks. The staff will meet with teachers to get feed-back on the room from the first, second and third graders who attend the school, and also to discuss the possibility of using the room as a place to send children who are disrupting the classroom.

An earlier project of the P-TA was to paint the walls of the restrooms with storybook characters in colorful psychedelic style.

SAWING AWAY in the most popular corner of Short School's Magic Room is John Pfeiffer, a third grader. With him is Mrs. Thomas Place, one of the San Rafael P-TA members who transformed an empty classroom into a place where the school's first, second and third graders could come and explore things like a pile of wood, musical instruments, old telephones and a typewriter.



THE SOUNDS of a zither fascinate Michael Selby, a third grader, who is making his first visit to the Magic Room. He first typed on an old typewriter and was assisted only when he couldn't find the "e." A volunteer staff member and a creator of the room, Mrs. Ardys Kirsch, talks with Michael but does not instruct or criticize.

(Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

A YELLOW CAT painted on the towel dispenser greets Teresa Wade, a third grader at Short School. The psychedelic bathroom, designed by Mrs. Raymond Belknap, was painted by P-TA members before school started in the fall.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Working Wives Pay Social Security But Don't Receive The Benefits

DEAR HELEN:

Last year your column carried quite a controversy about how working wives pay into Social Security, money they may never get back. Wives were urged to write their congressmen. Better late than never, I finally did — and learned that I will receive only a few dollars more upon retirement than if I had never worked and paid in, but only collected the amount due me as a non-working wife. The only way I can collect is to become disabled or die early.

It boils down to this: Working wives are penalized. If HEW doesn't feel we should receive Social Security payments, then it should at least return to us the money paid in over the years.

Anything new on the subject, Helen? — MRS. L. R.

DEAR MRS. R:

A note from Rep. Edward J. Patten says in part:

"Dear Mrs. Bottel: I would like to bring you up to date on the progress that has been made on the bill to provide increased benefits for working wives. The House Ways and Means Committee has started public hearings on a broad Social Security reform bill. I am advocating enactment as a provision within that broad bill the provision for working wives . . . so that, within the limits of available funds, it will permit a married couple to get some additional return for the additional taxes paid on the wife's earnings."

If you working wives are interested, a note to your congressman might help. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Can a man have too many godchildren? I'm beginning to think so. I am godfather to 10 of my brothers' and sisters' children and now my nephew has asked me again. There's no end in sight, what with my godchildren getting children of their own.

I've been told it's an honor, but considering the offering to the priest, the present to the baby and presents for everyone at Christmas and birthdays, this honor is becoming costly. — HONORED

DEAR HONORED:

Let your large family know that godfathers should be younger men. You've been honored quite enough. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm depressed by the attitude of so many American women. They are headstrong, power hungry, and don't seem to realize it is nature's normal plan that man should dominate. When a patriarchal household is reversed or interfered with, the "weak father, strong mother" syndrome results in damaged children.

In no other nation does woman hold as much power or authority as in America, and America has more than the international percentage of homosexuals. — SOCIOLOGIST

DEAR SOCIOLOGIST:

What's the matter with a democracy where each has his or her area of authority, but everyone shares in the big decisions? Or would this threaten your king complex? — H.

Fashions For '70—It Will Be Chic To Be Pretty Next Year

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—A new decade is almost here and with it comes an old, familiar word in fashion—the word pretty.

Pretty is a tame adjective to describe spring 1970 trends in feminine apparel, but that is what's happening after an era of tough harsh clothes with a lot of construction. Now, the fewer the seams, the better the collections.

"It's going to be chic to be pretty. It's going to be stylish to be feminine," says designer Ceil Chapman, a long time proponent of the girly look and fabled for her evening clothes.

TO BE SURE, all the fanciful things that marked the late 60's still are around—the maxi coat, the mini and midi skirts, the trouser suits.

But the soft wave is on the way, say most of the designers and manufacturers participating in this week's series of shows for the nation's fashion press, radio and television representatives.

Part of the trend shows in the new fabrics, super thin wools and crepes that shape to the figure, crushed velvets in spring weights, quilted silk crepes, organzas and chiffons.

The frills are back in the form of ruffled necklines and sleeves, starched lacy trims, the familiar white touches on navy. And with it all, for evening, designers again are cutting big flattering sleeves, slashing waistlines and plunging necklines.

THE LOOK is pure Victoriana, except for the necklines. Even the hair styles are effected by this "pretty" look—the hottest style in the big salons is the Gibson Girl, piled high onto the crown and up off the neck except for a few tenrils, copied right from Charles Dana Gibson's drawings.

Toupee Business Is Booming Now

With the accent so definitely on hairy headed men, business for the toupee specialists is booming.

But according to a survey on the instant thatch makers, their customers aren't just bald men.

Said one firm, "Our best selling wig this year has been a long-haired wig for men who have to have short-back-and-sides during the days."

But the instant hair craze doesn't stop at neatly groomed city gents who swing at weekends.

One wig manufacturing firm admitted that they had received discreet inquiries for hand-made chest wigs.

OPERATION STORK UNDERWAY

A tea yesterday required a new garment or layette article for admission, as the two Marin chapters of B'nai B'rith Women gathered at the Jewish Community Center for their Operation Stork Project. From left is Mrs. Melvin Hammond of the March of Dimes, which is a co-sponsor of the project; Mrs. Pal Rapoport, chairman for TaMar Chapter; and Mrs. Elie Faure, chairman for Marin Chapter. BUTCH AND THE KID IN GUNFIGHT

"Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" is currently playing at the Rafael Theater in San Rafael. It features Paul Newman, Katherine Ross and Robert Redford. The theater management says the film is setting a new long-run record for San Rafael, surpassing those of "Bullitt" and "Goldfinger."

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies currently being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and the Film Report of the Film Estimate Board unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

"Darby O'Gill and the Little People" — Leprechaun antics, magic, comedy and pleasant romance all woven together in this lively Irish fantasy by Disney.

"King Kong vs. Godzilla" — A silly but harmless Japanese science-fiction mishmash, with inept dubbing, bad acting making this film ridiculously amateurish. Production can only be considered an absurd joke.

"Never a Dull Moment" — In this Disney farce, Dick Van Dyke, a struggling young actor is mistaken for a notorious thief and forced to steal a priceless oil painting. There is a hilarious finale.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Alice's Restaurant" — Thought provoking true happening in New England village in 1964-67. Story told with implied criticism of Establishment and its follies, shows the immature, uncommitted, unmotivated hippies in their own milieu, enjoying their pot with sexual abandon and harming only themselves. For the most mature teens only.

"Blood of Dracula's Castle" — A nephew inherits the castle complete with tenants that are vampires, beautiful girls chained to an underground wall, moon-lit blood sacrifices, etc, etc. (Box-office Magazine.)

"Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" — With script based on reputedly true of two bandits, this western is almost farcical in tone and documentary in presentation. The outlaws take their trade to Bolivia with mixed results. Good dialogue. Film does not deny the violence attendant on their lives and deaths. Memorable performances from cast.

"Nightmare in Wax" — A Hollywood makeup man disfigured in a studio accident opens a wax museum. Several of his wax figures are alive, paralyzed by injections. (Boxoffice Magazine)

"Planet of the Apes" — Provocative mixture of comedy, satire and melodamatic but cynical science fiction about our astronauts who crash land on a desolate planet in an era 2,000 years hence.

"True Grit" — Amusing satiric western about a determined 14-year-old girl's attempt to track down her father's murderer. Violence and rough language are an integral part of story

BORDERLINE

(most sources say Adults Only)

"Chamber of Horrors" — Lurid and gruesome period thriller. Murderer escapes by chopping off his manacled hand and then seeks revenge.

"Medium Cool" — Compelling, disturbing film that blends the facts in quasidocumentary fashion, of the 1968 Democratic National convention, plus a fictional story. A long interval of nude love play is regrettable.

"WATER HOLE #3" — An irreverent, bawdy satire of the great American western is offbeat. A steady stream of broad, bold unabashed sexy humor.

ADULTS ONLY

"Barbarella" — As a character taken from a French comic strip, Jane Fonda steps daintily through the polluted world of sex, sadism and perversion in this pseudo science fiction setting of the distant future. Mediocre production.

"Easy Rider" — Two dope pushers take a motorcycle trip from Los Angeles to New Orleans. Film relates their experiences which provide much soul searching about man's inhumanity to man.

"I Am Curious, Yellow" — Complex movie-within-a-movie structure is somewhat confusing and laborious. A Swedish social expose which received undue publicity when seized by customs because of explicit treatment of sex, depicting intercourse and oral-genital contact full view, full length and minus strategic shadows or cutaways. Even for sophisticates who are not offended, there is just too much bare sex for one film. (Parents Magazine).

Freedom Plan In Senate Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commission on Civil Rights has urged senators to strip from an education spending bill a clause that would, in effect, legalize the freedom-of-choice method of desegregation.

Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, commission chairman, told a Senat appropriations subcommittee that freedom-of-choice plans "are designed to continue the very segregation which has been held unconstitutional."

He testified against an amendment tacked on in the House by Rep. Jamie L. Whitten, D-Miss. Among other things, it would prohibit the federal government from forcing school districts to abandon freedom-of-choice plans before federal school funds are released.

Charge Challenged Over Trial Delay

Joe Willie Andrew Cole, 47, of Rohnert Park, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of possessing a check with intent to defraud on March 17, 1967.

His attorney moved that the charge be dismissed for failure of the district attorney's office to prosecute in a reasonable length of time, and Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. set a hearing on the motion and a preliminary hearing for Dec. 9.

'Barefoot In The Park' Roles Filled

Carolyn Kavin and Michael Jones have been chosen for the leads of Corie and Paul Bratter in the play "Barefoot in the Park" to be presented by the Novato Community Players.

The Neil Simon play will be presented at 8:30 p.m., Feb. 13, 14, 20 and 21 at the Novato Community House.

Shari Leaf will play the bride's mother, Mrs. Banks, and Donald Leaf will play the dirty old man, Victor Velasco. Otto Haiungs will be the telephone man and Joseph Jacob will be the delivery man.

Deadly Illness Aids Race Relations

LONDON (London Express News Service) — 1941: An Indian army unit is isolated in the Burmese jungle by the teeming monsoons.

Their 20-year-old British officer is close to death, wracked by malaria and dysentery. Somewhere near the Japanese are waiting.

The officer hovered between life and death for 10 days. He would have died, but for the care of his soldiers. They were all Indians.

The officer is now Prof. Hugh Tinker, who next year takes over the directorship of Britain's Institute of Race Relations.

As he recalled the incident in the institute's London board room, Tinker, now 48, seemed to realize for the first time that it had been the inspiration for his career, which has alway been linked with the theme of race relations.

"My unit was completely cut off. The monsoons had saved us from the Japanese, but they left us stranded without communication.

"The Indians could have left me to die. I had three types of malaria and two of dysentery. I would not have survived had it not been for them.

"I didn't see a British face for three months. Only brown faces. I was the only white officer among 100 Indians.

"That experience left me with rather more affection than some people for brown faces, though I didn't realize at the time the influence it would have on me."

Tinker — a humanist, academician, author, politician and historian — is an optimist about race relations.

He does not think, for example, that Britain has a race problem. He thinks it most unlikely that the Negro riots of the United States will be duplicated in Britain.

But he believes that internal racial conditions are spinning off into international relations.

The predicament of Negroes in the United States has affected America's relations with Africa. The situation of Indians and Pakistanis in Great Britain is affecting Britain's relations with India and Pakistan.

He sees a growing alignment between black and brown countries, and alienation from white countries; the black and brown representing poverty, the white, wealth and affluence.

The Russians' distrust of Chinese Communism, he believes, also has race overtones, as does the Chinese treatment of Westerners who have experienced their prisons. "The Chinese have always had a feeling of superiority to the 'red faced barbarians,' the Westerners."

Though optimistic about the future of Britain's colored migrants, Tinker recognizes that legislation alone cannot create harmony; that racial intolerance is stronger among members of the working class who have the most immediate contact with immigrants. He agrees that advocates of racial harmony can tend to be "ivory tower" in their attitudes, failing to get through to the ordinary people.

He agrees on one point with Tory M.P. Enoch Powell, principal opponent of colored immigration.

The public must decide Britain's immigration policies. The citizens capacity to do so, he claims, has been taken out of their hands in the past 20 years by policy-makers and opinion-formers who have got out of touch with the man-in-the-street. This has bred resentment against organizations working for integration.

The Institute of Race Relations would strive to associate its activities and research with the common people.

It was bound to get caught up in political and public controversy.

Tinker is not frightened of politics or controversy. He has twice, unsuccessfully, stood for Parliament.

He recognizes the mistakes which can be made and offers realistic measures to prevent them. He will approach his new role in the institute with two main goals: to get race relations taught in British universities and schools, and to undertake specialized research into race problems in Britain and overseas.

Britain's great hope, he says, is the young generation.

Young people, unlike their elders, have grown up with the color "problem" (his inflection puts quotation marks around the word), are prepared to live with a mixed society and want to improve it. They are not interested in phony solutions.

He really believes that tolerance can be taught.

Does he feel at ease with a black man?

He admits that often he does not. "One has to speak across a barrier of culture and colonialism. We have been the masters for 200 years, they the slaves. We have to surmount the barrier," he says.

Tinker has spent 30 years living and working with Asians in India and Burma. He honestly regards them as equals. He likes to believe they regard him as an equal.

His Indian army experience (from 1941 to 1945) has left him with a strong distaste for racial prejudice.

He had to earn the trust of the Indian officers who resented working under or with Britishers. They felt a continual sense of servitude. With progressive, planned education systems, he believes these barriers can be broken down.

Tinker regards Enoch Powell's picture of a future Britain with black ghettoes in the cities with incredulity. It horrifies him. He refuses to accept such a possibility.

He is sympathetic to the American black power movement, but says both black and white violence must be eliminated. He interprets the "enslavement of 40 million Africans by whites" as a form of violence.

South Africa's apartheid state represents the worst threat to international racial harmony, he says with vehemence.

He believes that people should be taught that different races are different and should be accepted for their diversities, as equals.

The traditional test of prejudice: Would he be happy if one of his sons married a colored girl?

The professor's hesitation was fractional. The prospect had not occurred to him.

But he answered with characteristic directness: "I married the woman I chose. My sons will marry the women they choose. If one of them chooses a colored woman, if he loves her and she loves him, I shall await the conclusion with interest."

Leader Of Religious Cult Succumbs At 96

SAN JOSE (UPI) — William Edward Riker, a self-styled religious cultist who founded Holy City in the Santa Cruz Mountains, died Wednesday at Agnew State Hospital. He was 96.

Riker, who ran unsuccessfully for governor of California five times in an effort to carry out his plan for perfect government, was born in Oakdale and moved to San Francisco as a young man.

There, long-haired and bearded, he plied the streets as a seller of wares until 1915, when he and a group of disciples opened headquarters of Perfect Christian Divine Way, Inc.

After a series of legal problems with police and neighbors, Riker and his followers developed Holy City in 1918 on a 186-acre tract in the hills above Los Gatos. It became one of the most colorful tourist attractions in the West.

Riker's distinction as a man of religion was dubious. At various times, Holy City was charged with operating a free love colony, a child brutality camp and a white supremist political center.

In 1942 Riker was charged with six counts of sedition by the federal government for allegedly trying to persuade several soldiers not to fight against Hitler. He was tried and acquitted.

Holy City suffered a straggering blow in the 1940s, when the State Division of Highways routed a new expressway past the kingdom.

Riker later was involved in a series of squabbles with his disciples and in 1966 underwent a conditional baptism into Catholicism. He was forsaken by followers who had previously hailed him as "the wisest man on earth . . . chief conforter . . . king."

A nephew, Gifford Riker, 58, San Jose, said burial rites are a problem because of Riker's conversion.

Gifford, now engaged in writing a new bible called The Gospel of Saint Riker, said his uncle's wife and several of the early disciples are buried in the Odd Fellows cemetery in Santa Cruz — but there is no plot for Riker.

The popular herb, rosemary, is tied to the story of Christmas. Legend holds that the herb's white blooms turned to the blue of the Virgin Mary's cloak when he hung it on a bush to dry during the flight into Egypt. The plant then became known as "Mary's Rose."

Novatan Pleads Guilty To Felony Drug Charge

Valient Gale Nims III, 18, of Novato, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to three charges against him and several other counts in six pending cases were dismissed or continued.

The youth admitted that he had possessed marijuana when arrested with two young girls in a car in a parking lot Sept. 14 in Novato. Two misdemeanor charges of being in a place where narcotics were used and contributing to the delinquency of minors stemming from that arrest were dismissed.

Nims also pleaded guilty to being in a place where narcotics were used on Nov. 10 and to a battery charge stemming from a June 29 attack on a Novato girl. Charges of possessing a device for smoking narcotics and swimming in a reservoir were dismissed.

A case accusing him of possessing marijuana on Nov. 22 was continued for six months for possible dismissal.

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. ordered Nims, who is being held in Juvenile Hall, to appear in superior court Monday for setting of a sentencing on the felony marijuana charge. He said that sentencing on the two misdemeanor convictions will follow that of the superior court sentence.

Saigon is situated on a loop of the Song Sai Gon, the Saigon River. In the 18th Century it was a walled bastion built by Vietnamese overlords from the north. It became a tree-shaded, spacious colonial capital under France's 19th Century empire.

NAUTICAL SLUM CLEANUP

Richardson Bay Fill Wins Approval

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — The last barrier to a fill project to clean up the nautical slum in Richardson Bay was cleared yesterday with unanimous approval by the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

At issue was an application by Donlon J. Arques to fill three-tenths of an acre just north of Sausalito for a parking lot to serve a 600-foot pier for 50 houseboats.

The commission's executive director, Joseph E. Bodovitz of Mill Valley, recommended approval, saying the project would improve the appearance of the shoreline and "at last begin to alleviate the severe water pollution problems in the area." He noted that the area to be filled was "of no ecological value."

About 300 houseboats now anchor in Richardson Bay, most of them discharging raw sewage into the water Arques's new pier will be equipped with connections to existing shore treatment plants.

Marin supervisor Michael Wornum, a member of the commission, promised the "the full majesty of the county, for whatever that's worth, will come in" after the new pier is built and see that all houseboats "either conform or get out."

No one opposed Arques's application, which said work would take 90 days to complete and cost $60,000.

Another project in Richarson Bay, however, narrowly escaped denial — at least for two weeks. It was an application by Leonard B. Fleischman of Belvedere for apartments extending 30 feet out over Strawberry Cove on pilings.

Both Wornum and Mrs. P. K. Gilman of Larkspur, vice president of the Marin Conservation League, objected that the plan Fleischman had before the commission differed from the one approved by the county planning commission and board of supervisors.

Fleischman acknowledged that his agreement with the owner of an underwater parcel in front of his project had fallen through, thus he had to eliminate plans for docks and a turning basin for boats. But the insisted the deletion did not change his plan "to any great extent."

Wornum rebutted that Fleischman had told the supervisors he had "total control" of the area in his plan. "The basic premise on which approval was granted has changed, Wornum told him, adding, "You wouldn't have gotten approval otherwise."

Alameda County Supervisor Emanuel P. Razeto, citing Wornum's objections, said "we're wasting our time" and moved to deny Fleischman's application. Razeto and several other speakers also said that the plan should be considered at the same time as one for an adjacent property, due before the commission early next year.

Fleischman, complaining the delay was costing him $26 a day in interest on his financing for the property, won commission agreement to wait for two weeks to vote. Razeto, however, said he would move again, at the Dec. 18 meeting, to deny the application — unless Fleischman was willing to wait until the adjacent plan came before the commission.

Bodovitz recommended that commissioners inspect the property before the next meeting.

Opposing the project yesterday were the state Fish and Game Department and the commission's ecology consultant.

The department said it "will substantially reduce the numbers of wildlife using Strawberry Cove," and would "eliminate one of the few marshes left in southern Marin County." It also would have an "adverse effect" on fish in the cove, the department's letter said of the project.

The consultant, San Jose State College biologist H. T. Harvey, advised commissioners that "the marsh and tidal flats would be destroyed" by the apartments. He recommended they be moved back from the shoreline.

The San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board, in a request that could show what it may require in all future marinas in the bay, recommended that if docks were built, that they have dockside sewer connnections at each berth where vessels with toilets would be moored.

The only speaker favoring the project from the audience was Louis Della Valle of San Rafael, representing the Marin Builders Exchange. He said it would provide work for builders.

In other business, commissioners heard attorney Roger Kent of Kent Woodlands support a client's application to fill 20 acres of South San Francisco Bay. Dredging 80 acres outboard of the $18 million marina near the Dumbarton Bridge would "increase the flow of the bay," Kent said.

A half dozen conservation organizations opposed it on the ground that fill at the narrow neck of the bay would restrict tidal flows. A vote was set for Dec. 18.

Tiburon Mayor Branwell Fanning, appointed to the commission two weeks ago by the Association of Bay Area Governments, was absent.

Trustees Seek Joint Meeting

A joint meeting with the Petaluma Board of Education to discuss the problems high density housing could bring was set last night for Jan. 7 by the Old Adobe School District board.

Time and place for the meeting have not been set, according to Supt. Dean D. Magowan. The board said it would like to review proposed plans to include a high density residential zone on the east side of Petaluma and what problems this could bring to the already crowded schools.

The board said it would also like to discuss the plans of the Petaluma board to build a junior-senior high school campus on the eastside.

Apartment Use Permits Delayed

Action on conditional use permits for two major apartment developments in Sausalito was delayed Wednesday night to give the planning commission more time to study them, planning director H. Eric Borgwardt reported today.

The commission will consider the applications again at its 8 p.m. meeting Dec. 17, he said. The applications are from the Duffell and Smoot builders of Lafayette for a 431-unit apartment development on the old American Distillery property on the north edge of the city and from Malcolm Dewees for 12 condominium units at 319 Sausalito Boulevard.

The Dewees application was put over to the next meeting so the planning commission could make a field inspection of a site he plans to dedicate to the city for open space, Borgwardt said.

Corte Madera Ire Spurs Action By City-County Planning Council

Corte Madera town officials declared last night that the City-County Planning Council is not creating dialogue among the cities and the county.

Corte Madera Councilman Harold B. Wagstaff and Planning Commissioner C. W. Thomas delivered a letter from Mayor Edward W. Colthurst, charging that the city-county council "Dwells on high-sounding ideals which have no relationship to the real planning needs of the member agencies."

Mayor Colthurst was especially critical of the county planning department's report, which supports the concept of state or regional zoning of open space. "We feel that the right of each local government to plan and zone its own area must be upheld," wrote Colthurst.

Planning Council members decided to set up a committee, headed by San Rafael Planning Director Herbert Hochner, to study methods to improve dialogue among the various cities and the county. Serving with Hochner will be Adelaide Wilson of Fairfax, Anne L. Ellinwood of Tiburon, Wagstaff of Corte Madera and Hugh Dougherty of the Marin County Planning Commission.

The planning council last night recommended a $12,500 study by the Economic Research Associates of Los Angeles to determine tourism potential in Marin County.

The recommendation for the study will go to the Marin County Board of Supervisors for approval.

Purpose of the study is to draw up a general visitor policy that will bring maximum benefit to the county without detracting from the existing environment.

The council also: approved an application for $73,000 in federal grant to continue a countywide planning program started in 1968. The county will contribute $48,900 in staff services.

The council's next meeting will be 8 p.m. Jan. 8 in the Civic Center.

Traffic At Alto Bowl Discussed

Traffic and drainage are the two main problems in the development of the Alto Bowl, Mill Valley Planning commissioners agreed last night during a workshop meeting to discuss a proposed 150-unit apartment development in the bowl.

Harvey E. Bragdon, planning director said commissioners agreed a new street running north-south should be constructed from Lonita Drive, east of Edna Maguire School, to East Blithedale Avenue to provide additional access to the area.

Commissioners also will ask the county public works staff to meet in a workshop session to discuss the new street and drainage problems, Bragdon said, since much of the area is unincorporated.

Tiburon Fire Board Gavel To Hannahs

Fred C. Hannahs last night was elected chairman of the Tiburon Fire District board replacing Kelly J. Wheeler whose term has expired, secretary Wellman H. Topham reported.

Charles T. Estudillo was named vice chairman and Topham was re-elected secretary. New board member William F. Carroll was seated on the board, Topham said.

Old Bay Crossing Plan Aired Again

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A highly controversial proposal for a new bay crossing from Tiburon to San Francisco via Angel Island and Alcatraz has cropped up again in an 11-point state transportation program.

The program was unveiled by Gordon C. Luce, secretary of the state Business and Transportation Agency, in what he termed a "shopping list" of projects for which the state will seek federal funding.

The crossing in Luce's program called for a combination tube and bridge, with a tube from the Ferry Building in San Francisco to Angel Island, and a bridge across Racoon Straits to Tiburon.

He figured the cost of the crossing at $930 million.

Luce's transportation planning coordinator, Charles G. Beer, told the Independent-Journal today that "we should not infer that the state is putting its support behind this particular crossing plan. It's just a checklist to check out with the federal government to see which kinds of projects we might expect federal support on," he said.

Beer added that the program also advised the federal Department of Transportation that such a crossing has been opposed by San Francisco and the Golden Gate Bridge District.

Beer said the tube-bridge proposal was included in the program to illustrate how high costs might range for new transportation links between Marin and San Francisco. He noted that the program also mentioned a $25 million commuter ferry system as an alternative.

The program did not mention busses, Beer said.

(The state Division of Bay Toll Crossings' $800,000 study of the crossing in 1967 concluded it would face at least a $500 million financing deficit, and thus was "apparently not financially feasible.")

Another of the proposals in the program was for a car ferry between the Bay Area Rapid Transit District terminal in Concord and Sacramento. Drivers would put their cars on trains, or ride as normal passengers.

Luce ranked the 11 proposals in order of priority, and put the Marin crossing last. But he said he was convinced that the federal government will prefer some of the lower priority items.

Arraignment Held On Dangerous Drugs

Marc Torvend Ford, 22, of 328 Ridgewood Drive, Mill Valley, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on charges of possessing a dangerous drug, destroying evidence and resisting arrest when stopped by California Highway Patrol officers Wednesday on East Francisco Boulevard.

His brother, George Shiff Ford III, 23, of the same address, was charged with resisting arrest. Their case was continued until today for entry of plea.

Petaluma Boy Dies As Two Autos Collide

A 3-year-old Petaluma boy was killed and two other persons were injured in a two-car accident yesterday at 3:53 p.m. on the Petaluma-Valley Ford Road near King Road, west of Petaluma.

Morgan Dee William Eros, 475 King Road, was pronounced dead on arrival at Hillcrest Hospital with massive head injuries.

Injured were passengers, Sandra Lovan, 20, of the same address, who was reported in satisfactory condition at Community Hospital of Sonoma County with a broken back, and her daughter, Donna Lovan, 15 months, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for a cut on the forehead.

The California Highway Patrol said the car was driven by Sue Ellen Parker, 28, the child's mother, who made an unsafe left turn in front a car driven by Michael Wright, 24, of 721 Madison Street, Petaluma.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma.

Man's Condition Is Reported Good

H. Douglas Crump, 54, of 935 Tamalpais Avenue, San Rafael, was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital where he was admitted Wednesday after he was found lying unconscious on a sidewalk near his home.

Crump, who was found by a passerby at 2:30 p.m. had suffered a bad bruise on the head, a hospital spokesman said.

Quality Chefs Find It Easy To Move; Good Duo In Marin

A good chef never has much trouble finding a job.

Chefs are professional people who acquire their skill either over a long apprenticeship period — moving up from one kitchen job to another until they reach the top — or at special culinary schools in this country or Europe.

Most of the present day crop of top men have had both experiences. You will find many young ones among them, for they learn fast.

Chefs move around a lot. This is not to be taken necessarily as a commentary on their reliability. On the contrary, the very nature of their profession calls for them to be skilled in preparing many types of foods under a variety of circumstances.

The more diversified they are, the greater their skill and their worth. Only then are they truly qualified to take complete charge, including responsibility for good food purchasing practices.

A chef may choose to remain in one restaurant a long time, feeling that he is getting fulfillment there, but to insist that he do so is like asking an airplane pilot to remain grounded at a desk. When the right time comes, early or late, he must strike out for a new experience.

THE SEVEN SEAS in Sausalito is one place I know that never seems to have any difficulty in getting a good chef. Paul De Moss pays well, insists on quality performance and quality ingredients in the menu.

On hand right now is an excellent team, consisting of one European-trained chef and one with a strong local background. In first place is Roger Braun from Switzerland, a young man but experienced in the dineries of both the continent and this country. He is quick, adaptable and imaginative.

Assisting him is Don Giovanoni of Novato. He has worked in some of the best local spots and has had his own food operations. Between the two, the Seven Seas kitchen is in good hands.

Although this is a spot where it is common to see a number of customers come in each night with their own pots to be filled with the Seven Seas special brand of bouillabaise (and you can do that too, if you like), it's much cheerier to sit in the rear all-weather dining room and do your eating on the premises. The bouillabaise is tops, but don't let that keep you from sampling the rest of the seafood menu.

It used to be that this time of the year the only place you could sit at a table was in front opposite the bar. Some visitors who haven't been around for a long time are still inclined to withdraw after a peek through the front door seems to show a full house.

But Paul has made the most of his limited space on Bridgeway, which anyone must do on that thoroughfare. He installed a Rollamatic roof over the rear patio, added heaters and tables and made it a full dining room — even better, for the greenery gives it a natural appearance.

Don't give up your chance to dine here until you've investigated if there isn't a table with your name on it in the back room.

ALSO IN SAUSALITO the Latitude 38 at 621 Bridgeway has been sold to a Honolulu corporation called Red Pants, Inc.

The new Red Pants Restaurant is headed by Randy Wellington, who flies back and forth from Marin to the islands. There is one Red Pants in Kona, a Red Vest in Honolulu also owned by the company, and another restaurant to open soon on Maui.

Mike De Mello, manager in Sausalito, is also from Honolulu, as is Kino, the bartender.

The restaurant has kept some of its marine decor, but has been remodeled to conform with the new operation, somewhat different from that of Latitude 38. The menu consists chiefly of open-faced sandwiches, burgers, beef and fish, with daily specials both for lunch and dinner.

Red Pants is open from 10 (sometimes 11) a.m. and gives food service straight through to 2 a.m.

TRUE TO HIS WORD to add more of the popular American entrees to his predominantly Italian fare, Sal Iachino of the downtown San Rafael Romulus restaurant is offering these new selections on his menu:

Beef brochettes with rice, lobster and steak brochettes with rice, abalone steak, lobster steak with mushrooms, frog legs meuniere, prime rib (Friday, Saturday and Sunday only), broiled pork chops, double cut lamb chops, top sirloin steak, filet Mignon, medallions of beef, New York steak sandwiches and prime rib sandwiches.

And just to make sure you realize this is still an Italian restaurant, he has added one more — scampialla Venezia with meuniere sauce. A glass of wine is included with all full dinners.

THE PATH FINDERS, who operate the tea room at Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross, will close their Tuesday and Thursday luncheon service in the Magnolia House from Dec. 15 to Jan. 12.

But the tea room will be open next Friday, Saturday and Sunday for the annual Christmas greens sale, when the Path Finders serve customers hot soup and French bread. Proceeds from all these operations go toward the upkeep of the nonprofit association.

STILL WITHOUT a restaurant of their own in which to serve their "French Quiche" products, Donovan J. Fandre and York K. Fisher are continuing to market them through delicatessens, both in and out of the county.

Meanwhile they are headquartered at Alfie's Footlight Restaurant on the Boardwalk, Tiburon, where they do their baking and take orders.

They are offering quiche in several flavors — plain, curry, pepperoni, mushroom and shrimp with dill or curry. Quiche is a French provincial dish made of eggs, onions, cheese, cream and spices combined in a pie shell. Its most popular use is as a snack or hors d'oeuvre — but there's nothing to stop you from serving it as an entree.

SPEAKING OF THINGS that are French, the new Normandie French Restaurant at 2214 Fourth Street on the San Rafael Miracle Mile is now closing Tuesdays. Open the rest of the week for dinners (regularly from 5 p.m.; Sundays from 4 p.m.) and Mondays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays for lunch.

THE LION'S SHARE on the San Ansemlo Miracle Mile has announced this entertainment schedule for tonight and tomorrow night: Commander Cody, Jeffrey Cain and folk duo Lambert and Nuttycombe.

Beginning Dec. 7 the Thompson Brothers will perform every Sunday.

IN SAN FRANCISCO, Tarantino's on Fisherman's Wharf will close Sunday, Dec. 14, through Friday, Dec. 19, for its annual cleanup and will also be closed on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day.

Its affiliate restaurant in Sausalito, the Spinnaker, will be open during the time Tarantino's is closed.

ALSO IN SAN FRANCISCO, Duke Ellington is back with his orchestra at Bimbo's 365 Theater Restaurant, with three shows a night from 8 to midnight through Dec. 11, Sunday included.

Novato Police Plan Auction

Two sinks, a bathtub and toilet are among found or recovered stolen items to be sold by the Novato Police Department at its annual auction at 10 a.m. Dec. 13.

The auction will be conducted behind the police station on Sherman Avenue.

Other items on the block are bicycles, blankets, a sleeping bag, clothing, tires and rims, lamps, clocks, playing cards, electric adding machine, chairs and a wagon.

The goods have been collected by the department during the past year.

Coast Yule Party

Funds For Super Jet Are Slashed

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a surprise move, a Senate appropriations subcommittee has voted to trim about $15 million from the supersonic transport (SST) project.

The action by the transportation subcommittee—taken at a closed session—is subject to possible reversal, however, when the full appropriations committee takes up the transportation measure.

Also, Senate-House conferees could restore the cutback when they meet later to resolve differences between the House and Senate version of the legislation.

The vote reduced the $96 million voted by the House for the SST to about $80 million. However, Senate sources said they doubted the action would slow development of the huge passenger airplane.

College Board Sees New Library Plans

Marin Junior College District trustees last night got a look at preliminary plans for a proposed $3 million library center to replace the present library, which has been termed grossly inadequate.

Under the college's long-term building program, the library center is scheduled for groundbreaking in the fall of 1971 to open in the fall of 1972, reported Dale A. Fleming, district planning director.

The proposed two-story center, lying between Olney Hall and Corte Madera Creek, west of College Avenue, would house a variety of activities, reported Joseph Feil of Corwin and Booth and Associated Architects of San Francisco.

Feil presented the plans calling for a reinforced concrete structure with two levels built into a hillside.

The lower level would include the college bookstore, data processing center including three classrooms, duplicating and mailing room, audio visual center, two studio areas and a darkroom, he explained.

The upper level would include the library, three study halls, foreign language lab, two small group study areas, faculty reading room and periodicals area.

The main entrance at the lower level would be from the central mall area at the college.

A student suggested there be more small group study areas.

Feil said such areas could be achieved by partitions, or screening or arrangement of furniture in the proposed large study halls.

When Trustee Harry J. Moore questioned putting the main entrance on the lower level and the library on the upper level.

Feil said having the main entrance at the upper level had been considered, but wasn't as suitable for book control and traffic pattern.

He pointed out there would be entrances to both upper and lower levels from a mall between Olney Hall and the proposed center.

One of the features of the plan is a two-story glass stairwell, near the entrance, which Feil said could serve as a lobby and an area for displays.

Trustee Robert E. Oliver said there should be "maximum flexibility" provided in the interior plan, and Feil felt the interior arrangement did lend itself to flexibility.

After viewing the building sketches, Trustee Elizabeth M. Deedy said: "Frankly it looks like a ranch style house to me . . ."

Feil replied the building would be larger than it appeared in the sketch, and would appear differently when final details were sketched in.

The building would be roughly 180 feet and would have 50,800 square feet of usable space inside, Fleming reported.

It could house up to 75,000 volumes as compared to 35,000 in the present library.

The proposed new center would occupy the site now occupied by the Austin Science Building, scheduled to be demolished, and the Communications Center, a barracks-type structure.

Since it was a workshop session, there wasn't any board action. Trustees Charles W. Gray, Donald K. Felt and Theodore C. Wellman were absent.

Tiburon Firemen Elect Officers

George W. Haggett has been elected president of the Tiburon volunteer firemen, replacing John Grbac, whose term will expire Jan. 1.

Other officers elected in balloting Wednesday night were Thomas Murphy, vice president; Adolph Edwards, treasurer; Robert Hamilton, secretary, and Fritz Manes, sergeant-at-arms.

New officers will be installed at a dinner next month.

New Powers To Capital Police

WASHINGTON The Senate passed today a bill arming police and the courts in the District of Columbia with new powers to combat the soaring crime rate in the nation's capital.

Under the bill, part of the anticrime program urged by President Richard M. Nixon, persons convicted of felonies three times could be given intermediate sentences up to life imprisonment.

The measure also would provide local police with authority for wiretapping and electronic surveillance under court orders —a section modeled on national legislation passed last year. It is aimed particularly at D.C. narcotics traffic.

10 Persons Killed

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — An overweighted grandstand at an improvised bull ring collapsed yesterday in the southwestern town of Santa Barbara de Barinas, killing 10 persons and injuring 60. The bull fight was being held in connection with a fair commemorating the patron saint of the area.

Hawaii Spared Return Of Monster Breakers

HONOLULU (AP) — The storm-battered north shore of Oahu Island escaped further damage early today when an expected monster surf crested a critical 10 feet lower than predicted.

More than 1,700 residents had been evacuated as the north shore, on the opposite side of the island from Honolulu, braced for towering walls of water.

The surf peaked at 30 feet at high tide, not high enough to cause property damage. This was 20 feet below the waves that smashed 58 homes and caused $1 million in property damage Monday.

Today's waves had been predicted to hit 40 feet, the height they reached yesterday. A mid-Pacific storm some 1,000 miles northwest of Hawaii spawned the massive waves, officials said.

Despite the danger, the massive waves represented a spectacular sight to some people.

Police said they cleared hundreds of spectators from the beaches by threatening to have their cars towed away.

Officials said Monday and Tuesday's damage constituted Hawaii's worst natural disaster since a 1960 tidal wave killed 61 persons and caused $25 million in damage on the island of Hawaii.

More than 400 police, firemen and public works employes had been ordered into north shore areas of Honolulu in readiness for the monster waves that never came today.

Also spared from further devastation was the tiny fishing village of Milolii to the south of Hawaii Island. The 80-resident village sustained $100,000 in damage Tuesday, including the loss of most of its outrigger fishing canoe fleet.

A New Policy On Reporting Injuries Urged

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An injured employee should be required to notify his employer before filing a state claim for Workmen's Compensation Insurance, (the Little Hoover Commission) recommended yesterday.

In a report to the Legislature and Gov. Ronald Reagan on how to improve operations of the Industrial Relations Department, the commission said a "practice" has grown in which workers file actions with the state Workmen's Compensation Appeal Board immediately after being injured and before notifying the employer.

"The practice is apparently encouraged by some who specialize in representing employees in compensation cases," the commission said. "Many of these litigated cases would not have to involve litigation at all if the employer were first gicen an opportunity to act."

WHO KNOWS WHAT EVIL LURKS IN THE HEARTS OF USED CARS?

We invite you to compare our cars with others. Because we at Felton's know a used car can be a thing of beauty on the outside and a mass of corruption on the inside. Our 16-point inspection takes us to parts of the car rarely traveled by used car dealers. When we find it pure at heart . . . then it's ready for you.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

New Arthritis Treatment Is Being Put To Use In U.S.

VAN DELLEN

Ibuprofen a new arthritis remedy being used in Great Britain with considerable success, is now being tested in the United States. The synthetic compound relieves pain and reduces inflammation and morning stiffness. In this respect, it is said to be superior to aspirin.

There are many remedies for arthritis, and researchers usually compare their effectiveness with aspirin. This is not surprising, because the salicylates have been used for many decades and are still recommended by physicians for the relief of pain. If aspirin were a recent discovery, most of us would hail it as a wonder drug. However, since it may cause side reactions, it is doubtful whether the FDA would approve the product.

SEVENTEEN MILLION persons in the United States are afflicted with some form of arthritis. The best known are rheumatoid arthritis which is prevalent in young adults, osteoarthritis in the older group, and ankylosing spondylitis of the spine , and gout.

Furthermore these diseases vary in severity. Some arthritics are bothered constantly. Other have pain and stiffness only in the morning on getting out of bed. Those with ankylosing spondylitis of the spine must remain active to keep ahead of the disorder. There are many excellent remedies and preventives for gout. Among these are allopurinol, benemid, and colchicine.

DRUGS SUCH AS Butazolidin, Indocin, and the steroids help in all forms of arthritis. We have analgesics by the dozens. Operations also are becoming more popular for arthritic conditions. In some instances the diseased joint is cleaned out, and in others the entire joint is removed and replaced with a prosthesis.

There are no magic cures for any type of arthritis. Nature is kind, however, because more than half the victims improve spontaneously. Wise physicians do nothing to harm the joints, and prescribe remedies that are the safest to use over long periods.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed emvelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

SPINAL ANESTHESIA

J.L.S. writes: Is it true that having a spinal when a woman is ready to have her baby causes trouble in the spinal area in later years?

REPLY

This is unusual inasmuch as the adverse effects are usually minimal. Some individuals develop headache that lasts several weeks but as a rule these stop. The risks are now minimized, thanks to improved drugs and experienced anesthesiologists.

RED, CRACKED TONGUE

S.R. writes: Is it true that all older people have red, cracked tongues? My tongue has been red for about three years, but it is not sore.

REPLY

Red, cracked tongue is not part of the aging process. It may, however, be associated with anemia, vitamin deficiencies, and inflammation.

DIET WRINKLING

Mrs. S.G.writes: Can wrinkled skin be avoided on losing weight?

REPLY

No. But in time the skin regains its tone and the wrinkles become less noticeable.

TRACE ELEMENT

P.C. writes: Will a person suffering from low metabolism benefit from using iodized salt?

REPLY

Salt will not raise the metabolism but it may help prevent goiter if you have an iodine deficiency. A low metabolic rate does not necessarily indicate thyroid enlargement.

PRESSURE AND LIQUOR

R. M. writes: Is it bad for a man with high blood pressure to drink liquor?

REPLY

Yes, if he drinks too much. However, reasonal amounts may lower the blood pressure if the alcohol leads to relaxation. There are many good remedies for hypertension and these should take precedence over the liquor.

600 CALORIES A DAY

W. I. writes: How much weight can a person lose eating 600 calories a day?

REPLY

No two persons react alike to a diet. Some might lose 10 pounds a week on a 600 calorie regimen; others, only 1 pound. Much depends upon the original weight, activity, and the person's metabolism.

MIDDLE-AGED CYCLIST

W. F. writes: Is it safe for a woman of 45 to take up bicycle riding?

REPLY

Yes, provided she obeys the rules of the road. Cycling is an excellent exercise for those who live on level terrain. At your age, however, watch out for the hills.

NCA

A. Z. writes: Can anything be done for neurocirculatory asthenia?

REPLY

The victim of this nervous condition must appreciate its nature and know why he develops palpitation and shortness of breath when under stress. Many sufferers improve by increasing their tolerance to exertion. Others have to drop a few social or business obligations and limit their activities to those that no longer provoke palpitation, breathlessness, and chest pain.

FEAR OF FLYING

F.A.B. writes: Can fear of flying be overcome? I would like to take a plane trip but get weak in the knees just thinking about it.

REPLY

Yes. A modern tranquilizer should allay your anxiety. Most motion sickness remedies have a sedative effect and will do the same. Best results are obtained by taking the tranquilizer one-half to one hour before departure.

NIACINAMIDE

E.F. writes: Will taking 100 mg. of niacinamide every day for a long period of time cause any serious side effects?

REPLY

Not to my knowledge. The vitamin may produce a transitory flushing of the skin or itching of the rectum, but these symptoms are not harmful. Larger doses have been used to lower blood cholesterol.

Campus Scuffles Over Recruiting

STANFORD (AP) — Scuffling broke out on the campuses of Stanford University and San Jose State College during student picketing of industrial recruiters.

Campus police at each school said yesterday there were no arrests and the small crowds were dispersed.

Stanford campus Police Chief Tom Bell said about 80 Students for a Democratic Society and their supporters were picketing General Electric Co. recruiters when members of the conservative Free Campus Movement took pictures. The SDS pickets demanded the film and camera and the skirmishes erupted when refused.

Railway Bomb Plan Thwarted

KYOTO, Japan (AP) — Four Molotov cocktails were hurled on railway tracks near this western Japanese city today 20 minutes before an ammunition train passed along the line, police said.

They said fires started by the homemade fire bombs were extinguished immediately by track men patroling nearby, and that train schedules were not affected.

Police said the bombs were believed thrown by radical students protesting the transportation of ammunition from the U.S. Yamada ammunition depot in Kitakyushu to other military bases in central and northern Japan.

Youths Join Oldsters For Skid Row Dinners

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Every year at Thanksgiving the Salvation Army and the resuce missions provide free turkey dinners for the men on skid row, the old and middle-aged men living outside society.

This year there was something new — youth.

Young men in their 20s could be seen among the worn faces lined up for meals at Our Lady of Guadalupe Church and the United Gospel Mission.

FEATURED THIS SATURDAY

They've made a record, they've appeared on network television and they have performed in some of San Francisco's best-known nightclubs. And the experts say that the pop music duo of Bobby and I is on the brink of a major breakthrough in show business. Marin can claim "half-ownership" of this fast-rising act, for Bobby Burch is a Marinite. And for tomorrow's I-J Marin Magazine, Gary Tischler has written a special piece about Bobby, her partner and their young careers as entertainers.

The gathering of the greens is a yuletide tradition that goes back deep into antiquity. And in Marin County, it is also a part of the holiday tradition. Annually, the women of the Decorations Guild of the Marin Art and Garden Center go forth to collect materials for their greens sale. Just what they collect, where they find it and what they do with it is the subject of a picture story in tomorrow's I-J weekend supplement that will help get you in the spirit for the holidays ahead.

Black Caucus Plan Drive For Voters

OAKLAND (UPI)—The Oakland Black Caucus has announced plans for a voter registration drive to establish a black political power bloc for 1970 elections in the East Bay area.

Paul Cobb, chairman of the coalition of Negro organizations, said Wednesday the drive will seek to unify black voters, who have been "woefully splintered" in previous East Bay elections.

TO CHOKE OR NOT TO CHOKE

Referee Travis Baker watches intently as Tom Grace of DeAnza pins a gasping Tom Owen of San Rafael in the 175-pound class of a dual high school wrestling meet at San Rafael yesterday. San Rafael protested that Grace was choking Owen but to no avail. The Bulldogs still managed to pick up a 25-23 win over the Richmond school with sophomore Dirk Correnti coming through with a 25-second pin in the 191-pond class to clinch it. The win was San Rafael's fourth without a loss. Other San Rafael winners were Dave McIrvin, Dave Hughes, Gil Freitas and Bob Smith. (Fred Harris photo)

Secret At Sears Point; Who's That Mystery Man?

It never fails. Try to hide something and you wind up in a fish bowl. It's like getting caught on Candid Camera with your fingers in the cookie jar. Or a bank robber who suddenly becomes a movie star.

This week a major auto manufacturer rented Sears Point International Raceway for some secret testing by its most glamorous racing team and driver.

Not a word was breathed to the news media while guards made sure no one got near the track. You couldn't get near enough to see the action, but you could hear the roar of the car as it sped around the asphalt ribbon.

All my efforts to find out what was going on were met by vague answers. "Nothing going on here," said one Sears Pointer, pointlessly. "Oh, that noise? Well, that's my grandmother breaking in her new Go-Kart. Nothing to it. See you later."

Managed To Sneak Past Guard

Well, I managed to sneak past the guard and saw this famous driver testing a Trans-American Racing Series sedan. On hand were about two dozen crew members and manufacturers officials.

Still, everything was hush-hush like they were planning World War III.

Actually, they veiled themselves in secrecy because they don't want their rivals to know they're getting an early and quite serious start toward the 1970 Trans-Am championship. They picked Sear Point because it offers the greatest challenge to driver and car in the Trans-Am series.

But, wouldn't you know it! Yesterday, when it was announced the Rolling Stones would stage a concert at Sears Point Saturday, the place suddenly was crawling with newsmen and photographers while TV crews flew overhead in small planes and helicopters.

And our secretive racing team suddenly was performing in a fish bowl. Smile, you're on camera! The cat's out of the bag.

I crossed my heart not to tell any secrets, but if you must know the identity of the auto manufacturer and its big name driver, call the Holiday Inn at Terra Linda where they're staying and start asking for famous drivers. "Hello, is Barney Oldfield there? Well, how 'bout Mauri Rose? Rex Mays?"

Just keep going down the list of Indianapolis 500 winners and sooner or later you'll find your man.

Or, better yet, just go out to the Holiday Inn and look around. Our Mystery Guest will be the only one lounging around the pool in a fire suit with helmet and goggles on with the initials P.J. on his suit.

And besides, his car will be the only one in the

Owens Heads West Shrine All-Stars

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A powerhouse backfield led by Heisman trophy winner Steve Owens of Oklahoma will be on the West team in the 45th annual East-West Shrine game.

The entire West roster was announced today and along with Owens, it included such running backs as Bob Anderson of Colorado, an All-American; Art Malone of Arizona State and Greg Jones of UCLA.

The annual battle is in Stanford Stadium Dec. 27.

Two other top running backs, Gary Fowler of California and Bubba Brown of Stanford had to be switched to defense, so loaded is the team with runners.

Dennis Shaw of San Diego State, the nation's leader in total offense, will share the quarterback duties with Steve Ramsey of North Texas State.

IDAHO SENSATION

Jerry Hendren of Idaho, the top pass receiver in the nation, will be at split end along with George Farmer of UCLA. All-American John Ward of Oklahoma State is at guard.

All-Americans Don Parish, Stanford linebacker, and Phil Olsen, Utah State end, head the defensive roster.

They are joined by UCLA linebacker Mike Ballou, Cal's Irby Augustine—listed at linebacker instead of end—and Bill Brundige of Colorado, who made the second All-American team.

John Ralston of Stanford coaches the West team.

GIANTS' SCHEDULE

More Night Games And Doubleheaders

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Giants will have a new playing surface in 1970 at Candlestick Park along with a schedule emphasizing more night games and doubleheaders than in the past.

The Giants played only 19 night games in 1969, lowest in the majors outside of the Chicago Cubs, but in 1970 the number goes up to 26. The club also will play in nine home doubleheaders, up three from 1969.

NEW TURF

Artificial turf will replace the natural turf during the winter so that Candlestick Park can be used by both the Giants and the football 49ers. Work on laying down the artificial turf will begin in January and the park should be ready for the Giants' home opener against Houston on April 7.

Five days after the home opener the Giants will stage the first promotional day of 1970, and they have dubbed it "600 Day," a day in which fans will have a chance to celebrate with Willie Mays the hitting of his 600th homer. Actually, Willie hit his 600th late in 1969 but the club never had a chance to properly share the day with Giants fans.

The Giants have scheduled 72 home dates in 1970 with the World Champion Mets coming in for the first time on April 28 and the arch rival Los Angeles Dodgers on May. 26.

50 Million Televiewers Await Game Of The Year

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — All is ready for college football's Game of the Year.

The synthetic grass at Fayetteville has been vacuumed.

President Nixon has his tickets.

A national television audience estimated at 50 million is waiting, when the game is broadcast at 10 a.m., Pacific Standard Time, on Channel 7.

Texas vs. Arkansas, No. 1 vs. No. 2.

The game pits Texas, averaging more than 44 points a game, against Arkansas, with the best defense in the land against scoring.

The winner earns the Southwest Conference championship, a spot in the Cotton Bowl opposite Notre Dame and the inside track to the national championship.

The loser goes to the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans and a far less glamorous date with a 7-3 Mississippi team.

Arkansas coach Frank Broyles says Texas' execution of its relatively simple offense will be the Razorback's biggest problem.

"They are exact in what they do," he said. "Faking is the big problem. They have their bread and butter plays and they come at you with them.

"What you have to do in defending against the triple option kills your pursuit," Broyles said. "You must commit a man to each hole, even though you'd rather not. If one man misses, there'll be no help until the ball carrier gets to the safety. And they've got blockers cracking at safety."

And, as Oklahoma found out, the Longhorns can pass.

The Sooners massed nine men on the line of scrimmage, jumped off to a 14-0 lead and then succumbed when quarterback James Street began finding split end Cotton Speyrer.

Arkansas, however, has not conceded.

As one coach put it: "We've

GIANTS TRADE TRIO, GET RELIEF HURLER

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The San Francisco Giants traded pitcher Ron Herbel, infielder Bob Etheridge and catcher Bob Barton to San Diego today for relief pitcher Frank Reberger.

Herbel, 31, was 4-1 last year in 39 games, all but four of them in relief. Etheridge, 27, hit .260 in 56 games and Barton, 28, batted .170 in 49 games.

The 25-year-old 6-foot-5 Reberger, formerly with the Chicago Cubs, was selected by San Diego last year in the expansion draft. He appeared in 67 games with the Padres and had a 1-4 won-lost record and a 3.58 earned run average.

Ron Cerrudo Is Winning '60 War'

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (UPI) — Deep in the middle of the pack at the $125,000 Danny Thomas golf classic, a desperate penny ante war is going on, and so far Ron Cerrudo is winning it.

Cerrudo, formerly of San Rafael and now living in Napa, is trying to nail down the No. 60 spot in the list of money winnings and this tournament is the last chance to do it. The magic 60 would exempt golfers from qualifying at regular tournaments on next year's tour.

Cerrudo, who has won $27,023 this year, shot a 72 yesterday, seven strokes behind the lead, but an important three strokes ahead of Jack McGowan, who is sitting in the No. 60 spot with $27,640 in earnings.

BREWER LEADS

Slow-talking Gay Brewer carried a two-stroke lead and a bit of optimism into today's second round.

"I can't say I was surprised," said the 1967 Masters champ after he slammed home an eagle putt and picked up seven birdies on his way to a record-tying 64 yesterday. "I went into this tournament expecting to play well."

AARON TIED

Tommy Aaron, who's won more than $377,000 swatting golf balls while collecting only one first-place trophy, finished yesterday's round with a five-under-par 67, along with R, H. Sikes of Springdale, Ark., and Jim Jamieson, a Moline, Ill., golfer who has earned less than $4,000 in his career as a pro.

In the pack at 68 with Palmer after one round were Homero Blancas, Tommy Bolt, Jerry Pittman, Hugh Boyer, Mason Rudolph, Peter Townsend and Hal Underwood.

The Thomas Classic, a 72-hole event which ends Sunday, is the season's final PGA tournament.

By JOHN G. GRIFFIN

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—The National League had a new president today, popular Charles "Chub" Feeney, and a new headquarters city—San Francisco—and put together they indicated the top echelon of baseball may not be reorganized drastically after all.

At least, not right away.

The 48-year-old Feeney, long time vice president of the San Francisco Giants, dropped a mighty broad hint in that direction when he announced after election yesterday:

"One of the conditions under which I accepted was that the job of league president remain the same as it has for the last 100 years."

For another thing, Feeney announced he is going to move the league headquarters from Cincinnati, where it reposed during the 18-year presidency of Warren C. Giles, to his hometown, San Francisco, for "at least a couple of years."

Feeney predicted there would be some form of restructuring, although he didn't say what, and Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said he was sure Feeney "will be a team man.

"I'm sure there will be great cooperation between his office and mine."

Kuhn declined to speculate on what form the restructuring might take now. He said the planning committee's report will not "take its final form" until a meeting of the committee tonight.

The report will be submitted to the final session of the joint meeting tomorrow.

Giles, 73, steps down from the N.L. presidency after holding the office longer than any man in history. His presidency proved one of the most eventful

A's Get Downing From N.Y.

Chavarria was sent to the Yanks' Syracuse farm in the International League.

Yesterday, the Yanks swung into action on the trading mart by shipping controversial first-baseman-outfielder Joe Pepitone to the Houston Astros for Curt Blefary, a first baseman-outfielder and catcher, and one-time Yankee bonus baby.

Downing, a 28-year-old veteran who held out all last spring, finished well for a 7-5 won-lost record and a 3.37 earned run average. Fernandez, 26, who also plays third, first and the outfield, hit .223 with 12 homers and 29 runs batted in for 89 games.

Cater, 29, is a right-handed hitter who also can play in the outfield. He hit .262 with 10 homers and a career-high 76 runs batted in last season. He has a career mark of .296.

Sydney III Adds Charm To Sports-Boat Show

Tom Rooney rusticates most of the year in the Valley of the Moon. On his Sonoma ranch in the Jack London country, Rooney raises pet kangaroos. The grandpappy of the kangaroos was brought to California from Australia some years ago by Rooney to serve as mascot of the San Francisco National Sports and Boat Show.

Ever since Sydney became mascot of the show it has been a whopping success. So naturally Rooney is very fond of Sydney and sees that he gets his daily share of kangaroo goodies. It's the same with Sydney's grandchildren. Nothing's too good for them.

JUST BEFORE Christmas each year Rooney emerges from Sonoma to announce details of the show he has directed for more than a quarter of a century. This will be the 28th renewal of the show and like its predecessors it will be staged at the Cow Palace for 10 days, Jan. 9-18.

"Sydney," said Rooney on his annual pre-Christmas visit to San Francisco, "did more to popularize the show than I can say. He still is a natural for publicity, not just because of his boxing ability but his lovable personality.

"BUT HE'S a bit big now for me to carry him around as I once did. So I brought Sydney III down from the ranch to say hello."

Sydney III, popping out of a warm fur-lined bag Rooney was carrying, immediately captivated a group of sports writers who had been invited to a luncheon by Rooney.

"Isn't he a cute little sonofagun?" asked Rooney. "He thinks the bag I tote him around in is his mother's pouch."

ROONEY DECLARED that Sydney III will act as junior mascot of the 28th annual San Francisco Sports and Boat Show.

"We'll have 550 exhibits for fishing, boating, camping, hunting, vacations, travel and other outdoor recreational activities at this year's show," said Rooney.

"We've run out of room at the Cow Palace but we've been promised two new pavilions for next year."

Rooney isn't just a salesman of floor space to exhibitors. His technique of putting exhibitors' products in an attractive showcase now has them beating a path to his door.

THE PUBLIC obviously likes the way Rooney puts his shows together. More than 300,000 pass through the Cow Palace each January to see it. He provides the customers with first class entertainment. Each year he comes up with some new idea.

A feature of his original show was a Huck Finn casting pool for youngsters. "That's a permanent feature now," said Rooney, "because among today's fishermen are youngsters who wet their first line in our pool."

THE FEATURE of the 1970 show will be the "Lakester," a combination boat-auto, similar in appearance to a dunebuggy. The "Lakester" is being designed by Brooks Stevens, noted designer of boats and racing cars.

Hawks Blast Sonics; L.A. Lakers Lose Again

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

How fast can a bird fly? Well, some Hawks broke through the SuperSonic barrier Thursday night.

Atlanta's soaring Hawks blasted the Seattle SuperSonics with a 23-8 spurt in the final seven minutes for a 119-111 National Basketball Association victory last night.

In the night's only other contest, Phoenix smacked Los Angeles 119-109.

It was in those final seven minutes that Atlanta's favorite running game, which had been stalled to just five fast break baskets until then, began to speed up.

Hazzard, who clicked on 13-of-20 from the field, chalked up his highest point total of the season with 32 as he snapped a mild slump that had been him score only 54 points in the previous six games.

Center Bob Rule, who had 24 points to lead Seattle, also pulled down 16 rebounds.

Phoenix put away Los Angeles with a third quarter outburst to record its third straight victory and the sixth straight loss for the slipping Lakers.

The Suns outscored the Lakers 33-19 in that third period on some pinpoint passing by Gail Goodrich and the all-around play of Connie Hawkins.

The Suns' dominance of the boards and a hustling defense helped them build a 30-point lead early in the fourth period. Phoenix outrebounded Los Angeles overall 57-36.

Hawkins finished with 28 points to lead all scorers. Hap Hairston led Los Angeles with 25.

USF Soccer Team Gains NCAA Final

SAN JOSE (UPI) — The University of San Francisco and St. Louis University will meet tomorrow in the finals of the 1969 NCAA soccer championship.

The USF Dons downed the 1968 co-champion University of Maryland team, 1-0, in the second game of the semi-finals at Spartan Stadium. In the first game, St. Louis defeated Harvard, 2-1.

DOMINATING DONS

It was strictly a typically offensive minded USF team that controlled the tempo and momentum throughout the contest, as the Dons took 28 shots at the goal to Maryland's 14.

Maryland suffered its first NCAA loss in six contests and was shut out for the first time in four years. Goalie John Camacho of USF was credited with six saves, while Maryland goalie Frank Kolodzidy was credited with eight.

All Raider Home Game Ducats Gone

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders may have problems Sunday in stopping Cincinnati Bengal running back Paul Robinson, but at least their efforts will be made before a capacity crowd at the Oakland Coliseum.

The Oakland club confirmed that no tickets are left for the two remaining home games, Sunday against Cincinnati and the following Saturday when the Kansas City Chiefs come to town.

NEW RECORDS

Last Sunday, the Raiders and the New York Jets attracted 63,865 persons for an American Football League record. Stadium records were set in previous weeks in Kansas City and San Diego.

On Sunday, when an expected 53,000 spectators fill the Coliseum, it may be flashy Robinson who will set some records.

Robinson should be remembered by the Raiders as the 1968 rookie who started his run to win the AFL rushing title and rookie of the year title when Cincinnati met Oakland last season.

periods the game has seen, including the shift of a number of existing franchises to new cities, the expansion of the league to the Pacific Coast, and the rise in league cities from eight teams to ten and then to twelve teams, with the first league championship playoffs in history in 1969.

'Loser Bowl' At Kezar Tomorrow

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Chicago Bears and the San Francisco 49ers, who don't have enough victories between them to challenge anybody for a division title, meet here tomorrow in a National Football League game.

The 49ers, to whom defeat has become almost commonplace over the year, have mustered only two victores and two ties in 11 games. The Bears have never really known what losing game after game felt like, but they are finding out.

Chicago is 1-10 and lost its first seven games before beating Pittsburgh. Both those marks are records for the once-proud Bears.

Gale Sayers, who took over the NFL lead in rushing last week with a brilliant performance against Cleveland, has a foot bruise, but is expected to play.

That cannot come as welcome news to the 49ers, some of whom still remember his six-touchdown performance against them four years ago. Last year against San Francisco, Sayers suffered the knee injury that put him out of action for the year.

Dick Butkus, the Bears' fine middle linebacker, has been suffering from bruised ribs, but is also expected to see some action.

The 49ers' excellent safety Mel Phillips will not start because of a sprained right knee, but may see some action. Al Randolph is the backup man.

Veteran John Brodie will be at quarterback for the 49ers while young Virgil Carter will be at the controls for the first time this season.

Bobby Douglass, the Kansas rookie, took over in midseason when Jack Concannon was hurt and though he has looked good at times, he couldn't do anything about the Bears' losses.

The 49ers are favored by 6 ½ points.

got a contract to fulfill. We'll be there."

Utilizing the pro-type attack, Arkansas has averaged more than 35 points a game and has not scored less than three touchdowns in any game.

The Arkansas offense blends the running of Bill Burnett and Bruce Maxwell with the passing of quarterback Bill Montgomery.

"Texas is so sound defensively," says Montgomery. "They line up and say, 'Here we are, come after us with anything you've got, we're gonna stop it.' They're such good players, so well-coached, that they don't have to do anything special.

"For instance, they put a great deal of pressure on the passer with just their four down linemen," he said.

Coach Don Brenaux, who Broyles recruited from Florida State two years ago to install the pro-style offense, says the Texas defense is sound.

"You almost know what they will be in," he said. "They have certain adjustments they make regardless of who they play. They have basically an eight-man front, but they're versatile.

"We've got to do a good job on our pass protection," Breax said. "And our short-yardage and goalline plays are very critical."

Burnett is one of the best near the goalline. The 185-pound junior has scored 35 touchdowns in less than two seasons, 19 of them this year. He'll scratch for every inch and specializes in diving over a stacked defense at the goal.

The key to Arkansas' chances may be field position. The Razorbacks can not afford to give the Longhorns a close-in opportunity at a touchdown.

"We don't know how good they are," Broyles said. "We don't know how good we are."

They'll find out Saturday in what should be a fitting climax to college football's 100th year.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

My Son Still Looking For That Silver Lining

I keep reading in a San Francisco newspaper about the hunting and fishing exploits of the writer and his young son. They never miss! I can't understand it at all.

I was taking an inventory of my son Andy's outdoor success, and I've come to the conclusion that he is a failure. Would you believe that in four or five years of fishing for silver salmon he hasn't caught even one?

LAST SUNDAY he spent the day fishing and talking with two fishermen at Tomales Bay, each exchanging information on the best methods of lure fishing. They kept telling him what "Warden Al Giddings" had said, and Andy, not telling them his name, argued every point, and not in my favor! He really put them on, and of course proceeded to fish his way.

(Another time in the Sierras when the fish were only hitting baits, I limited out, but not my son. He used lures and never got a hit.)

And each year when quail season rolls around, out goes Andy, and there am I, home smacking my lips waiting for a nice mess of quail for dinner. Never has he brought a quail home. Two years ago he arrive home with a story that he got one, but he met a hippie gal on the way home. She really wanted that little bird for dinner, so says Andy, so he gave it to her.

THIS YEAR he took his buddy, Bob Horton (who is another "never gets anything" guy) along up to a ranch. It was opening day — everyone could get a bird or two on this day — but here they came with nary a feather.

And ducks? Nope, never a bird. Deer hunting? Well, he does hold his own here, but deer meat morning, noon and night makes up a sad bill of fare. Maybe he's just a natural born conservationist.

ABOUT SAN PABLO Bay striper fishing — here's the hot dope. Sam Knoles and I went a couple of days ago, fishing the high tide out. I nailed a 10-pounder in the first 15 minutes, and do you know that six hours later, after fishing the duck blinds, the shellbank and the pumphouse areas, that we never had another hit?

One consolation, however. Mat Palacio Jr. of San Rafael, a dedicated Duck's Unlimited worker, had given me a call to try some duck hunting in one of the bay blinds with him. As I already had a fishing date with Sam, I couldn't go, but I anchored where I could see Mat. I know from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. that he didn't fire a shot. I guess things are just tough all over.

There were about 2,000 blue bills with some canvasbacks out there, but they were generally rafted up and not working. Maybe some of you skull boaters should try this area.

BOB WILSON of Woodacre came by this week with a pep talk on the sturgeon fishing between the Richmond Bridge and the old net depot. That's the area where the bass trollers have been doing well. That might be just the place to go this weekend; at least from all reports, one would have a shot at either sturgeon or bass.

Up in the flats off Hamilton Field, I've made six trips this past month with Knoles. We've taken six bass for the boat with weights of 28½, 22, 12, 12, 10 and 8 pounds. No bad — not good. That's one fish per trip — no sturgeon.

HAZEL EDDINGS of Bucks' Landing in Santa Venetia called to say that Mike Madden of 2 Joan Court, Novato, took a 6-foot, 7-inch sturgeon in San Pablo Bay this past week. The fish weighed 105 pounds, which is the largest sturgeon I've heard of this season.

Most of the reports I've had on pheasants are that things really got tough after the opening day. Unless you can find one of the state's duck co-ops where they sometimes open new areas the last part of the season, things will be tough, and without a dog, I'd say "stay home."

Ducks have been pretty tough to get, too, except for the very foggy days when they get a little lost from their refuge home, and wander out to an open pond. This year, with no rains or big winds to date, the birds will stay put in their safe refuge areas.

EXCELLENT abalone and clam tides are on tap Sunday, Monday and Tuesday afternoons and time is running out. The season closes Jan. 15 and won't open until March 16.

Today's the day the Fish and Game Commission was to meet to set next year's fishing regulations. It could be they will pass the open night fishing in San Francisco and San Pablo bays. I haven't heard of much opposition.

Basketball Clinic For Youngsters In Terra Linda

San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department will hold a basketball clinic for boys who will be participating in the elementary school basketball league tomorrow, starting at 9 a.m. in the Terra Linda High School gymnasium.

Highlight of the clinic will be demonstrations by Sonoma State College players and their coach, Dr. Douglas Earl. Also assisting will be members of San Rafael and Terra Linda high school teams.

The league and clinic are open to all boys in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades. There will be a late registration tomorrow at 8:30 a.m. for boys who have not yet signed up for the league program.

JOCK VS. THE EGGHEAD

There's An Emotional War Brewing

By GARY TISCHLER

A strange and rather sad thing is happening to high school athletics, and perhaps American athletics in general.

Battle lines are being drawn.

There is a kind of verbal, highly emotional war brewing and the chosen site seems to be athletics strung up tight as the last refuge of the "American way of life."

It starts with hair, goes on to discipline, jurisdiction, courts, school boards and wholesale firings and winds up in needless polarization.

The jock against the egghead.

Clean-cut vs. long-haired.

And maybe even fascist pigs against commie hippies.

And everyone grits his teeth, stemming the other side, which suddenly turns into total anathema.

The defenders of athletics somehow seem to feel that if you give in here, you open the gates and resign athletics to its doom.

And the defenders of individuality, and I think that's the banner the whole thing works under, think that compromise is somehow tainted.

Being a sportswriter is a little like sitting in the middle. You can hear all the guts and emotions tightening up in both camps.

Somehow, the whole thing seems to me to be a case of a lot of people forgetting some basic things.

One of them is that you can lambast ideas and other people's principles all to hell, but it is still people who mouth them, not pieces of paper.

The other is that athletics is surely not something that you can put in a neat bag, tag it and call it a dirty name, nor that football, for instance, is quite the same thing as another sport.

To say that coaches and their defenders, if they need them, are unread martinets, albatrosses who live in another time, or remnants of the Nazi Army is a curious way of looking through the looking glass.

So, for that matter, is thinking that if a youngster asks a question, you don't have to answer it because he isn't old enough to drink yet.

I'm sure if you look at it long enough, you can find plenty of things wrong with athletics, but quite a few of them are treasured myths. The old story of the tackle taking basketweaving and speaking in grunts, the muscle boy who beats up the book-reader, the coach who does anything to win, doesn't hold so true anymore. They're exceptions, not the rule.

Part of the problem is that whatever charms athletics has to offer come wrapped in sentiment. The old school ties, bright-eyed girls crying after the game, crepe paper at the school dance, half-time pep talks, heroics and adrenalin. Some of them are not around any more, but they are fondly remembered and die hard.

It is like the 40-year-old ex-athlete who still has the brown clipping from the local paper. I think too many of this very hip, very bright generation would have no use for him.

It is a little hard to look past the sentiments and see some genuine value, but it's there. The cliche is true, it keeps them off the streets.

Lew Alcindor does go back to the ghetto to get the baby brothers turned on to basketball. It is a way of becoming something for a lot of somebodies who may not get the chance otherwise. And, if you are a part of it, it is likely to be something that you won't quite forget.

Certainly, athletics could use some change, fresh winds, new ways of doing things. Certainly, it is not heresy to question some of its rules and methods of operation. The walls will not fall down if the question is asked and discussed without rancor. But it does not have to come in a rush of change for the hell of it.

I keep remembering a man who was my coach. I've forgotten his name now, but he wore glasses, was paunchy and when his wife had a baby boy we all joked and said he'd become a ballet dancer. It wasn't a cruel joke because we did respect the man. He was surprisingly gentle and amazingly successful. He was not our collective father, nor did anybody think he was, but he pretended to be, which was good enough. I think he would be a little perplexed about this, but I don't think he would panic.

And I think that's what could happen. A kind of emotional panic that sets the jaw, heats the head and winds up with everyone screaming. It might be a jim-dandy war, but I don't think anybody would win. At all.

BOWLING TIPS

Basketball At Tomales Looking Up

(Ninth in a series on Marin County high school basketball prospects.)

You could say things are looking up at Tomales High School.

Everybody's looking up at six-foot-six Bob Dixon, who is once again expected to make Tomales High School basketball fortunes go.

The growing, 200-pound center is only a junior, but as a sophomore last season he averaged 28.1 points per game over 16 games on 450 points, as well as being one of the top rebounders in the North Central II League.

Dixon would be enough for some teams, but the Braves have some fairly good material around to balance things out.

There's senior guard Joe Lopes, who averaged 12 points per game last season, and veterans like 6-foot senior Bob Weiss, senior guard Mark Diekmann, and seniors Bruce Adams and Axel Anderson.

Ron Petroni, the football sensation, is expected to help out considerably if and when he recovers from a grid injury, which is expected to be in about two weeks.

Tomales had a 12-5 season mark last year, finishing second in the North Central II League.

Lew's Gone But UCLA Still Team To Beat

By JOE SARGIS

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Lew Alcindor's gone but UCLA still is the team to beat in Pacific 8 Conference basketball this year, and it wouldn't surprise too many people in the West if the Bruins go on to win an unprecedented fourth straight national title.

Wooden is candid about his team's chances.

"We are very proud of our five NCAA team titles but realize that many little things have to fall in place to gain even one."

One of those "little things this year is Bibby, an exceptional guard moving up from the freshman team which he paced with a 26.8 average. In addition to being a fine shooter, he handles the ball better than might be expected under the circumstances.

The Bruins have had such a stranglehold on the Pacific 8 Conference the last five years that the other seven teams in the league have had to settle for second every time. That necessarily isn't so this year because Southern California, Oregon State and Washington all think they have a chance to topple UCLA.

And in the equally tough West Coast Athletic Conference, both Santa Clara and the University of Pacific feel they have a chance to represent the West this season in the NCAA playoffs.

Oregon State is optimistic because of Gary Freeman's reinstatement by the NCAA (he's a 6-foot-9 forward) and the return of Vince Fritz, the Beavers' leading scorer two years ago who sat things out the last time around because of a back injury.

Tex Winter, by any standards, did a remarkable job with the Washington Huskies last year, bringing home a very inexperienced team with a 13-13 record. He had only three seniors on the squad last year. The juniors, nine strong, got the experience to make the Huskies tough this year. Top men are 6-foot-9 center Jay Bond and 6-foot-6 forward George Irvine.

Southern California's chances to improve on its 15-12 record of a year ago hinge on how fast three junior college transfers come along and on the graduates of an unbeaten freshman team of a year ago. No question the Trojans will need playing time before anyone can evaluate their chances,

That leaves California, Washington State, Oregon and Stanford to fill out the league. None is a real threat although Cal might surprise because it has two top-notchers in All-Coast forward Jackie Ridgle (19.1 scoring average) and All-Conference guard Charley Johnson, plus soph center Ansley Truitt.

San Jose State, which has a pretty fine club, has switched from the WCAC to the new Pacific Coast Athletic Association, leaving Santa Clara, the defending champion, and UOP, third last year, to fight it out for the WCAC title.

Santa Clara's strength is its balance, anchored by big men Dennis Awtry and Ralph Ogden. The only player of note missing from last year's 26-1 club is Bud Ogden, who is in the Philadelphia 76ers organization.

UOP has a lot of ground to make up to beat out the Broncos.

Long Beach State, 22-3 last year, and San Jose State look like the best teams in the PCAA.

HOW TO PLAY BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Battle Of The Sexes Sometimes Is Fought On The Bridge Table

Few readers know how much patient research goes into the preparation of this bridge column.

Many years ago somebody reported that when a lady bridge player says "No," she means "Maybe."

I investigated thousands of cases in North America, Western Europe and the Far East and am now able to report my findings in the form of the hand shown today.

No. 4043 .... Dec. 5, 1969

OPENING LEAD

West opened the king of hearts, and East played the deuce in a proper, ladylike manner.

That is, she played the deuce without hesitation or undue emphasis.

West, a gentleman, assumed that when a lady plays the deuce she means "No."

He therefore switched to the ace of clubs on the assumption that East would not discourage a heart continuation unless she was ready for a switch to the logical side suit.

West may have been a gentleman, but he was no bridge player.

South lost only two hearts and one club, and East lost her composure.

"You should have led a low heart at the second trick," she pointed out.

HIDDEN MEANING

East was, of course, quite right. If East is allowed to win the second heart she can return a club to give West two club tricks.

"There was a hidden meaning in East's deuce of hearts at the first trick, and West should have known that the apparent "No" really was an emphatic "Yes."

After the first trick, West could see all of the hearts except the queen and the ten.

If East had both of them, she would have played the ten (from Q-10-2) at the first trick.

If East had only the ten of hearts left, she would have played it (from 10-2) at the first trick to signal her doubleton.

East would play the deuce at the first trick only if she had the singleton deuce or the doubleton queen-deuce.

In either case, West should be a bridge player rather than a gentleman.

He should lead a low heart, knowing what a lady really means when she says "No."

DAILY QUESTION

Dealer, at your left, opens with one club, and your partner doubles.

The next player passes.

You hold:

♥ Q 2
♦ 8 7 4 2
♣ 9 8 5 3 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one diamond.

Despite your length in clubs you cannot afford to pass.

The opponent will probably make one club with an overtrick or two, and your partner, will feel that he cannot afford to use an ordinary takeout double with you.

Respond in your unbid suit, weak though it is, and hope for the best.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, Dec. 5, the 339th day of 1969 with 26 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1776, the first scholastic fraternity in America, Phi Beta Kappa, was organized at William and Mary College in Virginia.

In 1848, President James Polk confirmed the discovery of gold in California, which led to the famed "gold rush" of 1848 and 1849.

In 1933, prohibition was abolished when Utah became the 30th state to ratify the 21st amendment.

In 1963, Herbert Lehman, former governor and senator of New York, died.

A thought for the day: Jonathan Swift said, "Satire is a sort of glass, wherein beholders generally discover everybody's face but their own."

Gov. Farnsworth Serves Six Days

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — West Virginia had a governor who served only six days.

He was Daniel Duane Tompkins Farnsworth, the second governor, who served from Feb. 27 to March 3, 1869.

He succeeded Arthur I. Borman who resigned to become a U.S. senator. Farnsworth served until the third governor, William Erskine Stevenson, took office.

Dwight D. Eisenhower spent his boyhood days at Abilene, Kans.

Forecaster Sees No Rise In '70 Building

The national total of 1970 construction value will just about equal 1969's $66 billion, according to the last F. W. Dodge construction report.

The opening quarter of the year is expected to be the weakest, with each successive quarter showing improvement. Housing is expected to be the first to advance, and with an adequate flow of mortgage money, homebuilding will continue throughout the year.

During the past 12 months, construction costs rose higher than any time since 1946, with an average jump in labor and materials of 7.5 per cent during the year ended Sept. 30.

STANDARD OIL CO. OF CALIFORNIA and Boise Cascade Corp. have announced a $100 million commercial land development on 128 acres owned by Standard at El Segundo, Southern California. Site work will begin shortly on a complex of highrise office buildings, research facilities, stores, restaurants, and hotels. The two companies have formed Sepulveda Properties, Inc., owned 50 per cent by each, to carry out the development.

LEISURE DYNAMICS, INC., Minneapolis, and the major shareholders of McCormack International Motors, Inc., Santa Ana, have reached an agreement whereby Leisure will be granted an option to purchase all outstanding stock of McCormack International. Under terms of the five-year option, Leisure could acquire McCormack International stock for Leisure stock.

HY-LOND ENTERPRISES, Sonoma, has entered into an agreement with Firestone Group, Ltd., Beverly Hills-based investment company for the sale and leaseback of three convalescent hospitals and the outright sale of still another. Total patient capacity is 398 beds. Hy-Lond has announced a policy of selling properties and then operating them under long-term leases or management contracts when it is financially advantageous, and is now constructing four more facilities with that concept in mind.

SEARS, ROEBUCK AND CO. has reported sales for the five weeks ended Nov. 29 as 5.9 per cent higher than last year. Gross sales for the period were $1,075 million, an increase of $59.4 million. Sears volume for the 44 weeks ended Nov. 29 was $7,918 million also a record and increase of 8.7 per cent from 1968.

MONTGOMERY WARD reported estimated sales for the five-week period of Oct. 25 through Nov. 29 at $242.7 million, a 3.5 per cent increase from the $242.7 million reported last year. Estimated cumulated sales for the 10 months beginning Jan. 26 were $1,768 million, an 8.9 per cent improvement from last year.

WORLD AIRWAYS, INC., Oakland, has reported revenues of $71.7 million and consolidated earnings of $8.6 million for the first nine months of 1969. Comparative figures for last year were $66.9 million in revenues and $10.3 million in consolidated earnings.

EMPORIUM CAPWELL CO. has reported 1969 third quarter sales at $49 million an increase of 3.57 per cent over 1968. Net earnings were $2 million, an increase of 5.16 per cent over last year's third quarter. Earnings per share were 37 cents and 35 cents respectively.

WHITNEY-FIDALGO SEAFOODS, INC. of Seattle has terminated merger negotiations with General Host Corp. of New York City begun in October. Discussions involving an exchange of stock resulted in a substantial decline in the price of General Host common stock and have ended by mutual agreement.

SIMPSON TIMBER CO. of Korbel, Humboldt County, has started up its redwood sawmill on completion of a $5 million modernization program. Closed for seven months, the rebuilt mill features new equipment and strengthens Simpson's position as a major redwood producer.

HALO OF DIAMONDS

Jewelry expert Jerry Light peers at more than a quarter-million dollars worth of faceted diamonds on a glass table in the Bulova Watch Co.'s Jackson Heights, N.Y., plant. The firm, sole U.S. producer of women's diamond watches, predicts that half a million diamond watches will be gifts for women this Christmas season. (UPI Telephoto)

$800,000 Down

CHICAGO (UPI) — Mangood Corp. has bought Peacock Engineering Co. for $800,000 down and a total of $2 million, contingent on future earnings.

Stock Market Declines In Week's End

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market declined today in moderate trading.

Analysts attributed the bearish tone to year-end tax selling, normal pre-weekend portfolio lightening by investors, and mounting concern over tight credit and inflation.

Among the day's most active issues were Jim Walter Corp., Gulf Oil, and Sperry Rand. Jim Walter traded an early block of 125,000 shares at 33 1-4 in a cross-transaction, off 3-4, and Gulf a block of 78,200 at 28 1-8, cross.

Other heavily traded stocks included Texaco, AMK Corp., Midland-Ross, Occidental, International Telephone, Apco Oil, and American Telephone.

Electronic issues ranged to more than 2 lower. Oils traded in both directions, although most point-sized movers were pointing lower.

In the oil group, Natoms lost 3 1-8 near the close, and Reading & Bates and Standard of Ohio lost more than a point each.

Fractionally lower near the close were General Electric, Collins Radio, Gulf & Western Ling-Temco, International Telephone, Bethlehem Steel, Armco Steel, Ford, Chrysler, Penn Central, UAL Inc., General Dynamics, and Grumman.

Slightly higher, however, were General Motors, Du Pont, Great Northern, KLm, American Airlines, Walter Kidde, and American Telephone.

Steels, motors and chemicals traded in narrowly irregular ranges. Airlines were mostly lower, as were conglomerates.

Rails, aircrafts and gold mining shares moved in small ranges and generally without direction.

Prices were weak on the American Stock Exchange in moderate turnover.

Firm To Join Stock Markets

COSTA MESA, (BW) — Standard-Pacific Corp., a diversified California home building company, will be admitted for trading on the American and Pacific Coast stock exchanges effective Dec. 10, it has been announced.

The Costa Mesa-Headquartered firm has 2,153,194 common shares outstanding and is currently being traded over-the-counter.

Standard-Pacific, whose home building activities cover both Southern and Northern California, is also engaged in a major expansion and diversification program through internal growth.

Company Tells Plans For Tahoe

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Trimont Land Co. has announced it will develop 25,000 acres on Lake Tahoe's north shore for residential and recreational use, including a major ski complex.

The announcement was made by George W. Burgess, president of Fibreboard Corp., of which Trimont is a wholly-owned subsidiary.

Trimont also will soon start development of residential and commercial property on 1,200 acres in the Tahoe area and in the Mother Lode area, he said.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Chrysler Future Appears Humdrum

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Would you please give me your opinion of Chrysler Corp.? I hold shares bought at 37½.—A. S.

A. Since July, automobile sales have been generally lower, except in late September when new model buying was heavy. The firming in sales in early November led by Chrysler's 12 per cent year-to-year increase is encouraging but not definitive. Chrysler's advertising has been quite successful in promoting sales of its flashy option-loaded vehciles. Profits have not followed through.

September quarter results of 7 cents a share did little to lift this year's earnings out of the doldrums. Net of $1.97 a share for the nine months was 48 per cent below the comparable year earlier result of $3.83. This, it is doubtful that full-year net will reach $3.75 a share.

With public acceptance of its sporty-luxury autos running high, Chrysler has been reluctant to invest the sums necessary to join its competition in the race to market a subcompact. For that reason its minimodel, due out in the spring of 1971, will be three months to a year behind the competition.

If you are looking for short-term gains, this probably is not the stock for you. On the other hand, if you are interested in an adequate yield and long-term growth, your shares should be held.

Q. I bought Benguet Consolidated at 19. Would you advise holding in view of the recent publicity? — M. C.

A. Fear that the Bahama government would make corporate life difficult through immigration regulations was reflected in considerable selling of Benguet shares. Sparked by reassurances from a stateside visit by Bahamas Prime Minister Lynden O. Pindling and a favorable third-quarter earnings report, renewed investor confidence has begun to appear.

In the first nine months of 1969, Benguet reported earnings of $1.21 a share up from 51 cents in 1968. Investor confidence is a tenuous commodity needing constant reassurance which the Bahama government appears willing to supply. I would continue to hold, but watch this high-risk issue closely.

Games That Courts Play Delay, Thwart Justice

"Is a society which frequently takes five to 10 years to dispose of a single criminal case entitled to call itself an 'organized' society?" asked Warren E. Burger, now chief justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, in a public address in 1967.

Justice Burger's theme that the law's delays often defeat the justice that the law seeks is illustrated by the case of Everett LeForrest Hill, which was described in a story in this newspaper yesterday.

HILL WAS ACCUSED of supplying methamphetamine ("speed") which was used at a party in San Rafael on Sept. 27, 1968. Richard Kenneth Yager, a 20-year-old Corte Madera soldier home on furlough, died from an injection of the drug.

The law enforcement agencies moved rapidly. Hill was arrested at his San Francisco apartment the day after young Yager died. But since then, despite nearly two score court dates, no trial has been set. And in the midst of the delays, he was arrested last June 26 in San Francisco on another charge of selling methamphetamine.

HILL'S CASE is extreme but typical. The police act quickly, gather their evidence, and turn a suspected criminal over to the courts. Then the game begins. Appearances are delayed for all sorts of trivial excuses — the defendant is quarreling with his attorney, the defense attorney "has another case" or "has not had time to prepare," or maybe just fails to show up. Motions are introduced which are so routine they could be written from memory by any experienced clerk, but the court takes days or weeks to "study" them, thereby further delaying trial. On and on it goes.

The delay, of course, works to the benefit of the accused. Witnesses move away, die, or disappear. Memories become foggy with time. It is much easier for a cross-examining attorney to cast doubt on the story of a witness when that witness is trying to recall events of two or three or five years ago, while the attorney has in his hand a memorandum describing the same events but written within days after they occurred.

BUT THE DELAYS of the law do not stop there.

When Everett LeForrest Hill finally goes to trial — for San Francisco Superior Court must get around to setting a trial some day — he may be found guilty. But if he is, he can appeal. It is almost always possible for an attorney to find some grounds for appeal.

Then the process may start all over again. The appellate court may find some technical flaw in the conduct of the trial — a flaw which has no possible bearing on the guilt or innocence of the accused, but which fails to meet the precise rules laid down for the game that is called "justice." If so, it may order a new trial. If not, the defense may carry the appeal higher, hoping that another court will see a flaw where the first appeal court did not. (Sometimes it appears that judges vie with one another in attempting to find such flaws, as evidence, perhaps, of their legal acumen.)

IN THAT SAME 1967 speech, Justice Burger asked the further question:

"Is a judicial system which consistently finds it necessary to try a criminal case three, four or five times deserving of the confidence and respect of decent people?"

There is only one answer to that question.

Survival Mechanism

Plants possess something akin to a reproductive instinct in animals. By this we mean that if adversity strikes a plant, some chemical mechanism is tripped which results in unusually profuse flowering or fruiting.

This effect has led many an experienced gardener to comment that this or that plant doesn't do too well if you give it too much care and kindness.

This same effect should make one a bit leary about buying a plant for his garden if it seems to be outperforming itself blossoming. It may be making a last reproductive effort before it dies.

It is an interesting phenomenon. Well observed, but little understood. Another mystery of nature that challenges man's knowledge.

'Go Buy-Buy' Season Brings Host Of Yule-Related Events

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — California's "go buy-buy" season, generally known as the Christmas holidays, apparently is going to outdo itself this year with events designed to attract the public to merchandise marts.

From Siskiyou to San Diego counties, festivals, fetes, carnivals, and other entertainments with backgrounds of Christmas are scheduled from now until the magic day, Dec. 25.

The state chamber of commerce keeps tab throughout the year on the various attractions in California, which are multiple in a normal season but blossom at Christmas time when the public is in a better purchasing mood. The chamber has more than 50 events scheduled for the first half of December.

BUT THE CHAMBER does not list what is expected to be the outstanding Christmas event of the month.

This is the "Fantasy on Parade" to be held Dec. 20 through Jan. 4 at Disneyland.

Disneyland is a somewhat fabulous place anyhow, but the "fantasy" is scheduled to be something more than that this year.

Traditional launching of the show will be made by the candlelight caroling ceremony, featuring a choir of more than 1,000 voices singing the familiar Christmas carols which probably do more than any other one thing to recall the Yule spirit across the land.

Probably in no other place are gathered together as many figures in the make-believe world as there are at Disneyland, to the delight and appreciation not only of the younger, but also of the older visitors.

OF COURSE, the Disney event will not be alone in depicting the story of Christmas during this Yule season. All kinds of pageants are scheduled in communities too numerous to mention here. They include parades, festivals of many different kinds to delight young and old alike.

One cannot help but wonder at the expanding offerings of community activity at Christmastime, as contrasted to the procedures of say a half century ago, when celebrations primarily were confined to the family and the home.

But in any event, the spirit of Christmas is scheduled to live no matter what obstacles are thrown in its path.

Tiburon Resident Apologizes, Sort Of

Hope you will allow me to make an apology via the I-J.

TPAC was criticized by Tiburon's mayor for an ad that ran in a local weekly. It alarmed readers to the fact that a new downtown plan favored by the planning commission had one super failing: the creation of a new major thoroughfare in the downtown area that could be four to six lanes wide.

The road under question is drawn to scale (100 feet equal one inch) and if measured is slightly over one half inch wide. This means it is over 50 feet wide, but possibly not 60 feet wide as I had led others to believe. It is for this negligence I am sorry.

From now on I will say it can accommodate four to five lanes, and if constructed will kill forever our one main chance for recreational open space.

Does Agnew Favor Controlled Press?

Don Quixote, tilting at windmills made more sense than Spiro Agnew, who would gag the press and TV, the first step in reducing or restricting our freedoms. His criticism of self-appointed analysts suggests he prefers an analyst under government control who would feed us only that which a dictatorial government would want us to know — no more criticism or whole truth would reach us.

Perhaps Spiro Agnew is in favor of a controlled press as they have in Greece, where Deputy Premier Stylianos Patakos has just announced a new press code with many severe penalities for violating government restrictions.

Do not imagine it can not happen here. By what subtle means have the majority already been silenced (as we have been led to believe)?

As for being "querulous" seems to me the description fits Mr. Agnew very well.

Reasons To Give Thanks For America

Last Thursday I drove along Third Street and Fourth Street, in San Rafael, on my way to a Thanksgiving church service. I was surprised, and indeed pleased, to see both of these streets lined with our country's flag. It was a colorful spectacle, and made me both proud and humble to be an American, and to realize that the great silent majority in our nation still believes in the American heritage and the American flag.

I pondered the fact that Thanksgiving Day is distinctly an American holiday, first set aside by President Lincoln to give thanks to the Living God who has lavished His bounties and blessings upon our nation. . .

Where upon the face of this earth is there a nation with such plenty, such freedom and such opportunity, as these United States of America? This is the question I would like to pose to the malcontents, the dissidents and the conspiratores who are endeavoring to tear our country apart and to bring in anarchy, to be followed by Communist slavery.

Welfare Waste In Administration

I refer to the letter of E. Zellers (Nov. 24) When "Operation Tight-Belt" was started, it was deemed "unrealistic" to use any but the food allowance. I daresay — the allowance on the whole is indeed unrealistic. A single person, for instance, is allowed something like $63 for rent and utilities — which is quite unrealistic in this area. What many people don't realize is that money allowed for food must usually be spent on other things, often utilities. Did E. Zellers also take from the food money the cost of washing for a family of seven? Was the clothing allowance calculate? Wouldn't food money sometimes have to be spent on shoes for the kiddies? Is it realized that no allowance is made for things like aspirin, for female monthly necessities, for a lipstick or razor blades? . . .

Persons on a low budget are often accused of buying unwisely. Sometimes they could really save money by getting a larger size. The pity is that most often the budget will not allow this larger size, only the more expensive smaller size — and the cycle is established. . .

E. Zellers could get a better idea by using the whole budget and not just the food budget. I disagree as to where the "wastefulness" of government spending lies. Far more is wasted on administration of these plans than on acutally feeding people . . .

Picture Of Nun Offends Reader

Your newspaper of Nov. 25 I find offensive in the following manner: One-third of the front page is given to a picture of a Roman Catholic nun on a skateboard. Now this paper is not a religious newspaper, but it reaches many people of varying faiths. This is an offense to many and I find it aggression of one particular faith. There are many good people of this R.C. faith, but it is also an error to push forward one church in such a large degree . . .

Please try to be objective.

Astronaut May Find New Job Is Tougher

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's new information specialist, Astronaut Michael Collins, has his work cut out for him. In some aspects, the Apollo 11 spaceman may find his new assignment tougher than flying to the moon.

There were no people on the moon.

Collins, recently selected as assistant secretary of state for public affairs, will speak before meetings of various types in an effort to put across what believes to be facts about U.S. policy in Vietnam.

BECAUSE APOLLO 11 was the first successful manned mission to the moon, Collins and his two colleagues became instant lunar heroes all over the world. Well, almost.

Collins will find on a number of college campuses, as well as among many youthful antiwar dissenters, that his association with one of history's greatest moments —the first moon landing — is one enormous biah.

Among the more youthful, active dissenters in this country, Collins has several strikes against him before ever going to bat. For one thing, he is an Air Force colonel, a commission which he is resigning to take the new State Department job.

Second strike against Collins: many persons who work and protest against American involvement in Vietnam so vociferously, sometimes violently, scorn spending of federal billions on the space program. They want this space money spent at home for many projects, ranging from free universities to low or no-cost housing.

UNQUESTIONABLY Collins was right in saying, as he accepted his new assignment, that too often war dissenters were "poorly equipped with the facts."

Collins, 39 (and that is another strike against him with many younger Americans), believes dissenters and demonstrators against the government's position have "oversimplified the war to a point where Hanoi is good and Saigon is bad." He says, "Delving back into history, that is not true. There are direct contradictions to that point of view."

DURING THE Thanksgiving holiday period, this reporter had an opportunity to talk with a number of college students about how Collins and his explanation of Vietnam might be received by young people. These students had a common denominator —all "straight," from Establishment-type families and all working hard toward professional degrees. Uniformly, they were proud of and excited by America's space achievements. Here are capsule opinions:

An Ivy League pre-law senior: "The antiwar people on my campus couldn't care less about Collins or the moon program. They don't even watch the flights on TV. Collins won't change their minds on anything."

A Southern California senior co-ed: "From what I read and hear, Colonel Collins is right about the dissenters being 'poorly equipped with the facts.' I would doubt that many of the hard-core dissenters on my campus would even know who Collins is."

A Midwestern junior: "I hope he has a tough hide. I'd like to see him on our campus, but I think the types who march and protest would either ignore Collins—or picket him."

Such is the static crackling around Mike Collins and his new mission.

Minority Reports Lash Anti-Poverty Program

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON, — The multi-billion dollar anti-poverty program is branded as "corrupt and scandal-ridden" in a minority report by members of the House Education and Labor Committee that is in charge of this legislation.

The report, made public as the House began consideration of a long-pending bill to continue the program another two years, declares it "has done little to alleviate the woes of the poor and the disadvantaged," and urges sweeping changes in both its concept and administration.

Signed by Reps. William Scherle, R-Iowa, and Earl Landgrebe, R-Ind., the minority report is one of several from the committee. The others, while also highly critical, are less caustic.

ALL STRESS the need for sweeping changes in the Office of Economic Opportunity and the manner in which it administers the anti-poverty program — on which some $7.5 billion has been spent to date. Under the pending bill, another $2.3 billion would be authorized for the first year, and an unspecified amount, in effect a blank check, for the second year.

Foremost among the reforms demanded by the minority reports are:

Strengthening the participation and control of state and local authorities, "particularly in community programs where such participation is most needed and most essential to success."

Greater enforcement of the provisions "prohibiting political activity." One of the critical reports, by Representatives William Ayres, R — Ohio, and Albert Quie, R-Minn., charges that a "pervasive aura of political activity and social turmoil has surrounded too many activities of the 'war on poverty.' "

Independent auditing of report, "The temptation to cover up corruption, defects and scandals in this multibillion dollar program is enormous."

A BIPARTISAN fight will be waged to extensively rewrite the bill pending before the House.

The measure was reported out by the Education and Labor Committee on a straight party vote — 20 Democrats, 12 Republicans. However, some Democratic committeemen made no bones they favor drastic changes.

Rep. Edith Green, Ore., second-ranking Democrat, told her colleagues: "Major changes are needed. They are long over due. We must enact legislation that will put an end to the endless stream of complaints and protests about wrongdoing and abuses."

The minority reports charge the legislation was deliberately stalled in committee for four months by Rep. Carl Perkins, D-Ky., chairman, in an effort to "extract assurances that no amendments would be offered on the floor."

ALL THE MINORITY reports place much emphasis on the need for better management of the program.

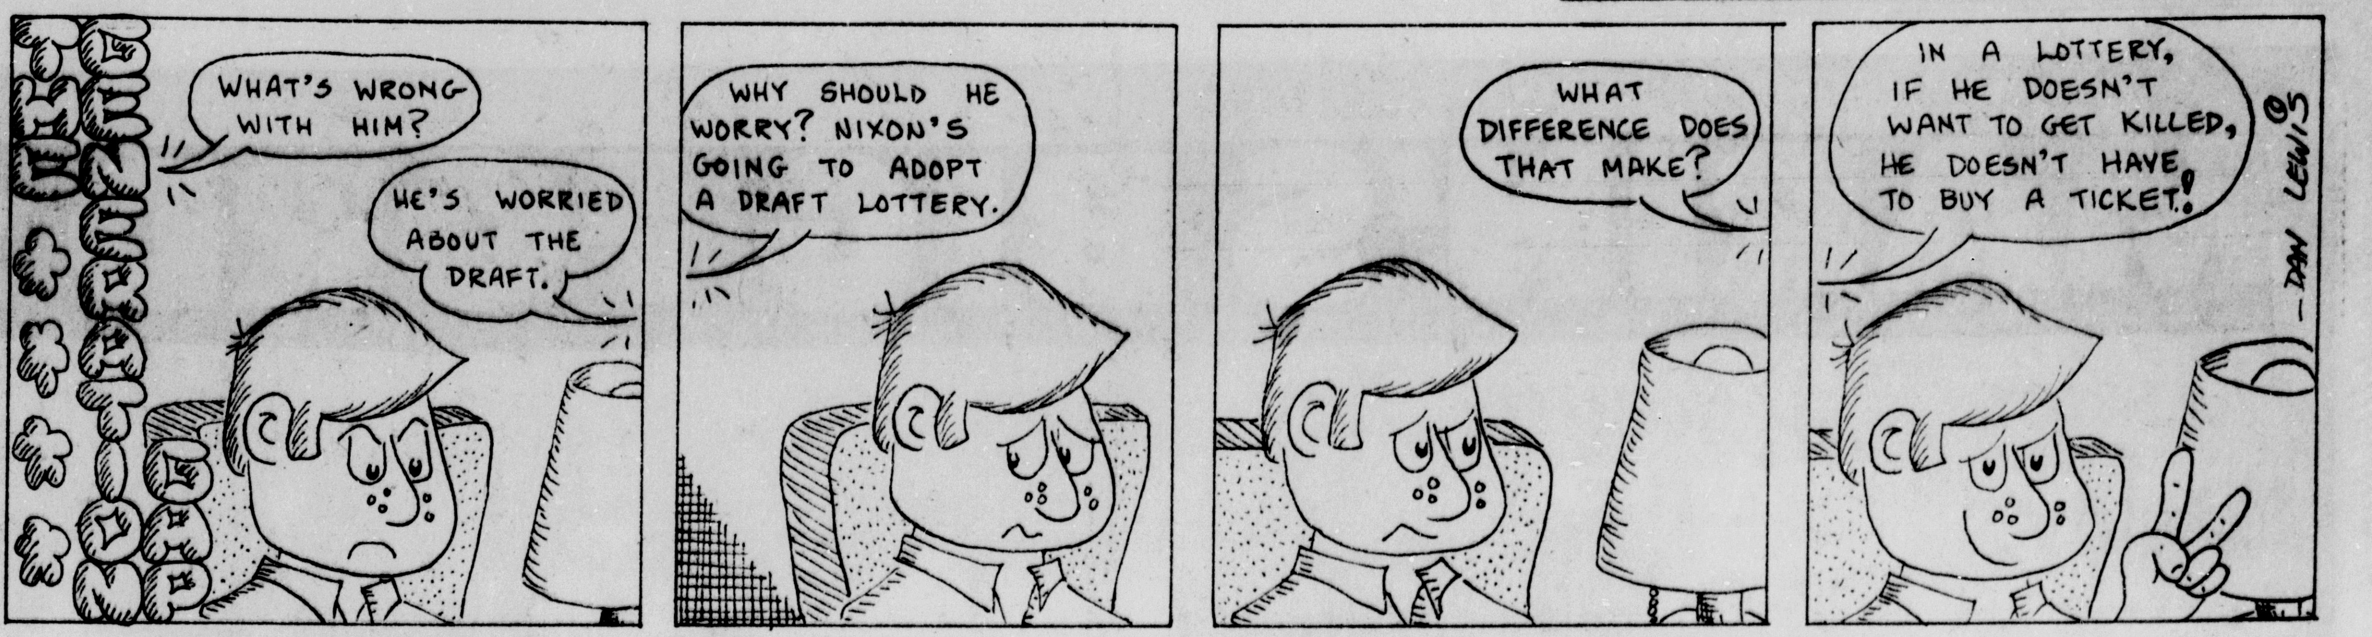
"To continue this program at a multi-billion dollar level without major constructive changes would be a stupendous hoax — one of the greatest ever perpetrated against both the taxpayers and the poor in our country," said Rep. Scherle. "It is criminal to allow this program to continue to hold out false hopes."

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

Since changes are going on anyway, the great thing is to learn enough about them so that we be able to lay hold of them and turn them in the direction of our desires. — John Dewey.

COUNTRY PARSON

"A fellow really can't know what to do right now if he has no plans for the future."



WHAT'S WRONG WITH HIM?
HE'S WORRIED ABOUT THE DRAFT.
WHY SHOULD HE WORRY? NIXON'S GOING TO ADOPT A DRAFT LOTTERY.
WHAT DIFFERENCE DOES THAT MAKE?
IN A LOTTERY, IF HE DOESN'T WANT TO GET KILLED, HE DOESN'T HAVE TO BUY A TICKET!

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Fusselman

No "County Comment" column appears today because of the breavement of William D. Fusselman, whose wife of over half a century died unexpectedly Tuesday.

Fusselman has indicated he will attempt to resume the column soon.

Investigation after Mrs. Ada M. Fusselman's death disclosed, her husband reported, that she was talking on the telephone with a woman who had called to comment on his column and express appreciation for it when she suffered a heart attack and dropped the phone. She never recovered consciousness.

The Independent-Journal looks forward to the return of "County Comment." It will be found in this space each Friday as soon as the author feels able to continue it.

Cross May Burn, But KKK Is Impotent

By JOHN AITKEN
Toronto Telegram News Service

JACKSON, Miss. — The Ku Klux Klan is dead in this state. There may be fire bombs tossed occasionally into the homes of "uppity niggers" who move into white neighborhoods, and there may even be fiery crosses. But the organization has weakened to the point of impotence as a rallying force.

The history of racial violence in Mississippi has been atrocious during the past decade. But there is a flickering now of a sense of potential power on the part of the blacks, and a sense of resignation on the part of the whites, a feeling that the intent of the law, as well as the letter of the law, is against them.

JUSTICE IS STILL stacked heavily against blacks. They must have more proof of innocence to win their case, and they will endure more rough treatment in custody than whites, but it's getting to the point where justice of a sort is available if the innocence can be proven.

One of the aims of a Yazoo City black boycott of shops was the hiring of black policemen and the authorities finally did hire two black policemen. That's progress.

It's as though the people of Mississippi heard and understood Judge Griffin Bell of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals when he said: "The burden is now reversed. You can complain and feel bad but there's nothing you can do about it."

VOTER REGISTRATION, which led to bloodshed only a few years ago, is still a risky project, and Joe Thomas, a 23-year-old agitator for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, told me of his own case, still pending.

He was arrested and convicted in mayor's court and sentenced to 30 days and a $100 fine while he was trying to take a black woman into the city clerk's office last May.

His case is under appeal. He and other members of the Yazoo City NAACP told me they have tied up close to half a million dollars in property bail — they don't use cash — for cases like this in Mississippi.

RUDY SHIELDS is one of the chief sources of irritation to white officials in Yazoo City. He is basically an organizer, sent into Yazoo City by the NAACP to persuade blacks that they have real political count, if they'd only have the courage to use it.

He attempts to persuade — and possibly coerce — black people to participate in boycotts. In Yazoo City he says local merchants depend on black people for up to 85 per cent of their business.

Alex Waites, project officer for the NAACP, said black hopes have changed. "Today the concern is for the quality of education as opposed to integration."

He sees the election of black mayors as major breakthroughs and, like Rudy Shields, longs for the day when black people will have a voice on local school boards.

There is a certain condescension that infuriates black people when a man like John Satterfield, a prominent segregationist lawyer who has for years fought the supreme court to slow down integration of the schools, says he admires the black man who overcomes the obvious obstacles to make it in the professions or in business.

MANY BLACK people are astonished at the change in Mississippi atmosphere. There is bitterness, there is resentment, and there will inevitably be attempts to disrupt and thwart the supreme court ruling for total integration by the end of the year. There may be some violence.

But many people in the South believe that the end has come, and that they must go about the business of learning to live with the descendants of their forebears' slaves, and that they must someday learn to accept it.

Teen-age Voting Petitions Slated

Petitions seeking a municipal vote in April on whether the voting age should be lowered to 18 will be circulated by the Mill Valley Youth Commission, Secretary Kim Ritter reported.

Commissioners, meeting Wednesday night, said the petitions, when signed, will be presented to the city council for action.

If the proposition passes, results would be sent to the city's representatives in Sacramento.

'Hungry' Pickets Interrupt Talk By Rafferty

CHICO (AP) — More than 65 persons, calling themselves "hungry Americans" demonstrated during a speech by state schools chief Max Rafferty Wednesday against Sutter and Butte county food programs.

The demonstrators picketed the club building where the dinner was held and later pushed their way inside.

"You've got the wrong guy," Rafferty told them. "I'm in education, not welfare."

Jack Zeilener, a spokesman for the group, read a statement alleging that the two Sacramento Valley counties were violating state and federal laws requiring certain food-for-the-poor programs.

Zeilener said Rafferty, as state superintendent of public instruction, has "the duty and the power to make these counties obey the law."

Collision Hurts Hub Youngster

Michael D. Anderson, 10 of 70 Oak Knoll Drive, San Anselmo, has been treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael for a cut lower lip and broken tooth received in a rear-end collision in front of 1177 Butterfield Road, Sleepy Hollow.

California Highway Patrol officers said a car operated by Joyce Anderson, 35, of 70 Oak Knoll Drive, San Anselmo, hit the auto of Eileen Rowe Sukhan, 44, of 283 Butterfield Road, San Anselmo, when Mrs. Sukhan slowed to make a right turn. Anderson was a passenger in his mother's car, officers said.

The crash happened at 11:20 p.m. Wednesday.

Detention Camp Law Due Repeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a move to allay fears of antiwar demonstrators, the Nixon administration is calling for repeal of a 1950 law that authorizes the use of detention camps during times of "internal security emergency."

Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst said Wednesday the law had stirred up "fears and suspicions—unfounded as they may be—" that it might be invoked against Vietnam war protesters and other demonstrators.

He noted the statute has long been repugnant to Japanese-Americans, some of whom were detained during World War II.

Marin City Robbery Incident Reported

Joseph B. Kemp, 55, of Hilarita Housing, Tiburon, told Marin County sheriff's deputies he was knocked down and robbed by unidentified persons at 8:21 p.m. Wednesday as he was getting out of his car parked in the 100 block of Drake Avenue in Marin City.

Taken were Kemp's wallet containing $200 and identification papers, deputies said.

Senators Urge Explanation In Sergeant Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators have prodded the Pentagon to explain or substantiate reports that officials have found no grounds for prosecuting alleged illegal activities by Army sergeants.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., who conducted a series of public hearings into alleged service club rackets, requested the explanation yesterday from Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird.

Army investigators at the hearings said they believed the sergeants had been protected by a coverup at high levels of the Army.

The hearings produced charges of an alleged scheme by a clique of sergeants to loot the clubs which they helped run for Army personnel. William C. Wooldbridge, former sergeant major of the army, and four other sergeants invoked the Fifth Amendment.

Battery Case Goes To Juvenile Court

The case of Robert J. Kirby, 19, of San Rafael, yesterday was certified to Marin Juvenile Court where he will be tried on a charge of a felony battery upon a police officer as well as possessing an open container of liquor in his car on Nov. 13.

A sheriff's deputy said that Kirby resisted arrest on the alcohol violation by shoving and then kicking the deputy in the groin. A second deputy finally subdued the youth, he said.

Suits worn by some knights in shining armor weighed 120 pounds, took three years to make, and cost a fortune to buy.

Water Aide Raps 'Chicken Little' Stand On Plans

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The state's water project chief said today California should not "fall into the quagmire trap of Chicken Little emotionalists" who say development must stop because it is ruining the state.

William R. Gianelli, state water resources director, said opponents of the $3 billion State Water Project "are trying to fabricate and promote the idea that the project is bad for the environment."

Gianelli replied that "water projects in this state have brought more immediate and long range benefits to our people than any other single type of resource development."

His comments came in remarks prepared for the winter convention of the Irrigation Districts Association.

Drug Increase Alarms Czechs

PRAGUE (AP) — Juvenile drug addiction in Czechoslovakia is reaching alarming proportions, a Communist Party magazine reported today. This is believed to be the first public admission that the narcotic wave has spread to a Soviet-bloc country.

A six-page article in Kvety, the party-published family weekly, spoke of an "epidemic increase of toxicomania" in the capital and of "powder parties" that last up to a week in private apartments.

It quoted a 19-year-old worker as saying he had received some LSD by letter from pen pals in the United States, but it stated that most drugs are obtained locally on faked prescriptions.

Argyll is a county in west Scotland

Shutford Won't Try In Beauty Competition

SHUTFORD, England (AP) — This Oxfordshire community has entered the annual competition to choose Britain's prettiest village, but the 250 inhabitants don't want to win.

They hope their crumbling community will get a special award for being an eyesore. Residents complain county municipal authorities have let empty cottages decay, weeds sprout on side walks and fences fall down.

Maps of the Great Lakes region list more than a dozen rivers, lakes, bays, and falls named Sturgeon. Lake of the Woods, one of the greatest sturgeon ponds in the world, yielded 1.6 million pounds of the land locked variety in 1839.
